THE ALUMNAE RECORD

VOL. 54

Winston-Salem, N. C., November, 1929

No. 418

Published each month of the college year, at 50 cents per year. Official organ of the Alumnae Association of Salem College. All subscriptions and communications should be addressed to The Alumnae Record, Salem College, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Winston-Salem, N. C. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized October 31, 1918.

The Alumnae Record is maintained by and in the interest of Salem Academy and College.

Editor: ALICE KEENEY RONDTHALER

New Doings in Old Salem

Many alumnae will remember that President Rondthaler delights in telling you how many times the Old Church Clock has struck the quarter and half hours in its one hundred and eighty years of service, but I am sure that now he could tell you just how many colonial bricks go into the new Home Economics Practice House from day to day and how many shovelfuls of red dirt have come out of the hillside in preparation for the new Academy plant.

This is the best year of all! For added to the fact that Salem's enrollment exceeds that of many years, it being necessary for a few weeks to temporarily house several students in the infirmary until readjustments could be made in dormitory space, there is the impetus and inspiration of building and construction, progressing under our very eyes.

The new Home Economics Practice House is well toward its roof, with nine large rooms and two baths, and an ample and well lighted basement. Here students majoring in this line of college work will live, in groups of six, for a series of weeks gaining experience in all the details of housekeeping from alarm clock to lights out. The building will reproduce the lines of the old Vogler House on the southwest corner of Main and West Streets (at one time the home of President and Mrs. Rondthaler). "Where is it?" I am tempted to say "come back for Commencement to find out." Salem Girls of the '90's will know the spot as the "Deer Park," and those of 1900 and since as the "Basket Ball Court." "Who gave it?" Don't ask me that for it's the one thing President Rondthaler wouldn't tell me in our interview. It's the most "anonymous" building I have ever seen or heard of for so far as I can ascertain the donor's name is known only to the donor.

The Louisa P. Bitting Dormitory, a gift of Mrs. W. N. Reynolds in memory of her mother, will afford the much needed space for forty-five more College students. The first architectural draft has been submitted by Hobart Upjohn and approved by Mrs. Reynolds. This dormitory will essentially and beautifully reproduce the artistic lines of the "Sisters' House," and will be located east of the Alice Clewell Building, occupying the crest of the slope at the spot remembered by some Salem Girls as the site of the "great barns" of yore, and by others as the southern limits of the tennis courts. The rooms will be built in suites with all modern conveniences and with adequate social space. This beautiful building will fit perfectly into the 1771 architectural picture.

No such extensive colonial reproduction in a college plant in America has ever before been undertaken except at William and Mary under the Rockefeller Foundation. Hobart Upjohn, who is also the architect for the new Academy plant, has been a frequent visitor in Old Salem and has made an intensive study of its unique architecture, so that these new buildings will beautifully restore the old.

The Academy girls are finding difficulty in keeping their eyes on their lessons instead of on the construction of the new Academy plant. Mr. Upjohn's skill has placed these buildings, without removing a single tree of value or beauty, on the southwest slope of the hillside beyond the brook.

These three memorial buildings, gifts of the Patterson, Bahnson, and Shaffner families will afford a modern and complete plant for Salem Academy, the preparatory department of Salem College and Academy. As the next issue of The Record will be devoted to Academy activities, further details will be given at that time.

It is interesting to note that the total outlay this winter in new buildings for both College and Academy will approximate a quarter million dollars. And if you, alumnae, want a quarter million "thrills," just plan to come back to Salem sometime during "the best year of all."

On the Campus

Mid-semester quizzes are in progress and the faculty is getting ready to write notes to the parents of all the good children who are studying hard and to the parents of all the naughty children who could be studying harder. Let's hope there aren't many of the latter. Anyway everything is running so smoothly that the Student Government Council is pretty much out of a job. Virginia Martin of Mount Airy is President of the Association this year. Virginia is a fine girl and has won in addition to the honor of head of the student body, the title "Miss Salem," in 1929-30 Statistics.

The Athletic Association, under the leadership of its president, Adelaide Webb of Demopolis, Alabama, is getting a lot of exercise, both in sports, gymnasium, and in its new "efficiency campaign." Girls who eat between meals or sleep through breakfast are tabooed, for such oversights prevent their class from having its colors displayed on the honor cup at Thursday morning chapel.

Wednesday Chapel Services have presented interesting and varied programs: Hobart Upjohn on "Architecture," Eugene Barnett on the "Y.M.C.A. in China," Dr. Mangum of Lexington, N. C., on "Customs of the African People," Mrs. Lindsay Patterson on "Roumania," Miss Adelaide Fries on "Salem Square," Dr. Moss of Chapel Hill, on "The Perfect Life."

"Music Hour" continues on Thursday afternoons with interesting and instructive programs under the direction of Dean Vardell. Miss Helen Hart Fuller is a new member of the music faculty this year, being Head of the Department of Public School Music. The College has recently purchased, for practice purposes, the organ formerly used in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. This fills a long felt need in the School of Music in view of the large number of organ pupils.

The Y.W.C.A. has Charlotte Grimes of Washington, N. C., as its President. Charlotte isn't very large but she makes herself heard and the Y. W., in addition to its services on the Campus, has already done outside social work in connection with the Children's Home, the City Y.W.C.A., etc.

Margaret Ross Walker of Plymouth, N. C., was chosen as President of "I.R.S."—"I Represent Salem." This is a distinctive organization in view of the fact that each class elects to its membership and the slogan "I Represent Salem" must be true of each individual chosen.

Statistics have been taken and pictures made for "Sights and Insights." Eloise Vaughn of Winston-Salem is editor.

"The Salemite" has as its editor Lucile Hassell of Williamston, N. C. 1929-30 Statistics gave her the vote for the most original college student.

The Senior Class, as well as its president, is very versatile. Fritz Firey of Winston-Salem, the first "Off Campus" senior president for several years, in addition to the title of senior president, holds that of "prettiest" in 1929-30 Statistics, of "leading lady" in the recent senior play "The Hidden Guest," which was a marked success, and also of "best all-round senior." Under her efficient leadership the seniors are a busy group and through various enterprises have filled their "Class Memorial Coffers" with more than three hundred dollars of glittering metal.

Did you hear the Salem program, broadcasted from Charlotte Station WBT on October 30th? It was a good one and we hope you were listening in.

Bottom Row: ELOISE VAUGHN, LUCILE HASSELL.

Salem Loses Two Veteran Teachers

Alumnae will read, with minds and hearts filled with interesting and tender memories, of the passing of two of Salem's former teachers.

AMELIA VAN VLECK

"For a full century the name Van Vleck has been actively identified with the history of Salem Academy and College, particularly in its musical interests. On August 20th "Miss Amy," the last remaining resident member of this interesting family, passed away at the advanced age of ninety-three. Probably more than ten thousand Salem students knew Miss Amy Van Vleck personally since for many years she was an enthusiastic teacher of music in the Academy and College and for a considerable period she was the recognized accompanist on all public occasions. In this capacity her abilities and her spirit of service were widely appreciated. She lived a life devoted to music and a number of her own compositions will be remembered, including the "Centennial March" which was prepared for the 1902 Centennial celebration. In her will she remembered Salem Academy and College, both in the bestowal of books and music to the library and also as a partial residuary legatee. Included with the valuable collection of books and music are a group of flowers done in water colors with exquisite taste and fidelity, these being the work of Miss Van Vleck's great aunt, Christiana Kramsch. "Miss Amy" will be missed in the Salem College community and at alumnae meetings. Even in her advanced years she found great delight in attending these meetings and in playing some of her own compositions for alumnae groups."

MARGARET SIEWERS PFOHL

Another teacher, not so well known to recent Salem alumnae, but remembered with love and devotion by many, many older alumnae was Margaret Siewers (Mrs. C. T. Pfohl). Those who had the privilege of knowing her in her advanced years have marveled at her keenness of memory and alertness of mind, and in her the alumnae office often found an accurate source of information regarding former students. "Her education was begun in the Infant School of the Community, taught by Miss Sallie Steiner, and at the early age of ten, together with her sisters, Caroline and Elizabeth, she became a boarding student in 'Salem Female Academy,' her parents having been sent by the Church to carry on a home mission enterprise among negro slaves in Florida. The good received from these Academy years was very great and had a marked influence upon her life, for the thoroughness of the instruction, the careful training in needle-work, drawing, painting, and music, the duties of 'room-keeping,' and the companionship and direction of her Christian teachers helped vitally in the forming of her character and in preparing her for the practical duties of life in which she was later to show marked efficiency. In her sixteenth year she joined her father and mother in their service at the Mount Bethel Mission in the Blue Ridge Mountains, where for three years she continued with them in mission service in this greatly neglected field, experiencing, as she has often declared 'three of the happiest years of her life.' In 1859 she entered upon a period of service as teacher in her Alma Mater, continuing until 1865, as teacher in piano and guitar, as well as the academic branches. Her contacts there were rich in their reward, the friendships formed were lasting, and the memories of those years brought her abiding joy."

Thanksgiving Announcement

Thanksgiving to all old Salem girls means "Basket-ball;" for this reason the Athletic Council is very anxious to broadcast an important change in its program this year. Hockey is to be the major fall sport with its final game scheduled for Saturday, November 23rd, followed by the Thanksgiving Banquet. The change to Saturday, inaugurated last year, makes it possible for many girls to spend Thanksgiving day at home, and at the same time enjoy the traditional "Thanksgiving Games."

We believe that this adjustment of the sports calendar, instituting Hockey as a fall feature, will prove as beneficial and convenient for our alumnae as for the present students of the College. Salem extends the same cordial welcome to alumnae to return for November 23rd as she always has.—ADELAIDE WEBB, President Athletic Association.

Report of Atlanta Meetings

The Editor regrets that through an oversight the report of the Atlanta Branch Association meeting was not printed last spring. There were in fact two meetings, the first was held on March 28th at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Parker, with the following present: Mrs. E. R. Barmore, Mrs. Bettie K. Boyd, Louise Breitenbucher, Mrs. C. J. Daniels, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Alice Ollinger, Mrs. W. R. Prescott, Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. Garland Porter, Mrs. L. W. Folsom. Each member of the Association at this time made an individual pledge to the Living Endowment. Mrs. Garland Porter was elected president, Mrs. L. W. Folsom, secretary, and Mrs. Frank Johnson, treasurer. The second meeting was held on April 13th at a delightful luncheon at "The White Barn" tea shop. This was the 30th anniversary of the inauguration of the Atlanta Chapter. Mrs. Prescott told about her Easter visit to Salem. Mrs. James Park Cheeves (Elizabeth Ken Chumbley, 1921), extended an invitation to tea at her home on May 15th. Individual pledges to Living Endowment totalled approximately $60.00 this to be forwarded to Salem before Commencement.

Business Students

From Miss Barrow we have the following:—

"As yet we have heard from only a few of last year's Business Students. Please, girls, inform us about your activities.

Flossie Caudle is working in Winston-Salem and says that she likes her work better every day. Florence Mitchell took a position in Statesville immediately after leaving school. Louise Thompson has been doing substitute work in Lexington, N. C. Marion Allen held a substitute position in Winston-Salem for several months, and is now in Chicago with her mother and sister. She is expecting to take work there. Jennie Lee Van Hook is apparently happy in an insurance office in Winston-Salem; has been there ever since leaving school. Louise Williams is engaged in strenuous office work in Wilmington, N. C. She receives a fine salary, and, she cheerfully informs us, is saving a good portion of it. Margaret Woolwine is busy in a lawyer's office in Stuart, Va. Mildred Walker has a stenographic position with the Home Security Life Insurance Company at Durham, N. C.

It will probably be of interest to former students to know that Alice Barbee (Business Class, 1924), has a responsible secretarial position with the National City Bank, New York City, and that Miriam Bundy (Class 1928) is teaching Shorthand and Typewriting at Smithfield, N. C. She has a large class and is much interested in the work. Alice Knight has a position at King's Business College, Raleigh, N. C.

Tennis, golf, soccer, swimming and horseback riding have had leading places in the fall calendar of sports, with appropriate contests in each. For beginners riding is confined to the Campus bridle path, but the more experienced equestrians are following trails outside the city limits. They ride at sunset and ride at dawn, and occasionally on frosty nights they are seen like Ichabod Cranes galloping across the moonlit spaces.

Here and There Among The Alumnae

Among alumnae who came back to Salem for the opening this fall, were the following who brought with them their daughters for entrance: Mrs. Mattie Mason Blue of Gibson; Mrs. Bessie Richards Tucker of Whiteville; Mrs. Margaret Jones Smith of Liberty, and Mrs. Pearl Carrington Holman of Black Mountain, N. C. Other alumnae daughters registered in the College are Mildred and Catherine Biles, daughters of Ollie Allen Biles of Winston-Salem; Claudia Bradford, daughter of Clyde Peacock Bradford, Goldsboro; Katherine Brooks, daughter of Sadie Sittig Brooks, Winston-Salem; Hattie Jones Carrow, daughter of Hattie Jones Carrow, Washington, N. C.; Mildred G. Coleman, daughter of Mary Conrad Coleman, Winston-Salem; Ruth Emily Crouse, daughter of Ella Walker Crouse, Winston-Salem; Josephine Cummings, daughter of Carrie Snyder Speas, Winston-Salem; Charlotte Grimes, daughter of Ida Wharton Grimes, Washington, N. C.; Eva Hassell Hackney, daughter of Eva Hassell Bonner, Washington, N. C.; Eleanor Idol, daughter of Ruth Siewers Idol, High Point; Margaret Johnson, daughter of Elizabeth Hicks Johnson, Raleigh; Emma Kapp, daughter of Mary Armanda Kapp, a former teacher, Bethania; Eleanor Meinung, daughter of Elizabeth Ormsby Meinung, Winston-Salem; Mary Louise Mickey, daughter of Ada Fogle Mickey, Winston-Salem; Elinor T. Phillips, daughter of Margaret Robertson Phillips, Winston-Salem; Rebecca Piatt, daughter of Marion Sheppard Piatt, Durham; Helen A. Raymer, daughter of Grace Peterson Raymer, Winston-Salem; Wynelle Reeves, daughter of Adelle Setliff Reeves, Winston-Salem; Alice Robertson, daughter of Jennie Cardwell Robertson, Galax, Va.; Lenore Schwarze, daughter of Ethel Greider Schwarze, Bethlehem, Pa.; Margaret Siewers, daughter of Clara Vance Siewers, and Marjorie Siewers, daughter of Lucy Vance Siewers, Winston-Salem; Martha A. Simmons, daughter of Mary Keehln Simmons, Tarboro; Carry and Mary Stockton, daughters of Minnie Tesh Stockton, Winston-Salem; Eloise Vaughn, daughter of Sophie Tatum Vaughn, Winston-Salem; Josephine Walker, daughter of Naomi Wureschki Walker, Winston-Salem; Mary Neal Wilkins, daughter of Mabel Craig Wilkins, Dallas; Eleanor Willingham, daughter of Eleanor Fries Willingham, Winston-Salem; Lucy Woolwine, daughter of Lucy Dunklee Woolwine, Stuart, Va.; and Beulah Zachary, daughter of Beulah McMinn Zachary, Brevard, N. C.

Margaret Elizabeth Pfohl, 1923, is at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Virginia, in the capacity of Acting Dean of Women and instructor in English. Her sister, Ruth Pfohl, 1927, has returned to Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, as a teacher in the Moravian School for Girls there, and to further pursue her work in harp and organ.

Marion Neeley, 1928, is dietitian at the Van Wert Hospital, Van Wert, Ohio.

Elizabeth Whitner, ex-1931, is attending Florida State College, taking a primary teacher's course. Her address is 129 Gilchrist Hall, Tallahassee, Fla.

Pauline Schenherr, ex-1932, and a graduate of Salem Academy, is at home in Norfolk, Connecticut. We are glad to hear that her health is steadily improving.

Lucie Martin Currie, ex-1931, is taking her Junior year work at Davidson College, which is her home. She says she wishes there were more girls to keep her company as it is no joke to be the only girl in all your classes.

Mary Frances Johnston, ex-1932, Mooresville, is at home keeping house for her father.

Hildred McDonald, ex-1932, is at home in Paragould, Arkansas. She hopes to continue her college work at Salem at a later date.

An interesting letter from Helen Street, 1921, of Baltimore, says, "I spent the summer in Newfoundland with the Grenfell Association, stationed on the West Coast, which is in the Straits of Belle Isle. My class consisted of eight children, ranging in ages from six to fourteen, who have had no opportunity to go to school in winter. It was my first experience in teaching and I found it intensely interesting. I was the only American within a radius of forty miles and the nearest store was seventy miles away. We had no way of traveling except by motor boat along the rugged coast. The people are of English extraction, their manner and customs reminding one of the Kentucky and Carolina mountaineers. I was fortunate in going "down North" on the boat with Sir Wilfred and Lady Grenfell and they spoke enthusiastically and interestingly of the missionary work which the Moravians did in Labrador in the early 19th century. It was certainly one of the most wonderful summers I have ever spent and I really believe satisfied me more than traveling through Europe."

Miss Elizabeth Heisler reports an interesting visit in September from a former pupil, Jennie Harper, 1891-93. "Jennie and a friend, Susie Wright, both from near Lewisville, N. C., were with Mrs. Annetta Smith and me in Annex Hall, 10th Room. They were much older than the other girls and were permitted to spend their free time in their alcove. Susie died soon after her marriage. Jennie married Dr. W. A. Peek of Asheville, and moved to Helena, Montana, where they now live. She has one daughter working in Spokane, Washington. It was during a recent visit to her mother, now eighty-three, that she came to see her Alma Mater, and in spite of new buildings and modern improvements and equipment, she said in leaving, 'I am sure that we were as happy in our day here as are the girls of today'."

Schoolmates and friends of Mrs. E. T. Elliott (Lyda David of BenNETTSVILLE, S. C.), will learn with sorrow of her passing. Her daughter, Mrs. I. L. Tigert (Rebecca Elliott) writes, "... my mother was a daughter of Rebecca Spears David, a Salem girl, and I attended Salem in 1916, and my sister, Lyda Elliott, later. Mother always loved Salem and I am so glad she and I went to the Easter Services last year."

From 1929 we have the following interesting news: Cam Boren, President, is at home in Greensboro. Elizabeth Andrews and Elizabeth Crouse are in New York at the Parnassus Club, the former studying organ under Dr. Clarence Dickinson and his assistant, Salem's Charlotte Mathewson Lockwood, and the latter taking advanced work in dietetics at Columbia University. Isabelle Dunn, also in New York, 619 West 113th Street, writes: "I am completely lost because I am not back at Salem. I have a very good position with The Chemical Bank and Trust Company. Doris Wooten, and I have an apartment together. New York has its charms, but North Carolina can never be surpassed."

Sallie Hunter Ball is teaching at New Bern, N. C.; Julia Daniels at Saratoga School, ten miles from Wilson, N. C.; Jessie Davis at Mineral Springs; Mary Miller Falkener at High Point; Rose Frazier at a school near Durham, in charge of work in Home Economics; Anne Hairston, back from Europe, at Fieldale, Virginia; Frances Hancock at Bluefield, West Virginia; Margaret Johnson at Winston-Salem; Genevieve Marks at Aberdeen, N. C.; Mabel Mehaffey at Lilesville, N. C.; Brownie Peacock at Winston-Salem; Elizabeth Roper at Lewisville, N. C.; Elizabeth Thomas at Fayetteville, N. C.; Margaret Vaughn at Winston-Salem.

Margaret Stevenson is at home, doing translation work in connection with the foreign department of a local corporation.

Marion Bloor characteristically writes, "What I am doing just now would read like a debutante's delight, or some equally mellifluous confection, but I do want to be doing something and will let you know how, when, why and where as soon as my occupation changes. Remember me to everyone at Salem—how fortunate they are!"

Thelma Cagle is now Mrs. John Perry, Jr., at present living in Hendersonville, N. C.

Margaret Hauser is studying in New York at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, her address being The Barbizon Club, 140 E. 63rd Street. Mary Johnson visited Salem in late September. She is now in New York pursuing work in music. Helen Johnson and Ruth Marsden, not fully satisfied with one degree, the B.A., are enrolled at Salem this year for the degree Bachelor of Music.

Elva Lee Kenerly enjoyed an interesting summer course in Social Service work at Chicago and is now enrolled for a Master's Degree at William and Mary College. Edna Lindsay will enter Columbia University with the beginning of the second semester. Lillyan Newell is studying at the Institute of Musical Art in New York and has a position as hostess at Schrafft's. Her address is 620 Riverside Drive.

Emily Sargent writes from Burlington, N. C., "It seems queer not to be at Salem. I am enjoying my work here teaching violin privately and at two of the schools. I am living with my sister and have my studio at her home." Doris Shirley has a position with a large department store in Newark, N. J.

From 1928 we have the following news items: Mary Ardrey Stough, President, is again teaching at Davidson, N. C.; Helen Bagby at Lewisville, N. C.; Margaret Brooks at Johnson City, Tenn.; Annie Graham Caldwell at Winston-Salem; Letitia Currie at Winston-Salem; Elizabeth Dowling at Augusta, Georgia; Sarah Dowling at Laurinburg, N. C.; Ruth Edwards at Ellerbee, N. C.; Gladys English and Elizabeth Ramsaur at Brevard, N. C.; Ruth Helmich at Winston-Salem; Sarah Lee Kincaid at Mountain Park, where she is in charge of all music work; Mary Duncan McAnally in the Home Economics Department at Salem College; Lucile McGowan at Belmont, N. C.; Pearl Martin at Coal Port, Pennsylvania; Sarah Turlington at Lees-McCrae Institute, Banner Elk, N. C.; Doris Walston at Plymouth, N. C.; Virginia Welch at Waynesville, N. C., and Elizabeth Wilson at Charlotte. Katherine Riggan continues as Assistant Dean at Salem College. Dorothy Frazier, now Mrs. Chalmers Glenn, Jr., is living in Winston-Salem and doing part time teaching in the Modern Language Department of the College. Eliza Hill Grimes will return to New York in October to complete a business course. Laverne Waters is taking a business course at home. Sara Bell is recuperating from a broken leg, sustained in an automobile accident, and expects to resume her teaching in Charlotte. Virginia Cooper is in New York City. Agnes Thorne has just completed a course in interior decorating in New York and intends to continue in that field of work. Martha Dortch has temporarily given up her work in dietetics on account of health conditions and is taking a rest cure at home. Margaret Holbrook is in training at Johns Hopkins. Susan Luckenbach is pursuing her work in music in New York City and has an interesting position in the personnel department of the Chase National Bank. Margaret Schwarze her father's secretary at Moravian College, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. Her sister, Leonore, is a member of this year's freshman class. Charlotte Sells is doing secretarial work in her father's office at Johnson City. Elizabeth Sifferd is giving private music lessons at her home in Salisbury. Catherine Edgerton is at home in Goldsboro, N. C., and Cordelia Shaner in Winston-Salem.

"Better Late Than Never"

Ofentimes "The Record" is not promptly notified regarding births and marriages, and sometimes several months, or even a year after the event, we hear that Mary or Elizabeth So-and-So has changed her "Miss" to "Mrs." or that a future Salem Girl is already learning her A, B, C's. And so it is with little Jacqueline Campbell Roscoe, born October 2, 1928, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Roscoe (Olivebelle Williams, 1924), of Winston-Salem, and little Mary Catherine Ingle, born July 12, 1928, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ingle (Evelyn McGehee, 1926) of Salisbury, N. C. Then there is Garland Burns Porter, Jr., born January 22, 1929, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Porter, (Polly Wolff, 1924), of Atlanta, Georgia, who will visit Salem sometime with his mother and wish he might come there to school too.

Salem Academy Academic Opportunities

Salem Academy is the historic mother Institution, and limits its schedule to the four high school years with outstanding emphasis upon college preparation. Salem Academy visualizes as its significant task the training of girls of high school age, during the four crucial years ordinarily occupied with the work of the eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh grades. Salem Academy no longer takes pupils below the eighth grade.

It is the conviction of those engaged upon Salem work that there is an important field of service in college preparatory studies, both for day students and for boarding students, notwithstanding the wide-spread increase of well-equipped city, town and consolidated rural high schools.

Salem Academy believes that special instruction planned specifically for college preparation in classes absolutely limited in size, with a carefully chosen teaching staff which is not constantly being changed in personnel, is greatly needed in these days of enormous high schools unwieldy in size and unable to concentrate upon the single task of college preparatory work.

Salem Academy believes that many high school students desiring college preparation are suffering serious handicap in schools whose major goal cannot be college preparatory work since the large number of such high school students are not intending to enter college.

Salem Academy believes that the task of general high school education for those whose work will end in high school is by no means the same as the task of specialized high school education for those who will enter college upon the completion of their high school work. On this latter task it centers all its work. As a result, no doubt of this concentration on one task, the recent graduates of Salem Academy have ranked all the way from ten to fifty per cent higher in the classification of the State Department of Education, than the average median obtained throughout the State of North Carolina in state-wide tests given to high school graduating classes. This exceptional record has also been sustained in superior excellence of college work on the part of Salem high school graduates likewise as reported by the State Board of Education.

The New Academy Plant

It is therefore extremely fitting that a great and material recognition has come to pass after these many years of devoted service in the presentation to Salem Academy by the members of the Patterson, Bahnson, and Shaffner families of a magnificently conceived Academy plant to bear the names of the three sisters, the late Mrs. Mary Patterson, the late Mrs. Carrie Shaffner, and our beloved friend and neighbor, Mrs. Emma Bahnson.

This plant now in erection, and occupying a commanding position in the eastern portion of the campus, will be ready for occupancy in September, 1930. This new plant will have a capacity of 108 boarding pupils, and 50 day students. It will represent the most complete and well-devised preparatory school for girls to be found anywhere in the Southern States. Its architectural recognition of the historic buildings of early Salem, that is to say, of the Moravian type of colonial erection, in itself is a notable contribution to educational architecture, and is commanding wide-spread attention on the part of those who appreciate the beauty and dignity of the early Moravian type.

This has been an interesting year in the social life of the Academy students. Eleven states are represented in the enrollment, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Alabama, Florida, Virginia, and Georgia, in addition to the District of Columbia, Alaska, Nicaragua, and Sweden. From Bethel, Alaska, entering the second term, will come Anna Gertrude Schwalbe, daughter of Fred T. Schwalbe, Moravian missionary; from Sangsangta, Nicaragua, Lotta Schramm, daughter of F. E. Schramm, Moravian missionary; from Sweden, Elaine and Charlotte Erickson, daughters of Elof Erickson, manager of the General Motors Company in Stockholm.

The enrollment for next year indicates representation from an even wider area. At this time the applications for entrance from the northern and western states exceed in number those of previous years. There is no doubt but that the new Academy plant, up-to-date in every detail, is attracting interested attention. The new dormitories will accommodate 108 students, which is more than have been accommodated in South Hall. In view of the limited number to be accepted, each new applicant will not only be required to furnish personal references, but must present evidence of adequate scholastic attainment.

Faculty

Much of the success of Salem Academy is due to its excellent faculty.

Miss Elizabeth Zachary, B.A., Salem College, and Miss Charlotte Jackson are in charge of the dormitory life of the students, and also supervise athletics, both having had special training in this field. Miss Eleanor Chase, B.A., Radcliffe College, is Principal and Head of English and Latin; Miss Mary Weaver, B.A., Randolph-Macon College, is instructor in Mathematics; Miss Jess Byrd, B.A., Salem College, instructor in English and Latin; Miss Elizabeth Chase, B.A., Radcliffe College, instructor in History and Fine Arts; Miss Virginia Wilson, B.S., North Carolina College for Women, instructor in Home Economics; Miss Dorothy Knox, B.A., Radcliffe College, instructor in French and Spanish; and Miss Margaret Murray, B.S., North Carolina College for Women, instructor in Science.

The Academy students have at their disposal the unusual advantages of the Salem College School of Music, and a large number of the students registered for academic work are pursuing one branch of music, piano, voice, violin, organ or harp.

Class Officers

Katharine Lasater, of Erwin, N. C., is President of the Graduating Class, 11th grade; Jean Maclachlan, New York City, of the 10th grade; Jane Rondthaler, Winston-Salem, of the 9th grade; and Helen Litz, Washington, D. C., of the 8th grade.

Charlotte Duffy, New Bern, N. C., is the Presiding Officer of Vespers. Betsy Armfield is President of the "Edison Club" (Science), and Ruth Kreiter is Fire Chief.

Athletics

Athletics, under the joint direction of Miss Charlotta Jackson and Miss Elizabeth Zachary, in addition to formal gymnasium work has included the following sports: Swimming, Tennis, Croquet, Basket-ball, Horseback Riding, and Soccer. Voluntary participation in these sports shows a per cent for the eleventh grade of 92, for the tenth, ninth, and eighth grades of 100. Dorothy Doe Ryman, of Asheville, N. C., is President of the Athletic Association; Laura Crim of Winston-Salem, head of Swimming; Jean Burroughs of Conway, S. C., head of Tennis; Frances Williams, Williamston, N. C., head of Croquet; Ann Zeitler, Mooresville, Alabama, head of Basket-ball; Ruth Kreiter, Washington, D. C., head of Riding; Ethel Litz, Tazewell, Virginia, head of Soccer. Dorothy Ryman was the successful winner of the tennis singles, Betsy Armfield of Asheboro, of the croquet singles, and the eleventh grade won the basket-ball tournament.

Sports are divided into "seasons," the first season ending November 4th. This was celebrated with a formal banquet at which time all trophies and rewards for the season were presented. The second season, ending January 28th, with the soccer finals, will be celebrated by an informal get-together in the "Hut." The third season, ending March 1st, will feature Speedball and Riding, and the fourth season, featuring Tennis (doubles), Croquet, Hockey, Archery, Bowling on the Green, Track, and Swimming will end with a grand finale, a picnic in the Pleasure Grounds.

Dramatics

On November 28th, the Junior Class (10th Grade) presented Sheridan's "The Rivals." In this Mrs. Malaprop was played by Jean Machlachlan, of New York City, the part of Lydia Languish, by Harryet Polhemus, of Huntington, West Virginia; that of Julia by Mildred Wichert, Knoxville, Tennessee; that of Sir Anthony Absolute by Margaret McLean, Lumberton, N. C.; that of Captain Jack Absolute by Elizabeth Womack, Spruce Pines, N. C.; that of Faulkland by Colette Howell, Atlanta, Georgia; that of Acres by Ruth Kreiter, and that of Sir Lucius O'Trigger by Laura Collard, Pittsburgh, Pa. Elizabeth Tuttle, Coray, N. C.; Lucile McAlister, Spartanburg, S. C.; Lucy Dortch, Raleigh, N. C.; Helen Allen, Newport, Tennessee; and Frances Bowland, Winston-Salem, also took part. The whole production was admirably presented.

On December 12th, the Choral Club, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Chase, presented a delightful program of Christmas Carols, in the Mediaeval Spirit, together with a beautiful tableau representing Gerard Honthorst's "Adoration" (Dutch School, 17th Century). Anne Brown, of Dallas, Texas; Janie Taylor, of Harrellsville, N. C.; Mischew Crudup, of Henderson, N. C., and Dorothy Ryman were the important characters in the tableau, the accompanying music being rendered by the members of the Choral Club.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Holt Haywood, (Louise Bahnson, 1906), for many years a resident of Montclair, New Jersey, have returned to the Southland, and will live in the vicinity of Winston-Salem. Mrs. Haywood, in addition to being a loyal and interested alumna, is a member of the Board of Trustees of Salem College. Until their new home is completed, they will be at 137 Cherry Street.

Miss Elizabeth Chase, instructor in History, Salem Academy, has been granted a leave of absence so that she can be with her mother, Mrs. Arthur Chase (Alice Rondthaler, 1884) of Ware, Massachusetts, who has recently undergone an operation in Boston, Massachusetts, and is now at her home in Ware. The instruction in History will be given by Mrs. Harry Grimsley (Lucy Dix Estes, 1920), and the Academy Choral Club, of which Miss Chase was in charge, will be under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Rondthaler, a recent student and member of the Westminster Choir School, Dayton, Ohio.

"Here and There" Among the Alumnae

"Salem" appreciates the many Christmas messages it receives from all parts of the United States in the form of cards to President and Mrs. Rondthaler, Bishop Rondthaler, Miss Stipe and others. Many, many alumnae remember their Alma Mater at this season of the year and reaffirm their loyal devotion. A Christmas greeting from Betsy Bailey Eames, '17, indicates that she has moved from Chicago to 102 Kedgie Street, Evanston, Illinois. One from Eliza Gaston Moore Pollard, '23, gives her present address as 61 Summers Avenue, Orangeburg, S. C.

On October 27 Salem enjoyed an interesting visit from Miss Julia Peterkin of Lang Syne Plantation, Fort Motte, South Carolina, author of "Black April" and "Scarlet Sister Mary." While here Miss Peterkin searched through the Old Academy records and found there the names of her great-grandmother and grandmother, former Salem students.

Eva Louise Flowers, 1926, writes, "I'm sure there are a great many Salem girls who haven't been back in several years but there is not one who would love it more than I. I have beautiful memories of all four years but the most lasting are those of the Christmas and Easter seasons."

Marie Edgerton Grubbs, 1921, of High Point has moved to Boston, Massachusetts. Mr. Grubbs is the Assistant Industrial Manager of the New England Division of the E. I. Dupont de Nemours Company, and until they are settled in Boston, she can be reached in care of the Company at Everett Station, Massachusetts. She writes, "It makes me heartsick to think of going so far from my beloved South and all my friends and relatives but we must go cheerfully where duty calls. I was lunching at Schrafft's in New York last month and at a nearby table I spied Sarah Lingle, '22. She and her husband have an apartment there. We had a nice little visit and I also had dinner one night with Elizabeth White of Mebane who is greatly enjoying her course in interior decorating at Parson's."

Mrs. W. N. Mebane (Lois Spotts, 1918) of Davidson, N. C., writes: "I do enjoy the Record so much. Each edition makes me realize more and more what a back number I am, so many changes on every side. If nothing unforeseen happens I expect to visit Salem this spring and bring all my family with me. I have two little girls, who will sometime come to Salem, and a tiny son, William Nelson Mebane III, born September 30, 1929."

A letter from Mrs. R. L. Pickens (Blanche Armfield), High Point, N. C., gives us the following interesting information:

On a recent trip to Valdosta, Ga., by automobile, where my daughters, Lucille and Annette, and I went to spend Christmas with Mr. Pickens, having been joined there by our son, Wyatt, of Louisiana State University, we stopped in Anderson, S. C., for one afternoon and night on account of bad weather. I remembered that this is the home town of my Salem classmate, Leeta Bewley Sullivan, and called her up. She and her daughter, Barbara, came to the hotel to see us. Leeta looks very much the same, and I would have recognized her anywhere. She is still tiny, and barely weighs 100 pounds. Has been a widow fourteen years, and has an interesting family of five children, the eldest of whom, a son, is married and teaches in Anderson College. The eldest daughter is married, and lives in Martinsville, Va., and there is a three-year-old grand-daughter. Leeta's younger daughters are at home with her; they are graduates of Columbia University, N. Y., and have been to Europe. The son studied at Harvard University. Nellie Bewley Frierson, younger sister of Leeta, died several years ago while on a visit to relatives in Texas, but Mr. Frierson and their children, most of whom are married, live in Anderson.

Coming home via Augusta, Ga., and Columbia, S. C., we passed through Winnsboro, and stopped to see another classmate, Ella Cathcart Ketchin, and met most of her charming family including Mr. Ketchin. There are four daughters and three sons, the eldest son being a practicing physician, located in a thriving town, Louisville, Ga.; near Augusta. The eldest daughter, Anne, who taught English a few years at N. C. College for Women, Greensboro, is now Mrs. Murphy, of St. Matthews, S. C., and we met her husband, an attorney, and an adorable fourteen-months-old son, who is brown-eyed and lovely. Ella Ketchin, named for her mother, is a Y. W. C. A. worker in Charlotte, N. C. Margaret Ketchin teaches at home in Winnsboro, and there is another daughter, Priscilla. The youngest of the family, a son, Elliott, Jr., is a freshman at Duke University, N. C. The years have been kind to Ella and she is scarcely gray at all; she seemed so happy to have her children at home for the Christmas holidays. I do not think that I ever met a more interesting and charming family.

I must now tell the "girls" of '87 about my "jewels." Our eldest, Wyatt A. Pickens, is Assistant Professor of Romance Languages in Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La., and returned in November from a second trip to South America with the Pan-American Highway Commission. He speaks Spanish and Portuguese fluently; has finished the work for Ph. D. degree at Harvard University except writing a Thesis, the material for which is in Spain. He plans to go over in a year or so, and when his degree is conferred, if my life is spared, and nothing goes amiss, there will be one proud mother in the audience! My daughter Lucille, who was at Salem College in '19-'20, has a nice position in the city library here. She is a good driver, and made the 1200 miles to Valdosta and back to High Point without the slightest accident. My second son, Rupert, is practicing law here, being associated with Mr. Donald MacRae, formerly of Chapel Hill; is married to a lovely girl, who was Ida Mungan of High Point. They both wear the Phi Beta Kappa key, his having been won at Carolina, and hers at Duke. My second daughter, Virginia, is a graduate of our young High Point College in the first four-year class, and teaches Fifth Grade at Asheboro, N. C. My youngest, Annette, has finished High School, and says she wants to take training for a nurse.

My cousin, Roxie Armfield King, who was a student at Salem Female Academy in the 70's, is a widow, and lives on a part of her father's old home place near Greensboro.

I saw Annie Walker Pou, (Mrs. James H.) of Raleigh at Adelaide's wedding last October, and she tells me that she has seven grandchildren.

I hear that Dr. Lydie Irby of Class of 1890 has recently moved to Charlotte, N. C., to practice her profession.

Louise Hunt Mountcastle of Lexington has several grandchildren, and her sister, Camille, lives in the handsome old home there.

I hear from Victoria Swann occasionally—she is Mrs. J. A. Susong of Greeneville, Tenn., and has no children. She and Anne are the only ones left of the five sisters who went to Salem. The latter is Mrs. W. A. Schuler, 2264 Davidson Ave., New York City.

A letter from Elizabeth Wolle Darrach, 615 Madison Ave., Plainfield, N. J., brings enthusiastic news of her grandson and granddaughter, and Jennie Sieger Morrison boasts three grandchildren.

My sister, Lucille Armfield, who is Mrs. Frank Armfield of Concord, N. C., (she thought so much of her name that she would not change it), has five bright children, the eldest of whom is my namesake, Blanche Armfield, and is studying French and English in Chicago University; two boys, Frank, Jr., and John are students at Carolina; Alice will graduate from High School in a few days, and Wyatt is still a small boy of fourteen years.

"Received the Alumnae Record this morning and have been stealing odd moments from my work to read it. I am working—doing secretarial work and like it very much, but I miss Salem and think of her real often. Polly is at Brenau this year and I will forward the Record to her there."

—KATHERINE BUTNER, Aberdeen, N. C.

Miss Virginia Ragsdale, 1887, has given up her work as Head of Mathematics at North Carolina College for Women, Greensboro, and is at home in Jamestown, North Carolina, with her mother, who is in feeble health.

"Have you some subscribers old enough to remember Anna Richardson of Reidsville? If so, they will be interested to know that she, Mrs. E. M. Redd, died at her home in Reidsville, November 12th.

We spent three happy years at Salem Academy, 1873, 74 and 75.

With all good wishes for the continued success of the College and of the Alumnae Record, I am, one of the loyal ones.—'MAGGIE LEA' COTTEN."

Mrs. D. C. Hopkins (Helen Hall, former member of the College faculty) has moved from Decatur, Georgia, to Berkeley, California. Her address is 1315 C. Dwight Way.

Martha Michael, 1921, has completed her medical training and is now Doctor Martha Michael, 418 Emmet Street, Upsilanti, Michigan.

Isabel Miller, ex-1928, is secretary to the Chief Engineer of The Austin Company. Her address is 1588 Ansel Road, Cleveland, Ohio. She writes that she will be at Salem for Commencement if she can get her vacation at that time.

Mrs. Irwin Graham (Theo Terrell, 1916), Cooleemee, N. C., hopes to be at her class reunion. Since leaving Salem she has taught in Cooleemee, N. C., and in Uma, Arizona. She has a little boy, Irwin, Jr., two and a half years old.

Virginia Cooper, 1928, is teaching in Garnett, S. C. She is doing summer work at Columbia University toward her M.A. She writes that Emma Burnet is working in Waycross, Georgia, a proof-reader for the local newspaper, and also studying art and taking a business course.

The news of Annie Louise Brower White's death distressed me beyond measure. As it was the first from our class, I am reminded that she was the first class bride, and that her son, Robert Newton White, Jr., was the first class baby. Her poise, quiet charm, and splendid character linger in the memory of her classmates, and we all are saddened by her untimely death. The members of 'Seventeen join in expressing deep sympathy to her loved ones; for their loss is ours.

—BETSY BAILEY EAMES, President, '17, (Mrs. RICHARD D. EAMES).

"Founders' Day"

"Founders Day" was celebrated on February 6th. It began with a student celebration, announced by the displaying of twenty-eight American flags before the College and Academy buildings. Chapel followed at eight thirty, with Louise Bahnson Haywood as the speaker. Alumnae will be interested in some of the things which she said to the student body. Her brief talk was a loyal and inspiring interpretation of how Salem alumnae feel with respect to their Alma Mater.

"Why do I love Salem so much? Doubtless you will think it is because I was reared almost within her gates, and I admit that during those happy years home and Salem were very closely associated. I loved Salem then just as you girls love your own dear homes, without pausing to analyze why you love them. I am sure that when you are away from them you look back with a deeper appreciation than ever before and you find that this thing or that thing about home is helping you to meet the new conditions of life at college. Such was my experience when I went to live in New York City. From that distance I could get a better perspective and I looked back upon Salem and what I had received from my Alma Mater with a new sense of appreciation. I can truthfully say to you that never did I have cause to feel that I was unprepared to meet life. Salem had done her best for me, as she is doing for each one of you. Let me beg you to absorb all that she is giving you.

"I should like to say to those interested in music that the training I received here prepared me to claim a place among musicians in and around New York. Often the question was asked 'With whom did you study?' And, in answer, it was a pleasure and satisfaction to me to be able to say that I had received my instruction at Salem College under Miss Vest and Dean Shirley and what they gave me prepared and inspired me to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities in New York.

"This is 'Founders' Day.' We do well to pause in our busy life to revere the memory of those brave men of faith and vision who founded this Institution. You hear many people say that it is a good thing our ancestors cannot see the shocking things which are being done by this generation. My feeling is quite different. I believe that the builders of every generation are very much alike. Could we but summon them into our presence this morning, I think they would be so busy marvelling at the wonderful things being accomplished that they would not have time to be shocked at those things which are not worthy and will not live.

"We owe to our Founders a debt of deepest gratitude and I should like to repay my part of this debt by imagining that they are standing here with me, and seeing you, as I see you this morning. They planted the seed in faith, not knowing what the fruit might be. To look into your faces would more than satisfy them, I feel sure. You are the life of Salem and the fulfillment of their dreams."

During the day the Museum, with its many interesting curios of early Salem days, was opened to students and to the public. At three forty-five there was a student concert in Memorial Hall. At six o'clock the seniors had the privilege of entertaining the members of the Board of Trustees at dinner in the College dining room, after which coffee was served during an informal reception in the Alice Clewell Living Room.

Winston-Salem Alumnae Meeting

The alumnae met in the College Library at eight o'clock. There were so many present that it seemed doubtful if all could be accommodated. Everyone was delighted over the way in which the Library is improved since its redecoration last summer.

Miss Estelle McCanless, president, presided over the meeting and under her interesting and efficient direction, Winston-Salem alumnae enjoyed what proved to be an outstanding meeting of their group.

Mrs. Henry Fries (Rosa Mickey) read an interesting paper about the life and work of Miss Amy Van Vleck. The following extracts will recall to the minds of all those Salem girls who knew Miss Amy, many vivid memories.

" . . . Miss Amy's birthdays were important occasions, even if we never found out her age until her 50th one. These birthdays lasted several days at her home. The first day those invited were her best friends from both Winston and Salem, members of the choir, the Musical Society, etc. The next day the teachers from the Academy who had 'kept duty' and couldn't be present the first day were invited, with other friends and neighbors. After that the younger girls had their good time. How we enjoyed hearing Miss Lou and Miss Amy sing our favorites, 'Mrs. Watkins Evening Party,' and 'Blue Beard.' How we used to watch Miss Amy's nimble fingers fly over the keys and when she crossed her hands, that was wonderful indeed.

" . . . I wonder how many of us remember the peppernuts which she and Miss Lou gave their friends. Just as there never has been but one Van Vleck family in this town, and one 'Miss Amy,' so it is with the peppernuts; they were given to us by no one else.

" . . . The Van Vleck family lived in Salem many years. Miss Amy's grandfather, Rev. Samuel Kramsch was the first principal of the Academy to occupy the new building for boarding pupils in 1805. Miss Amy was a born musician! Old programs show that she played the piano, organ, violin, mandolin, and guitar. I doubt if there has ever been any one person in a town who played so willingly for so many years and had to adapt herself to the ways and moods of so many different persons. At the time of the 75th Anniversary of the College and Academy, great preparations were made by Professor Agthe, the musical director. The famous Boston Quintette Club was to play, and when their leader saw little Miss Amy, he said, 'Agthe, she can never play those parts.' But after the first rehearsal he was very much relieved and expressed great surprise and satisfaction.

" . . . I sometimes think we did not appreciate her work then as we should have. I can recall the many nights she sat at the piano for hours at rehearsals, going over the various parts of the chorus. The singers would rest at times but the little pianist was at work all evening.

" . . . Years ago music was the favorite form of entertainment and we find among Miss Amy's papers notes from many people asking her and her sister to come and spend an evening and to bring their musical instruments.

There are also many letters from old pupils asking for piano, guitar, or vocal selections.

"And there are about one hundred and forty programs, dating back about seventy-eight years, which indicate how many times Miss Amy was at her post as teacher and accompanist. In reading these old letters we are shown that for generations this was a very talented, affectionate, refined family.

"We shall never have another Miss Amy and her devotion and interest for Salem was clearly shown by her liberal gifts to the College and Academy."

Miss Sallie Vogler presented the following tribute to the life and service of Mrs. C. T. Pfohl (Maggie Siewers), a former student and beloved teacher.

"When Mrs. C. T. Pfohl passed away last October, there was a request that there be no flowers, but I carried a rosebud as a small tribute,—she was my teacher!

"As I think back to the time of my school days, I remember her as the youngest and most gifted of three sisters, Miss Carrie, Miss Bessie, and Miss Maggie Siewers. One thing impressed me when Miss Carrie taught me in English Composition. Once when I was a very little girl I had written very carelessly and she sent for me and admonished me. The next week I handed in a better paper and she rewarded me by drawing a little picture at the foot of the page as an encouragement. Miss Bessie was our beautiful teacher. I could not forget her for she taught me a Poem by Hannah Moore, which I recited here in this room at a public entertainment, 'I love to listen when winds blow high.'

"After Miss Bessie's marriage, Miss Maggie came to take her place. As we learned to know her we saw that she beautified everything which she touched. One Christmas her beautiful decoration, a "Putz," which reached across the width of the south corner of the old 8th Room was the admiration of all. I still remember the shepherd, and the sheep, the little bridge across the stream, and the waterfall. She sometimes played on her guitar at night and once I heard her singing, 'Oh the light that burns dimly down below,' And once when Helen brought her from the DeSchweinitz garden at the Principal's house, a bunch of pink buds from the old monthly rosebush, I thought how sweet it was to be so beloved. She was happily married and she has left a legacy, her daughters and her sons. Like the Roman matron, she could say 'These are my jewels.'

"I have her autograph in an old album and I have never seen such beautiful pen work. 'I love them that love me and they that seek me early shall find me.' Prov. 8:17.

"That you, little friend, may seek and find that blessed Saviour, and that He may lead you through life and receive you in death is my fervent prayer. Your friend, M. Siewers, Salem Female Academy, Jan. 16, 1861."

Other interesting events of the meeting were two piano solos by Mrs. Haywood, one the "Centennial March" composed by Miss Amy; a very delightful talk by Agnes Pfohl Eller, recently returned from China, and by Dr. Rondthaler a resume of College and Academy life, educational, social and physical with the background of spiritual interests and ideals; and lastly a very unique and clever dialogue by Fritz Firey and Athena Campourakis, members of the senior class.

All Alumnae who can do so should plan to attend Commencement, May 30th to June 2nd. It promises to be one of the most important occasions in the history of the College and Academy. Even though you may not be a member of some special Reunion Class, don't fail to make yourself a part of the big General Reunion group. Salem extends an urgent and cordial invitation to all loyal Salem girls everywhere.

May Day

On Saturday, May 3rd, 1930, Salem College will hold its annual May Day festivities. This old English custom was established several years ago at Salem, and, due to its growing popularity, it has come to be an outstanding event in the calendar of the school year.

Last year the members of the faculty found baskets of flowers at their doors when they awoke on that particular May morning. After breakfast, the regular chapel service was conducted on the upper campus by Dr. Rondthaler who spoke on the trees of this vicinity. At four o'clock on the lower campus or "pleasure grounds" the Queen of May and her Court appeared. Following an elaborate pageant, which was presented in honor of the Queen, she was crowned in the presence of over 2,000 visitors, alumnae and other interested friends. That evening the Pierrette Players, the dramatic club, presented two plays in connection with the May Day program.

This year the May Queen is Fritz Fiery, of Winston-Salem, President of the Senior Class. Her maid-of-honor is Margaret Ross Walker of Plymouth, N. C. The members of the Court are as follows:

Beatrice Hyde, Buchanan, Va.; Sara Sutton, Richlands, N. C.; Annie Koonce Sutton, Richlands, N. C.; Eva Hackney, Washington, N. C.; Elizabeth Allen, Weldon, N. C.; Shuford Carlton, Roxboro, N. C.; Mary Myers Faulkner, Monroe, N. C.; Millicent Ward, Concord, N. C.; Araminta Sawyer, Windsor, N. C.; Claire Hanes, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Kathleen Moore, Gastonia, N. C.; Ruth McLendon, Bennettsville, S. C.; Alice Caldwell, High Point, N. C.; Margaret Vick, Winston-Salem, N. C.

The heralds are Anna Preston, Charlotte, N. C., and Edith Kirkland, Durham, N. C. The pages are Ernestine Thies, Charlotte, and Miss Lavinia McLean, Lumberton, N. C.

In accordance with our program we always wish to have as many of the Alumnae back as possible. Last year a goodly number who could not return for Commencement took the opportunity of coming for May Day instead. We wish to extend a most cordial invitation to all of you to be with us this year because it will give you a chance to visit your Alma Mater again, as well as to see a May Day program which promises to be better than ever before.

Lost or Found?

Several of the "Salem Representatives" who left here some weeks ago have not as yet returned. We are wondering if by chance they have been misplaced in or about your desk. We are sure they are all homesick for Salem and that most of them wish to get back to their Alma Mater by May Day, Saturday, May 3rd. Who would not want to see the May Queen and her Court?

Have you a little "Coin Card" in your home? When you read that this very issue of the Alumnae Record is printed and mailed at an expense of approximately one hundred dollars you will realize that your fifty cent subscription fee is needed. Please stop your reading this very instant, hunt up the Coin Card, and put it on the next train for Salem.

And what about the little blue and white "Living Endowment" card? Are you writing your family grocery list on the back of it? Salem needs some "family groceries" too.

Like everyone else Salem wants to keep growing in all respects. We can't all give new buildings but we can do our part, in proportion to our means, by filling out the blue and white card and sending it back to Salem.

Gifts from $1 to $500 go to make up the whole amount needed to help maintain the type of faculty which, as an A-class College, Salem needs. If you have not already done so, won't you add your name to the following list of those who have found themselves able to contribute this year?

Mrs. Emma A. Fogle, Mrs. F. H. Fries, Anna Pauline Shaffner, Mrs. Charles Norfleet, Mrs. James A. Gray, Grizzelle Norfleet, Mrs. J. F. Crouse, Mrs. J. Kenneth Pfohl, Mrs. Henry Shaffner, Mrs. John O. Coan, Miss Adelaide L. Fries, Miss Etta Shaffner, Miss Anna Ogburn, Miss Constance E. Pfohl, Robina Mickle, Mrs. Henry Fries, Mrs. Clarence Leinbach, Mrs. Bess Gray Plumly, Mrs. Elizabeth Fearrington Croom, Mrs. T. Holt Haywood, Mrs. C. L. Lashmit, Mrs. Rufus A. Spaugh, of Winston-Salem; Lida A. Fain, Athens, Georgia; Mrs. Alberta Green-Murphy, Slidell, La.; Anne R. Sorsby, Rocky Mount, N. C.; Mrs. W. W. Rankin, Durham, N. C.; Ruth L. Parrish, New York City; Mrs. Irma C. Bradley, Winnsboro, La.; Mrs. George Clark Rogers, Jefferson City, Tenn.; Mrs. Allen S. Hurlburt, Roxbury, Connecticut, Mrs. Irwin Graham, Cooleemee, N. C.; Mrs. W. C. Stafford, Kernersville, N. C.; Mrs. W. H. McAtee (Queen Graeber), Shaw, Mississippi; Mrs. John N. Wharton, Dallas, Texas; Mamie Churchill Smith, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mrs. Agnes C. Buxton, Dallas, Texas; Mrs. Annie Pender Gordon, Richmond, Va.; Nell B. Clark, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Elgin J. Pope, Morristown, Tenn.; Susan F. Luckenbach, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Florence Hobbs, Spray, N. C.; Margaret Schwarze, Bethlehem, Penn.; Lola Butner, Bethania N. C.; Mrs. Elizabeth Hicks Johnson, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. James Forrest McGhee, Moorestown, N. J.; Ruth Credle, Pantego, N. C.; Betsy Holt Pierson, West Palm Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Faith Fearrington Ireland, Faison, N. C.; Mrs. J. A. Hunnicutt, Athens, Ga.; Melissa M. Hankins, Mansfield Depot, Connecticut; Mrs. Zach Toms (Frances Coleman), Richmond, Va.; Mrs. H. E. Jenkins, Hannibal, Mo.; Mrs. H. L. Fagge, Leaksville, N. C.; Mrs. W. C. Idol, High Point, N. C.; Mrs. L. D. Yeargan, Rome, Ga.; Hope Coolidge, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Chas. D. McIver, Greensboro, N. C.; Margaret S. White, Waban, Mass.

Ground has been broken for the beautiful new College dormitory, the Louisa Wilson Bitting Memorial. You will want to be among the Alumnae present at the dedication of this new building at Commencement. Make your plans now to attend as many of the Commencement occasions as you possibly can. The dates are May 30th to June 2nd.

The many Salem girls who have known and loved Miss Stipe will read with sorrow of the death of her mother, Mrs. Louisa Frances Parrish Stipe, on Tuesday, March 18th. Alumnae will remember the close and loving relationship existing between Miss Stipe and her mother, and the constant companionship which they enjoyed. Those who were privileged to know Mrs. Stipe personally and who visited her in her rooms at the Belo House will remember her friendly interest in all that was going on at Salem and especially in the girls themselves.

In her memoir, Dr. Weaver, Pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, Winston-Salem, expressed that which all those who knew her felt so truly concerning her character, "Certain characteristics stand out which made her more than ordinary, even in every day living. Never unemployed, never uselessly employed, she filled every day with quiet but effective service. Friendly by disposition she enjoyed the friendship of a large circle of fine people who in turn received from her inspiration for many blue days and the easing of many a burden. Patient in sickness, patient in declining health, uncomplaining, sweet-spirited, she was a constant inspiration to those who visited her. She lived almost completely for her daughter and her daughter's work. No finer example of family affection has come into the range of my acquaintance than that shown by this mother and daughter."

Branch Association Meetings

Western North Carolina

The Western North Carolina alumnae met on the night of January 31st at the home of Opal Brown in Lakeview Park. Dr. and Mrs. Howard Rondthaler were present, representing the College and bringing news of its activities and progress.

Those present were Mrs. John Carroll, Mrs. Vernon Johns, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Golda Cline, Velma Cline, Mrs. Vincent Erb, Mrs. T. F. Malloy, (Minnie Fagg), Mrs. Thomas Curry, (Lillie Jackson), Mrs. F. J. Tighe (Emma Rollins), Mrs. L. H. Mann, (Bess Nicholson), Opal Brown, Mrs. Robert B. Yowell, Mrs. Evelyn Corbin Flowe, Mrs. Raymond Cooke, Mrs. Julia W. O'Connell, Lettie Crouch, Elizabeth Ramseur, Gladys English, LaVerne Waters, Mrs. George Robinson, (Althea Backenstoe), Jessie Huff, and Mrs. J. T. Sevier.

Greensboro

The Greensboro alumnae met on February 4th at the Greensboro Country Club, with Mrs. Marion Y. Keith, president, presiding. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Cam Boren, president, Mrs. J. W. Mason Jr. (Mildred Morrison), Secretary.

Honor guests from Salem were Dr. P. V. Willoughby, Head of the Department of English, Miss Eleanor Shaffner, harpist, and Miss Anna Pauline Shaffner, instructor in French and Spanish. Dr. Willoughby gave a most interesting sketch of the various changes taking place at Salem—the new buildings, the new courses, etc., and gave a cordial invitation to those present to attend the May Day festivities at Salem. Eleanor Shaffner gave several lovely harp selections.

Those present were: Mrs. J. W. Andrews, (Louise Boren, 1921), Hope Coolidge, 1914, Mrs. Elmer Leak (Cammie Lindley, 1905), Mrs. J. Clyde Turner (Bertha Hicks, 1891), Mrs. J. P. Turner (Eva Lindley, 1897), Mrs. Penn Scott (Rebecca Hodges, 1914), Mrs. Council Tucker (Alice Cooper), Mrs. Marion Y. Keith (Caroleen Lambeth, Academy, 1919), Mrs. Travis Callum (Martha Brooks, 1923), Cam Boren, Dion Armfield, Mrs. Anne Cantrell White, Mrs. Stuart Bondurant (Dorothy Siewers, 1927), Mrs. J. B. Carter (Dorothy Call), Mrs. Hancil Millican (Evelyn Goswick, ex-1927), Betty McGill, Mrs. A. O. Spoon (Nannie Caffey, 1907), and Mrs. J. W. Mason, Jr.

Charlotte

The Charlotte alumnae met on February 3rd at a luncheon in a private dining room of Efrid's store. In spite of a pouring rain there were twenty present and everyone enjoyed the occasion. In the absence of Mrs. Van D. Patterson (Ruth Kilbuck), president, Mrs. G. R. Hamilton (Octavia Hine), vice-president, presided. Miss Mary Howard Turlington introduced the speaker, Mr. R. W. McDonald, Head of the Department of Psychology and Education, Salem College, who gave a most interesting and instructive talk regarding Salem.

Other visitors were Mrs. R. W. McDonald and Mrs. E. L. Ware, mother of Frances Ware, now a student in the Academy. We were glad to have with us also Miss Ida Moore, of the class of '85.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. Raymond Thompson (Mary Entwistle, 1918), president; Mrs. Clayton D. Bullock (Ina Phillips, 1917), vice-president; Mrs. C. C. Keiger (Maude McGee, 1913), secretary.

High Point

The High Point alumnae met at the home of Mrs. Frank Hunsucker (Marce Goley) with Mrs. V. A. J. Idol (Annie Sue Wilson), Mrs. Joseph D. Pell (Mary Elizabeth Long), and Mrs. W. L. Jackson (Celeste Huntley) associate hostesses. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. V. A. J. Idol and during a very short business session the following new officers were elected: President, Mrs. Carson Burns; Vice-President, Mrs. L. J. Ingram; Secretary, Mrs. W. C. Idol.

Mrs. V. A. J. Idol very graciously presented the honor guests from Salem, Miss Sallie Vogler, Miss Carrie Jones, Miss Elizabeth Heisler, and Miss Marion Blair. Miss Vogler read a delightful description of her first trip to Salem as a child and the School as she first knew it. It was interesting too to learn that this was her first trip from Salem to High Point through the country since stage coach days. Both Miss Heisler and Miss Jones entertained everyone with their amusing reminiscences. Miss Blair brought present day news, the building program, the growth of the library, and improvements in the Academy department. She gave a very cordial invitation to everyone to see the May Day Pageant.

Little Sarah Coe Hunsucker presented to each honor guest an old fashioned nosegay of spring flowers. Tea was served by Mrs. W. C. Beavans (Julia Jones) and Mrs. J. A. Morris (Mamie Thomas) assisted by Miss Annice Smoot, Mrs. L. B. Heilig (Lucy Ragsdale), Mrs. S. L. Davis, Jr. (Mable Doughton), and Mrs. Joseph D. Pell. Other alumnae present were, Mrs. D. L. Bouldin, (Estelle Kerner), Mrs. W. C. Burns (Eula Wall), Mrs. G. W. Clark (Bessie Gold), Louise Cook, Mrs. R. T. Holton (Nell Morris), Mrs. W. C. Idol (Ruth Siewers), Mrs. Paul Casey (Helen Long), Mrs. J. E. Millis (Helen Brooks), Mrs. R. T. Pickens (Blanche Armfield), Lucille Pickens, Mrs. F. J. Sizemore (Lillian Farrish), Mrs. David Yow (Winnie Vail), Mabel Williams, Mary Young, Mrs. Capus Waynick (Elizabeth McBee), Mrs. D. W. Hunter (Carmel Rothrock), Mrs. Rothrock, Mrs. C. G. Mackintosh (Norma Brown), Mrs. W. C. Hammer (Minnie Hancock), Mrs. Hal Walker (Harriet Hammer). The Association had also as guests the mothers of High Point girls now registered at Salem, Mrs. A. S. Caldwell, Mrs. A. G. Douglas, Mrs. B. J. Dunn, Mrs. J. M. S. Salisbury, Mrs. Fred Hicks, Mrs. W. J. McAnally, and Mrs. Dan Hayworth.

New York

The New York Branch of the Salem Alumnae Association held its annual meeting on March 22nd at Whittier Hall, Columbia University. Miss Ruth Parrish was hostess. Doctor Rondthaler surprised every one by being North, so that he was able to attend the tea. The success of the meeting was assured by his presence, and the Salem girls kept him busy answering their eager questions. Miss Parrish served a delicious tea, during which Dr. Rondthaler told of all the activities of Salem, especially the new Academy building. It was after six when the meeting reluctantly disbanded, and everyone said they looked forward very much to next year's meeting. Mrs. Sarah Lingle Garth was elected new Secretary. Mrs. Robert C. Garth lives at 150 Claremont Avenue, New York. The others present were Miss Elizabeth Andrews, 452 Riverside Drive, New York. Miss Andrews is studying for a Master's degree in music at Union Seminary. Mrs. M. P. Austin, formerly Miss Evelyn Smith, 785 West End Avenue, is still keeping up with her music playing in churches. Mrs. Renwick Brown, Elizabeth Bynum, 320 West 89th Street, is doing welfare work. Miss Elizabeth Crouse, 452 Riverside Drive. Miss Crouse is studying for the Master's degree at Teachers College in Nutrition and Institutional Management. Miss Isabelle Dunn, 10 East 16th Street, has a position with the Chemical Bank and Trust Company. Miss Margie Hastings, Whittier Hall, is doing post graduate work at Teachers College. Mrs. Edward Lockwood, formerly Miss Charlotte Mathewson, 303 West 74th Street is playing the organ in several churches and also gave a series of lectures in Union Seminary. Miss Helen Long, 418 West 118th Street, is a physical education instructor at the Low-Heywood School in Stamford, Conn. Miss Ruth Parrish, Whittier Hall, is on the staff of the Domestic Science Department of Teachers College. Mrs. J. E. B. Stewart, Jr., Mary Hurt, 311 West 19th St.; Miss Amy Sloane, 58 West 9th Street; Miss Mildred Stemile, 174 West 93rd Street.

Philadelphia

The Philadelphia Branch of Salem Alumnae met this year at the College Club for an informal tea. There were eighteen present, some of them resident in Philadelphia and others there for study or other purpose, and all glad to get together and talk about Salem. Miss Lydia Boring, a member of the West Philadelphia High School faculty, and a sister of Mrs. Howard Rondthaler, was a guest at the meeting. The Philadelphia members were shown the "Salem College Room" at the College Club, and were interested in finding Salem publications in the reading room. Stuart Hayden Rogers is a member of the College Club and resides there and it was under her enthusiastic direction that such a room was established. Any Salem alumnae who happen to be in Philadelphia will be interested in calling at the Club, 1300 Spruce Street.

Kernersville

The Kernersville alumnae met on February 6th at the home of Misses Mary and Lucia Linville, with Miss Kathleen Kerner, Mrs. William Porter, and Mrs. Osborne Doggett as hostesses. In sharp contrast to the snowstorm of last year, the weather gave a perfect spring setting for the gathering. We were disappointed in not having a representative from Salem, but the view books, catalogues, and other literature sent out from the College brought back many fond memories to all those present and were appreciated.

The program was opened with devotionals by Mrs. W. C. Stafford, who read the latter part of the seventh chapter of Revelations, commenting on the fact that this was a favorite of Miss Lehman's. The roll call, as always, was interesting since it brought out informal comments from each alumna in the form of a brief resume of her activities during the year. It was voted to send a message of cheer to Mrs. J. P. Adkins, one of our loved members, who was ill in the hospital. Musical selections were given by Miss Mary Linville, Miss Tilla Harmon, and Miss Verda Parks. A very interesting and inspiring address was given by Mrs. W. C. Stafford, her subject being "Meet the Issue." Mrs. Stafford dwelt upon the bravery of our grandmothers, the influence which women have exerted all down thru the years, and urged that present vital world issues be met with enlightenment, courage, and prayer.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. D. Lanier Donnell, president; Mrs. King Grogan, vice-president; Kathleen Korner, secretary and treasurer. A committee to arrange for the 1931 meeting was appointed, Miss Tilla Harmon, chairman, Mrs. Gilmer Smith, and Verda Parks.

Alumnae present were: Mrs. W. C. Stafford (Floy Rights), Miss Tilla Harmon, Mrs. William Porter (Annie Kerner), Mrs. Gilmer Smith (Alta Pinnix), Kathleen Korner, Mrs. Colonel Smith (Mabel Clodfelter), Lucia Linville, Mary Linville, Fannie Lyon Hepler, Verda Parks, Edith Tucker, Mrs. Osborne Doggett (Minnie Hastings), and Mrs. D. L. Donnell (Dore Korner).

"Here and There" Among the Alumnae

Getting back to Salem and reviewing the old haunts was a rare treat and I shall long cherish the visit. Though many changes have come with the eighteen years, I believe it is safe to predict that Salem will never lose the quaint charm and sweet spirit which has so distinctly characterized it for so many, many years.

I mentioned to Dr. Rondthaler that my grandmother, Mrs. De Witt died last spring, but as it was the last month of school I judged it was too late to receive mention in the final issue of the Alumnae Record. Grandmother was Martha (Mattie) Cornelia Jennings from Wadesboro, Anson County, and was at Salem about 1860. It was during the time when Dr. De Schweinitz was president of the Academy. I have always understood that grandmother's mother, who was Mary King of Anson County, also went to Salem, and another generation back there was Anne Staiert (Mrs. John Jennings) of Fayetteville who was among the earliest boarding pupils in the Academy. Had my mother not broken the tradition by going to Shorter College, my niece Ellen, now at Salem, would be the sixth generation represented there.

I am certainly looking forward to revisiting Salem long before another eighteen years have passed. The enclosed check will counter balance some of my past delinquencies toward the Alumnae Record which has been so faithful in making its appearance and which I always enjoy reading.

MRS. E. B. MURRAY, (Mamie Adams), Macon, Ga.

Are you a member of the Class of 1928? Mary Ardrey Stough visited Salem recently to make sure there would be plenty of space reserved for you. Have you written her that you want a room in Alice Clewett Dormitory? Her address is 816 Mt. Vernon Avenue, Charlotte, North Carolina.

"It makes me happy to see Salem keeping pace with all of her sister colleges. I want to visit her very much and see her progress. I think each year when I go to Virginia, I will get to Salem."

KATHLEEN MOORE, Selma, Alabama.

"I can't be without the Record. I drop everything and read it as soon as it arrives. All good wishes.—MRS. CHARLES B. ROSS, Charlotte, N. C.

(Judging from the brevity of this letter, the writer is a very busy person, but she finds time to send in her Alumnae Record subscription. Have you done likewise?)

It always gives me such a big thrill to get any thing from Salem, whether it is asking if I am coming back for Commencement, or soliciting Living Endowment. I haven't been back in so long that I'm afraid you might get the idea that my interest is lagging, but that is not so.

Mary Shepard and I are both teaching. She is in the elite section and I am in the coal pier district of the city.

Ella Aston (Mrs. Wm. Kennedy Rhodes), 1925, is at 1235 Loma Avenue, Coronada, Cal. Her husband, who is in naval aviation, is attached to the Langley and she is coming home in the spring.

I do hope to get to Salem sometime before much longer.

—"E. P." PARKER, 1924, Brunswick Park, Norfolk, Virginia.

Of course we are expecting our "infant alumnae." Salem has changed considerably even since your day. Members of the Class of 1929, come back and be college girls instead of school teachers. Write Cam Boren that you will be at Salem for Commencement. Her address is 2300 Spring Garden Street, Greensboro, North Carolina.

Your note with regard to the Living Endowment is at hand. I want you to know that I am heart and soul in sympathy with dear old Salem and all her splendid efforts to become even more efficient. I am sending a check for $10. I wish it was much more, but my health has been such this past winter that I have had expensive hospital and doctor's bills.

For years I have been looking forward to Salem's 1930 Commencement (which is the fiftieth anniversary of my graduation) as I imagine many people look forward to their golden wedding anniversary, or some such equally very special occasion, so be sure to save me a room in the alumnae section of the dormitory for those two or three days. For those few days I wish to be a part of the Institution itself,—to live, as far as possible, the old days over again.

Since my graduation I have been back once. That was six years ago. Miss Sallie Shaffner was still living and she and I spent those few days in close companionship. How I shall miss her!

—ALBERTA GREEN MURPHY, Slidell, Louisiana.

Are you a member of the Class of 1915? Pauline Pinkston is eager to hear from you. Her address is Wadesboro, North Carolina. Write her today that you will be at Salem for your Class Reunion. Are you a member of the Class of 1916? If so, have you written Mrs. Cecil M. McClistter (Louise Bushong) that you will attend the Reunion and have you made reservations in the dormitory? Her address is Bristol, Tennessee. Are you a member of the Class of 1917? Have you answered Betsy Bailey's urgent appeal for a 100% attendance of your Class? Her address is 201 Kedzie Street, Evanston, Illinois, and her married name is Mrs. R. D. Eames. Are you a member of 1918? Mary Sumner has left St. Petersburg for Asheville and is waiting to hear from you. She is Mrs. D. Hiden Ramsey, Kimberly Heights, Asheville, N. C. She writes "Ask the 1918 girls to get in touch with me at once."

I was stunned to hear of the death of Annie Louise Brower White. I don't suppose you remember but I roomed with her while at Salem and loved her dearly, as everyone did who knew her. I feel that her death is a great loss both to the College and the Moravian Church, and I know that she will be greatly missed in the community. I feel that my four years at Salem would have been incomplete if she had not been there.

—MRS. EDWARD H. TROTTER, JR., (Hallie Allen, 1917, of Reidsville, N. C.), The Cordova, 20th Street and Florida Avenue, Washington, D. C.

I enclose my pledge card for this year's Living Endowment, also subscription fees for mother and myself for the Alumnae Record. We enjoy the Record very much. It keeps me informed about my own classmates as nothing else could. I know of no particular news to give you. My own work at present includes secretarial work at Moravian College for Men, teaching and publicity work at Moravian College for Women, and teaching at the Preparatory School.

I am looking forward to seeing you all in the spring if I can get away for a week or ten days. It will be impossible for me to be present at the class reunion as our Commencement comes during the same week.

Hoping that this year's Living Endowment will go over the top, and way over, I am,—MARGARET SCHWARZE, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.

Enclosed find fifty cents for the Alumnae Record. I do enjoy it so much and can't resist sitting down and reading every word in it the moment it arrives. Each new edition makes me realize what a back number I am getting to be. There are so many changes since I was there.

—MRS. BROOKS J. WEISNER (Mary White, 1919), 230 Maupin Avenue, Salisbury, North Carolina.

It is a pleasure to enclose the fifty cents for the Alumnae Record, for I am sure the little magazine is indispensable to all Salem girls. I have three girls of six, seven, and ten years whom I hope to bring down to visit Salem sometime soon. My boy expects to follow in his father's footsteps and be a Yale man. With best wishes, —BEULAH PETERS CARRIG (1911), 442 Parkside, Buffalo, New York.

Mamie Churchill Smith, Business class, 1930, of Fayetteville, N. C., writes that she hopes to be here for Commencement and asks to be remembered to everyone at Salem, "especially Miss Stipe." Since the death of her mother last April, Mamie Churchill has been keeping house for the family.

Members of the Class of 1896: of 1897: of 1898: of 1899: Salem has changed considerably since "your day." Salem hopes that your Class will be well represented at Commencement. Write the Alumnae Office now that you will be here, May 30th to June 2nd. Your "alcove days" are over but why not renew them this Commencement?

F. Carroll Boyd, ex-1928, writes "I have become a sedate school teacher since graduating from Wesleyan College in 1928." Her address is 801 First Street, Fort Myers, Florida.

Lola Butner, 1915, Bethania, N. C., is secretary to the Forsyth County Accountant. She will be at her class reunion in June.

Eva Louise Flowers, whose marriage to Mr. Tyre Taylor was announced in the last Alumnae Record, is living at 14 North Boylan Avenue, Raleigh, N. C.

Margaret Schwarze, 1928, has written a play "Moravian Triumphs," which was presented as part of a program given by the Expression Department of the Moravian Seminary and College for Women, Bethlehem, Pa. This achievement is in line with Margaret's triumphs as editor of "The Salemite" in her senior year at Salem.

Mary Hill, 1925, of Lexington, N. C., is librarian at Guilford College.

Susan Luckenbach, 1928, writes from Brooklyn, "I think it will be wonderful to be back at Salem for the reunion and I shall certainly do my best to get there." Sue's address is 11 Maple Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Please find enclosed my subscription fee for the Alumnae Record. I enjoy the monthly visits of the little paper very much as it keeps me in touch with the School and brings to my mind the many happy hours I spent within the walls of dear Old Salem."—ADELAIDE BLUM PETREE, Germanton, N. C.

Nannie Huff, Academy 21-22, is Mrs. Cerva M. Reece of Winston-Salem. She has been employed for the past seven years by the Southern Railway Company.

The Dix Plan of Class Reunions provides especially for the return of certain classes this Commencement. Are you a member of the Class of 1877? If so you will be among the honor guests at Commencement. Are you a member of the Class of 1878? If so you must plan to spend this Commencement amid the old and new scenes of your Alma Mater? A member of the Class of 1879? Write us now that you are coming back. Of the Class of 1880? You will want to come back to see Classmates and Schoolmates, Salem Girls of 1877, 1878, 1879 and 1880.

..... This is an urgent request for names and addresses of the members of 1917 so that I may urge them to attend the Class Reunion. I have written a number of the letters but can make no further progress without help from your office. At our last reunion, which I was unable to attend, Louise Wilkinson very kindly consented to take charge of '17 during the reunion, and I am hoping she will do so again in case I am unable at the last moment to attend. Needless to say, I shall come if I possibly can and I sincerely hope the Class will be represented by a large and enthusiastic group. I shall continue writing letters.

—BETSY BAILEY EAMES, 201 Kedzie Street, Evanston, Illinois

The new Salem Academy plant is progressing rapidly. The roof is in process and before long the beautiful tower and spire will appear. All former Academy students are urged to come back for Commencement, May 30th to June 2nd to have a part in the Special Academy Alumnae Reunion. It is a distinctive year in the history of the Academy for it marks "moving day" into a new and beautiful home. Anna Pauline Shaffner, Academy 1923, is chairman of the Academy Reunion Committee. Write to her, or write to the Alumnae Office, that you will be here at Commencement.

I am enclosing fifty cents for a year's subscription to the Record, which is always a welcome visitor in my home.

My husband, Dr. J. R. Cunningham, is now pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here and I am constantly meeting old Salem girls in this section. I think it is right interesting that the husbands of Margaret Aston Barker and Louise Bushong McClister are officers in our Church. Margaret has done outstanding work this year as president of the Blue Stocking Club, a charity organization.

We have three little children, Harriet, age six, John R. Jr., age five, and Walter Ray, age one year.

What a pleasure it would be to attend Commencement and be there for our Class Reunion. If I can possibly come, I shall certainly do so.

—RUBIE RAY CUNNINGHAM, 1916.

Alberta Powers Harris, Academy, 1920-21, writes "I shall do my best to be there for the 'Big Academy Alumnae Reunion,' as I am planning a visit to New York in May." Since leaving the Academy, Alberta has lived at Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, with the exception of a few months spent in Managua, Nicaragua, shortly after her marriage last March. She informs us that Dorothy Shivers Hillenkotter, Academy, 1921-23, and Ida Ruth Hamner Fuller are also living at Balboa Heights.

Elizabeth Harrington, Academy 1920-23, of Greenville, N. C., is Mrs. Fred Satterwhaite and has a son, Fred, Jr., born in July, 1928.

Mary Gray Efird, Academy 1927-28, hopes to be at the Reunion. She writes that she has been "falling in and out of love, and has seen lots of Salem Girls."

Era Mae Clinard, Academy 1924-27, after completing a Business Course, is bookkeeper for the L. A. Reynolds Nurseries and Landscape Gardeners of Winston-Salem.

Maizy Lee Vernon, Academy 1920, finished her college work at Sweetbriar and then travelled abroad and taught until February, 1928, when she became ill with pulmonary tuberculosis. She is now a patient at Hendricks-Laws Sanatorium, El Paso, Texas. She writes cheerfully and says she would enjoy receiving the Alumnae Record and hearing from her Salem friends. Her home address is 1307 Asheboro Road, Greensboro, N. C.

Martha Bowden, Academy 1923-25, of Kenansville, N. C., hopes to be back for the Academy Reunion. She writes that since leaving the Academy she has spent a year at the Southern Conservatory of Music, a summer at Duke University, and a year at Eastern North Carolina Teachers College. Her schoolmates will regret to hear of an accident which she sustained in December, 1927, which nearly cost her the use of her right leg. She is just now able to get about without crutches after about two years in bed and three operations. Martha writes that she is still interested in voice work and would like to sing again in Memorial Hall.

Anna Atwood, Academy 1921, is Mrs. W. J. Miller, wife of a Methodist minister. She has three children.

Carabelle du Planty (Academy 1925-26), of Bogues Banks, is now Mrs. George W. Dill, Jr., of Mount Olive, N. C.

The Home Economics Practice House is completed. It is beautiful both inside and outside, a typical colonial brick house of the old Moravian type. It will be viewed with pride and joy by all former B.S. students who come back for Commencement, and all of our Alumnae housekeepers will want to move in as soon as they see it.

Josephine "Joe" Hawley, (Academy 1924-26), has moved from Madisonville, Kentucky, to Richmond, Virginia. She is doing some postgraduate work at the John Marshall High School preparatory to entering Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore next year. Her address is 3016 W. Grace Street.

Muriel Lombra (Academy 1926), has moved from Hartford to New Britain, Connecticut. Her address is 550 Shuttle, Meadow Road. She writes that she has endeavored to keep in touch with her roommates and has visited William Mims and Mary Stokely Eberts in Newport, Tennessee, and Nannie Russell Sanderson in Durham. Nannie Russell has a little boy, Jesse, Jr.

Frankie Tally, (Academy 1923), has an office position with the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

Catherine Gaut, (Academy 1928), is completing her college work at the University of Tennessee and fears that her own Commencement will interfere with her return for the Academy reunion. However she is urging her classmates to be present and hopes to hear from all of them. Her address is 1605 Laurel Avenue, Laurel Heights Apts., Knoxville, Tennessee.

William Mims, (Academy 1926), of Newport, Tenn., now a senior at Randolph-Macon, and Rebecca Hardin, (Academy 24-27), of Graham, N. C., were recent visitors at Salem.

Sallie Hubbard, Fayetteville, W. Va., (Academy '29), hopes to attend the Academy Reunion.

LaRue Gibson (Academy 1928-29), writes that she is planning to be at the Reunion. She is studying this year at the Southern Conservatory of Music in Durham, majoring in violin.

A note from Mrs. Irving G. Davis (Grace Locke), of 45 High Street, Saco, Maine, indicates that she and her sister, Alice Locke, who attended Salem 1889-90, will be visitors at commencement.

Among recent visitors we were glad to welcome Mrs. Lyman A. Williams. Mrs. Williams was Susie A. Hodge of Mount Airy, and attended Salem in 1906-1907. Her present address is 6204 Langley Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Other visitors were Doris C. Shirley, (1929) of Glen Ridge, N. J.; Mary Bradam Pruden, (1924) of Edenton, N. C.; Charlotte Easton, (Business Department 1927), Oxford, N. C.; Mrs. John B. Caffey (Pat Brawley, ex-1927) of Mooresville, N. C., together with her young son; Elizabeth Shaw (1926) of Lumberton, N. C.; Margaret Hartsell (1927) Concord, N. C.; Jane Harris (ex-1931) Greensboro, N. C.; Elizabeth Ramsaur (1928) Brevard, N. C.; Virginia Welch (1928) Waynesville, N. C.; Jennie Wolfe (1927), Charlotte, N. C.; Mary Ardrey Stough (1928) Charlotte, N. C.; Rachel Phillips (1927) Lexington, N. C.; Adelaide McAnally (ex-1930), High Point, N. C.; Julia Daniels (1929), Elm City, N. C.; Velma Harrison (1928), Williamston, N. C.; Miriam Bundy (Business Department 1928), of Fayetteville, N. C.

The news of the passing of Alice Rondthaler Chase, though not unexpected after an illness of about two years, was a shock to her many friends and classmates.

After forty-six years, we, the few that are left of the class of 1884 look back with sincerest affection on this dear friend who, in the class, was always the center of the group.

It was her mirthfulness and joyous disposition that endeared her to us all. She was the center not only of the fun-loving group but led her class in all her studies.

Just a year ago she made a strenuous but unavailing effort from her home in Massachusetts to gather the remaining members of our class in reunion at Commencement. Of the seventeen members of the class only seven remain today.

After graduating Alice continued her studies, specializing in French and taught in her Alma Mater a few years. Here, as in her school days, she put her whole heart into her work.

To know her was to love her, so conscientious, kind and considerate of others and as she led us in the olden days so let the memory of her Christian life, still lead us on.

—CLAUDIA A. WINKLER, Class of 1884

NEW HOME ECONOMICS PRACTICE HOUSE

The New Colonial Practice House

Under the direction of Northrup and O'Brien, architects, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, the new Salem College Memorial Practice House has just been completed, reproducing the architecture of colonial days in Salem, and very particularly bringing back the graceful lines of the old Vogler home on Salem Square.

The John Vogler house in old Salem was recently reproduced with measured drawings in the Monograph series of early American documents, volume 15, number 2, under the direction of the American Association of Architects.

Some months earlier, the gift of a Home Economics Practice House having been proposed to Salem College, it was determined that this new building should reproduce in intimate detail the John Vogler house as admirably fitted to the colonial type of the Salem College Campus.

The brick-work is laid Flemish Bond in Hedgecock hand-made brick, these being burned locally from the same clay beds originally used in the John Vogler house. Over the front door the quaint hood with its fan-shaped light and broad board ceiling and face has been successfully reproduced as well as the Dutch door with four upper panels and two lower panels, and a distinctive transom set in triangular glass.

The window detail includes a very broad sill which reproduces the Widows' House window sills in Old Salem, erected in 1766. The shutters with fixed slats and a delicate quarter molding are exact copies of the 1766 shutters still in use in old Salem, and the entire house is set with the old-fashioned size window-pane glass.

A brick cornice laid in general reproduction of the early colonial cornices in Salem is surmounted by a Ludovici tile roof which very closely corresponds to tile roofs still intact in the earlier parts of the town of Salem, these roofs dating back to 1785, and still in constant daily use.

In common with the earliest buildings in this historic community, a white plaster "collar" is built into both chimneys some four courses below the chimney cap. This feature of early Salem buildings is enthusiastically admired by artists and architects. Every window in the building is surmounted with a brick keystone scaled to correspond with the original John Vogler house.

The trimmings of the house are white with olive green shutters, and the interior will be furnished in colonial style with a considerable collection of historic pieces on the first floor.

This building is to be used by Home Economics students in groups of four and five. Each group during a series of weeks enters into the full details of budget house-keeping, including every phase of home-making activity.

As is well known, Salem has always stressed home-making and house-keeping as a foremost field of woman's activity. It is extraordinarily appropriate therefore that an 18th century building devoted to these fundamental arts should be erected for the service of twentieth century college girls.

In the rear of this building a charming private lawn and garden, set with Rhododendron and Mountain Laurel and Azelea in great profusion, and well shaded with two fine sycamores, will offer a charming retreat, sure to be very popular, as it overlooks the brook and forest hills of the traditional Pleasure Grounds.

Northrup and O'Brien, the architects, are to be greatly congratulated on this production, and the contractors, Fogle Brothers, have done a piece of sturdy and well-executed work, fully in line with the best traditions of old Salem.

The name of the donor is withheld until Alumnae Day, Saturday afternoon of Commencement Week, at which time the building will be formally presented and received.

"Here and There" Among the Alumnae

The 1930 meeting of the Atlanta branch of the Salem Alumnae was held on April 10th, at the home of the president, Mrs. Garland Porter. We enjoyed greatly looking over pictures and literature from Salem. After an hour in happy reminiscence we elected officers for the year, who are as follows: President, Mrs. J. T. Cheeves (Elizabeth Chumlee); Secretary, Miss Elizabeth Setze; Treasurer, Mrs. Frank Johnson (Bright McKemis).

Several new names of alumnae found living in Atlanta were handed in, making a membership of 48. At the conclusion of the meeting our hostess served a lovely salad course. We then adjourned, having had a most enjoyable afternoon, assuring our enthusiasm for Salem as great as ever. —(Signed) Mrs. L. W. Folsom.

Among the May Day and recent visitors at Salem, we find the following listed in the Guest Book: Virginia Welch, Waynesville; Margaret Dunn, High Point; Margaret Henry King, Durham; Charlotte Sells, Margaret Sells; Mary Lee Taylor, Johnson City, Tenn.; Miss Ella Burrow, Bristol, Tenn.; Blanche Walter, Kannapolis; Dell Huggins, Leaksville; Thelma Chinnis, Phoenix; Elizabeth Webster, Madison; Margaret Woolwine, Stuart, Va.; Dorothy Blair; Mrs. Hattie Jones Carrow and Mrs. Frances N. Bowers, Washington, N. C.; Mary Johnson, Raleigh, N. C.; Cam Boren, Greensboro, N. C.; Sarah Kincaid and Katherine Kincaid, Statesville, N. C.; Mrs. Eleanor Ramsey Putzell, Salisbury, N. C.; Mary Miller Falkener, Chapel Hill; Laura Tillet Bethea, Charlotte, N. C.; Emma Barton and Dion Armfield, Greensboro, N. C.; Sara Bell, Charlotte, N. C.; Mamie Churchill Smith, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mrs. Lucile Reid Fagge, Leaksville; Jennie Cardwell Roberson, Galax, Va.; Katherine Butner, Pine Bluff, N. C.; Mary Ardrey Stough, Charlotte, N. C.; Celeste Huntley Jackson, High Point; Margaret Hartsell, Concord, N. C.; Rosa Caldwell, Concord, N. C.; Elizabeth Wilson, Charlotte, N. C.; Georgia Riddle Shamblee, Raleigh; Emily Sargent, Burlington, N. C.; Lillyan Newell, Rockingham; Rachel Phillips, Lexington; Louise Williams Edwards, Sumter, S. C.; Louise Bateman, Wilson, N. C.; Ada James, Greenville; Mary Alta Robbins, Rocky Mount; Pearl Carrington Holman, Ridgecrest; Margaret Hauser and Ernestine Hayes, High Point.

(Extracts from a letter to Dr. and Mrs. Rondthaler)—It was a great pity not to have seen you when you were over here three years ago. I despair of getting a long enough time to do more than pay a flying visit to America. It is for this reason that I have put it off, hoping that one day it will be possible to spend months there looking up friends and relations who will soon have forgotten me. The school year is so differently broken up in England that the longest holiday is of only six weeks. And we are still very much connected with schools.

I cannot even promise to send you a Salem girl one day for our "one and only" is very much an Englishman of three who will soon become an atom in the great school system for boys. There is no great system for girls as it is all at an experimental age.

The things that have been accomplished at Salem simply astonish me. Things do not move so quickly here. It is almost unbelievable and you are to be greatly congratulated. As one grows older different aspects stand forth when reviewing school days. Being so much in an atmosphere of adolescent problems I can now realize how capably and unobtrusively corresponding problems were handled at Salem. The measure of the success is the fact that one was so completely unaware of the existence of problems.

Allowing for the fact that even in this comparatively short time young people are more enlightened than we were, nevertheless I feel sure under the same administration the tone cannot have changed.—Caroline Robinson Booker, 1914, 34 Meads Street, Eastbourne, England.

Enclosed you will find my card with amount for The Record, also a small contribution for "Living Endowment." Sorry it has to be so small but a great deal of interest and affection go with it.—Lula Martin McIver, Greensboro, N. C.

Lucie Baldwin (Academy, 1923-1925), writes that she expects to attend the Academy Reunion.

I have received two copies of The Record and read them through several times. I was a member of the Class of 1929 but looking back it seems very long ago. I wish I could be at the Academy reunion; my roommate, LaRue Gibson, is to be there, and I'd almost give my heart to be there too.

I spent last summer in New York, and the winter in Pennsylvania, and then we had a very interesting trip back home by motor, leaving Williamsport, Pa., and going south through Harrisburg, Roanoke, Bristol, Nashville, Memphis, then through Texas home. It was a sad homecoming as my grandmother died two days after we arrived there.

It was interesting to get back home after three years and see old friends and meet new ones. We have all grown up and are quite ancient history around the high school where we were freshmen and sophomores together.

I want to add that I spent one of the happiest years of my life at Salem Academy—Doris Clayton, 1929, LaHabra, California.

Rebecca Harden (Academy 1927), writes from Graham, N. C., sending us the address of Louise Watson (Academy 1927). Her classmates will be interested in getting in touch with her at 1432 Euteipe Street, New Orleans, La.

I am enclosing my subscription for The Record. I read it with much interest and when I learn from its pages that some of those I have known will be with us no more, my heart is filled with sincere regrets and sadness.—Mrs. J. A. Susong, (Victoria Swann), Greeneville, Tenn.

I do love The Record even though I neglected to send my subscription last year. Please accept the enclosed for past and present payment. Although I think I am the busiest person in the world with two darling children, Charles, Jr., four and one-half years, and Anne, two years, I stop everything to read the latest news from Salem.

Mary Louise House, now Mrs. Charles Pettway, lives here and some day we are coming to Salem to stay a week. A motor trip through Winston-Salem last summer made me more eager than ever for little Anne to become a "Salem Girl" when she grows up.—Mrs. Charles Dean, (Helen Ford, ex-1927), Shannee Woods, Knoxville, Tennessee.

Through The Record I learn that our class of 1897 is to have a reunion during the approaching Commencement. Will you please send a program of events as I want to be there at least for a day.—Miss Emma Goodman, Mt. Ulla, N. C.

COLONIAL WINDOW—HOME ECONOMICS
PRACTICE HOUSE

Salem is certainly going forward with great strides and bounds and I am always so happy to read of her achievements. I have done a great deal since leaving Salem. After getting my B.A. from the University of Georgia, I spent a winter in New York studying Dance Art, Dalcroze Eurhythmics, Ballroom Dancing and Dramatic Art, Costume Design and Folk Dancing, and corrective Gymnastics. Last summer I was assistant in dancing to Lucile Marsh at the University of Georgia Summer School and will do this again this summer. During the winter I teach in a studio at home. Lois has her Master's Degree from the University of Georgia and is especially interested in Nursery School work. She has a lovely class of children at Tallahassee, Florida.—Lucy Lampkin, (ex-1925), Athens, Georgia.

This is my mite for the Living Endowment. I wish it could be more.
—Mrs. A. L. Briggs, High Point, N. C.

The Alumnae Record came today and I am like the others—everything was put aside and it has been read from cover to cover. There seems to be so many changes at Salem that I am sure I shall feel like Rip Van Winkle when I return but I wish to risk the feeling and feast my eyes upon the new sights, and I am down here in the Sunny South plotting in every manner to join the Reunion of 1918. I am not certain but if I do not get there I will come later when we motor north for the summer. It has been a pleasure to see Mary Sumner Ramsay, who has been in St. Petersburg for the winter and she and I have written to all of the 1918 girls whose addresses we have. I have a son Billy, age six, and Joan, three and a half. They keep me quite busy. Mary Sumner has a little son three.

I am enclosing a check for the Record and for Living Endowment. The little notes inserted in the Record jogged my memory. Hoping to see you at Commencement, I am,—Eleanor Gates Sparkman, 4113 Azelle Street, Tampa, Fla.

Rose Hawkins, 1915, of Charlotte, writes that she will be at her class reunion.

For various reasons I have been unable to attend a Salem Commencement for many years, but I do want to come back this time for the Reunion of 1878. I deeply appreciate the invitation to be among the "honor guests."
—Mrs. R. J. Petree (Adelaide E. Blum), Germanton, N. C.

Mrs. G. D. Horne (Margaret Whitaker, 1923) is leaving Winston-Salem on June 11th for her home at Cali, Colombia, South America. "Another Salem College Girl" accompanies her, little Frances Atherton, age three months.

Mrs. Kenneth Hamilton (Pauline Peterson, 1911), has returned to the States with Mr. Hamilton on furlough from their mission station in Nicaragua. They will spend the summer at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, and come back to Winston-Salem for the winter.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Minnie Provence Lynch of Winston-Salem, who has been quite ill following a bad fall, is recovering and able to be up again.

Sarah Turlington, 1928, writes that she wants a reservation for Commencement. She completes her work for the year at Lees-McRae, Banner Elk, N. C., on May 27th.

The Old College Bell continues to ring! But it's not calling you to breakfast, dinner, or supper. And it's not calling you to Chapel. Nor is it calling you to French class, or to Algebra, or to Chemistry Lab. It's calling you to help boost the 1930 "Living Endowment." Let's put it over the top before June 1st.

Eighty-five dollars was added to the Living Endowment fund through proceeds from a recent opera given by members of the faculty.

"Polly's Archie," composed and produced under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Lilly, member of the English Department, was a big success and pronounced the cleverest comedy ever staged in Memorial Hall.

Last call before Commencement. Get your name on the following list. Was it there last year? Then let us put it on a second time. Has it been there twice or three times before? Then don't let it be left out this time. Has it never been there? Then get it on for the first time this year.

Editor: ALICE KEENEY RONDTHALER

A Few of the Things Which Keep a College Student Busy

A party for the freshmen given by the sophomores in the basement of the Alice Clewell Building, a scene of festivity, with decorations of sophomore and freshmen colors, general dancing with Babe Silversteen at the drums and various talented young ladies at the piano, ten minutes allowed the freshmen for vengeance on the sophomores, for absurd and comical stunts, a delightful dance by Zina Vologodsky dressed in Russian costume, the outstanding part of the program, tempting Eskimo Pies, and a rendition of "Home Sweet Home" by La Babino Silversteno.

Y.P.M., excellent advice from President Rondthaler concerning Participation in School Activities.

Freshman Installation, Memorial Hall, the freshmen dressed in white marching in single file across the platform and throwing their high school colors into the artificial fire, an act which symbolized the transfer of their loyalty from individual schools to Salem.

The first of the concerts by the School of Music, Dean Vardell, Jr., organist, and Ernest Leslie Schofield, baritone, said by Dr. Rondthaler and others to be the most delightful program ever heard in Memorial Hall.

History Club visits Guilford Battleground in a big yellow bus, tea at Guilford College with President and Mrs. Raymond Binford, speeches at the Battleground by Dr. Anscombe and Dr. Rondthaler, and then an out-of-door picnic.

Vespers, Sunday evening, Alice Clewell living room, excellent talk by Grace Martin on "My Part as a Salem Girl."

Black Crow Wedding of Juniors and Freshmen, Memorial Hall, Frances Caldwell, the darkly personified bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salem College, Alma Boone Kyle, the groom, nicknamed "Frosh."

Mathematics Club, first meeting, Miss Elizabeth Hastings talks on "The Magic Square."

Y.P.M., "Parson" Moss of Chapel Hill gives a new and interesting view of the relation between religion and education, text, II Corinthians, "Whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord."

"Old Peabody Pew," a refreshing comedy by Kate Douglas Wiggins, presented by the Pierrettes. Other good performances promised, as follows, November 15, "Dweller in the Darkness" and "Grand Cham's Diamond," November 29, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," February 21, "Mouse Trap," March 7, "Modesty," April 18, "Pierrot of the Minute," May 18, "Maker of Dreams."

Elaborate Fashion Show, Memorial Hall, Elizabeth Allen, Frances Fletcher, Mary Gwyn Hickerson, Elizabeth Coxé, Anna Preston, Annie Sutton, and Sara Sutton, from the College, and Virginia Gale and Frances Simpson from the Academy. Show given under the auspices of the MacDowell Club and featuring Sosnik's fall fashions.

Vespers, Y.W.C.A., Lucy Currie makes splendid talk on "Ideals of Service."

Y.P.M., Dr. S. Clay Lilly speaks on "Comradeship of Books."

Foreign Mission Conference, with students from all colleges in North Carolina, held at the West End Methodist Church in the interest of Christian Missions, Dr. Elbert Russell, Dean of the School of Religion, Duke University, and Mr. J. W. Clay, formerly missionary to Brazil, leaders. Salem Y.W.C.A. hostess to delegates.

"Music Hour," Mr. Schofield speaker, French Songs and Song Writers discussed.

Vespers, Y.W.C.A., "Taking Inventory," valuable talk by Mary Virginia Pendergraph.

Old South Hall

Mrs. Howard Rondthaler Tells Us of Its New Uses

There is no other building on the campus which carries more of the lavender fragrance of old Salem school days than does South Hall. As you know, it was built in 1802 as the first big breath-taking adventure of the school administration in actually admitting girls from all over the southern states into the little school where up to that time only demure Moravian maidens had come to be educated. It was a big step, and certainly in the right direction, with immediate and happy results.

South Hall is a lovely old building. I never enter it without having my imagination stirred and without seeing the family carriages and the stage coaches standing at the door and the little girls and young women from the big outside world stepping for the first time in their lives into a plain and dignified Moravian school building. I see the family servant bringing in the little hair trunks with clothes in them, enough to last for a long time; not as it is now,—a suit case with just enough in it to last until the college girl can run home in her car over the week-end to select another dress at the local department store to wear to the party next week.

Thru all these years, the doors of South Hall have not closed. Girls have gone in and out and are still going happily in and out. But 1930 has been another eventful year in its history. Academy girls will no longer trip up and down its creaking stairs,—stairs where the worn places tell of thousands of foot falls. But college girls have come in to take their places. Entering one comes into the wide colonial hall facing the beautiful stairway with its curved bannister, and to the right finds that the two spacious study rooms have become study halls and sitting rooms for our large group of college day students, or "Off-campus girls" as we now call them. We have over one hundred girls from Winston-Salem taking regular college courses at Salem and we are certainly very proud of this fact. They are a brilliant part of all the college classes and carry off many of the college honors. Across the hall, on the left, is a kitchenette for their use and the room which some of you remember as Miss Sallie Vest's piano room. This latter has been transformed into a faculty parlor and is furnished with the nice old red plush walnut furniture which came to the college from the beautiful home of Mrs. Mary Fries Patterson. Here the faculty are planning to serve tea to each other every week and to have special group meetings and to make it a faculty center. It will be very different from the old "Teachers' Rooms" which you

LOUISA WILSON BITTING MEMORIAL, SALEM COLLEGE

The Louisa Wilson Bitting Memorial Dormitory

Gift of Her Daughter, Kate Bitting Reynolds

There is not among our hundreds of Salem alumnae any one more actively interested in her Alma Mater than is Mrs. W. N. Reynolds. She has loved Salem first because it was her mother's school, and then too because it was her own school. And she has shown this love in many ways. For several years now she has been vice-president of the General Alumnae Association. We always count on her presence at alumnae occasions and unless something else absolutely prevents, she is there with enthusiasm and devotion. She has always had a part in all the needs of her Alma Mater. She is a loyal subscriber to the Alumnae Record, a participant in endowment needs, and particularly interested in helping worthy girls through Salem College by the gift of a full scholarship given in memory of her mother. Since 1920 six Salem students have been privileged to use this scholarship in their junior or senior years and each one of them feels a debt of gratitude to Mrs. Reynolds, not only for the financial help, but because with the gift there has come also her personal interest in the recipient.

And we have now on the Campus a living memorial to that one who first inspired in Mrs. Reynolds a love for Salem, a memorial to her mother Louisa Wilson Bitting. It is a particularly fitting memorial because it is a home for girls to live in during their senior year at Salem. With accommodations for forty-five, it can house the average senior class of boarding students, and whereas heretofore the seniors have been scattered throughout the student body, in the Louisa Wilson Bitting dormitory they can spend the last happy year of college life in close association and contact. This is just what Mrs. Reynolds wishes for them and what her mother in her intense interest in young people, and in her love for Salem, would have wished.

Alumnae who were not able to be here for the laying of the cornerstone at Commencement missed a very lovely and impressive service. Old friends, neighbors, and kinspeople expressed briefly their love for Louisa Wilson Bitting, and one of these expressions, given by a kinswoman, tells us some of her outstanding characteristics:

"She was a wise counsellor; a joyous companion in prosperity, loving friend, and devoted kinswoman. She never failed in any emergency. Her open door bore testimony of her spirit of hospitality to the large number of relatives and friends with whom she was a lifelong favorite. Her gracious memory will never be dimmed nor her sweet kindnesses forgotten, but they will live on through the years in this splendid gift of her daughter."

Louisa Wilson Bitting was born at Bethania, North Carolina, August 4, 1837, daughter of George and Henrietta Wilson. She attended Greensboro Seminary and from there entered Salem Academy where she completed her education. In 1858 she married Joseph A. Bitting and lived for some years on a large estate on the Yadkin River near Yadkinville. They came to Salem to live in 1875. Mrs. Bitting died on January 6, 1919.

An outstanding characteristic was her love for young people and her interest in all they did. She took an active part in the social life of the community. She had many, many friends. She was widely read and loved books next to friends. These varied interests kept her young and made her beloved by all who knew her, young and old. There were thirteen children, Anna H. Bitting (Mrs. W. A. Whitaker); Mary Susan Bitting (Mrs. D. D. Shelton); Fannie Julia Bitting, deceased; Louisa W. Bitting (Mrs. D. N. Dalton); Henry W. Bitting, deceased; Lilly Blanch Bitting (Mrs. J. Turner Farish, deceased); Paul Joseph Bitting; Sadie Bitting (Mrs. Charles Shelton); Ruby Bitting, deceased; Daisy Bitting, deceased; Caspar R. Bitting, deceased; Alexander Thomas Bitting; and Kate Gertrude Bitting (Mrs. W. N. Reynolds).

In the construction of the Louisa Wilson Bitting dormitory, the architect, Mr. Hobart Upjohn of New York City, endeavored to carry out consistently the old colonial architecture of Old Salem, and this new building harmonizes charmingly with the old Moravian structures. There are the characteristics of the old style noticeable particularly in the sheer gables, the plain green shutters, the unique cornices, the beautiful doorway. One of the surprising features of the dormitory is its compactness for every nook and corner finds some use.

The living room is a splendid example of the grouping together of harmonious pieces of furniture of different periods. It is a large and spacious room, carpeted in soft mulberry, with a big fire-place at the further end. There are two large English wing chairs, one with the cabriole type leg, which originated during the reign of Queen Anne, and the other with the underframing characteristic of the Chippendale pieces which show oriental influence. The two tables arranged in formal balance on each side of the room are exact reproductions of Duncan Phyfe sofa tables, graceful in line and beautiful in execution. An interesting grouping is that of the Adam console and mirror, giving evidence of the classic feeling in both line and ornament. There is a desk of the English knee-hold type, designed especially for ladies' use and a Hepplewhite shield-back chair completes this group.

Color plays a most important part in the beauty of the living room. The draperies are of hand blocked linen crash, striking the keynote of the entire color scheme, with their bouquets of blue, mulberry, and green colors, which colors are repeated in the two sofas, the love seats, and in other upholstered pieces. Over the fire-place at the east end of the room is an oil painting, a reproduction of the first group of buildings at Salem Academy, featuring especially the 1771 building. The artist is William Pfohl, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. F. Pfohl, who has made a specialty of sketches of Old Salem.

The dormitory has three floors for general use and a basement for recreational purposes. The recreation room, covering the same area as the living room, is suitably furnished in green and rose. It has a large, open fireplace, and adjoining it is a kitchenette, so that its use for parties and other social occasions is unlimited.

The students' rooms are equipped modernly, with a bath between each two rooms. They are large, much larger than those in most college dormitories. The furniture is a medium brown oak and of course the girls themselves have made the rooms doubly attractive with curtains, rugs, and all those little things which make a college room a home room.

Alumnae visiting in Winston-Salem must be sure to see the new home of the Seniors. Many have already come back and expressed surprise and delight in it and Miss Stipe, who has her office in the building, and her room on the second floor, together with the Seniors is always glad to take you on a tour of inspection in this beautiful memorial building.

remember and which were so sacred to feminine use,—for now there are many men on the faculty and they will come to tea too.

Back of this room is the large room opening both on the street thru another smaller front door and also opening on what is known in tradition as the "slim entry." This room which has served for so many years as the Academy senior study hall, has become class room No. 18 for the College, and is in constant use for large classes.

Upstairs on the second floor, the off-campus girls have lockers, baths, showers, and a dressing room, all of which are so essential to their comfort for participation in athletics. You will also find the much enlarged and efficient Business Department of Salem College on this floor. Miss Barrow is delighted with her new quarters, and old South Hall is now resounding to the click of typewriter keys morning, noon, and afternoon. Dr. Pearl Wiltoughby, head of the English Department of the College, has her rooms on this floor.

On the third floor where the last of the "alcoves" are still standing, we are planning to establish a section of the Library, where our librarian, Miss Grace Siewers, can have her work tables for research amongst the many old books in possession of the College. She is in process of cataloging and reading thru these valuable volumes, and this much needed space is being given over to the Library for this purpose.

On the fourth floor of South Hall, the house maids live in alcoves. This gives them very adequate quarters, and we are glad to be able to make them much more comfortable than they have been in many years.

It is the dream of the administration to some day be able to restore South Hall to its original beautiful proportions—to remove the two upper stories which were unfortunately added for utilitarian purposes and which have spoiled the lines of its exterior, and to then add the quaint recessed half story which the old engravings show and which is so much admired by lovers of the old Moravian architecture.

Alumnae Notes

Josephine Cummings, 1930, writes, "After three weeks of teaching I feel like a veteran in the noble profession." Joe is teaching English, History, Bible and Penmanship at Moravian College and Seminary for Women, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. She says that Mr. Heath, President of Moravian College for Women, said he had to have someone from Salem to teach Bible because he knew Salem Girls had four years of excellent training for that study.

Lillie Taylor, 1930, writes, "I am endeavoring to teach the third grade, a thing I never dreamed I could do. I have twenty-nine in all, fifteen boys and fourteen girls, and I teach everything from drawing to arithmetic."

Lois Lampkin, ex-1924, of Athens, Georgia, has received her M.A. degree from the University of Georgia and is teaching kindergarten in Tallahassee, Florida. Her sister, Lucy, ex-1925, is continuing her study of the dance and allied arts in New York City, and is teaching a class of forty children. She lives at the Three Arts Club, 349 W. 85th Street.

Elizabeth Roper, 1929, is teaching public school music and art in the fourth grade at Goldsboro, North Carolina. Since the fourth grade consists of six sections, Lib is kept busy. In addition she has several piano pupils. Her address is 112 Carolina St., Goldsboro.

HOME ECONOMICS PRACTICE HOUSE

The New Practice House

Gift of Katharine Jane Hanes, in Memory of Her Mother, Lizora Fortune Hanes

The Home Economics course, leading to the Bachelor of Science degree, is an important feature of the college curriculum. B.S. graduates have made a marked success in their chosen fields. Some have gone into the teaching profession, some into hospital work, some into dietetics, and others into home-making. The gift of the new Practice House, pictured on the opposite page, has made the work in Home Economics far more efficient. A student living in the house tells us something about her new home.

The house is furnished very attractively in early American style. The furnishings in the living room, dining room, and office are all genuine antiques. There is a lovely old empire couch which was made by a local craftsman many years ago and which is a copy of the Duncan Phyfe style. The glazed chintz curtains at the windows of this room help to carry out the early American idea. The room is made more cozy by the addition of a rose colored modern love-seat and a comfortable upholstered chair before the large fireplace with its beautiful brasses.

The beautiful French prints throughout the house are an interesting study in phases of home life.

The little office in the rear of the living room contains a Governor Winthrop desk and chair. This room is small but very attractive and has a door opening out on a porch which overlooks the deep gorge of the "Lower Campus." Miss Bessie Leftwich, Head of the Home Economics Department, meets the girls in this office, and has her living headquarters on the second floor, so that she is always in touch with the work done in the Practice House home.

In the dining room is a beautiful early American table, with chairs to match, adjoining the dining room is a pantry, and beyond the pantry is the breakfast room, which is furnished in bird's eye maple.

The kitchen is the heart of the house, as far as food is concerned and anyone who has been privileged to be an invited guest will bear witness to the fact that our Home Economics students know how to prepare and serve attractive and tasty meals. The kitchen is the modern room of the house with the best and most up-to-date equipment which makes the work done there a joy rather than a drudgery.

The second story has four bedrooms and two tiled bathrooms. The front rooms, overlooking the upper Campus, are designed for the students living in the house, and are furnished very daintily in modern reproductions of the same period as the rest of the house. One of the back bedrooms is furnished to demonstrate the artistic use of inexpensive furniture, and is occupied by Mary Duncan

McAnally, instructor in supervisor in Home Economics work, and a former Salem Girl.

The donor has given generously of the building itself and its furnishings and has tried to make it a real home for the girls living in it. For periods of six weeks, in groups of six, the junior and senior Home Economics students live in the new Practice House, each gaining experience in all the duties of housekeeping. In every detail the building carries out the principles of interior decoration and furnishes a standard of beauty and an ideal for which all the students will work in later life when they have homes of their own.

For many years the Home Economics Department has had an interested friend. Miss Katharine Hanes has kept in quiet touch with the progress of her Alma Mater. She has noticed the little things which needed improvement or which might be made more beautiful. Her chief interest has been in the work in Home Economics. She has been a frequent participator in various exhibits or bazaars which the Department has given and has helped to make them a success financially.

In giving this building to the College, Miss Katharine Hanes has erected a memorial to her mother, a memorial which exemplifies the attitude of her mother toward the home. We love to hear Miss Sallie Vogler tell about the coming of a group of Texas girls to Salem Academy, way back in the '70's. They were Lizora Fortune, Aggie Patello, Callie Trico, Sue Green, all real representatives of the Lone Star State, and true Salem Girls.

Lizora Fortune was born at Marlin, Texas, on August 25, 1855, the daughter of Margaret and Robert Fortune. She came to Salem with the other four Texas girls in the early 70's, and soon after completing her education she married Pleasant Henderson Hanes. She was always very devoted to her home and family, an active worker in her Church, and particularly interested in the work of the Young Women's Christian Association. Her death in January, 1915, meant a real loss to the community. There are six children, Katharine Hanes, the gracious donor of the new Practice House, Margaret Hanes Olds of Norfolk, Virginia, Frank Hanes Schoolfield of Danville, Virginia, Ruth Hanes Craig, of Winston-Salem, and P. H. Hanes, Jr., and W. M. Hanes, both of Winston-Salem. It is interesting to note that all four of the girls in this family were Salem students at one time or another.

Alumnae Notes

Margaret Elizabeth Pfohl, 1923, continues her work as Dean of Women, and instructor in English at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Virginia.

Marion Bloor, 1929, writes, after two weeks of "school marming," "In between spectacles, test papers, lesson plans, and textbooks, I have managed to keep very close 'tabs' on Salem's opening days." But Marion just couldn't be satisfied with second hand information about all the new things at Salem. Just as soon as she got her first salary check and a Friday holiday, Columbus Day, she came all the way down from New Jersey to see it with her own eyes. She seemed very happy to be back, didn't look at all like a "school marm," but more like one of the present juniors or seniors.

During October Mrs. Henry McMullan (Pattie Baughan) of Washington, N. C., spent a week-end at Salem, visiting her daughter, and enjoying once again the inspiration of worshipping in the Home Moravian Church.

Maizie Lee Vernon, ex-1922, has made good use of her time while ill with tuberculosis in a sanatorium at El Paso, Texas. She recently won a one hundred and fifty dollar prize for writing second best love letter out of thirty thousand, in a contest sponsored by a Pittsburgh, Massachusetts, paper concern. This did not represent Maizie's first literary attainment since leaving college. She has written for the Greensboro Record and has had a short story accepted by the Atlanta Journal magazine. At this time she is at home, 1307 Asheboro Road, Greensboro, North Carolina.

Robina Mickle, 1902, is teaching at Lander College, Greenville, South Carolina.

Mrs. R. S. Gibbs (Sally Jarvis, 1890-92), and her daughter visited Salem on September 27th. They are from Mars Hill, N. C.

Rosina Vance, 1919, has recently attended a Conference of Dietitians at Toronto, Canada, and is now visiting in Winston-Salem, before resuming her work as dietitian at the Baker Memorial Hospital, a unit of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Mrs. Dallas Moore (Ellen Farrar, Academy 1916) of Houston, Texas, visited Salem with her little daughter Margaret on October 7th. This is her first visit in many years and she was delighted with the changes in her Alma Mater.

Mrs. Margaret McDowell Siler, class of 1878, who could not be here for her Class Reunion in June, delighted us with a visit. She came with her daughter, Louise Siler, also a Salem alumna.

Other visitors were, Ruth Kennedy (Academy 1927).

In July we received the interesting announcement that Isobel J. Shaffer, ex-1926, of Miami, has made excellent progress in her organ studies and is staff organist for Station WIOD, Mami Beach.

Mabel Angel (Academy 1924) is doing secretarial work in the office of the American Association of University Women, Washington, D. C. She continues her interest in music, playing in an orchestra. Her address is 1634 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

We appreciated a letter in June from Mrs. M. L. Stover, telling us the address of Mary Louise Stover, 1920, now Mrs. Ernest N. Eickelberg, of Ketchikan, Alaska. Her husband, Captain of the U. S. S. "Explorer," is making a survey in Alaskan waters. They have a daughter, Jean Stover Eichelberg, age one and one-half years. Mrs. Stover writes, "One of my ambitions is for Jean to graduate from Salem College. I have always been proud of the fact that my own daughter is an alumna of Salem, and I, too, am deeply interested in the affairs of the College." The permanent address of Mary Louise is care of U. S. Geodetic & Coast Survey, Washington, D. C.

Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Lassiter (Mary Pfohl, 1924), are leaving Winston-Salem early in 1931 for Elkin, North Carolina, where Dr. Lassiter will assume the superintendency of the new Chatham Memorial Hospital.

Frances Maloney (Academy 1929) is teaching in the grammar school at Midway, Tennessee.

News from the members of the eleventh grade and graduates of the Academy last year, indicates the following: Betsy Armfield has entered Converse College; Annie Sue Askew, Greenville Teachers College; Claire Davis, Mary Baldwin College; Janie Taylor, Greensboro College; Eleanor Johnson, Agnes Scott College; Frances Williams, St. Mary's College; Anne Zeitler, Randolph Macon Woman's College; Katherine Lasater, Gertrude Stockton, and Nancy Thompson, Salem College. Anne Brown is studying at the Ogontz School in Pennsylvania; Laura Collord at the Sara Lawrence School in New York. Charlotte Duffy, Lucy Thomas, and Dorothy Ryan are spending this year at home.

Mary Brewer, 1930, is teaching ninth grade English and acting as secretary in the office at Old Town High School. Her address is Reynolda Road, R.F.D., Winston-Salem.

Athena Campourakis is teaching at Spencer, Virginia, just outside of Martinsville, Va.

THE NEW SALEM ACADEMY

The New Salem Academy

On the opposite page is a picture of the new Salem Academy plant, which we want you to visit with us as you read these pages. The front of the building does not show in this picture; we are looking at the rear portico as we approach up the many, many steps which lead from the College Campus down across the ravine through the lower southern end of the "Pleasure Grounds" or "Lower Campus." You will notice first the lovely spire, rising to a height of one hundred and fifty feet. This is an exact reproduction of a school tower designed by Count Zinzendorf and patterned after a similar spire on his ancestral estate in Southern Saxony. More than one hundred and seventy-five years ago he forwarded the designs for the tower to America where such a tower was erected at Nazareth Hall Military School, Nazareth, Pennsylvania. In the tower is the bell and you will hear it ringing, just as the Old College Bell rings, for rising, for breakfast, for classes, etc. Its tone is different from that of the College bell, in fact the donor chose it particularly for its musical beauty. The central building was given by the Patterson family, in memory of their mother, Mary Fries Patterson. It contains the auditorium, reception rooms, offices, and classrooms. The right hand wing is the gift of the Bahnson family; the left hand wing, of the Shaffner family. Both of these contain the living quarters of the girls, and in the right hand wing, lower floor is the beautiful dining room, and kitchen.

I feel sure that many, many alumnae are acquainted with these three families who have for so long been prominent in the life of this institution, and in this community. Mary Elizabeth Fries Patterson, for whom the central building is named, was born in Salem in 1844, daughter of Francis Levin Fries and Lizetta Maria Vogler Fries. She attended Salem Academy just prior to the Civil War. In 1864 she married Rufus Lenoir Patterson and for several years she lived in the mill village of Patterson, on the Yadkin River in Caldwell County, where Mr. Patterson was engaged in the manufacture of cottons for the Confederacy. During the invasion of a northern army the mill was burned and the family moved back to Salem. When she was thirty-five her husband died, leaving her with quite limited means and with six sons to be reared and educated. She died in 1927, her death being hastened by a fall and a broken bone. She was eighty-three years of age. In the entrance hall of the central building, as we enter from the front of the building (not shown in the picture), there is a beautiful oil painting of Mary Fries Patterson, a reproduction of a photograph made in middle life, a quietly beautiful and stately matron. Underneath it is the inscription:

MARY FRIES PATTERSON

"THIS BUILDING IS GIVEN IN LOVING MEMORY OF
 MARY FRIES PATTERSON
 (MRS. RUFUS LENOIR PATTERSON)
 CLASS OF 1862
 BY HER SIX
 1844 1927

Of these six sons, one, Samuel Finley Patterson, died before his mother, and another Andrew H. Patterson, for some time a Professor at the University of North Carolina, died after her. Her surviving sons are Frank F. Patterson of Baltimore, Maryland, Rufus Lenoir Patterson and Edmund Vogler Patterson, both of New York City, and John Legerwood Patterson of Richmond, Virginia. The erection of this beautiful building is an appropriate tribute to the lifetime interest of Mary Fries Patterson in her Alma Mater, and in her devotion to young people, boys and girls.

You will turn from this portrait and look through the doorway to the right into the large and spacious office, where above the mantel is the portrait of Caroline Fries Shaffner. It bears the inscription:

"IN LOVING MEMORY OF
 1839—CAROLINE FRIES SHAFFNER—1922
 CLASS OF 1855—TEACHER 1858-1859
 THE WEST DORMITORY OF THIS BUILDING IS ERRECTED
 BY HER CHILDREN."

This portrait represents Mrs. Shaffner in the later years of her life, as many knew her. She was the eldest of the three sisters in whose memory these buildings were given. She was born in Salem in 1839 and died in 1922. After her graduation from Salem Academy, she served as a teacher. In 1865 she married John Francis Shaffner, a surgeon in the Confederate Army. During her whole life she was actively interested in many things, the affairs of her church, of the hospital, and of Salem Academy and College. She was a firm believer in the far-reaching influence of her Alma Mater for good in the past and in its unbounded possibilities for the future. She had five children, Mary Louise Shaffner, who died in infancy, and John F. Shaffner, Jr., who died several years ago. Surviving are Henry Fries Shaffner, William Francis Shaffner, and Carolina Lizetta Shaffner, who is known to many Salem alumnae as "Miss Etta Shaffner." It was Miss Etta who gave the outdoor swimming pool to the College several years ago. There have been so many Shaffner students at Salem that each Salem generation knows some one of them. Eleanor Shaffner, 1923, and Anna Pauline Shaffner, 1927, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shaffner (Agnes Siewers), were graduated from Salem College, and Virginia Shaffner, daughter of Mr. William S. Shaffner graduated from the Academy, did part of her college work in the College and completed it at Agnes Scott. Josephine Shaffner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John F. Shaffner, graduated from the College in 1923.

Because of the long and devoted association of this family through many generations to the life and work of Salem, it is particularly appropriate that one of these buildings is dedicated to the memory of Caroline Fries Shaffner.

Turning to the left and entering the beautiful reception room, there, over the mantel, you will see the painting of Mrs. Bahnson, copied from a school girl picture in her own Salem Days. The girlhood beauty and charm of the portrait is an inspiration to Salem Girls of this generation who revere the Old Salem ideals and traditions and anticipate the wonderful future in store for the new Salem.

The inscription beneath the portrait is especially fitting:

LIFE OF EMMA FRIES BAHNSON, CLASS OF 1860
THE EAST DORMITORY OF THIS BUILDING WAS ERRECTED
BY HER SONS AND DAUGHTERS.”

The building dedicated to Emma Fries Bahnson is the gift of her sons and daughters. Mrs. Bahnson is known not only to many, many alumnae, but as a near neighbor to the Academy and College, she is greatly admired by the present student body. The last edition of the Academy annual, “The Quill Pen,” was dedicated to her as an expression of the love of the students for her. Her husband, the late Dr. Henry T. Bahnson, was for many years the College physician, and the Bahnson Memorial Infirmary was erected to commemorate his lifelong service.

The Bahnson family, as well as the Shaffner family, has been well represented at Salem. Louise Bahnson Haywood, formerly of Montclair, N. J., but now, we are happy to say, of Winston-Salem, was a member of the class of 1906. Her daughter, Mary Louise Haywood, is a member of the Academy student body at this time, and Salem looks forward to the time when little Emma Pauline, age two, will carry on the family tradition. The other daughter, Pauline Bahnson Gray, was a member of the class of 1910. She promises that the two little girls in the family, Christine and Pauline Louise, will someday be Salem Girls too. Mr. Agnew Bahnson, a member of the Board of Trustees, and Mr. Frederick S. Bahnson, both of Winston-Salem, cannot claim the honor of having been educated at Salem College and Academy, but this has not lessened their interest in the institution. Betty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Agnew Bahnson (Elizabeth Hill, 1911), will enter the Academy within the next year or two.

EMMA FRIES BAHNSON

And now we will turn from the three portraits, all so significant a part of the buildings, and make a tour of inspection. The reception room and offices are attractively furnished in light mahogany, with comfortable upholstered chairs and divans, and heavy chintz draperies. We might go to either of the two dormitory buildings, which are of course connected with the central building, and visit student rooms. Practically all rooms are for two students, each being furnished with beds, desk table, chairs, dresser, and equipped with hot and cold running water. An interesting feature is the "set in" window, copying the old type of colonial architecture. Each girl has chosen her own window curtains, rug, and bedspread, and it is interesting to see how individually attractive the rooms are. Faculty rooms are scattered throughout the building, so that the students actually live with their teachers and have more than a classroom acquaintance. On the first floor, in the central building, is one large classroom and a faculty sitting room. We might go through one of two hallways out on the portico, which you see in the center of the building, and from which there is a lovely view of the "Pleasure Grounds" or "Lower Campus," with the College buildings on the opposite hillside. I am sure the girls enjoy this portico, as well as the loggia on the ground level, for I have often seen them out there in the sunshine, and I think it is a favorite place on warm days for afternoon tea.

On the second and third floors of the central building we find more classrooms, all modernly equipped (everything in the building is absolutely new). The chemistry, biology, sewing, and cooking laboratories on the third floor are very interesting. The upper floors of the east and west buildings contain student rooms, some having a view over the wooded Campus, and others looking out over the newly developed athletic fields, which some alumnae will remember as the former baseball field, and where at one time there was a tennis court, the open field at the top of the eastern hill of the "Pleasure Grounds."

We may go to the lower floor either by stairways within the building, or we may enter directly from the loggia, under one of the archways. In some respects this portion of the building is the most interesting, because this is where students mingle together, outside the classroom. Entering from the lower portico through one of the French doors, we find ourselves in the Assembly Room or Auditorium. Here we find centralized the social life of the students, for it is used not only for Chapel services, but for all sorts of get-to-gether meetings, and it will not be long before the stage will be used by one organization or another. There is a full set of stage equipment, footlights, dressing rooms, and a gorgeous dark red velvet curtain. Chairs in the auditorium may be arranged in rows, or may be grouped around the large open fireplaces in the corners opposite the stage. The capacity of the room is about two hundred. To the right of the social room is the spacious dining room (this is in the building to the right as you look at the picture). It is sunshiny and airy because it faces southeast and with the windows open the view is lovely. The girls sit in groups of eight at round tables, with teachers scattered through the room, and from all reports they are greatly enjoying the meals provided for them under the efficient direction of Miss Helen Vogler, dietitian, a member of the class of 1914, with extensive experience in this line of work. One interesting feature of the Academy life this year is the ten o'clock a. m. "crackers and milk" time. During a brief recess at this time the girls come in and are given their morning mail and served in cafeteria style, crackers and milk. Lunch is at one and dinner at six-thirty, a real family dinner with all girls remaining in the dining room until everyone has finished.

There isn't time or space to describe the wonders of the kitchen, it speaks for itself in the food prepared there. We will go back through the dining room and auditorium to the bookstore, the kitchenette and dining room where students may have special group parties, and then to the room known as the "day student's room." This is a comfortable living room furnished for the use of day students, and we know that alumnae visiting the new Academy plant will wish especially to be shown this room because in it is a large painting of Miss Sallie and Miss Lou Shaffner, picturing them when they were little girls, probably themselves Salem "day students." The picture which was placed in the room by members of the Shaffner family, bears the name of the artist, A. C. Meinung, and has the inscription:

"CHILDHOOD PORTRAIT

LOUISA C. SHAFFNER, 52 YEARS OF SERVICE, 1866-1918

SARAH E. SHAFFNER, 53 YEARS OF SERVICE, 1867-1920.

TEACHERS IN SALEM ACADEMY."

But reading all about these new and beautiful buildings is not as good as seeing them. Alumnae who have visited their Alma Mater this fall have all said, "I had read about the buildings and knew they were lovely, but they are far beyond what I had pictured." And we cannot refrain from telling you the remark which a "green" freshman was overheard to make, "Duke University hasn't got anything on Salem when it comes to new buildings." And if this is the feeling of one never before acquainted with Salem, what a delightful thrill awaits those of you who have lived and learned within the "Old Walls."

Dedication of the New Salem Academy

The dedication of the new Academy buildings took place on Sunday afternoon, August 31st, with many residents of Winston-Salem and interested persons from a distance present. At the ringing of the bell, the people gathered in the Chapel auditorium on the first floor of the Mary Fries Patterson building. Following a brief musical program by Charles G. Vardell, pianist, and Mrs. Robert Jensen, solist, Mr. H. A. Pfohl, contractor, delivered the keys of the building to President Rondthaler. Mr. Hobart Upjohn, architect, spoke briefly on the architecture of the buildings and told how his inspiration was derived from the old buildings around Salem Square which he had studied with great interest. Mr. Frank Patterson, editor of the Baltimore Sun, made the presentation address for the donors, and Dr. J. Kenneth Pfohl, president of the Board of Trustees of the College and Academy, accepted the gifts on behalf of the Trustees. Bishop Rondthaler delivered the dedicatory address.

Interesting messages were received. Among these was a wireless from J. M. Morehead, United States Minister to Sweden, in Stockholm: "Sorry I am not with you at the dedication. I loved Aunt Mary Patterson as I did my own mother who likewise attended the Academy at about the same time as she. I rejoice at the good work being done by her sons and congratulate the Academy on its growth in physical plant and influence for education and general betterment of the State."

General Gordon Battle sent greetings from Washington, D. C.: "I send my congratulations on the beautiful thought which is materialized in the buildings you are dedicating today."

Other messages came from Dr. Edwin Heath, Moravian College for Women, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania; President Mary Woolley of Mount Holyoke College; Bishop Edwin A. Penick of the Diocese of North Carolina; Dr. Francis Venable, former president of the University of North Carolina, and a multitude of friends of the Academy from over the eastern United States.

Athletics

The athletic season at the College opened this year with a series of events for the testing of freshman ability. The freshman tennis tournament resulted in much hard work and equally hard play on the part of the new students. The fall swimming meet for all new students was won by the freshmen.

Interest in soccer has increased in spite of the short season. In this the sophomores won.

Hockey practice is beginning now, the various classes competing with a view to defeating their recent soccer rivals. The schedule of championship games is being planned and each girl is using all free hours in practicing and training on the field so as to be on the winning team at the Thanksgiving banquet.

The Thanksgiving Games will take place on Saturday, November 22, the Banquet that night, and afterward a Junior Carnival. As always, alumnae are invited back for this traditional occasion. This year, it is interesting to note that the Games will be in Hockey, not basket-ball, as has been the case for many years. However former basket-ball enthusiasts may come back and enjoy the new sport on Saturday, November 22nd.

Park Hall

Department of Science—Remodeled by Professor Higgins

On the evening of October the seventeenth the Science Department held its annual exhibition, which this year took the form of an "Open House." The exhibition was of special interest this year because of the many changes, in fact the entire remodeling of Park Hall, the Science Building, during the past summer. With the addition of the second floor space it is now possible for seven classes to be carried on at one time, whereas, it was heretofore possible for only two groups to be working at the same time. The building now contains six laboratories, two class-rooms, two offices, five stock-rooms, one dark-room, one library, and several closets and other spaces that are used for storage.

The porch on the first floor has been enclosed with glass, making a spacious entrance lobby and waiting room. Leading from the lobby are the entrances to the Chemistry laboratories, the main lecture room, the main office, and the stairs leading to the second floor.

The main lecture room now occupies the space formerly devoted to the Biology laboratory. It has a seating capacity of seventy-five students. It is possible for students to enter through the rear by way of a new enclosed porch as well as through the main lobby.

The space formerly occupied by the lecture room, Chemistry laboratory and Physics stock-room has been partitioned off into three Chemistry laboratories, namely General Chemistry Laboratory, Organic Chemistry Laboratory and Advanced Chemistry Laboratory. The Advanced Chemistry Laboratory occupies the space to the east, and is thoroughly equipped for most advanced chemical work, for which ample space has not been available in the past.

The Research Laboratory and the Fume-Proof Stock-room which were added during the last year together with the main stock-room, which has not been changed, complete the layout for the first floor.

The stairs from the main lobby lead into an enclosed porch on the second floor. At the end of this porch is a small class-room, equipped for ten students. The walls of the entrance lobby on the second floor are lined with exhibit cabinets, which contain biological and chemical displays. The Science Library occupies the room in the center of this floor. A limited number of scientific periodicals and books are available. The Physics Laboratory occupies the room on the south end of this floor. At the end of this laboratory, space for Bacteriology and Histology is provided. The General Biology Laboratory occupies the room on the north end of this floor. New tables, chairs and lights have been provided for this laboratory. A dark-room, an office, and stock-rooms for Botany, Biology and Physics are found adjoining the respective laboratories.

The building has been painted throughout with cream walls and white woodwork, thus making the building better adapted to scientific work.

Professor Charles H. Higgins, Head of the Department of Science, remained at the college during the past summer and supervised the changes, in fact donned his working clothes and labored from Commencement to September.

The visitors at the Exhibition expressed great interest in the changes as well as the equipment and the work being done. The scientific exhibition is now an annual affair, and is drawing an increasing number of visitors each year. An effort is made to stress a different phase of work at each exhibition. The exhibitions are designed to be of special interest to professional men and women as well as to the laymen.

When you visit the campus, drop in to inspect the building. A new hanging sign with the words, "Park Hall, Department of Science" with an arrow pointing to the entrance will show you the way of approach.

Academy Activities

On September 11th the Academy students expressed their joy over a new home by having a christening dinner. There was a cake without a candle, since the new home is indeed but a young infant, and the members of the senior Academy class presented the School with a cake knife to be used at future birthday dinners.

Athletics is in full swing on the new Academy athletic field, with the following heads of sports: Riding, Margaret McLean, of Lumberton, N. C.; Soccer, Lucy Dortch, of Raleigh, N. C.; Tennis, Jean Burroughs, Conway, S. C.; Swimming, Virginia Smith, Salem, Virginia; Archery, Alice Lanier, of Langsdale, Ala.

A great deal of interest is shown in riding during these pretty fall days. On one occasion the Riding Club enjoyed a picnic ride to a farm outside the city limits. They were accompanied by other enthusiasts, not on horseback, but in the hay wagon. The Hiking Club enjoyed a hike to the Shaffner farm, seven miles west of town, spending the night there to add to the excitement of the occasion.

A new organization exists in the "Puppet Club," with Jane Rondthaler as president, Gertrude Schwalbe, vice-president; Lucy Dortch, stage manager, and Mary Louise Haywood, treasurer. This Club will make its first public appearance on "Stunt Night" in Memorial Hall.

With a lovely auditorium, stage, and adequate stage equipment the Academy Dramatic Club, with Mary Louise Haywood as president, promises to be an interesting organization in the school life.

The first Vesper Service of the Academy year was held on the terrace overlooking the Campus. Vesper Services are held every Sunday evening before the dinner hour, and the Academy students are following a tradition of the past in memorizing hymns for this service.

The Academy student body has elected a group of girls "to promote the spirit of Salem." These are Margaret McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus McLean, Lumberton, N. C., Sadie Root, Raleigh, N. C., daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Root; Mishew Crudup, Henderson, N. C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Crudup; Alice Lanier, Langsdale, Alabama, daughter of Mrs. LaFayette Lanier; Jane Rondthaler, Winston-Salem, N. C., daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard E. Rondthaler; Jane Dwire, Winston-Salem, N. C., daughter of Mrs. S. F. Dwire; Heistand Scott, Davidson, N. C., daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. R. Scott; Dorothy Baden, Brandywine, Maryland, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Baden; Virginia Smith, Salem, Virginia, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Smith.

As always, the Academy student body comes from a wide area, reaching from Alaska, with Gertrude Schwalbe, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. F. T. Schwalbe, Bethel, Alaska, to Nicaragua, with Lottie Schramm, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Frank Schramm, Sangsangta, Nicaragua.

There are five girls from New Jersey, three girls from New York State, one from Chicago, one from Pennsylvania, while the remaining come from Southern States and are in many cases connected by ancestry to the Salem Academy of more than one hundred and fifty years past.

Suggestions From the Alumnae Office

Like every other industry the Alumnae Record feels the tinge of hard times, and we are asking our subscribers to pay their yearly subscription fee of fifty-cents as soon as possible so that we will know how much to count on this year. I am sure you do not feel that the fifty-cent fee is too much, in fact it is so little that sometimes it is difficult to remember to forward it to The Alumnae Office. I have heard several alumnae say that one specific issue alone, which they found particularly interesting, was worth the subscription fee of fifty cents. It is only by the loyal financial support of alumnae that the magazine can subsist. When you consider that the cost of printing and mailing is approximately one hundred dollars per issue, i.e. that it takes two hundred subscriptions to pay for one issue alone, then you will see the need of each and every alumna's subscribing, so that the six issues can be published during the college year.

Save this office the time, labor, and postage expense of "dunning" you for the fifty-cent fee, by mailing it today.

Salem Day, which comes early in February, is becoming more and more an outstanding occasion in College and Academy life, with a full program of events scheduled for the enjoyment of those who visit their Alma Mater on that day.

The Alumnae Office suggest that each Branch Association plan definitely to send a certain number of delegates to the Salem Day celebration this year. President and Mrs. Rondthaler invite the delegates to be the guests of the College on this delightful occasion, and the Winston-Salem Branch Association invites them to the annual meeting which is held that night.

Let a group of delegates from your Association spend the whole day here so that they can go back home and tell you all about SALEM at your February meeting. It is not the plan of the Alumnae Office to send representatives from Salem to your meetings, but it is our hope that you will let your own delegates to Salem on Salem Day, report their findings and bring you first-hand information about Salem's progress.

The Alumnae Office is in correspondence with the officers of the various Branch Associations asking that this be brought to pass, either by called meetings during November or December for the purpose of electing delegates, or, if this does not prove feasible, by the appointment of delegates by the president and other officers.

News items for the Alumnae Record are always in order. As you read with interest about others, remember that others may be wondering what you are doing. Keep in touch with your classmates and schoolmates through The Record. Keep in touch with your Alma Mater through The Record.

Alumnae Notes

Pauline Schenherr, Academy 1927, is at home at Norfolk, Connecticut.

Estie Lee Clore is teaching fifth grade at Vienna, N. C.

Fritz Firey, Selma Crews, Buncy Martin, Wynelle Reeves, and Margaret Vick, all members of 1930, are teaching in the Winston-Salem City Schools.

Lessie Brown Phillips and Eloise Vaughn, both of 1930, are teaching at Salem this year, Lessie Brown in the Department of English and Eloise in the Department of Modern Languages. Ruth Marsden teaches piano in the School of Music.

Celeste Knoefel, 1930, is teaching Home Economics and Physics at Sandhill School near Asheville, N. C.

Salem misses Anna Pauline Shaffner, 1927, as instructor in Spanish. Anna Pauline has chosen a business career and is busy learning banking at the Wachovia Bank & Trust Company.

Marjorie Hastings, class of 1919, B.A., M.A., is welcomed to her Alma Mater as instructor in the Mathematics Department.

Frances Jarratt, of Concord, N. C., 1926, for the past three years a member of the music faculty at Salem, is studying this winter in New York City.

Barbara Heath, ex-1930, graduate from the Moravian College for Women, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, in June, 1929, spent last year working in the library in Bethlehem, and is now studying for her Master's Degree at Columbia University.

Alumnae who knew Dorothy Etheridge, ex-1930, will be interested to learn that she is filling a business and secretarial position at Salem Academy this year.

Mildred Enochs, 1930, is doing graduate work at the University of Iowa. She writes, "I am a nutrition interne in the University Hospital and thereby receiving a course in Dietotherapy. My major is Nutrition, specializing in Administration; my minor is Economics." Mildred's address is Nutrition Dept., University Hospital, Iowa.

Miss Susan A. Webb, formerly of the school of Music faculty, after an illness of several weeks, is visiting her sister in California where she hopes to rest and regain her strength. Her address is c/o Mrs. H. G. Tate, 75 San Leandro Lane, Santa Barbara, California.

Doris Shirley, 1929, is teaching French and Spanish in Newark, N. J.

Nancy Hankins, 1920, formerly of the faculty of the New Jersey College for Women, has entered the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, Ithaca, New York, as a professional pianist.

Miriam Brietz, 1926, received her M.A. degree from Columbia University last year and is now teaching English at the Oxford High School, Oxford, North Carolina.

Louise Swaim is teaching at Walkertown, N. C.

Carrie Mae Stockton, 1930, is working for her M.A. degree in Romance Languages at the University of North Carolina.

Ruth Pfohl, 1927, is teaching Public School Music at the Patterson Avenue School, Winston-Salem. She says she is gradually learning the four hundred names of the children she teaches.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Bondurant (Dorothy Siewers, 1927) have moved from Greensboro to Winston-Salem and are living at 512 South Church Street.

Flora Spurgeon, Academy 1922, holds the position of occupational therapist in the King's Daughters Home for Incurables, Louisville, Kentucky. Her address is 1705 Stevens Avenue, Louisville, Kentucky.

Letitia Currie, 1928, is teaching at Davidson, N. C.

Mrs. Henry Hubert (Hattie Yerex, 1891-94) came back to Salem for the first time since she left here as a school girl. She brought her granddaughter with her. Mrs. Hubert's address is 4211 S. 158th Street, Flushing, New York.

Members of the College faculty who spent a part of the summer abroad were Miss Hazel Read, Head of the Department of Stringed Instruments, and Miss Viola Tucker, instructor of piano. Mary Johnson, 1929, Margaret Johnson, class of 1933, Daisy Litz, class of 1932, and Helen Bailey (Academy, 1925) were in the same party with them. Miss Helen Hart Fuller, Head of the Department of Public School Music, and Miss Eleanor Shaffner, Head of the Harp Department, were also travelling in Europe this summer.

BROWN. Macon, Georgia, September 30, 1930, to Mr. and Mrs. John Greene Brown (Mary Lou Boone, 1924), a son, John Rutherford Brown. Mary Lou and her husband live at Charleston, West Virginia.

Deaths

WINKLER. At Winston-Salem, N. C., on September 24, 1930, Mrs. Alice Warren Winkler, age 90.

Mrs. Winkler will be remembered by many Salem students, both as the mother of Miss Claudia Winkler, for many years a teacher of Latin in Salem Academy, and also as one who joined with her husband in operating the famous Winkler Bakery. Winkler's Bakery had its own distinct individuality and the quality of its products will long be remembered by all Salem girls who enjoyed going there for good things to eat. Mrs. Winkler had charge of the bakery until her seventy-fifth year. Since then she has lived with her daughter, Miss Claudia in the home across the Salem Square and her interest in Salem's welfare has never lessened in the years.

On the Campus

In the absence of a Christmas issue of The Record, we can keep the Christmas spirit going through the year by reviewing some of the pre-holiday Campus activities and taking you back to Old Salem once more at this lovely season.

BEFORE THE HOLIDAYS

First Advent address by President Rondthaler, story of Luke made an interesting story.

Impressive Pageant by Salem Academy students, tableau representation of Corregio's "The Holy Night," and a beautifully interpretive singing of traditional Christmas carols from many lands.

Sunday evening Vesper Service, auspices Y.W.C.A., Christmas program of varied songs and recitations.

Home Economics Club Bazar, Japanese novelties, fruit cakes, candies, and Christmas cakes on sale.

Christmas party given by under-classmen for the Seniors, recreation room of the Louisa Wilson Bitting Dormitory, with an inimitable Santa Claus in Dean Vardell.

The traditional Candle Vesper Service, held this year in Memorial Hall.

The Christmas Caroling by the Seniors, greatly interfered with by twenty-four inches of snow which made a truly Christmas setting of the quaint colonial buildings on the Campus.

AFTER THE HOLIDAYS

Varied Y. P. M. Hour on the first Wednesday after the opening, with the Pennsylvania Railroad Quartet, visitors in the city, giving a very enjoyable musical program, and Mrs. Frederic F. Bahnson presenting the "Rag Carpet Weaving Plan," designed to relieve the unemployment situation, which has been recently put into effect by the city Y.W.C.A.

"I. R. S." organization holds first meeting of new year, Mrs. Robert A. McCuiston (Margaret Blair, 1914) speaks on "Etiquette." The Campus Trio, composed of Mary B. Williams, Mary Barger, and Mary Ann Mathewson, render a delightful group of songs.

"Salem Day" at Van Dyke's department store, auspices of the Order of the Scorpion, proves successful, profits to be used in the purchase of the May Day costumes.

Duke University musical clubs make a successful debut in Memorial Hall.

Rules for Basket Ball Tournaments announced. Games planned for Sorority and Intramural teams.

Mr. Curlee, Head of Mathematics, discusses the Einstein Theory of Relativity at the monthly club meeting.

The Faculty strengthens itself in the face of mid-year examinations by enjoying afternoon tea at four-thirty on Wednesday in the faculty parlor, South Hall, and after-dinner coffee on Sundays.

First Academy Vesper Service is held around the Christmas Tree and Putz at the home of President and Mrs. Rondthaler.

Academy students celebrate their return to school with a big party on Saturday night.

Junior Home Economics students exhibit skill in serving a seven-course dinner to members of the faculty, this being a part of their examination requirements.

Christian Service Group meet weekly in the interest of mission work.

Beginning Monday, January 19th, one week of mid-year examinations for everybody on the Campus. Alumnae are cordially invited to return at this time provided they can pass the examinations.

Interesting Report on Salem's Standing

From a recent report of the North Carolina College Conference on standings of senior Colleges and Universities in the State, it is interesting to note that Salem College met, in all respects, the eight principles set forth by the Conference. There were (1) requirements for admission; (2) requirements for graduation; (3) enrollment; (4) financial condition; (5) library; (6) training of faculty; (7) plant and equipment, including science facilities; (8) class size and training schedule. This report concerning the quality and rating of North Carolina Colleges is compiled annually and issued by the State Department of Education as the authorized investigator of the North Carolina College Conference.

Bishop Rondthaler Named Winner of Service Award

In recognition of services for community betterment and better citizenship inspiration covering a period of years, Bishop Rondthaler was recently proclaimed as Winston-Salem's most outstanding citizen.

This recognition and subsequent award of the Grecian cup, symbolic of service and sacrifice, came as a result of the unanimous recommendation of the Committee on Distinguished Community Service Award and its approval by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

"For more than half a century Bishop Rondthaler has been intimately associated with the community life of Winston-Salem. He has given his time and effort unsparingly in the interest of the community. His service has not been spectacular. Much of his labor has been quietly accomplished without the plaudits of the public. His interest has been mostly in the way of moral and spiritual uplift of the people, of the character building interest, and of the maintenance of a high standard of citizenship.

The College Bookstore

Alumnae and other visitors to Salem should not fail to spend part of their time in the College Bookstore, in the Office Building, where Mrs. Best has on display and for sale all sorts of interesting novelties, especially articles pertaining to the College and Academy and to historic features of Old Salem. Cards, books, photographs, pennants, and distinctive mementoes of Salem can be found in the bookstore, and Mrs. Best is always glad to give strangers any information they may desire. Winston-Salem alumnae may also be interested in reading this paragraph and are cordially invited to visit the Bookstore and acquaint themselves with it and its keeper.

Salem Clings to the Old Christmas Customs of the Moravians

The celebration of Christmas is essentially the same throughout the Christian world, but each locality has its own set of precedents for its observance.

THE PUTZ

In Salem, the putz, for one thing, is as much a part of the season, as are Santa Claus and the Christmas tree. "Putz" is no more than the German word for decoration, but the single word, plus seven hundred years of development, brings to our minds visions of the past. We see St. Francis of Assisi, building in his little Italian chapel the entire Christmas story in miniature, so that his poor, illiterate parishoners might, by the aid of the physical representation, come to know better the Bible story which they could not read. How the simple peasants loved the little manger and the camels and the gaily attired Wise Men. No wonder that they kept up the custom long after Good St. Francis had passed away. As the years rolled along, travelling monks took the custom with them into the far land of the barbarians—into Germany and France, and there, too, the people liked to see in miniature the scenes which they were told about at Christmas. Sometimes they would add to the Biblical scene in the putz. There would be a rural scene, showing a farmhouse and chickens; or there would be a city with its houses and churches. Some people left out the nativity scene, but when they did that, they omitted the real putz.

The Moravians brought the delightful custom to Pennsylvania, and from there to Salem—and at each Christmas season, in dozens of homes, you will find, at the foot of the Christmas tree, perhaps on a raised platform, a wonderful putz. There will be the nativity scene—the manger stable and the singing angels; there will be the shepherds and the wise men, and in the distance, the domed roofs of Bethlehem. When you see a putz, stop before it and say, "Here is a bit of the past that has come down to us."

CHRISTMAS CAKES

"Christmas cakes" belong to the traditions of Christmas that we cherish, too. They are delicate, paper-thin, brown spice cookies, cut in all sorts of shapes—hearts and diamonds and moons; maple leaves and oak leaves! flowers and men and women and little boys and girls and all of the animals in the Noah's Ark. They could be made throughout the year, of course, but the anticipation of the savory odor that heralds the first "batch" would be lost. "Christmas cakes" are made with great care from treasured recipes, always at the same time, and always in the same way. They are as much a part of the season as the putz.

THE STAR

A well-known author has called Salem the city "Where the Star Still Shines." In a physical, as well as in a spiritual sense, she could not have chosen a more appropriate name. Wherever you go this year you will see, hanging on porches, the many-pointed red or white stars that, like the putz and "Christmas cakes," are a part of Salem's Christmas. Some of the white ones will have been made by the veteran "star-maker," a genuine artist, now in his nineties, living in a house that looks as if it had been taken from the front of a lovely Christmas card. Others were brought to Salem from far away Herrnhut, in Saxony. The shining, many-pointed star is rich in symbolism.

THE CANDLES

So, too, are the small candles that are given to each person at the Moravian Christmas Lovefeasts. These little beeswax tapers, fragrant and gay in their red paper fringes, are made deep in one of the high-vaulted, stone-paved kitchen-cellar of Salem. They come from the same old molds that "Christmas Candles" have come from for generations; they are made with the same implements, in the same way.

We are particularly fortunate here in "The Christmas City" that we have come to know and to share in the rich heritage of Christmas traditions that were brought to Salem more than a century and a half ago by the first Moravian settlers.—"The Salemite."

The Alumnae Record is greatly indebted to the Staff of "Sights and Insights," the College Annual, for the use of this cut, which gives to all our alumnae the Alma Mater of our present generation of Salem students.

"Salem Day"—February Third

Even in the midst of the strenuous preparations for mid-year examinations, Salem is anticipating the celebration of "Salem Day" on Tuesday, February third, and the visit of delegates from each of the many Branch Associations of Salem Alumnae. Classes will continue throughout the day as scheduled but the girls will find a "time for work and a time for play" and their plans for playtime include several interesting events for the entertainment of the delegates.

This is not to be a day of business meetings for delegates, but one of freedom and enjoyment, a real home-coming. Playtime will begin at three o'clock when a group of students will entertain the visiting alumnae at tea in the living room of the Louisa Wilson Biting Dormitory and will conduct enthusiastic tours of inspection through all of the new buildings, the Academy group, and the Home Economics Practice House, and the newly remodeled old ones, the Chemistry Laboratory, and South Hall. Delegates will wish to see everything there is to see so that they can return with full reports about their ancient Alma Mater to their own Branch Association meetings. And in addition to seeing the new things, alumnae will wish to enjoy a quiet hour of reminiscence in old haunts, because Salem alumnae are like little children who on Christmas morning turn from new toys to the old familiar ones. And they will not be disappointed because at Salem there is always both "old" as well as "new."

By the time the old College bell rings at six o'clock alumnae visitors will feel so very much at home that they will squeeze into the over-crowded dining room and make as much noise chattering as do the modern Salemites. In attending the meeting of Winston-Salem Branch Association, to which all delegates are cordially invited, at eight o'clock, alumnae will find themselves surrounded by the four familiar walls of the College library. Delegates are particularly urged to remain for this meeting, and those who come from so great a distance that they cannot get back home that night, are cordially invited to spend the night. In fact the College girls have promised to "double up" so as to make room for any who are obliged to spend the night. It won't be like sleeping in the old alcoves to be tucked in bed by the proctors in Alice Clewell Building, but it will be a touch of schooldays in the distinctive Salem atmosphere.

And going home, brimming with Salem spirit and Salem news, our alumnae delegates will be eager to make reports to the February meetings of our Branch Associations, so that those who could not revisit Salem in person can at least enjoy hearing all about their Alma Mater.

The Alumnae Office has been notified of the appointment of the following delegates by the Presidents of the Branch Associations to attend the "Salem Day" celebration at Salem College.

Appointments from other Branch Associations may come too late for publication in this issue of the Record, but should be sent to the Alumnae Office as soon as possible.

HIGH POINT: Mrs. Carson Burns (Eula Wall); Mrs. Chase Idol (Ruth Siewers); Mrs. L. J. Ingram (Minnie Perry); Mrs. Virgil Idol (Anne Sue Wilson); and Mrs. David Yow (Winifred Vail).

MOUNT AIRY: Virginia Martin, Isabel Smith; alternates, Mrs. Olivene Porterfield Merritt, Mrs. Rachel Luckenbach Holcomb.

CONCORD: Mrs. Thomas L. Ross (Laura Leslie); Mrs. E. Farrell White (Frances Ridenhour); Mrs. Ernest Robinson (Lois Crowell); and Margaret Hartsell.

CHARLOTTE: Rose Hawkins; Mrs. Van D. Patterson (Ruth Kilbuck); Mrs. George Westbrook (Louise Hines); Mrs. T. M. Abbott (Lydia Lambeth); Mrs. C. B. Ross (Margaret Miller).

KERNERSVILLE: Mrs. W. C. Stafford (Floy Rights); Miss Tilla Harmon, Mrs. King Grogan (Mozelle Culler); Verda Parks; alternates, Mrs. J. P. Adkins (Addie Kerner); Mrs. Clay Ring (Maude Kerner); Ilah Albert, Mrs. Dore Korner Donnell.

GREENSBORO: Mrs. C. E. Leak (Cammie Lindley); Mrs. J. P. Turner (Eva Lindley); Elizabeth Transou, Cam Boren.

NEW BERN: Mary Turner Willis; Bess Hyman Guion.

Delegates must report immediately upon arrival at the Office of the Dean in Alice Clewell Building and sign in the Alumnae Guest Book. Good little Salem Girls have observed this rule for over one hundred and fifty years, and failure to report will be dealt with by the Alumnae Self-Government Association.

Delegates coming from so great a distance as to necessitate spending the night are cordially invited to do so by the College administration, but are urgently requested to notify the Alumnae Secretary of their intentions in this respect so that space is assured them in the dormitory.

The Winston-Salem Branch Association of Salem Alumnae will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday, February 3rd, in the College Library, at eight o'clock. The program committee has planned an interesting evening and all members of this Branch are urged to attend.

The officers request that members be reminded that it was decided a year ago, and put into effect last year, to assess each member ten cents to help defray the expenses of the organization. There will be a basket at the door for this purpose. Don't forget your dime.—Elizabeth Hastings McCorkle, Vice-President.

Make February A "Salem Month" Everywhere

It is the hope of the College administration that each of Salem's many Branch Associations will make plans immediately for meetings in February. Make February a "Salem Month" everywhere. Officers of the various Branches are requested to notify their members of the date and place of meeting. With the appointed delegates to bring the Salem news, a representative from the College is not essential, but Salem is always glad to co-operate in this respect if arrangements are possible. Reports of Alumnae meetings should be forwarded to the Alumnae Office immediately after the meeting for publication in the March issue of the Alumnae Record. News items are also appreciated and subscription fees help the good work along. Salem depends on the officers of each Branch Association to organize Alumnae meetings, and appreciates their efforts in thus continuing their Salem allegiance.

Class Reunions at Commencement 1931

The following classes will hold reunions in June of this year: 1930, 1928, 1914, 1913, 1912, 1911, 1895, 1894, 1892, 1875, 1874, 1873, 1872. The next issue of The Record will contain a list of members of these various classes, and it is hoped that officers and members will cooperate in "boosting" these reunions.

Branch Associations

BALTIMORE, MARYLAND: President, Helen Streett; secretary, Madelin Braun.

Interesting Article by Miss Ferguson

Salem College has been honored in the publication by the North Carolina Historical Review, January issue, of an article exhibiting unusual research and entering upon an unfamiliar and original field by Miss Isabel Ferguson, instructor in the History Department of Salem College.

Miss Ferguson's article is entitled "County Courts in Virginia, 1700-1830."

"Dry" as this topic may seem, it has received enlivening and delightful treatment under Miss Ferguson's skilled and entertaining writing.

She tells the story of the early courts in Virginia and gives color to her narrative with entertaining and interesting items attendant upon the methodical routine of court life.

In the light of present day prices it is interesting to learn from this article that the customary tariffs are as follows: "Rates of Augusta County Ordinaries, (Taverns) March 10, 1746." "For hot diet, 12½c; a cold ditto, 8 and one-third cents; lodging with clean sheets, 4 and one sixth cents; stabling and fodder at night, 8 and one third cents. Rates of Tazewell County Ordinaries (Taverns), 1801. "For a dinner 25 cents, a breakfast, 17 cents. Lodging in clean sheets 8 cents."

Here and There Among the Alumnae

Salem is very proud of its oldest alumna, Mrs. Alice M. Council (Alice Bostwick), of Hickory, N. C., who recently celebrated her 98th birthday. Mrs. Council was born in Sumter, S. C., December 1, 1832, the daughter of Jefferson M. Bostwick and Margaret Bostwick. She was brought up in the old traditions of the Southland, and in her girlhood was one of its reigning belles. She was educated at Salem Female Academy, and while in the Academy became one of the close friends of the girl who later became Mrs. Stonewall Jackson. Although she is nearing the century mile-post, Mrs. Council is active and alert. Her hearing is not as keen as it once was and her eyes have grown a little dim, but aside from that she carries none of the infirmities of one grown old in years. Newspapers and books are her hobbies and she enjoys fancy work.

Margaret Hauser, 1929, of High Point, N. C., is visiting relatives in Panama City.

Mrs. Wm. T. Tyree, 5555 Ridgedale Ave., Dallas, Texas, sends in her subscription fee, expresses appreciation of the Alumnae Record as keeping her in touch with her Alma Mater, and sends greetings to her friends at Salem.

Mrs. Samuel W. Sparger (Florence Wyatt, ex-1912), of 1529 Hermitage Court, Forest Hills, Durham, N. C., writes: "What has happened to the Class of 1912? I know it has been a long time ago but I would love to hear something about the members of this class. I did not graduate with them but always think of them as my class."

The Editor responds, "Come back for Commencement next June and enjoy a Reunion with 1912. It's their year to revisit their Alma Mater and we hope to have them back one hundred per cent."

An interested visitor during the late summer was Mrs. George A. Miller (Margie B. Flake), of 1720 So. Cullom Street, Birmingham, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Lash Gaither (Florence Clement), of Mocksville, N. C., celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on December 1st. "Salem" is particularly interested in this happy event because Mrs. Gaither is a loyal alumna and several other members of the family have been educated at Salem.

Elizabeth Gillespie, 1922, is taking a vacation from the teaching of piano and is studying this year at the National Business College in Roanoke, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bartow Rees (Jane Noble, 1924, of Anniston, Alabama), are now living at The Remsen, 70 Remsen Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Jane was married in Winston-Salem on November 2, 1929, but The Record failed to publish the announcement at the time.

An interesting letter from Annie Sharpe Garrett (Mrs. J. Lee Brown, 115 East Cherry Avenue, Jonesboro, Arkansas), telling about her three boys, Joseph Lee Brown, Jr., and the twins, Stephen and Garrett, age four months, and the future Salem Girl, Anne, and inclosing snapshots of the children. She writes also of the marriage of her sister Eugenia, class of 1928, on November 1st, but does not give us the new name and address.

Annie Sharpe says, "There is always a tender spot in my heart for old Salem. The same spirit simply isn't found anywhere else."

A letter in November from Hazel Briggs Dockery, 1913, of Wadesboro,

N. C., asks for her Salem credits and tells us of her decision to do some further study in order to bring her B.A. degree up to date and to work toward a Master's degree. She gives us the interesting news that Geneva Robinson King, 1913, has a seven-pound baby boy, born November 20th.

A telegram at Thanksgiving from Cappie Henry Craig, Greenwood, Miss., "With tender love my mind travels to the old scenes of pleasure. Would I were there today."

A letter from Mrs. Van Patterson, 1919 Dilworth Road, Charlotte, N. C., (Ruth Kilbuck, ex-1910), says that the idea of each Branch Association sending delegates to Salem for "Salem Day" is a fine one. "I am sending the November issue of The Record to my mother who is improving from a stroke of paralysis of a month ago. We are so pleased over her progress. Like all mothers I lead a very busy life, with a boy and three girls, our Ruth Henry arriving March 12th, 1930. I shall have a good representation in Salem a few years hence. Our boy will be ready for College in two years. A few Sundays ago we had the pleasure of seeing Bishop and Mrs. Rondthaler at the Moravian Church. It is always an inspiration to see someone from Salem.

Salem has recently enjoyed a visit from Col. and Mrs. William C. Harllee (Ella Florence Fulmore, 1897), of New Orleans, La. Mrs. Harllee was very much interested in finding the name of her grandmother and of her great aunt among the records of 1839.

Find enclosed $1 for the renewal of the Alumnae Record. I thoroughly enjoy every issue. I was happy to find another Salem girl here, Eliza Gaston Moore Pollard. Little did we dream in the good old Salem days that we would live only a few blocks apart and see our little boys play together. She has an adorable son aged three years, and my boy is two and a half years. I am hoping to be able to attend the Easter Services this year.—Lois Neal Anderson, (1924), 602 South Coit Street, Florence, S. C.

The November, 1930, Alumnae Record has just been received, the first copy in many months. I changed my residence two years ago and the postman has doubtless been careless in delivering it. I thoroughly enjoy reading of the wonderful progress which Salem is making and I would like to start all over again.

I notice the name of Miss Sallie Vogler in The Record. She and Miss Maria Vogler were the fifth room teachers when I entered the Academy in the spring of 1868. I loved both of them. I am sure Miss Sallie will not remember me. Tell her I was one of the Jackson, Tennessee, crowd of girls, Ella Hunt, Rebecca Hunt, Fannie Traver, and Nannie Smith, all living except Ella Hunt.

It is a joy to look at the likeness, in the portrait published in the November Record, of beautiful Emma Fries. I have remembered her as a veritable Gretchen with her long golden plaits of hair and her sweet, gracious personality.

I do not feel that I have accomplished any great things, but I learned to be happy in Salem and to accept the vicissitudes of life with resignation. I am alone, my immediate family having all passed away.

I am enclosing my check of $1.50 for The Record, to pay back dues and for this year. With love and pleasant memories.—Kate Hayley Emery (Mrs. J. B. Emery, 696 S. McLean St., Memphis, Tenn.)

Miriam Brietz, 1925, of Selma, N. C., is teaching in the high school at Oxford, N. C.

Mary Alta Robbins, 1922, of Rocky Mount, writes, among other things, that she is planning to visit Salem on May Day and bring with her a group of Salem girls. She says, "I have never seen a Salem Girl yet who ever refuses a trip to go back."

Salem Girls of 1907 and 1908 will revisit familiar scenes and experience pleasant memories in reading a letter from Marybell Thomas Petty (Mrs. David Petty, Paul and Beverly Avenues, Bethlehem, Pa.)

This afternoon, in spirit, I have been at Salem, through the corridors, in the dormitories, down to Lovers' Leap, inhaling the fragrance of the old box wood, through the narrow path to the beautiful old spring house, up over the hill where I used to find early hepatica, back of Bahnson's yard where, a bit earlier than this, red spider lilly bloomed—a flower for which I have searched through many catalogues and florist nurseries but can not find, and sometimes wonder if those red spider lillies are a myth. Miss Lou and Miss Chitty each year would allow me to pull three or four for our study room, which was a joy and privilege. I wish it were possible to secure a root, it would be very precious to me.

With the changing of the season, I have a North Carolina homesickness, that seems to get more acute as years go by—perhaps that is age creeping upon me. Today I opened an old trunk that had much of youth packed away in it, and I found '06, '07, '08 "Sights and In Sights" and how I have enjoyed them! My sons, David eleven, and John seven, are now enjoying finding mother through these annuals, so I can't have changed much, though it is twenty-two years since I left Salem and I am thirty pounds heavier. My sons have just declared, that I used to wear too much hair, and my skirts entirely too long. My hair! It was my only redeeming feature, is now bobbed and most plain.

In this deluge of memories I found letters of girls whose Salem days are the same vintage of mine. Helen Wild, her vivid personality still lives—and also some from others that I cherish. Alice Aycock '07, was among these. Kindly send me Alice's address. A letter from Helen Buck, '07—though Helen and I have never really lost track of each other. Out came my herbarium, in perfect condition, bringing strong memories of Miss Clark, and the only good work I did at Salem. (If you have Miss Clark's address, send it to me—I would so enjoy getting in touch with her.) I found a program of one of the last, if not the last Grand Concert held in the old chapel. Miss Garrison read a scene from Romeo and Juliet. I thought then, and still think that Julia Marlow was never better. Mary McMurry and myself were on this program.

This is a long letter, just to request two addresses, but it closes the end of a "South-sick Day." However, I do like Bethlehem, geographically, it is beautiful—I can see Delaware Water Gap from my window on clear days, and always I have a beautiful view of South Mount, and the Poconos. Mountains are different from day to day, and spring and fall are so beautiful, each day a new colorful picture, bring forcefully, to mind—"I will lift up mine eyes unto the Hills, from whence cometh my help."

The South traditionally seems to stand for hospitality. I have often wondered why. It would be impossible for the South to be more cordial, more hospitable than people of Pennsylvania, and I am glad since fate compelled me to adopt a state, that state is Pennsylvania.

Kindly remember me to the Bishop and "Mrs. Bishop." Perhaps it may interest him to know that those years of Latin have stood me good in this flower enthusiastic age—for I remember the Latin names as easily as the common ones, that is due to Bishop. But I like the common names best. Frankly, polemonium repens takes all the romance out of Jacob's Ladder, and Sweet William, smells much sweeter than Dianthus barbatus.

The only members of the faculty that will remember me are Miss Heisler and Miss Barrow, my love to both.

Miss Otelia Barrow gives us news of the Business Department girls.

Former Business students are interested in their classmates and want to know where they are and what they are doing; so in response to a request, we are giving some notes about those of whose activities we know, at least we give our latest information, going back only as far as 1922. For the most part, these girls seem too absorbed in affairs to write to their Alma Mater, though often invited to do so.

Of the class of 1922, Elizabeth Baldridge, now Mrs. C. R. Everhart of Winston-Salem, is employed in one of the banks of this city and has been for quite a while. Mildred Collacott is in an office in a Cleveland, Ohio, skyscraper and is a very busy and responsible person. Harriett Harris, at last accounts, was employed in New York City. Ava Mae Stafford, now Mrs. B. E. McDonough, is busy in the main office of the S. P. U. Company in Charlotte. Mamie Vest is in one of the county offices of Forsyth County, this State. Mildred Hawk, class of 1923, is working in her home town of New Bern. Rubye Smith, we think, is working in Florida. It seems that the girls of '23 have largely been claimed by Cupid. Alice Barbee, class of 1924, has a private secretarial position in the National City Bank, New York City. Doris Eddy is the main dependence in her father's studio and gift shop at Southern Pines. Mary Stephens is working in Roxboro. Many of the class of '24 were busily employed till, like their predecessors of '23, they listened to Cupid's call. Of the class of 1925, we are not informed, except that we know that one member, Mabel Gunter, is steadily employed in her native Winston-Salem. The class of '26 are not quite all married: Charlotte Easton is working in Oxford; Naye Fentress in Greensboro (address 630 Asheboro Street); Lina Blanche Hallyburton in Philadelphia (address 244 S. 46th Street); Edith Harris in Asheville (address 15 Woodland Ave., Gracelyn, Asheville, N. C.); Josephine McManus, we think, is working in Winston-Salem; Maud Phillips has been working steadily in Rocky Mount, N. C.; Ava Wellons, after working for a while in her home town, has we hear, obtained a position in New York City. Pauline Coghill, of '27, is working in Rocky Mount, N. C.; Helen Flynt in Winston-Salem; Marjorie Hallyburton in Philadelphia (address 244 S. 46th Street); Vera Kanoy in High Point; Elizabeth Lowder in Winston-Salem; Willie McDaniel in Winston-Salem; Katherine Newell is employed by the city administration of Orlando, Florida; Elizabeth Rountree works in her native town of Kinston; Sara Sanders is in charge of the stenographers in a large office in Charlotte. Mary Katherine Barbour, of '28, is busy in an office in Martinsville, Va.; Mary Grace Brown is in an insurance office in Winston-Salem; Miriam Bundy is teaching a Business Class in Smithfield; Helen Cason is working in Monroe; Ernestine Hayes in High Point; Sara Mae Henderson is in a bank in her native New Bern; Annie Belle Thompson has been steadily employed in Aberdeen; Edwina Wilson is in charge of stenographers in an office in Charlotte; Anna Redfern is teaching Shorthand and Typewriting in Monroe. Marion Allen, of '29, is working happily in an office in Chicago; Flossie Caudle is in an office in Winston-Salem; Florence Mitchell works very successfully for a firm of lawyers in Statesville; Iva Pritchett has a nice position in Greensboro; Jennie Lee Van Hook has been in an insurance office in Winston-Salem ever since leaving school; Louise Williams is responsibly employed in her native Wilmington and is enthusiastic about her work; Margaret Woolwine, after a year in a lawyer's office, is now, we hear, studying law in Washington, D. C. Margaret Cook, of '30, has a position in Charlotte; Sara Crowell is assisting her father in his office in Concord; Lucille Dunn is the "right hand" of a busy lawyer in High Point; Dorothy Etheridge is secretary to the Principal of Salem Academy; Adele Hicks is attending Salem College this year; Lavinia McLean is secretary to the President of the Durham College of Commerce, and also teaches Business subjects there; Adele Pannill is working in Martinsville, Va.; Estelle Roberts has a good position in Winston-Salem; Elizabeth Thomas is also employed in Winston-Salem; Elizabeth and Martha Williams are working in Hickory. Elizabeth's position is at present a part-time one, with a lawyer. In 1930 it has been more difficult for the girls to find positions than in any other year of our knowledge; but it is true in all lines of work.

President and Mrs. Rondthaler and members of the administration and faculty desire to express their appreciation and interest in the many Christmas greetings sent by alumnae and students of Salem. These greetings bring back happy memories and keep Salem in touch with its many, many daughters.

Dix Plan Reunions, 1914

The following list of reunion classes is known to need many corrections with respect to names, addresses, omissions, etc., and the Alumnae Office will greatly appreciate your help in this respect. Please read through the list carefully, making any corrections that you see are needed, send your corrected information to the Alumnae Office, Salem College, so that the files here may be changed and a correction inserted in the next issue of The Record.

The next Alumnae Record, which will be edited about March 15th, will contain the 1895, 1894, 1893, and 1892 lists, also those of 1875, 1874, 1873, and 1872; 1911, 1912 and 1913.

It does not seem necessary to publish the lists for 1930 and 1928, since information on these is quite up to date, and there have not been as many changes.

Salem wants a large group from each Class back for Commencement this June and counts on the cooperation of alumnae in correcting these lists, so that the office may get in direct touch with all members of respective classes.

Editor: ALICE KEENEY RONDTHALER

The greater part of this issue of the Alumnae Record is lovingly dedicated to the memory of the late Bishop Edward Rondthaler who, from his first connection with the community of Salem in October, 1877, to the day of his death, Saturday January 31st of this year, was intimately associated with Salem College and Salem Academy.

To the many alumnae who knew him and esteemed his friendship, the reprints here presented will crystalize valued memories.

Student Tribute

It is with a heartfelt sense of a genuine loss that the girls of Salem College receive the passing of our beloved teacher and friend, Bishop Rondthaler. His very presence spelled to us the benediction of a noble and unselfish life enriched by years of devoted service to his beloved church and her interests. His passing is a bereavement to many people of all classes, but we alone feel most of all that from our midst has been called a dear friend. For it was as a friend that we knew him best. It was his enthusiastic interest in us and in our well-being that endeared him most to each one of us. It was an inspiration to see his gentle kindly face light up with a reverent enthusiasm as he talked to us weekly in our Bible classes. He did not make us feel that we were being lectured to, but instead, that out of the fullness of his own deep experience, he was giving to us an intimate knowledge of our Lord. Because in his simple earnest way, he told us of the Christ he served so faithfully and well, we carry away in our hearts a new wisdom and a reverent memory. Had he taught us nothing material, we would still have been immeasurably bettered simply by the personal and intimate contacts with this great and good man. His greatness and goodness were not thrown at one and proclaimed abroad. That was not Bishop's way. He lived his greatness and goodness throughout his life. No one was more thoughtful and considerate; no one more genuinely kind and sympathetic; no one more humble and simple. It was Bishop's wish that he might know each of his girls personally; although this was impossible because of the size of his classes, the wish is with us, and we love him the more for it.

We cannot help mourning that one of our best friends has passed beyond, but we know that now he is happy, and resting from a long and useful service.

We will not soon forget the gentle face lighted up always with a sort of inner godliness, and how often he said "Let us do it together"—and the memory of his life and his teachings will remain an inspiration to us throughout all our own lives.—(The Salemite),

Bishop Rondthaler was the one hundred and eighty-fourth bishop of the Unitas Fratrum or Moravian Church, reckoning from 1467. He came of a long line of ministers and missionaries recognized for their loyalty and devotion to Christ and the Church. He was born in Schoeneck, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, July 24, 1842. He was educated at Nazareth Hall, Nazareth, Pennsylvania, and the Moravian College and Theological Seminary at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. He spent a year of study abroad at the University of Erlangen.

On October 1, 1867, he was united in marriage with Miss Mary E. Jacobson, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. John Christian Jacobson of Bethlehem, Pa. He served for some time as pastor of the Brooklyn Moravian Church, later as pastor of the First Moravian Church of Philadelphia. Answering a call to the Southern Province of the Moravian Church, he arrived at Salem on October 19, 1877. He served as pastor of the Home Church for thirty-one years. From 1884 to 1888 he assumed charge of Salem Female Academy and to the very end of his life was head of the Biblical Literature Department of Salem College.

In April 1891 he was consecrated a Bishop, and in the exercise of this sacred office he was permitted to continue actively until the last Sunday of his life. He died on Saturday, January 31, 1931. His age was 88 years, 6 months, and 7 days.

Account of the Bishop's Last Days

by Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler

On the Sunday before his death, father was as active and busy as ever, spending most of the day with Calvary congregation and triumphantly dedicating their great church entirely free from debt. The work at Calvary had been of his founding years and years ago, when he started a little preaching center in what was termed "reservation wood," where Calvary now stands.

On Monday he met as usual with the Moravian ministers of the Salem Congregation to whom he was a father and guide, as you well know.

Nearly all of Tuesday was spent in the Day of Prayer at Fairview, for which congregation his records show that he had that morning spent an hour and a half in intercessory prayer. On Wednesday, as he had contracted a cold, Dr. Pfohl, his physician, urged him to remain in bed through the later morning and afternoon. This he cheerfully took as a holiday rest, sleeping and reading the New York Times, and then asking for the greatly beloved book "Nicholas Nickleby."

Next day he was definitely ill, though not suffering beyond a racking cough. By afternoon and night periods of unconsciousness were ensuing, but about mid-night on Thursday he roused himself and asked me to turn on the light at the head of his bed and then motioned for something he desired, which I could not at first understand, until he very deliberately said—"Bring me THE BOOK with which I have always been accustomed to close the day." I do not think he was able to read, but he held the Bible open in his hands until he fell asleep. After that he was entirely unconscious to the end.

The emotion of the Community was unparalleled. One great group of colored people had two days before gathered somewhere in the eastern part of Winston-Salem to hold a long and devout period of prayer on his behalf. The courts were suspended, the stores were closed at the time of the funeral, and the State Legislature then in session in both houses adjourned out of respect to his life and influence, although, of course, he had never held any place of public service under the State.

A great tide of messages swept in almost beyond counting.

As it was impossible for those in total who wished to see him before he was buried to come into our house, his body was taken to the Home Church and all day long without interruption hosts of people poured by, white and colored, young and old, town and country. This was Sunday, and there were no services held in the Home Church. It was incredible as one saw him lying on a couch beneath the pulpit that he was other than smilingly asleep. The officers of the church stood guard through this long and affectionate period of reverence and respect. Beside him was the great Community Cup which had two weeks before been awarded him by the vote of the Chamber of Commerce for Distinguished Public Service.

Sunday was a beautiful day in the skies, and so was Monday. The funeral service was like the early Easter occasion. Tides of people from everywhere full of the memory of his triumphant proclamation on Easter morning of the Risen Lord, gathered hours before, and the church was filled, as were also the Rondthaler Memorial Building and the Memorial Hall of the College, in which broadcasting connections had been arranged. Also, through private kindness additional broadcastings were improvised in the square so that persons at a distance or arriving late could share in the service. Then, on top of all this, the service in the church was put on the air by our local broadcasting station, WSJS.

The ministers of the Province were pall bearers, serving in three shifts, from the house to the church, from the church to the funeral car, and from the car to the grave. There was no address. The great hymns of triumph were sung, "Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings," "Jesus makes my heart rejoice," and "Ten thousand times ten thousand."

The innumerable flowers were distributed upon the ancient surrounding graves so that this oldest section of the graveyard was raidant.

Beneath his pillow we placed his Hebrew Bible, because it was with that Book that he invariably began each day.

In the attending clergy were included the Father of the Greek Church, the Hebrew Rabbi, and the Roman Catholic Priest. The funeral was rather the expression of Christian triumph than of heart broken sorrow.

He lies buried in the first lot that was ever used in the Moravian graveyard in a reserved space just at the entrance to the central gate, with provision that my mother in due time may sleep just across the walk. A short distance away Marshall (William Fredrick Marshall, the founder of Salem) and his wife rest in the same juxtaposition. A little way beyond them in line are the graves of Bishop Herman, Bishop Bahnson and Bishop de Schweinitz.

Extract from the Memoir

by Dr. J. Kenneth Pfohl

"Looking more closely into the life of our beloved Bishop for some of the secrets of his remarkable success and achievements, we find first, that he was always a diligent and earnest student. He loved books, but he loved life no less, and he was ever questing for knowledge. A man of broad and liberal education, he had formed most careful habits of study and through painstaking effort had trained and developed his powers of memory to an unusual degree. To him an evening or a rainy day in his library with his favorite books was a rare delight. He found great men to be profitable companions. He thought their thoughts after them. He became conversant with the best in literature. He loved the classical and found reaction and joy in reading his favorite books again and again. Characters lived before him. They took on flesh and blood, and he entered into their experiences of joy and sorrow as though they were his very own.

He had unusual language gifts also. His Hebrew Bible, the Greek Testament, the Latin Vulgate were always near at hand, and in his early morning devotions he always read his portion from one of the originals. (At the age of eighty-three years he mastered the Arabic alphabet, a feat he had found impossible at the age of twenty-three.)

To an unusual degree, too, he had learned to use fragments of time. The carefully kept memoranda of the days which were always on his desk reveal how thoroughly he had laid to heart the exhortation of the Scriptures: "Redeeming the time because the days are evil." He often said, "My time is not mine but God's. I must be careful how I use it."

Our Bishop, through his wide reading, became a very versatile man, as much at home in the circle of educators, scientists, literary men and women or philosophers as among theologians and churchmen. And yet his love of the literary and intellectual did not keep him from close human contacts. He was ever a close student of human nature and loved to rub elbows with his fellows. In the offices of his business friends, in the fellowship of civic clubs or in the homes of the poor and needy, he was always finding something of interest and the ready sympathy and humanness of his own personality made quick contact with men and women everywhere. He loved his fellowman and had a passion to serve him.

He was also a great lover of children and saw in them always the hope of the Church. If he could win a child for the Lord, he had gained a life of service for Christ and he worked with that end always in view. He developed his pastorate around that idea, exerting himself to make the church attractive to the children. How graphically he pictured the Bible characters! How wonderfully real he made the Bible stories! Who that ever heard him can forget the experience? The Young People's Meeting of a generation ago, when the great hymns of the church were required to be repeated, from memory, and when he led us through the Bible, story by story, from the Creation to Christ and the Church are more than blessed memories. They are part of the works which follow him and will follow.

The Children's Christmas Love-feast, the Service for little folks on the last afternoon of the Old Year, the Service connected with the Children's Covenant Day were under his direction and friendly and happy personality, made occasions of great blessing which in some manner seemed to have caught the very spirit of the Saviour's words "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of heaven."

Another feature of interest in his contact with children was his distribution among them of little cards of scripture texts or papers of devotional and religious reading. In town and country there is many a little card or paper treasured as sort of sacred memento because "Bishop Rondthaler gave it to me." Like his Saviour, he was a friend of little children.

But the chief secret of his life lay in the fact that he was a man of prayer and of painstaking Christian living, endeavoring to adorn the Gospel of Jesus Christ which he preached.

During the more than fifty-three years of life among us he sought to exemplify the teachings of Christ and to measure up to the standards of Christian living which he held up to others. And in his life, as the years went by, more and more of the fruits of the Spirit became evident,—“Love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance.”

Bishop Rondthaler was one of the kindest and most considerate of men in dealing with his co-laborers. His commands were rather loving requests. He had great abhorrence of anything that savored of officialdom and harsh command. His most frequent exhortation was “Let us do it together.”

He was a man who exerted great charity towards his brother ministers and was ready with sympathetic aid to come to their assistance. And in his daily prayer, exercising what he conceived to be the highest function of his Bishop's office, he brought them and their work before the throne of God's grace. It was he who in peculiar manner undergirded the work and life of our Province with prayer and while in many ways we shall miss him, it is here that we shall miss him most.

It was but natural that with the passing of the years and the character of the life and service which he gave there should come to him generous and honored recognition. Already in 1880, the University of North Carolina conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity, and in 1918, in further recognition of his scholarship, the degree of Learned Doctor of Laws. When in 1913, the Home Church erected its new building, for Sunday School and other young people's purposes, desiring to recognize his long interest in and valuable service to the young people of the congregation, it named it The Rondthaler Memorial Building, and later had placed in it the Bishop's portrait, that future generations might look upon his kindly face and come to know the manner of man he was. And during the very last month of his life the Distinguished Service Award, given by the Chamber of Commerce to that citizen recognized by its Committee of Awards as having rendered the most outstanding community service was awarded to him to the great joy of his many friends in church and community. It appeared as the crown of appreciation on the part of the citizenship of Winston-Salem for a life of loving and devoted service.

“Servant of God! well done,
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy.”

Tributes and Reminiscences

"Our beloved Bishop and the Friend of all men and women has gone to his eternal rest, passing from life to more life and from peace to greater peace. While here he dispensed the Lord's Bounty to countless souls. Where he is he drinks 'the new wine of the Father's Kingdom.' We know your deep sense of loss, but we also know your triumphant sense of gain. Above and beyond the manifestations of sympathy there is the strong assurance that the soul of the righteous servant is in the keeping of his God."—S. Parkes Cadman, Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"I am deeply distressed to hear of the death of Bishop Rondthaler. North Carolina has lost one of her most distinguished and most loved sons. In behalf of the University, and personally, I wish to express our deepest sympathy and wish for you the spiritual consolation of his noble and useful life, so long a benediction to our State."—Frank Graham, President, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C.

"In the passing of dear Bishop a great mind and a loving heart are stilled, but a fine example is left his family and friends."—Wm. and Kate Bitting Reynolds, Orlando, Florida.

"Only a few days ago I heard of dear Bishop Rondthaler's going home. I wish I could express something of the sadness that I felt when I read the clipping that my aunt sent me. He was such an important part of Salem to me that I cannot imagine the place without him. How much they will miss, those girls who will never know his personal influence! I would not take anything for the memory of the Y.P.M.'s, the Advent and Lenten chapel talks, the Bible classes, and that clear ringing voice whose message could be heard over the vast throng of people on Easter morning, 'The Lord is Risen.' He was always so radiant, so happy. In the last ten years since I have known him, the words, 'Christian Saint' have meant to me Bishop Rondthaler. With all the sorrow that must come with the giving up of a loved one, isn't there something wonderful and triumphant in the passing from earth of one who lived so finely? I know I cannot say any more than has been said by the hundreds from whom you must have received messages, whose lives have been touched by his. But I want you to know at least something of what I feel about that life that has meant so much to every Salem Girl who has known him."—Sarah Herndon, 524 West College, Tallahassee, Florida.

"I loved Bishop Rondthaler first, as a teacher, then as a friend and finally as my bishop. Some of the sweetest memories I have of my days at Salem are those hours spent with him. His was a beautiful life, an example, shown particularly, I think, in his 1930 Memorabilia. He saw so many things during last year for which to be thankful, while others saw only trouble.

I am planning to attend Commencement and I had looked forward to seeing him. I have not been to Salem for Commencement but once since I was confirmed in 1922. That was such a sweet service and made stronger the bond of friendship. Salem will not seem the same without the dear Bishop, but we will be comforted, submissive to God's will."—Ruth Credle, Pantego, N. C.

"It was a privilege to have known him, and to know him was to admire and revere. His dynamic personality, his wisdom, his tenderness, his vision, his spirituality, made him as unforgettable as Phillips Brooks."—Ellen Yerrington, Cambridge, Mass.

"He has left to all of us the priceless heritage of a beautiful life, something to treasure and to inspire us through the years. I am constantly living over my years at Salem. Sometimes they seem only yesterday! And when I look back my associations with Bishop Rondthaler are always among my sweetest memories. He had such a gentle, lovable nature. In his going I feel that I, too, have lost a real friend."—Doris Cozart Schaum, Wilson, N. C.

"His passing will be felt by this entire section. Few men have wielded the good influence and enjoyed the love and confidence and enviable reputation of Bishop Rondthaler."—Frank Hanes Schoolfield, Daville, Va.

"As you know, we, his old girls, loved him dearly, and no one can ever know of the influence he had on our lives, when as little girls we told him our childish troubles, on through our school life, and afterwards. Those wonderful uplifting spiritual visits to his study will always remain with us as a precious memory."—Emma R. Tighe, 1121 Henderson Street, Columbia, S. C.

"He was president of the Academy when I first went there and I loved and admired him. I think he influenced me more than any one except my father. I have wanted for several years to come back to hear him read again the Easter service. His was a wonderful life, so beautifully lived, so spiritual."—Lida Fain 1324 Lumpkin Street, Atlanta, Ga.

"And so the great, good man is gone to his place. Wherever it is, he will make it beautiful. I congratulate you upon having him here so long."—Wm. Louis Poteat, Wake Forest College, Wake Forest, N. C.

"My contact with him during my Salem Days was one of the main constructive forces in building my own life. Those memories still live in my heart and have served me in my own sorrow as a guiding star."—Mrs. W. S. Copeland (Grace B. Cunningham), Newport News, Virginia.

"I shall never forget when I first went to Salem, as a young homesick mountain girl from Wilkesboro, how dear Bishop with his wonderful smile and cheery greeting encouraged me to carry on, and how I learned to love and esteem him during those school years."—Mrs. J. A. Gaither (Cora Cowles), Newton, N. C.

"My dearest thoughts of him were the instruction classes he always held about Easter time. I started to these classes when I was a little girl and we would simply overflow his study, sitting in every available chair, and about half of us on the floor. Then he would talk to us about the finer things of life, as only he could talk. He is gone, but his influence will go on, and on, and on. A girl simply could not go to Salem and not be helped by coming into contact with him."—Mrs. A. B. Noel, (Lillian Crews), Henderson, N. C.

"I remember him so well from my student days at Salem, and I can but say that he was truly a refining influence upon my life. Most of the Bible I know, I learned from him. His kind words and consecrated life added greatly to his teaching of the Holy Scriptures. It is hard to realize that he is gone, but in his passing the one thought uppermost in my mind is that of immortality. He has now entered into that larger life which our Savior chose to call eternal."—Mary Lee Greene Rozzelle, Chapel Hill, N. C.

"A great man has been among us and has left us a great legacy, in which I am a sharer."—W. D. Moss, Chapel Hill, N. C.

"My mind goes back to my days of Bible study under his blessed teachings during my years at Salem. Many times I have been grateful for that privilege, along with many others that came to me there."—Janie Sherrill Kirkwood, Bennettsville, S. C.

I remember a day in my Freshman year when we all gathered for Bible class, more or less afflicted with spring fever because of the balminess of the weather. Bishop seemed to sense our condition and to sympathize. For instead of rebuking us as we deserved, he took the whole class down into his lovely old garden and, with his own hands, picked a rose for each.

Again there stands out a class day when Bishop had to excuse himself from the room in order to get a drink of water to stop his cough. He came back bearing carefully a full glass which he carried to a girl in the rear, with the courteous speech that he had noticed that she too had been troubled by coughing.

In just this last period of examination, he went all the way up to his house to get cough drops for the coughers; and when he announced his intentions and the whole room burst out coughing, Bishop enjoyed the joke more than anyone and beamed all over his kindly face.

I remember writing home my Freshman year that Bishop Rondthaler seemed to be the only teacher who understood our fear of first examinations and cared whether we passed or not. For he sent for a committee of us to come to his house, comforted us with Christmas cakes and then carefully went over each point of difficulty giving us an outline to study by, and charging us to report it all to our classmates.

The last vivid memory I have of Bishop Rondthaler is of the night before the Christmas holidays as he came out on the snowy porch to show his appreciation of our carol singing. And I love to think of him as he stood there with "Mrs. Bishop" by his side and sang with us—the candle light making a halo of his soft white hair and throwing into relief the beauty of his saintly face.—A Student.

"He has been thru all my life so closely associated with the sweetest memories of my school days and I know that his passing carries profound sorrow to the hearts of thousands of pupils who received their education under his care and guidance."—Mrs. Mary Motley Williams, Reidsville, N. C.

"I can picture him now as I was privileged to see him on so many occasions, all so varied in character. He was always consistently himself whether the occasion was gay or most solemn. Many will speak their esteem of his character and service in so many, many fields. To each of us, whatever our relationship with him and in whatever role or capacity we knew him, he was immediately impressive as a born leader, a man of the widest possible sympathies, with profound knowledge of human nature, unsparing devotion and endurance, intensity of spirit, simplicity of life, and unswerving loyalty to the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

"May I say that I am grateful for the privilege of having known him and served under him? Bishop Rondthaler preached my ordination sermon; he corresponded with me in the West Indies; he encouraged me time and time again in work at Salem; he always inspired me by his example. He was never too busy for an interview or just a happy conversation. No one could have been kinder. His industry was prodigious, and whenever I think of the group of Moravian buildings on Church Street, I shall think of his home and of the many times I passed it by day or night and not infrequently could see him reading or writing with a diligence which was both an unconscious rebuke and an inspiration.

"It is well that Winston-Salem recently decorated him as a distinguished citizen, but far beyond the confines of the local city his name, his teachings, his example will be cherished by multitudes."—Edwin J. Heath, Moravian College for Women, Bethlehem, Pa.

Affiliation with Salem

The relation of the late Bishop Rondthaler to Salem College and Salem Academy really goes back to the year 1884 when he succeeded Rev. J. T. Zorn in the Presidency of Salem College and Salem Academy.

This was a time of almost haggard depression in educational finances in North Carolina and it is no reflection upon "Salem" to remember that the Institution was in reality trembling in the balance. In spite of its already great age the financial difficulties were so staggering that even its best friends freely predicted that the days of Salem College and Salem Academy were now surely numbered.

Into this heavy situation Bishop, then known as Dr. Rondthaler, entered, retaining at the same time the full responsibility of the pastorate of Salem Congregation. It was his unshaken conviction that "Salem" retained and could depend upon the loyalty of its scattered alumnae and that the clear duty had been laid upon him to reawaken their alumnae consciousness. To this he gave himself with unremitting devotion, traveling persistently throughout four or five neighboring States in days when travel was slow and very difficult and visiting a large number of scattered alumnae to acquaint them with the needs and opportunities of Salem College and Salem Academy.

Time after time he would return home late Saturday night and carry a full day's Sunday responsibilities in the pulpit and be off again early in the week for this program of enthusiasm.

Slowly but very steadily the results were in evidence and from a distressingly low ebb of attendance and support the Institution gained at one and the same time numbers and a rebirth in the affections and loyalties of its former students.

Naturally such activities gave him an unquenchable devotion to the cause of the College and Academy and developed lifetime friends amongst people whom he would probably never otherwise have known, since their ties with "Salem" had been in considerably earlier years.

As President of the Board of Trustees, the late Bishop Rondthaler never missed a meeting when he was anywhere within reach and kept to the very end a most vigorous and sincere contact with the life and work of the school. As is well known, he taught his three classes in Bible with great devotion to within one week of his death. In addition, he was a loyal attendant upon all occasions of student and faculty interest. His advancing years were never taken by him as an excuse for absenting himself from student gatherings, to which he was so constantly invited.

For fifty years he conducted the weekly Young People's Meetings with his characteristic and inspiring Bible talks and with his enthusiastic encouragement in the memorization of the great Christian hymns. In quite recent years his addresses were uttered upon the special periods of Advent and Lent and the knowledge that he was again to speak at Young People's Meeting was an occasion of great joy to students and faculty alike.

Nearly every day for more than fifty years he walked happily amongst the trees and flowers of the Pleasure Grounds and he knew its changing moods in all seasons and conditions. Just a few days before his death a deep snow rendered the Pleasure Grounds unusually beautiful and he took happy opportunity as was his custom to tramp up and down the hills in the face of the snow storm, thrilled and happy over its beauty and the stimulus of its rigors.

In the old-fashioned Courtyard adjoining South Hall the undesignated fountain familiar to us all remains as representing in its very modest cost the entire salary which Bishop Edward Rondthaler received for the years of his Presidential service, and which he immediately returned in full to the institution.

Branch Association Meetings

The Western North Carolina Branch of Salem Alumnae met on February 18th at the home of Mrs. Thomas Allan Curry (Lillie Jackson), 54 Charlotte Street. Miss Opal Brown was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Curry who has held the office for three years; Mrs. J. T. Sevier (Caroline Rollins), was elected secretary.

Only fifteen were present, many being detained by illness. Mrs. T. F. Malloy (Minnie Fagg), and Mrs. Mark W. Brown (Bonnie Jean Johnston), spoke lovingly of Bishop Rondthaler and told of their attendance upon his funeral services. Miss Mary Wilder sang one of the Bishop's favorite hymns. Interesting reminiscences of old days at Salem were given.

Tea was served by Miss Opal Brown, Miss Velma Cline, and Mrs. John Shaw McGirt.

LEAKSVILLE

On Tuesday, February 17th, a number of Salem alumnae met at the home of Mrs. Philip Ray (Bessie Clark). The meeting was opened with the singing of the new "Alma Mater," with Mrs. A. D. Ivie (Annie McKinnie) at the piano. A letter was read from Alice Keeney Rondthaler, Alumnae Secretary, which brought about the immediate result of a movement long cherished by our local girls, that is the organization of a Leaksville-Spray Salem Alumnae Association. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. A. D. Ivie; Vice-President, Mrs. Harry Fagge (Lucile Reid); Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Philip Ray. Names on the roll in addition to these officers were: Mrs. Reuben Reid, (Lucile Reid); Mrs. Kenan Costeen (Pearl Roberts); Mrs. S. L. Martin, Jr., (Katherine Marshall); Mrs. Richard Tuttle (Florence Hobbs); Mrs. Robert Sherwood (Cynthia Roberson); Mildred Martin; Margaret Marshall; Helen Smith; Anne Taylor; Elizabeth Heiner; Anne Hairston; Kathleen Ivie.

Following the business session, Lucile Reid Fagge talked interestingly of the new buildings at Salem. Anne Hairston gave a most beautiful tribute to Bishop Rondthaler.

The remainder of the hour was spent informally, each one present giving some reminiscence of Salem Days. The meeting adjourned after singing the hymn, "Saviour again to Thy dear Name we raise."

Following adjournment the hostess served a delicious salad course.

NEW BERN

The New Bern Salem Alumnae met on February 27th with Mrs. Albert T. Willis (Mary Turner). First came the roll call, then the minutes of the last meeting, and a discussion about interesting the high school seniors who contemplate college entrance, in Salem College.

After the business routine, a brief memorial service for Bishop Rondthaler was held, using one of the familiar Offices of Worship, and reading several of the tributes paid him by students in "The Salemite." These struck a responsive chord for they expressed the sentiments of all Salem girls who had been privileged to know the Bishop.

The guests were invited to the dining room for tea, sandwiches, and cakes, little Mary Turner assisting her mother in serving.

The correction of the New Bern Alumnae list, sent by the President of the Branch, discloses the following news: Miss Nina Basnight, 57 New Street, is teaching music; Sallie Hunter Ball, 1929, teaches third grade and music in Wilson, N. C.; Mrs. Pearl McCrary has moved from New Bern to Rutherfordton, N. C.; Margaret Henderson works at "The Vogue Shop"; Sara Mae Henderson has worked in Raleigh during the State Legislature session; Mrs. W. S. Bernard (Addie Mitchell, 1911-12), lives at Chapel Hill; Emily Pollock is Secretary of the New Bern City Schools; Lillian Foy is stenographer at the Eastern Bank & Trust Company; Mary Whitehurst, 1919-20, is organist at the Methodist Church; Julia Whitehurst is stenographer for "Guion & Guion," attorneys; Mrs. Ned Griffin (Elsie Gregory, ex-1921), lives in Elizabeth City. Mrs. G. Allen Ives (Dorothy Gregory, ex-1921), 405 Rhem Avenue, Mrs. Albert T. Willis (Mary Turner, ex-1914), Mrs. Hayward Guion (Bess Hyman, ex-1914), Mrs. L. J. Moore (Maude Foy, 1903), and Mrs. W. B. Blade, Jr., (Grace Munger, 1915-16) are busy housekeepers.

The Alumnae Record hears with sympathy of the fact that Bess Hyman Guion has recently lost her father, Mr. T. G. Hyman, and that Mrs. W. B. Massey, formerly of New Bern, now of Richmond, Virginia, has just lost her mother.

The New Bern Association sends us word also of the death of Mrs. E. H. Claypoole (Emily Dewey, 1859-1861), who attended Salem 1859-60-61, on January 19, 1931, age eighty-four years. She had been an interested alumna and an appreciative member of the New Bern Branch Association.

HENDERSON

The Henderson Branch of Salem Alumnae, including members from Oxford, Warrenton, Franklinton, and Townsville, held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. S. E. Jennette (Anne Tyson), with Mrs. A. B. Noel (Lillian Crews), associate hostess, on February 20th.

After the roll call and reading of the minutes of the last meeting, resolutions were passed both for our late president, Mrs. Rives Taylor (Ella Brodie Jones) who passed away in January, and for Bishop Rondthaler, beloved of every Salem girl.

The program opened with the singing of several hymns, favorites of the Bishop. Selections from the "Salemite" were read, and many personal tributes and reminiscences given by those present.

A feature of the afternoon was a contest consisting of familiar scenes in and around the College, cut in sections to be assembled. Mrs. Jere Zollicoffer was the winner and was presented a silver letter opener bearing the Salem Seal. Souvenirs for each of the guests were programs tied with the college colors with a small Salem pennant attached.

Refreshments of orange ice, topped with whip cream, and small orange cakes, further carried out the Salem color scheme.

The officers elected for the following year were: Mrs. A. B. Noel, of Henderson, President; Miss Nannie Bessent, of Oxford, Secretary.

HIGH POINT

The High Point Alumnae Association met at the home of Mrs. W. Chase Idol (Ruth Siewers), on March 4th, with a large attendance. Mrs. R. T. Pickens (Blanche Armfield), read a sketch of the life of Bishop Rondthaler, and individual tributes were paid the beloved Bishop by many of the former students present.

During the business session Miss Margaret L. Hauser was elected president, Mrs. J. E. Wills, vice-president, and Louise Salisbury, secretary.

KERNERSVILLE

The Kernersville Branch of the Salem College Alumnae Association held its annual meeting on March 5, 1931, at the home of Miss Tilla Harmon with Mrs. Alta Pinnix Smith and Verda Parks as associate hostesses. The meeting opened with the singing of "Salem Alma Mater." The program, which was a memorial service to Bishop Rondthaler was begun with his favorite hymn, "Jesus Makes My Heart Rejoice." This was followed by the use of Office of Worship XXII, also a favorite of the Bishop's. Resolutions were read by Mrs. Mozelle Culler Grogan and a short sketch of Bishop Rondthaler's life was read by Mrs. Lucille Joyner. Mrs. Nancy Ramseur Allen then sang as a solo, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." A splendid tribute to Bishop Rondthaler, which had appeared as an editorial in "The Greensboro Daily News," was read by Mrs. Louise Culler Parks. Another very beautiful tribute sent in by Miss Kathleen Korner was read by Lucia Linville. This was followed by each member present giving informally, some happy memories of Bishop Rondthaler. Mrs. Allen then spoke very fittingly of the influence of Mrs. Rondthaler on the life of her husband, Bishop Rondthaler. This was a very beautiful tribute to the living wife and the husband who had passed to his reward. Mrs. W. S. Stafford, giving as a watchword "Remember others" gave Bishop Rondthaler's idea of remembering others. She mentioned especially, his friendship with Dr. H. A. Brown. After this, all stood in a silent tribute to the memory of Bishop Rondthaler.

A short business session followed the program during which committees were appointed and the following officers were elected for the new year: Mrs. W. S. Stafford, president; Mrs. Dore Korner Donnell, vice-president; Mrs. Mozelle C. Grogan, secretary and treasurer. The list of members was revised and prospective students for next year discussed.

Class Reunions Commencement 1931, May 30th to June 1st

Under the Dix Plan of Reunions, the following classes will meet at Salem for Commencement. Members of a class include those who graduated and also those who entered with the class but were here only one, two or three years. In many cases these "ex-members" are our most loyal alumnae and we count them "Salem Girls" belonging to the Class with which they would have graduated had they remained for the full course.

Class officers should get in touch with all members of their respective classes, urging them to come back for the Reunion at Commencement.

Any corrections which you can make in these lists will be greatly appreciated by the Alumnae Office so that we may keep our files up to date.

Members of the Classes of 1871, 1872, 1873 and 1874 are invited back to Commencement as honor guests of Salem College. As our addresses for these years, by classes, are very inaccurate and out of date, we would appreciate hearing from members of 1871, 1872, 1873, and 1874 by personal letter, stating whether or not they can be with us May 30th to June 1st.

The Class of 1930 is expected back for Commencement with 100% attendance. It is unnecessary to print the addresses of members of this class, since there have been but few changes since their recent graduation.

Important Notice

On account of the passing of Bishop Rondthaler, plans for the celebration of Salem Day at the College on February 3rd were abandoned, and the meeting of the Winston-Salem Branch indefinitely postponed. One of the features of the Salem Day occasion was to have been the delegates from each of our several Branch Associations. For a long time we have hoped to have our Branch Associations officially represented at some one of the annual outstanding Salem occasions, and President Rondthaler asks me to urge the officers of our Salem Alumnae Associations everywhere to appoint four or six delegates to attend Commencement, May 30th to June 1st. It is our hope that the President of each Association can be present, together with several other representatives. The Commencement program includes many interesting and enjoyable features, of both a business and pleasure nature.

Will the leaders of our Branch Associations, reading this message, make definite plans for the desired number of delegates to represent their respective Branch at Commencement, and as soon as possible, notify the Alumnae Secretary of the names of such delegates.

Salem's One Hundred and Fifty-ninth Commencement

Alumnae who read the Commencement program on the opposite page will note that in spite of the old age of their Alma Mater, her Commencement occasions still follow many familiar traditions. There will be no "Commencement" issue of The Alumnae Record this year, and therefore, for the benefit of those who cannot be with us during the closing days of the college year, we will give a brief account of anticipated events.

The "Transfer of Cap and Gown" ceremony is one of dignity and solemnity, the seniors giving to the juniors their insignia of leadership and all the privileges and responsibilities pertaining thereto. This is a taste of seniorhood greatly enjoyed by the juniors, and we are sure, rather envied by the departing seniors. The public is cordially invited to the ceremonies and if you have never attended it in previous years, don't fail to do so this year.

Saturday is "YOUR" day, isn't it, alumnae? Juniors may shine on Friday and Seniors on Monday, but alumnae will shine on Saturday, from morning until night. Come early to avoid the rush at the registration desk at Main Hall, and to have plenty of time to get settled in your rooms if you are planning to stay in the dormitory. You will need lots of time to enjoy a tour of all of the new buildings, to make remarks about how wonderful the new things are, but how you prefer your own old days, and of course to talk, and talk, and talk with classmates and schoolmates about themselves and yourselves. At twelve o'clock all out-of-town alumnae, including delegates from the Branch Associations, and members of the General Alumnae Board, will assemble in the College Library to hear all of the very latest news from President Rondthaler. This feature of the Saturday program is new this year. Dr. Rondthaler feels that when alumnae come from a distance, they should have the opportunity of hearing first-hand news about the "ins and outs" of their Alma Mater, and he will tell you in detail some of the uses of the new buildings, and much of Salem's progress. ("Living Endowment" cards will not be passed out, so don't be afraid to come. Nor will they be passed out at the Alumnae Luncheon. This does not mean that the desired goal has been reached,—far from it,—but business is business and pleasure is pleasure, and we want Saturday to be a day of pleasure. If you have not already given your annual gift to Salem, and wish to do so, now is the time. Use Uncle Sam's mail service.) Alumnae living in Winston-Salem are of course not prohibited from attending the meeting in the Library at twelve noon, in fact they are welcome especially if they aren't familiar with the "ins and outs" of an A Class College in their own community, as is often the case.

At one o'clock alumnae will gather in Main Hall for more chattering with old friends. Don't be late because dinner is always on time at Salem College, and the bell will ring at one-thirty sharp. The menu is a secret, but we know it will be good, and of course there will be iced tea with mint. Miss Adelaide Fries, President of the Alumnae Association, and various members of the College faculty have spent considerable time in getting up a pageant of the correct costumes to represent the outstanding dates in Salem's long history, and alumnae will be delighted with the results, which will be a part of the luncheon occasion. At three-thirty the seniors invite you to be present at the presentation of their class memorial, and at four-thirty you will enjoy their Class Day exercises on the Campus.

Saturday night at eight-fifteen will come the Commencement Concert, formerly known as "the Grand Concert," and we know it will be grand this year. Dean Vardell has chosen Haydn's "The Creation" as the oratorio to be presented by the College Glee Club, assisted by singers from the community, with orchestral accompaniment. Our own Dicie Howell, a member of the class of 1911, will be soprano soloist; Mr. Dan Gridley, of New York, recently heard at the Cincinnati Music Festival, will be tenor soloist; and Mr. Ernest Schofield, Head of the Department of Voice, Salem College, will be baritone soloist. Miss Howell and Mr. Gridley will give several solo selections. We feel that this music presentation will be an outstanding one in the history of our Commencement concerts, and one which you will regret to miss. Following the Concert, at ten o'clock will come the annual reception in Main Hall given by President and Mrs. Rondthaler in honor of the concert occasion.

On Sunday the Baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Dr. Robert Burton House, Executive Secretary of the University of North Carolina. Mr. House is very widely known throughout the State, both as an administrator of distinguished ability and also as an interpreter of Christian teachings in a manner which appeals to the student mind of this generation. He is an A.B. graduate of the University of North Carolina, an M.A. graduate of Harvard University, and a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

One of the most delightfully impressive events of Commencement is the Senior Vesper Service at seven o'clock Sunday evening on the Upper Campus. The quiet beauty of the Campus adds much to the uniqueness of the service and as the years pass more and more people attend.

Monday is "Senior Day," with the Daisy Chain forming at Main Hall at ten forty-five and proceeding to Memorial Hall where the graduation exercises take place at eleven o'clock, awarding of degrees, honors, etc. Our speaker this year is an old friend of Salem, whom everyone loves to hear, Dr. W. A. Lambeth of Durham, North Carolina. In asking Dr. Lambeth to return to Salem for another Commencement occasion, the College expresses the happiness which all North Carolinians feel in his return from Washington, D. C., to his native state as pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in Durham. The Class of 1931, numbering forty-one students, looks forward to his address and to your presence in the audience at this important time in their lives and progress.

Eastern Approach to the New Salem Academy

Salem Academy Commencement

FRIDAY, MAY 29TH

Senior Class Day Exercises, 4:00 p.m., Lower Campus.

Supper on the Terrace, 6:30 p.m. for seniors, marshals, parents, visiting friends, and trustees.

Graduation Exercises, Mary Patterson Auditorium, 8:30 p.m.

Both alumnae of Salem Academy and alumnae of Salem College, and of course the many who are alumnae of both institutions, together with friends, are cordially invited to attend the Academy Commencement on Friday, May 29th.

Class Day Exercises will be on the Lower Campus at four o'clock. The program is in part secret, but it is known that Harryet Polhemus is to read the Class History; Jane Dwire, the Class Poem; Heistand Scott, the Class Will, and Margaret McLean, the Class Prophecy.

The Academy Senior Graduation Exercises have for a long time attracted attention. President Rondthaler likes to illustrate the dignity and impressiveness of these exercises by telling the story of the alumna who attended them one year and then remarked, "The college graduates are so much older than they were in my day." Heretofore the exercises have been held in Memorial Hall, but this year they will take place in the beautiful Mary Patterson Auditorium of the new Academy plant. There will be the traditional procession of seniors and marshals. The senior class speakers this year are Mary Elizabeth Hahn of Bath, Pennsylvania, and Margaret McLean, of Lumberton, N. C., and those chosen to furnish the music for the occasion are Mary Frances Hayworth, of High Point, N. C., and Elizabeth Tuttle, of Spray, N. C. President Rondthaler will make the address of the evening, after which diplomas will be awarded and honors announced.

If you are visiting your Alma Mater at Commencement time, be sure to be present for this delightful occasion. It is worth coming a day ahead of Alumnae Day to enjoy this experience.

Academy Seniors

Members of the Senior Class of Salem Academy are: Frances Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Allen, Charlotte, N. C.; Mishew Crudup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Crudup, Henderson, N. C.; Ellen deButts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydnor deButts, Greensboro, N. C.; Nat-Alle Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Dunn, Raleigh, N. C.; Jane Dwire, daughter of Mrs. S. F. Dwire, Montclair, N. J.; Dorothy Gnann, daughter of Mrs. W. G. Gnann, Savannah, Georgia; Lucy Gulick Rogers, ward of Miss Sophie Van S. Theis, New York City; Marv Elizabeth Hahn, daughter of Mr. F. J. Hahn, Bath, Pennsylvania; Mary Frances Hayworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hayworth, High Point, N. C.; Colette Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howell, Atlanta, Ga.; Dorothy Levin, daughter of Mr. Meyer Levin, Burlington, N. C.; Margaret Maxwell, sister of Miss Josephine Maxwell, Winston-Salem; Margaret McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus W. McLean of Lumberton, N. C.; Sara Boyd Pickett, daughter of Mrs. Nat M. Pickett, Madison, N. C.; Harryet Polhemus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Polhemus, Charleston, S. C.; Sadie Root, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Root, Raleigh, N. C.; Heistand Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott, Davidson, N. C.; Betty Tuttle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Tuttle, Spray, N. C.; Helen Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther A. Ward, Spartanburg, S. C.; Margaret Weil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Weil, Goldsboro, N. C.; Lila Womble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Womble, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Salem College, Member of American Association of University Women

Alumnae will rejoice over Salem's new and greatest achievement in the recognition given it as a member of the American Association of University Women. This recognition places your Alma Mater very high in the field of education, the American Association of University Women representing all American colleges and universities which have attained the standards set forth by the Association.

The good news came by telegram from Boston, where the Association held its annual convention this year, as follows:

"Boston, Mass., April 11, 1931.

"It is a pleasure to inform you that Salem College has been placed on the fully approved list of the American Association of University Women.—Katherine Rogers Adams, Chairman of Committee on Membership."

Salem College and Duke University were the two Southern institutions of higher education to receive this distinct honor this year. The requirements of the American Association of University Women are rigid and exacting. We quote from the 1931 Rulings of the Association:

"When the Association of Collegiate Alumnae was formed in 1882, its foremost aims were the development of opportunities for higher education for women and the creation and maintenance of higher standards in those institutions admitting women students. As a means toward the realization of these aims, the Association restricted its membership to the alumnae of colleges and universities which met certain requirements specified by the Association. These requirements concern not only academic excellence, but the general status of women in the institutions. This work of standardization has always been one of the most important items in the national program. With the emergence of the A.C.A. into the A.A.U.W. the Association has continued to restrict its membership, at the same time recognizing certain forces bringing about changes in modern higher education.

"Eligibility to membership depends upon the approved degrees granted by colleges and universities appearing on the published lists of the Association.

"The by-laws of the Association provide that there shall be two, and only two classes of membership for individuals: national and associate."

The name of "Salem College" is found on "List 1" of the Approved Universities and Colleges, where we read: "Women with approved degrees from these institutions are eligible to national membership. (Approved degrees are B.A., B.S., B.L., B.Ph., the graduate degrees, and other bachelor degrees which require at least two years of non-professional non-technical work which would be credited for the B.A. degree.) Women who have completed two full years of academic work are eligible to associate membership in any branch granting such membership."

The College Administration has received several letters from various places asking for the names of Salem graduates meeting the requirements, so that invitations might be extended to them to join the respective Associations, and lists have been forwarded as promptly as possible.

The following letter from Mrs. Francis Clarkson, State Membership Chairman, Charlotte, N. C., will interest our North Carolina alumnae:

"We are all delighted that your college has joined the ranks of the A.A.U.W. and want to welcome any of your alumnae into our branches. As you know, this is retroactive and any of your alumnae who have graduated in the past with a B.A. or B.S. degree are now eligible for membership. For this reason I am writing to ask if you will send me a list of these alumnae who are now living in North Carolina. We wish to extend to them personal invitations to join our local branches." (This list, which numbers several hundred names, is being compiled by Miss Marian Blair, Registrar.)

Another "Salem Day"

And so Salem adds another important date to its calendar of progress. A brief pageant in Memorial Hall on the day when President Rondthaler made the announcement to the whole student body marked the student celebration of this occasion. Five present day Salem Girls represented in costume the outstanding dates in Salem's history as follows:

1772—Salem Academy Founded.

1886—Charter granted to Salem.

1915—Membership American Association of Colleges.

1921—Membership Southern Association of Colleges.

1931—Membership American Association of University Women.

Speakers on this occasion were Mrs. Ernest Kirkham, president of the Winston-Salem Branch, A.A.U.W., Miss Adelaide Fries, president of the General Alumnae Association Salem College, and Mrs. Henry Brown McCorkle, president of the Winston-Salem Branch Alumnae Association.

Delegates to Commencement From Branch Alumnae Associations

CHARLOTTE: Mrs. Howard Farquaharson (Jean Bryan, 1917); Mrs. T. M. Abbott (Lydia Lambeth, 1910); Rose Hawkins, 1914; Mary Howard Turlington, 1924; Mrs. Clayton D. Bullock (Ina Phillips, 1917); Sara Bell, 1928.

HIGH POINT: Mrs. W. C. Idol (Ruth Siewers, 1906); Mrs. V. A. J. Idol (Annie Sue Wilson, 1908); Mrs. David Yow (Winnie Vail, 1918); Mrs. J. E. Millis (Helen Brooks, 1909-11); Louise Salisbury, 1928-30.

North Carolina Chapter, American Guild of Organists Meets at Salem

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Chapter of the American Guild of Organists was held at Salem College, May 15th. Dean Charles G. Vardell, Jr., Head of the School of Music, was in charge of the program and members of the Guild attending were entertained at Salem College.

One of the interesting features of the day's program was the organ contest, in which Miss Leslie Rothrock of North Carolina College for Women, Greensboro, Miss Ruth Marsden of Salem College, Miss Mary N. Mathewson of Salem College, and Mr. Brodus Staley of Salem College, took part. The winner was Ruth Marsden, B.A., B.Mus., Salem College, now member of music faculty.

Dr. Clarence Dickinson, distinguished organist and teacher in New York City, was the guest of the Chapter, and gave a splendid organ recital at night at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Salem College was particularly interested in his appearance in Winston-Salem because at least two former students, Charlotte Mathewson, Elizabeth Andrews (Mrs. Ernest Hinds) studied under him in New York.

Dix Plan Reunions

Responses from members of Reunion Classes have been slow in reaching the Alumnae Office, but are coming in daily. Many will not know until the eleventh hour whether or not they can be at Salem, May 29th to June 1st, but we are hoping for a good representation from each Reunion Class, and from the alumnae group at large.

All Alumnae who wish the privilege of staying in the College Dormitory should write Miss Katherine Riggan, Assistant to the Dean, Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C., just as early as possible, stating time of arrival. There is no charge for accommodations in the dormitory. A fifty cent fee will be required for all meals taken in the college dining hall, excepting of course the Alumnae Luncheon which is always $1. Alumnae arriving on Friday will please register at the Dean's Office, Alice Clewell Building; those arriving after nine o'clock on Saturday will please register at Main Hall.

Here come the Classes of 1893, 1894, 1895, and 1896! If you haven't already done so, pack up and get on the stagecoach! Lula White Hitt, 1893, writes: "Sorry to be late answering, but am planning to be there for Commencement." Jennie Anderson Anderson, 1894, of Mocksville writes: "Hope to be there May 30th." (She has a daughter in Salem Academy.) Emma Kapp Ogburn, 1892, of Winston-Salem, says, "Will be there if nothing prevents."

Others from Winston-Salem who have thus far responded are: Florence Barrow, 1893, Mary Reid, 1893, Mamie Barrow Owen, 1894, who "would like to entertain all the 'girls' of 1892, 1893, 1894, and 1895 at tea Saturday afternoon;" Margaret G. Pfohl, 1895, who is still living "in single blessedness at 10 West Academy Street with Sister Bessie and Cousin Constance, where we will be glad to welcome any friends who care to call." Minnie Hancock Hammer, of Asheboro, 1893, will be present and hopes "for a fine reunion;" Lena Wellborn Reeves, 1893, of West Jefferson, hopes to be present; Annie May Schoolfield James, of Danville, Virginia, 1892, expects to come. The following for various reasons write, with regret, that they cannot be present: Carolyn Ollinger Crenshaw, 1892, of Atlanta, Ga.; Dovie Chedester Carr, 1895, of Johnson City, Tenn.; Mary Osterbind Haase, 1895, of Richmond, Va.; Elizabeth Majette Parker, 1894, of Raleigh; and Nancy Cannon Stringfellow, 1892, of Anniston, Alabama.

Here we have the Classes of 1911, 1912, 1913, and 1914, travelling as fast as they can toward Salem (but not responding very promptly to the circular letter sent them). From the class of 1911, Oliver Rogers Pope of Morristown, Tennessee, hopes to be present; Louise Montgomery Nading, Elizabeth Hill Bahnson, and Louise Horton Barber, all of Winston-Salem, will be present. Those of 1911 who cannot come on account of distance or other reasons are: Almaryne Lane Waters, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Ruth Joyner Gragg, of Bainbridge, Ga.; Elsie M. Haury, of Claremont, California; Venetia Cox, St. Hilda's School, Wuchang, China.

From the class of 1912, Bettie Poindexter Hanes, Walkertown, expects to be present; Fannie Blow Witt Rogers, Jefferson City, Tennessee, expects to be present. Faith Fearrington Ireland of Faison, N. C., and Sadie Chesson Stevens, of Fayetteville, cannot come.

Where are the members of 1913. We have only three responses thus far. Helen Keith Cahill and Margaret Brickenstein Leinbach, of Winston-Salem, expect to be present. Betsy Simmonds McGhee, of Moorestown, N. J., cannot come at this time, but hopes to when her daughter is old enough to enter Salem.

Thus far we hear from 1914 as follows: Mary Horton Gregory, of Lancaster, S. C., plans to come; Ruth Credle, of Pantego, N. C., is coming; Hope Coolidge, of Greensboro; Maude Kerner King, of Kernersville, and Annie Lee Wynne Dillon, of Raleigh, expect to be present. From Winston-Salem members Helen E. Vogler, Margaret Blair McCuiston, and Ethel Reich have responded affirmatively. Mabel M. Lancaster Glenn, of Fayetteville, and Mary Louise Siler, of Cleveland, Ohio, cannot come.

As for 1928 and 1930—there are so many of the youngsters coming that there isn't space to list them here. Those of 1928 are three-year-old alumnae, and those of 1930, but one-year-old alumnae. Salem expects them back 100% strong.

(The Alumnae Office will appreciate responses from other alumnae of reunion classes who think it will be possible for them to be at Salem. If at the last minute you find it possible to come, please do so!)

Harp Study in High Schools

Alumnae, especially those who are particularly interested in music, will read the following quotation from the April issue of "The Musical America" with marked attention:

"A new outline of harp study in high schools, designed for a four-year course for credit, has been proposed by Carlos Salzedo, solo harpist and president of the National Association of Harpists. Mr. Salzedo, who originated the plan last Summer, has had the assistance of a committee of three in working out practical details: Grace Weymer, head of the Harp Department of the College of Fine Arts at Syracuse University; Eleanor Shaffner, head of the Harp Department of Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C., and Edna Phillips, first harpist of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

"The plan was submitted to various important musicians, and in the current number of Eolus, the official organ of the National Association of Harpists, Mr. Salzedo has printed the responses, with autograph signatures. Among those who have commended the plan by letter are:

Georges Barrère, Harold Bauer, Walter Damrosch, John Erskine, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Eugene Goossens, Josef Hoffmann, Ernest Hutcheson, Leopold Stokowski, Arturo Toscanini."

Salem College is very much interested in the part which Miss Eleanor Shaffner, Head of the Harp Department, is taking in this important movement. Miss Shaffner's success as an artist and teacher of harp is definitely indicated in the place which one of her pupils, Ann Nisbet, aged twelve, of Winston-Salem, held in the recent contests conducted by the Junior Federation of Music Clubs. Ann, after winning the State contest, won first place in a "Class A Harp Solo" at the South Atlantic District contest. She has also had a part in several radio programs broadcast from the Winston-Salem local station.

Branch Association Meetings

CONCORD

The members of the Concord branch of the Salem College Alumnae assembled at the home of Mrs. T. L. Ross and Miss Lena Leslie Friday afternoon at 3:30.

An impressive memorial service was held in honor of the late Bishop Edward Rondthaler, so beloved by and associated with the Salem College students.

Miss Margaret Hartsell told very interestingly of her recent visit to the college and the three beautiful new buildings. She then played the new alma mater song.

The officers re-elected for the coming year included: Miss Rosa Caldwell, president; Mrs. V. A. Means, (Mary Hartsell), vice president; Mrs. H. G. Gibson, (Laura Ridenhour), secretary; Mrs. Parks Lafferty, (Pearl Boger), treasurer.

Twelve enthusiastic members were present.

CHARLOTTE

The Salem Alumnae of Charlotte met at the Woman's Club, March 10th, with thirty-five present. Mrs. Raymond Thompson (Mary Entwistle) presided. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: president, Mrs. C. D. Bullock (Ina Phillips); vice-president, Mrs. J. E. Loven (Willie Reedy); secretary and treasurer, Mary Howard Turlington.

A brief memorial service was held in memory of Bishop Rondthaler.

Special alumnae guests were Mrs. Sallie V. Townsend (Sallie Bell Douglas) of Union, South Carolina, class of 1859, Miss Alice Springs, class of 1869, and Miss Ida Moore, class of 1885.

DALLAS

The Dallas group of Salem Alumnae met March 10th at the beautiful home of Mrs. H. L. Edwards on Preston Road. Twelve members, representing three generations of Salem Girls, were present. Five sent regrets on account of illness and absence from the city.

A part of the meeting was spent in honoring the memory of Bishop Rondthaler, known so well to all Salem students.

Mrs. Buxton and Mrs. Edwards told of their recent visit to Salem and of the great improvements that had been made. Mrs. W. F. Tyree (Lilian Gosling) was present for the first time. She is the great-granddaughter of Salem's third president, Benjamin G. Reichel. She entered Salem in 1892 and later taught there. She related many interesting incidents and brought her old albums filled with pictures of teachers and pupils of that time. Every member present told of pleasant days in dear old Salem.

Miss Lora Cowart was elected president, succeeding Mrs. J. C. Buxton, and Mrs. W. F. Tyree (Lilian Gosling) was elected secretary.

Those present were Mrs. J. C. Buxton (Aggie Belo); Mrs. H. L. Edwards (Caro Buxton); Miss Lora Cowart; Mrs. Luther Clark (Lucy Simms); Mrs. B. W. Haughton (Barbara Hawkins); Mrs. J. M. Milstead (Ruby M. Randle); Mrs. W. H. Kindred (Lucy Wharton); Mrs. R. C. Ledbetter (Frances Benners); Mrs. John N. Wharton (Annie Lang); Mrs. Will Carroll (Evelyn Curtis); Mrs. R. M. Williamson (Effie Gilmore); Mrs. W. F. Tyree (Lilian Gosling).

PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA

Mrs. Howard Rondthaler, who was visiting in Philadelphia at the time of the Branch Association meeting there, brings back an interesting and delightful report of the success of the meeting. In addition we have a report from the secretary, Mrs. Leonard Jones (Flora Binder, 1924), and from the president, Mrs. Clarence Parker, (Ione Fuller).

The meeting was in the form of a dinner at the College Club, with Mrs. Parker presiding. Mrs. V. D. Mendenhall read a tribute to Bishop Rondthaler. Mrs. Howard Rondthaler spoke informally about "Salem." Each member present responded to a toast by Mrs. Parker and a happy evening of reminiscences was enjoyed. Mrs. Rondthaler has spoken particularly of the delightful way in which Salem colors were carried out, in flowers, and candles, in the attractive yellow and white place cards with minute brass candlesticks, and even in portions of the delicious menu.

Those present were Mrs. Gilbert Fry (Mary McKelvie, 1925), The Cambridge at Alden Park, Germantown, Pa.; Rachel Davis (1926), 3500 Midvale Avenue, East Falls, Philadelphia, Pa., (now in her third year of training at the Woman's Medical Hospital); Mrs. Sam Conti (Frances Brown, 1914), 109 Iona Street, Narberth, Pa., (a social service worker at the Jefferson Hospital); Evelyn Barber (ex-1932), formerly of Winston-Salem, now in training at the University of Pennsylvania Hospital; Ruth Greider, 238 South 7th Street; Lina Blanche Hallyburton, 1600 Arch Street; Mrs. V. D. Mendenhall, 432 Laurel Road, Yeadon, Pa.; Mrs. F. H. Barr, Sheldrake Apts., 49th and Spruce Streets; Mrs. Baisly (Ivy Nicewonger), 1707 W. Jefferson Street; Mrs. Clarence Parker (Ione Fuller), 5002 Pine Street; Dorothy H. Hadley, Bryn Mawr Gables, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mamie W. Allison, 5 Kenmore Road, Upper Darby, Pa.; Bernice J. White, 45 North Delsea Drive, Glassboro, N. J.

The Shirley Scholarship Fund

Through the interest of several local admirers and former students under the late Dean H. A. Shirley, the Shirley Scholarship Fund has recently been established. The ultimate goal is an invested fund of $5000, the interest of which will be used for several students of piano or organ annually, the scholarships to be awarded by Dean Charles G. Vardell, Jr., Head of the School of Music. In this short space of time the fund has reached the $500 mark and it is hoped that additional gifts or pledges will be received before Commencement so that announcement may be made at that time and so that at least one or two music students will have the benefit of this scholarship fund next fall.

Alumnae who wish to have a part, by gift or pledge, in this movement should communicate with one of the following: Miss Grace Starbuck, 302 So. Church Street, Winston-Salem; Mrs. Frank Stockton, 445 South Main Street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Living Endowment

Have You Given Your Annual Gift?

"The definition of an accredited college includes a minimum $500,000.00 interest-bearing Endowment. We are still $75,000.00 short of this amount, and our continued accrediting seriously depends upon our ability to secure Living Endowment in the amount of approximately $5,000 per year.

"You will have rejoiced in the recognition Salem has just received as a Member College of the American Association of University Women. Here too, we have conscientiously represented the annual Living Endowment as amounting to $5,000 and there is this added reason why we must appeal earnestly and hopefully to our alumnae for this annual gift until the invested-endowment has been permanently raised to the required amount."

—President Rondthaler.

Reminiscences of An Old Salem Girl

Salem Girls of today and yesterday enjoy the reminiscences of "long, long, ago" and this letter from Mrs. M. A. Mitchell (Martha A. Winston, 1854-1859) will be read with interest and delight. Mrs. Mitchell has never revisited her Alma Mater, but she has kept in close touch with it through the Alumnae Record, and a recent visit of her son, Mr. James A. Mitchell of Livingston, Alabama, brought her first hand information about the Salem of today.

She writes, "I am now in my eighty-seventh year, having entered Salem in 1854, when I was but ten years old, and remaining there until 1859. This meant five years without leaving, with the exception of one summer when I joined my father and other relatives at some Springs in Virginia, for many of the girls of those days could not go home and the School was in session throughout the entire year. Dr. Robert de Schweinitz was president, and although he was but a young man of about thirty, we always spoke of him as "old Dr. de Schweinitz," and looked upon him as being an old man.

I left Gainesville, Alabama, for Salem in a stage coach. It has been so long ago that I do not remember how long it took me to make the trip, but I do remember two things. One was that I secured a seat by a window and was enjoying the scenery, when a lady and gentleman came in and took their seats beside me, and picked me up and set me between them. I soon learned that they were mutes, as they carried on quite a conversation with their fingers, paying no attention to me. The other incident which I remember was that it was dark when we reached Salem and I had fallen asleep. When I waked up the stage coach was standing in front of the Butner Hotel, and a young man, Mr. Gus Butner, a son of the proprietor, was lifting me out of the coach, and carrying me into the hotel where I spent the night.

There were many other girls from Alabama in the Academy, as it was then called, an older sister, Olive Winston, (Mrs. W. A. Gage) preceded me; a younger sister, Virginia A. Winston (Mrs. B. A. Gage), of Louisville, Mississippi; Laura Hibbler, who married Major W. G. Little of Livingston, Alabama, and whose granddaughter, Janie Mooring Little, attended Salem College a few years ago; Sallie Sherrod, (Mrs. Reuben Arrington), of Livingston, Alabama, and Fannie Travis (Mrs. Turner), who died recently, having reached the age of ninety-one years; and many others from Alabama whose names I do not now recall. I remember well Fannie Travis and Laura Hibbler, who were older than I, because when I got into trouble I always went to them. I am the only one of the Alabama girls who attended Salem Academy at that time, now living.

My recollection is that the cornerstone of the main building (Main Hall) was laid the first day I entered school and the building was completed the same year, and while it was being completed many of the girls stayed in another building known as the "Boys School." If I remember correctly there were ten large rooms in the main building, occupied by twenty-four or twenty-five girls, with two teachers in each room during study hour. The girls were placed in these rooms according to ages, the older girls occupying the rooms on the fourth floor. We had no running water in the building at that time and all of the girls had to go to the basement, the only place where they kept water, to bathe their hands and faces and prepare for breakfast. At that time we did not look upon it as an inconvenience. There was a large and comfortable room where the girls went when they were sick. This room was in charge of a nurse, whom we called "Mam Peck." Two doctors visited the sick every morning.

We attended Chapel every morning in the room which is now used as a library. The Church was connected with Main Building by a covered stairway and we could attend church services without being exposed to the weather. The girls occupied the gallery. I remember so well the impressive

Easter Services and the beautiful graveyard, where no horse's foot ever trod. And I remember the sound of the "death horns," which made known a death in the village from the steeple of the Church. A clock which directed all movements of the school was also in this steeple and sounded the hour, the half and the quarter hours. At four o'clock, when school was dismissed, the girls went to the dining room and were served with delicious light bread and syrup. After this we were taken for a walk, during the winter months before supper, and in the summer months after supper. I remember that apples were very cheap and could be bought from apple venders for fifty cents per bushel and we were well supplied with these most of the time.

Much stress was laid on teaching the girls to write, and an hour was set aside each day for writing lessons, so most of the girls wrote a good hand. When we wrote letters we were required to leave them unsealed for the inspection of the president or teachers, and all letters received by the girls were read by the president or some one of the teachers.

There were no front yards to the building but there was a large park at the rear of the building, which was well kept, with a delightful spring, comfortable seats, and beautiful walks. In this park the girls spent much of their time during recreation hours. Salem was then a small village, divided only by a street, from another small village, called Winston. I was so interested in hearing from my son and his wife about the one city, Winston-Salem, with its large population and progressive industry. I had wanted to go with him on their visit to North Carolina, but nothing would have given me more pleasure than to revisit the scenes of my childhood school days, and I would have gone had I been ten years younger. I awaited their return with much impatience, eager to hear from someone who had recently visited Salem—Martha A. Mitchell, Livingston, Alabama.

Appendix to Memorabilia of Fifty Year's Published

Alumnae and students who purchased copies of "The Memorabilia of Fifty Years, 1877 to 1927," by the late Bishop Edward Rondthaler, will wish to have a copy of the Appendix to this volume. This Appendix contains the three memorabilia of 1928, 1929 and 1930, written and presented by the Bishop, and may be obtained by writing to Miss Adelaide L. Fries, Archivist, 224 South Cherry Street, Winston-Salem, N. C. The price is $1.00.

Alumnae who did not avail themselves of the opportunity to get a copy of "The Memorabilia of Fifty Years" and wish one, together with the recently compiled Appendix, can also write Miss Fries. The price is $5 for the former, and $1 for the latter.

We quote from Miss Fries regarding the volumes: "This remarkable series of papers is a unique contribution to the history of the period covered. It contains fifty-four memorabilia, each based upon a daily diary kept by the author, noting the chief events of the year in the world, the nation, the state, the community, and the church. The Appendix contains also a comprehensive sketch of the late Bishop's life, together with an account of the Distinguished Community Service Award made to him on January 14, 1931."

Here and There Among the Alumnae

Hazel Culler, 1922, formerly of Kernersville, N. C., is a successful doctor in New York City.

Agnes Carlton, 1925, is studying for her Master's Degree at Teachers College, New York.

Lucy Baldwin (Academy 1922-25) is studying music at the Damrosch School of Music, New York.

Mrs. N. B. Stevens (Sadie Chesson, 1912), of Fayetteville, N. C., writes: "I have two daughters that love Salem already."

A note from a nurse in the Charlotte Sanatorium tells us of the illness of Mrs. J. A. Gaither (Cora A. Cowles), of Newton, N. C. We learn of this with regret and trust for her early recovery.

A very brief letter from Mrs. M. B. Sasser (Minnie Bohannon, 1893) of 556 N. Denver Avenue, Tulsa, Oklahoma, asks for a College catalogue, and acquaints us with her present address.

Mrs. J. R. Cunningham (Rubie Ray, 1916), is living at 532 Barberry Lane, Cherokee Gardens, Louisville, Ky., her husband having accepted the presidency of the Presbyterian Seminary in Louisville.

Salem hears with interest of the fact that Lina Blanche Hallyburton, business student, 1925-1926, has been promoted and is now secretary to one of the officials of The Insurance Company of North America.

Mrs. Frank Hanes (Bettie Poindexter, 1912) of Walkertown, writes: "I am still living with my mother and father and giving most of my time to my two boys, Frank, Jr., four and a half years, and Will, eight months."

Mrs. Thos. E. Waters (Almaryne Lane, 1911) writes: "Am happily married, have three girls, fourteen, nine, and four years of age. I still love the South and hope to visit Salem with the oldest girl very soon."

Mary Louise Siler, 15-13671 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, is chairman of the Music Department, Shaker Heights Schools, Cleveland. She writes: "This is my fourth year and I feel quite at home and make a good 'Yankee.' I am sorry my work prevents me from coming to the reunion."

Mrs. W. E. Froelich (Helen Nissen, ex-1912) of Winston-Salem, writes: "My time is taken up as the mother of three boys, and particularly at present with the eldest, Billy, age 15, who had the misfortune to lose his left lower limb. The next son, Philip, is twelve, and the youngest, Jack, is five. I hope to attend the reunion at Commencement."

Venetia Cox, 1911, according to a letter from her mother, is at St. Hilda's boarding school for girls, head of the music club and glee club in Wuchang, Hankow, in addition to other teaching. She has compiled in the native language, public school music books up to the fourth grade, together with the Christmas carols, etc. In 1933 she will be home on a furlough.

A letter from Mrs. John W. Gordon (Annie Pender Gordon, 1862-1865), tells us of the passing of an old Salem girl, Mrs. William Howard (Mary Hester Baker, 1862-65) of Tarboro, N. C. "Her life has been a beautiful and brave one. She was in her 81st year. She and I were classmates and her going is a sad loss to me.

I will be eighty-two on my next birthday. My interest in Salem is great for I was very happy during the three years I was there, October 1862 to June 1865.—Annie Pender Gordon, 6510 Threc Chopt Road, Richmond, Va.

Louise McGirt Williams, 1701 Princess St., Wilmington, N. C., Business student, 1928-29, sends her fee for the Alumnae Record and expresses appreciation of the news in the last issue regarding students in the Business Department. She writes, "It was very interesting, and I, for one, enjoyed it thoroughly. Let's have some more news about the business students!"

Mrs. C. A. Dillon (Annie Lee Wynne, 1914), 1603 Hillsboro, Street, Raleigh, writes: I have two children, Dorothy, age 17, and C. A. Jr., age six years. Dorothy is at Peace College and I am quite anxious for her to go to Salem next year. Annie Lee Grissom (Mrs. Roger Offen, of Stamford, Conn.) and I are planning a visit to Salem and we hope to be there for our class reunion.

Mrs. Samuel Ross Ireland (Faith Fearrington, 1912), of Faison, N. C., writes: "Besides homemaking, and keeping up with two big live daughters, ages twelve and eleven, future Salem Girls, I hope, and a six-year-old son, I am managing a 580 acre farm and living on another, my husband's. I find little time for antiquating my trust, yet enjoy social life of both young and old."

Mrs. John T. Gragg (Ruth Joyner, 1911) writes: "My husband is in the lumber business and we live in Bainbridge, Ga., a beautiful little South Georgia town. We have four little girls, all of whom I hope to send to Salem some day. The oldest will enter in the fall of 1938. The two youngest are twins. I enjoy every item from Salem. Regret I cannot attend my class reunion because school closes too late and I can't leave the children."

Mrs. James F. McGhee (Betsy Simmonds, 1913), of Moorestown, N. J., writes: "I am the 'four red-headed children's mother.' My husband thinks I am his private secretary as well as wife, and time never hangs heavy on my hands. Now that spring is here my flower garden becomes my special joy. I live near Philadelphia and often wish I could know when girls I used to know at Salem are visiting or living there so I could renew old acquaintances."

The Alumnae Record has just been forwarded to me by my mother and I was especially interested to know that the Class of 1912 is to have a reunion. I should have written long ago to change my address. I am enclosing one dollar for the Record.

We have two boys, Neal Osgood Wade, Jr., and McMillan Wade. Recently we moved into our new home in Jefferson Park, near Mrs. Robert Yowell (Elizabeth Klutz, of Salisbury, N. C.)—Mrs. Neal O. Wade (Eva McMillan. 1912), Jefferson Park, Charlottesville, Virginia.

A letter from Louise Watson, (Academy 1924-27), formerly of Red Gum, Louisiana, tells us of her work in Real Estate which she hopes will be a success in Chicago. She writes that "the sun shines almost as gloriously here as in Dixie and I believe I am going to like Chicago. I am living here with my sister. Rebecca Harden sends me the Alumnae Record which I enjoy thoroughly. I love the news of every name that's printed and sometime I want to see Salem again."—Louise Watson, Room 822, New Lawrence Hotel, 1020 Lawrence Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

Mary Heitman writes that on account of several deaths and a good deal of sickness among the "Salem families" in Mocksville, there will be no meeting of their Alumnae group this year. She records the death of Mrs. W. K. Clement (Mary Jane Miller), on January 23, 1931. Mrs. Clement was a pupil at Salem in the early eighties.

Of Bishop Rondthaler she writes, "All of us former Salem students loved him. We have such pleasant memories of our hours in class with him and the delightful walks he would sometimes take with us. He was a great man, and to my mind, one of the most remarkable characters of our day."

Mrs. W. H. McAttee (Queen Graeber, 1923), of Shaw, Mississippi, writes: "Please find enclosed check for one dollar for the renewal of the Alumnae Record. I always look forward to its coming. How I would like to go back to Salem and really see the wonderful changes that have been made since 1923. We go to Carolina every summer but it seems that I am always so busy seeing the home folk that I never get a chance to slip off and visit Salem. Perhaps our little daughter, Jane, aged two and a half, will follow in the footsteps of her mother.

My heart was made truly sad when I learned that the dear Bishop had passed away. Please express my very deepest sympathy to the family."

From our original records of former students, dating back to the very opening of Salem Academy as a boarding school, we were recently able to grant a request from Mrs. S. A. Russell of Natchitoches, Louisiana, age ninety-five, who wished a copy of the record of her mother's entrance and that of other pupils who attended Salem with her mother. In the old books was found a record of her mother's attendance, Mary Lundy Chisholm.

We appreciate the recognition given Salem by Mrs. C. G. Henry of Melrose, Louisiana, who wrote for Mrs. Russell. She says, "How the students of Salem love to recall their school days there! It speaks mighty well for the School and I am glad to have a daughter in your midst."

After sending in the Alumnae Record fee for this year, members of the class of 1923 will wish to subscribe to "The Skyland Post." Why? Because at last Ruth Reeves is doing what she always wanted to do. She is editing a newspaper in her home town, West Jefferson, North Carolina. In addition to all the important news which all good newspapers contain, "The Skyland Post" is further adorned by the talent of '23, in that Estelle McCanless is its artist in the interesting and witty comic strip "Columbus," and Elizabeth Connor, under the name of "Babbling Betty," gives to its readers in a most whimsical and delightful fashion all the news from our Capital City. Sample copies may be obtained by writing Ruth at West Jefferson.

... "It certainly would be a great pleasure to me to attend the coming Commencement and I shall do so if it is possible. My mother was Catherine Allison whose name occurs in the printed register of the March and April, 1882, issue of "The Academy." She was a pupil at Salem in 1838. She and another Kingston, Tennessee, girl I think went on horseback or by stage coach to Salem. Both my sister (Annie Maude Wester) and I attended Salem. There were two other girls from Kingston who went with us, Dixie Welcker, of Knoxville, Tennessee, and Nannie Roberts, now a Mrs. Shelly, living in the far west when I last heard from her, which was many years ago."—Mrs. T. C. Ervin (Maggie Wester, 1876-1878).

It is interesting to note, after reading the letter from Mrs. Mattie A. Mitchell of Livingston, Alabama, that on March 9th, Salem College enjoyed a visit from one who must have been here at school during the time when Mattie Winston was a pupil. Mrs. Sallie Townsend (Sallie Bell Douglas, 1855-1859) of Union, South Carolina, came to visit Salem with friends from Charlotte, N. C. This was her first visit since school days and she was greatly interested in the things which were changed and the things which were not changed in her Alma Mater. She was shown in the old record books the entry made by her father when he entered her as a student in Salem Academy, also that of her mother, Fannie Hardy, of Newberry, S. C., a student in 1829. She told us that she and her five sisters had all been educated at Salem, and she recalled Dr. Robert deSchweinitz, and several of her teachers.

Elsie Haury, 444 W. 7th St., Claremont, California, writes: "I wish so much that I could come for the reunion. It would be wonderful, but travelling expenses would be beyond my purse just now. Much love to all the girls of 1911 and those of 1912.

"I noticed that Katherine MacDonald, now Mrs. Duncan Cummings of Rome, Georgia, was omitted from the ex-1912 list. She was at Salem one year, 1910-11, as a junior, and might be interested in coming for Commencement. She has done quite a little in the field of bacteriology in late years." Pictures are enclosed with the letter of Elsie and of her studio at Pomona College, Claremont, California, which she asks be passed on to the 1911 group at Commencement. She continues her work as teacher of voice and also as a concert singer.

I wonder if you remember me, your "honor guest" a few years ago, the first time I had been in Salem since I was a little girl of fourteen years? My, but I did enjoy that visit. Dear Miss Lou, Miss Sally, and Miss Mary Meinung were all there to welcome me, and all three have passed away.

As Easter draws near my thoughts year by year turn to Salem. This year you and all of Salem will miss your dear Bishop.

I have no idea who sends the Record to me. I look and look for letters from someone of 1868 and 1869, hoping to find some schoolmate. I am one of the old Salem Girls, seventy-seven years old. I often think of the parting words of President Rondthaler on my last visit, "Mrs. Reid, you have given us more pleasure than any honor guests we have had because you took care of yourself, we had no trouble entertaining you."—Mrs. C. C. Reid, 8 Mill Street, Charleston, S. C.

Mr. Rankin joins me in extending to you and to Salem College our heartiest congratulations on the honor which has been granted Salem in its membership in the American Association of University Women. You have wrought well in bringing Salem up to the full requirements and we feel that this new honor, coming as it does from the highest educational "court" is well-deserved and fully merited.

I am making all plans to be at Salem for Commencement this year and feel highly honored that my brother is to be the speaker again. I am also looking forward to hearing "The Creation" again at the Commencement Concert. It was presented the year I was graduated, 1907, under Dean Shirley and Professor Storer.—Mrs. W. W. Rankin (Ellæ Lambeth), 1011 Gloria Ave., Durham, N. C.

A letter from Mrs. Jessie Kennedy Dyer, formerly of Columbia, S. C., now of 1010 Chalmers St., Apt. 208, Detroit, Michigan, recalls her days at Salem: "During the terms of '95, '96 and '96, '97 I was a pupil in your school. I was a child of thirteen years of age when I entered and was in the 10th Room under Miss Lizzie Heisler. Mr. Clewell was principal at that time. Miss May Scales, Nannie Morrison, Bessie Brown, and Miss Dill were some of my teachers. Katie Killbuck, Mary and Annie Anderson, Geraldine Garland, Myra Skinner, Amy and Bessie Sloan, the Wineland girls from Indian Territory are some of the girls that I remember. Annie Anderson was the cause of my failing to get my Golden 4 one month, the only time I failed to get one while I was there. I have very happy recollections of my days at Salem."

"I was a delegate last week to the convention of the American Association of University Women where I learned the good news that Salem College has been accepted on the accredited list of the Association. Congratulations! Of course I am delighted. You and I know what a fine College Salem is, and it is gratifying now that more people will know, too.

"I feel very sad over Bishop Rondthaler's death, but I am glad of the privilege of being present at that lovely Easter morning service in 1917 when he was so impressive and inspiring. It is a happy memory.

"My best wishes to Salem College, and to you personally."—Caroline E. Fose, 17 Storer Street, Portland, Maine.

(Alumnae who attended Salem at the time when Miss Vose was a member of the faculty in the Department of English, will be interested in the fact that she has been very successful as a writer, both in short story form and for textbook use.)

1201 Franklin Ave., Waco, Texas.

"My sister, Fannie Pace MacKinney, passed away February 6th, after a lingering illness, and was laid to rest in Oakwood, Waco, Texas, our home. Her only child, Kyle MacKinney, was called home from Columbia University in early December and remained with her mother for awhile, then returned to Columbia where she is getting her Master's degree. Fannie left a masterpiece in her daughter, Kyle, and this child was her joy and pride.

"Now, we a small family of two, just Kyle and I, are left. My life work is to have my niece a finished product. She was an honor student in all of her earlier school life and in her college life at Balyor University. Fannie lived to see the fruits of training and rearing Kyle, and Kyle will always have the love and memory of a most devoted mother. So we have much to be thankful for, though we will always miss Fannie's bright and happy company and help.

"May this Commencement be a complete success. With best wishes for Salem and its continued progress, I am,"—Kyle Pace, 1883.

News From The College Campus

Space will not permit very much Campus news, so numerous are the wedding announcements and the alumnae notes in this issue, but we know you will want to hear some of the gossip which the little red-bird from the "Lower Campus" or "Pleasure Grounds," tells to the Old Church Clock as it tick-tocks its way through one Salem day after another.

In saying that "the only alteration in the College faculty occurs in the addition of Carrie Mae Stockton, 1930, to the Modern Language Department," the "Salemite" means no doubt to tell us that Roy Campbell is still single; Professor Higgins has not lost his voice; Dr. Anscombe is still telling jokes; Dean Vardell is still the inimicable Santa Claus; and President Rondthaler is still slightly bald! But this is not quite true, for did not Cupid enter the ranks of our august faculty and take from us another of the President's secretaries? Alumnae will read with interest of the marriage announcement of Miss Florence Bidwell to Mr. Robert Carmichael. In her place in the President's office we find Miss Marjorie Knox, graduate of Simmons College, Boston, and sister of Miss Dorothy Knox, member of the Academy faculty. Miss Knox is very efficient and has promptly become Salemized. We hope Cupid will let her stay long enough for all of our alumnae to have the pleasure of meeting her.

Mr. Higgins, head of the Science Department, is writing a laboratory manual for general chemistry which he expects to publish sometime next summer. During the eleven years that he has been connected with the College he has made observations and experiments among his students from which he will form the basis of the book. The work is somewhat different from similar manuals now available, and is designed to simplify and clarify experimental work for both teacher and student.

Miss Minnie J. Smith is adding more letters to her illustrious name, in pursuing a Ph.D. at the University of North Carolina. She comes back to Salem each week to direct advanced Latin students in their research work and to teach Greek. With so many Ph.D.'s and M.A.'s in the Language Department, it is no wonder that our little country girls and boys stand spellbound before the fluency of their Salem graduated French teachers!

Friends of Miss Otelia Barrow will regret to hear that she has suffered a broken arm. However she is able to continue her work and business students are busier than ever.

Dr. Anscombe, Head of the History Department, was admitted to the Bar on Thursday, September 17th, by Judge John M. Oglesby. And so it is that Salem has a lawyer in its midst.

In a recent visit, Mr. Burnet C. Tuthill, secretary of the National Association of Schools of Music, expressed himself as being delighted with the scope and variety of our Salem College School of Music, "Salem College is doing a conscientious and thorough job. The faculty is adequate and well-equipped. The recital which I heard showed breadth of attitude and competence in performance."

Outstanding students this year are, Miss Anna Preston, of Charlotte, N. C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Preston, and great granddaughter of Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, who is President of Student Self-Government; Eleanor Idol, of High Point, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Idol, who is President of the College Y. W. C. A.; Ann Meister, of Wilmington, N. C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Meister, who is President of the Athletic Association; Beulah Zachary, of Brevard, N. C., daughter of Mrs. Beulah M. Zachary, who is editor of "Sights and Insights"; Sara Graves, of Mount Airy, daughter of Mr. George O. Graves, who is editor of "The Salemite."

Tryouts for membership in the "Pierrette Players" resulted in the choice of the following girls: Lucy Gulick-Rogers, of New York City, Margaret McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus W. McLean, of Lumberton, N. C.; Phyllis Noe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Noe, Manhasset, N. Y.; Virginia Nall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Nall, Kingsport, Tenn.; Marietta Way, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Way, Waynesville, N. C.; Elois Padrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Padrick, Fort Pierce, Fla.; Frances Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. B. Caldwell, Wilmington, N. C.; Betty Boone, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. B. Boone, Jackson, N. C.; Elizabeth Morton, daughter of Mr. R. K. Morton, Charleston, W. Va.; Courtland Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Preston, Charlotte, N. C.; and Emily Moore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Moore, Mt. Olive, N. C.

Two plays have already been presented, The Postscript by Angier, and The Marriage Proposal by Tchekoff. Others to be presented during the year are Dawn by Percival Wild, Riders to the Sea by Synge, Aria da Capa by Edna St. Vincent Millay, The Widdy's Mite by Totheroh, The Boar by Tchekoff, The Learned Ladies by Moliere, Op-O'-Me-Thumb by Fenn, and Iphigenia in Taurus by Euripides, the last to be presented at the May Day festival.

Nearly two hundred books have recently been added to the Library collection through gifts made by faculty, students, alumnae, and interested friends. From Miss Adelaide Fries have come a number of volumes in the fields of history, travel, and fiction, among these "The Great Events By Famous Historians" and "Great Events of the Great War." The music collection has been added to through the gifts of Miss Sarah Vest. The T. J. Brown Chapter Children of the Confederacy has given a copy of Eckenrode's "Jefferson Davis," and other volumes on the South and North Carolinas.

A CALL FROM THE LIBRARIAN

Hearken! Here's your chance, loyal Salemites, to prove your love, devotion and interest, in spite of the depression. If you don't believe it, just see—by sending to Grace L. Siewers, Librarian, any information concerning, or the actual "masterpiece" itself—the book you wrote, the rhyme you "schemed," that song you composed to a lilting tune, or just the tune itself—anything that you have achieved in the field of "The Arts."

Evelyn Corbin has started the ball rolling by sending an autographed copy of "Blue Reeds," a collection of her poems. Won't you follow? Perhaps you are too modest, and think your efforts not worthy of note—trust your Alma Mater's judgment.

Even text-books used at Salem (that is prior to 1880) are welcome. Perhaps you have something of interest that you can add to the "Salemiana" collection. You can help famously, if you sit down now and send post-haste, your contributions to these collections. Have a share in this profitable business—free. Do your part and watch it grow, and your Alma Mater guarantees your returns, in satisfaction manifold.

Jean Burroughs Gives Us News From Salem Academy

Salem Academy celebrated its first birthday in its new home on September tenth. In accordance with a custom established last year, after a birthday dinner in the dining room of the Emma Bahnson Memorial building, a cake was brought in bearing one candle. The members of the senior class were introduced individually, coming forward and cutting a piece from the cake, and at the end of this ceremony the knife, decorated with Salem colors, was presented to the president of the junior class to be held in custody until next year's cake-cutting ceremony.

In celebrating an anniversary one naturally looks backward upon what has been accomplished and forward to what one hopes will be accomplished. During the past year in the new Academy plant there have come about many intangible accomplishments; there is an increased loyalty to our Alma Mater, a greater feeling of unity between students and faculty, and a marked development of character in individual students. And in addition to these intangible accomplishments, there have certainly come the tangible ones, which are apparent to everyone. Entering the Academy driveway one notices the beginnings of an avenue of cherry trees which were planted last Arbor Day by the students. It is planned to add to these each year until the avenue is complete. West of the building is the beginning of what will some day be a long series of brick steps leading from Salem Academy down across the ravine and up the opposite hillside to Salem College. The Academy Class of 1931, together with contributions from other students, presented the first unit of these steps as a Class Memorial. With the return of each birthday of the new Salem Academy we hope to be able to count another unit completed. During the summer months an historic flag pole was erected on the terrace opposite the entrance to the Mary Patterson Building and in two students lies the responsibility of flying the flag daily. The flag pole is one which was used about thirty-five years ago by President J. H. Clewell, to fly the American flag, and in the early morning hours the weather signal flag. At one time this same flag pole marked the window from which an Alabama girl waved the Confederate flag, in 1865, after the surrender of the town of Salem. Next spring the student body plans to beautify the Academy campus and athletic fields with flowering bulbs and shrubs.

A new feature at Salem Academy is what is known as Student Representation. Two girls are elected from each dormitory floor to serve as representatives of the student body. These girls meet weekly with the Resident Principals and discuss with them any suggestions made by the student body and in this way many useful ideas are brought to light.

We are delighted with our new principal and our new teachers. Miss Mary Weaver, formerly teacher of Mathematics, has succeeded Miss Eleanor Chase as principal. Miss Weaver is a resident of Asheville, North Carolina. She received her education at Randolph Macon College. For several years she has been one of the most popular and efficient members of the Academy staff and her experience thus far as principal bears proof of her ability and charming personality. Another new teacher is Miss Laura Sumner of Franklinville, N. C., an M.A. of Smith College, who heads the English Department. Another is Miss Georgia Watson of Thompson, Georgia, A.B., Agnes Scott, M.A., University of Chicago, who teaches History.

The Academy administration and student body invite all Alumnae returning to their Alma Mater to spend a part of their visit within the walls of the new Salem Academy. Don't come to Salem College without visiting Salem Academy.

WEDGEWOOD PLATES WITH SALEM SCENES TO BE SOLD BY SCORPIONS

Alumnae will be interested in a new enterprise of the Order of the Scorpion. Within the next few months all students and alumnae will be offered an opportunity to purchase sets of "Salem Plates" done by Wedgewood, and modelled after the Staffordshire College Plates of a century ago. These are made in England, especially for Salem, at the famous Wedgewood potteries. In sets of eight, each plate containing a different Campus view, among the scenes parts of Old and New Salem, the Home Moravian Church, the Academy, etc., these will bring valuable remembrances to all of Salem's daughters and friends. Undoubtedly many alumnae have seen samples of these lovely plates, the idea being used by many of our Universities and Colleges in America. Further information regarding price, time of delivery, etc., will be sent out to each individual alumna at a little later date.

OF PARTICULAR INTEREST TO ALUMNAE

For the past three or four years the Alumnae Record has been sent out every other month, making five or six copies during the College year depending on the amount of news and the total subscription receipts. This is rather confusing to Alumnae, as is shown by letters received saying the Record has not been received. There was no Commencement issue of the Record last year. Whether or not there will be one this year depends entirely upon the total subscription receipts, since the Record must be self-supporting.

This year you will receive the following issues: in November, the September-October issue; in January, the November-December issue; in March, the January-February issue; in May, the March-April issue.

Officers of Branch Associations are reminded that February is the month for Salem meetings. Plan early for your meeting this year. Don't hesitate to call on the Alumnae Office for any lists, etc., etc.

Class Reunions at Commencement, in addition to the General Alumnae Reunion, are as follows: 1929, 1928, 1927, 1926; 1910, 1909, 1908, 1907; 1891, 1890, 1889, 1888; 1872, 1871, 1870, 1869.

ADDRESSES

Mrs. John B. Rees (Jane Noble, 1924), 35 Pierrepont Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Miss Margaret Brietz, Associated Charities, care of Federal Reserve Bank Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Frank Johnson (Bright McKemie, 1923), care of Simmons Hardware Co., 1050 N. Delaware Street, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Ivy N. Baisly, 4533 Springfield Ave., West Philadelphia, Pa.; Margaret Ross Walker, New Amsterdam Hotel, Apt. 412, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Vine R. Starr (Mary Hege, 1916), 44 Sherman Street, Hartford, Connecticut; Elizabeth Strowd, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Mrs. C. A. Dillon (Annie Lee Wynne), 1603 Hillsboro Street, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. George Roscoe, 112 Odel Place, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. B. W. McKurzle, 229 Fulton Street, Salisbury, N. C.; Nancy Hankins, 425 North Tizga Street, Ithaca, New York.

Here and There Among The Alumnae

Among the summer visitors to Salem was Mrs. Benjamin Unwin of Santiago, Chili. Mrs. Unwin will be better known to Salem girls as Harriett Harris, star basket-ball player during her college years, 1920-1922, and an outstanding Salem Girl. Harriett visited us en route from Texas to New York and it was refreshing to see her again. Her address is Calle Rosal 356, Case D, Santiago, Chili, South America.

Another visitor was Annie Sorsby of Rocky Mount, who says she always visits her Alma Mater during her summer vacation.

From Phoenix, Arizona, came Mrs. Howard H. McWhorter (Helen Everett, 1922), with Howard H. McWhorter, II. Her address is 305 W. Culver Street.

Mrs. L. L. Montgomery (Carrie Floyd, ex-1923), of 2124 Terrace Avenue, Knoxville, Tennessee, visited Salem with her little daughter, Betty Floyd Montgomery, a future Salem Girl.

There are two guest books, one in the office of the Dean of Students, Alice Clewell Building, another in the office of the Secretary of the President, Office Building. Alumnae, be sure to "sign up" and leave a message in one or the other of these when you visit your Alma Mater!

The August 2nd issue of "The Asheville Citizen-Times" gives us an idea of what one of our ex-business students is doing. Miss Edith Harris, 1929, is secretary to the president and general manager of station WWNC, "up in the Land of the Sky."

"Miss Harris is responsible for much of the smoothness with which the studios and offices of the radio station are conducted. She finds her day full and overflowing. When she finishes her dictation from Mr. Shepherd, she learns that there are dictaphone records ready for her. There is much filing, both of 'fan' letters and business letters. There are bills to be gotten out regularly for those who 'buy time' over the local station, there are phone calls to be made concerning various programs. Edith, as she is known to all who are at the local studios, was born in Concord, but came to Asheville with her family, attended schools here, and then took her business training at Salem College."

And now we go from North Carolina to Russia to find one of our distinguished alumnae, Mrs. Lindsay Patterson, traveling and writing there. Anyone wishing to read her interesting accounts of "Russia as seen by a Carolinian" can do so in the Sunday issues of The Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel. Of course we are looking forward to her return because we know she will come to Salem and tell in her own delightfully charming manner all about her experiences there.

A letter from Mrs. Elwyn Ziegler Cole (Blanche Thornton, 1895), of 244 S. 46th St., Philadelphia, Pa., states her regret in not being able to attend Commencement and her class reunion and requests a list of the members of 1895, with addresses. "Salem College is ever in my heart, my sister and I graduating after attending four years, and my nieces, Lina Blanche (1929) and Marjorie (1930) Hallyburton also attending. They have done so well in their work and we think Salem College has had a great part in their success.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Izlar (Camille Willingham) have moved from Winston-Salem to East Aurora, N. Y., where Dr. Izlar is on the staff of the Sun and Diet Sanatorium. Their address is 73 Center St., East Aurora, New York. Salem misses this loyal alumna, who has been for several years secretary of the General Alumnae Association and an interested and active alumna in every phase of College and Academy work.

Friends of Mrs. Henry T. Bahnson (Einma Fries, 1870), will be glad to hear of her continued recovery from a serious illness. She is permitted to be downstairs during a part of the day and we hope soon to see her out again in her round of faithful and devoted service to her church, her school, and her community.

Another of our beloved alumnae is suffering from a broken leg. Mrs. J. C. Buxton (Agnes Belo, 1870), of Dallas, Texas, sustained this injury in August while visiting here and has been in the City Memorial Hospital in Winston-Salem since that time, her recovery being very slow. Classmates and friends who have not known of her illness until this writing may wish to send messages of cheer.

Extracts from a letter from Mrs. Hugh Curran (Elma Hege, 1896) takes us to the Philippine Islands:

"A letter telling us of our dear Bishop's passing brought sad thoughts. How he will be missed. I've carried the picture of him and Dr. Brown wherever I've gone, for I like it best of all of them.

"For the past three months we've had delightful weather. Here it is summer all the year 'round and one misses the thrill of springtime and autumn. Several weeks ago I was in the hospital and I remarked that I could almost imagine I was at home for I had roses, dahlias, snapdragons, gladioli and marigolds. Filipinos are just beginning to realize that flowers from temperate zones can be raised here and they love them. Here we have trees in bloom instead of tiny plants, and I miss the little things, violets, pansies, etc.

"While in St. Luke's in Manila the head nurse said, 'Why there is a teacher here who went to Salem to school and talks about it all the time.' It was May Hairston (1926) from Wenonda, Virginia. Didn't we talk! It was so refreshing to find someone from Salem there.

"You should see this little family of mine. Hugo is six feet tall, a sophomore in the College of Forestry; Howard Hunt is six-three and a half. The English teacher here teaches both Polly and Howard as there is no school for them. Polly is going to be large and rather pretty, we think.

"How you would love it here! We live in a suala house, three windows, a long sala or living room, two sleeping porches, three bedrooms, kitchen, breakfast room, with all modern conveniences. My house boy polishes the floors by melting kerosene and wax, rubbing it on, then cuts cocoanut shells in two and skates over the floor to put on the finishing touches. Of course we have a piano. I couldn't live without one, but the children are not particularly musical.

"I love best of all the trips, both by auto and train to Manila, especially during rice harvest, people in all colors gathering rice, and such beautiful rice stacks, reminding me of our hay and straw stacks at home, but much more beautifully arranged, and on the top of each a little wooden cross. With much love to all."—Mrs. Hugh Curran, U. of S. College of Forestry, Laguna, Philippine Islands.

A letter from Mrs. L. D. Yeargan (Praise Yeargan, 1878), of Rome, Georgia, tells us of the death of Louise Nisbet Hazlehurst, former Red Cross nurse and for eight years public health nurse in Georgia schools. She writes us that Mrs. Duncan Cummings (Katherine McDonald, 1912), received her A. B. from Shorter College and is now connected with the Harlin Hospital in Rome and doing fine work. "I enjoy the Record, tho the years have been long since I was there as a child. My husband visited there Commencement Sunday and told me how things look now. I am coming some Easter."

Almost forty years ago I started in the lowest class in your School. Miss Boner was my teacher and I went to the first class. I think so much of the Old School and am going to ask if you will please send me a picture of it.—Mrs. Florence (Watkins) Shelton, 1119 Apt. B, 2nd Street, Santa Monica, California.

Extracts from a letter to Mrs. Rondthaler from one of our oldest alumnae, Maria Reid Walpole, 8 Mill Street, Charleston, S. C.: "I wish I could make you understand and know how I do appreciate and love the pictures of my childhood home. When I look at them I feel like trying to sing the old song, 'Backward, turn Backward O Time in your Flight, make me a child again just for tonight.' I will celebrate my 78th birthday on the 18th of November. This time last year I was very ill, but feel strong for one of my age. With love and best wishes from one of Salem's old girls.—Mrs. C. C. Reid.

"I thought about Salem as she 'stood at the portal' and longed to be standing there myself, but I was far too busy becoming 'Miss Fiditch, that old school teacher.' I am teaching English and Latin in the Goldsboro High School and let me tell you it's no soft snap. But after my one month of experience, I feel quite capable of meeting any situation. If anyone cares for information on how to throw six-foot football boys out of the window let him just ask me.

"I am hoping to get back to Salem as soon as I get my first pay check.

"With love and all good wishes for the best year ever."—Lucy Martin Currie (1931), 205 West Ash Street, Goldsboro, N. C.

Salem has lost a good friend and loyal alumna in the passing of Vera Kirkwood Crosland (1918) on March 31, 1931. The news of her death did not reach us until after the last issue of the Alumnae Record, and we appreciated a letter in June from her mother, Mrs. R. L. Kirkwood (Janie Sherrill), from which we are quoting: "Vera had always loved Salem College and the Moravian Church quite as much as her mother did. She was so happy in the summer of 1930 when she and her husband and young son had the pleasure of stopping off there, on a trip to Canada, long enough to see and have a nice visit with the dear Bishop. She spoke of him so often and was so happy over that last visit. Little did either of them dream that when another summer should come they would both be gone. She slipped so quietly and quickly from us, before the doctors realized that she was so ill."

NEWS FROM THE CLASS OF 1931

Many of our 1931 girls are engaged in teaching. Essie Hendricks teaches at the Midway School, Callaway, Virginia; Adelaide Winston teaches sixth grade at Big Stone Gap, Virginia; Ruth Carter teaches French and History in the Clemmons, N. C., High School; Louisa Coleman and Mary Ayers Payne are teaching at Hiddenite High School, Louisa teaching Science and Mary Ayers Home Economics; Dallas Sink teaches fifth grade in the Griffith Consolidated School near Winston-Salem; Elizabeth Marx is teaching in Nazareth, Pennsylvania; Marjorie Siewers teaches English in the High School in Winston-Salem; Elizabeth Ward teaches at Lilesville, N. C.; Mary Gwyn Hickerson teaches at Fayetteville, N. C.; Katherine Lyerly teaches at Hickory, N. C., and Martha McKay teaches at Bath, N. C.

Leonora Wilder writes that she's about to take a Civil Service Examination for the position of Junior Medical Technician.

Frances Fletcher is taking a business course in Winston-Salem. Kitty Moore completed her college work at summer school and will receive her degree this fall, and is now taking a business course in Gastonia and doing some teaching in the business school.

Violet Hampton is assisting as dietitian in the school lunch room at Clemmons, N. C., and is director of the High School Home Economics Club.

Katherine Belle Helm is teaching third grade in a school near Morristown, Tennessee, but in January will enter the Massachusetts General Hospital as a dietitian.

Edith Kirkland is head of the Personal Service Department of Ellis-Stone Company, Durham, N. C.

Sue Jane Mauney has opened a private kindergarten in Lincolnton, N. C.

Margaret Richardson has returned to Salem for a business course, and Margaret Siewers has returned to add a second degree to her name, that of Bachelor of Music.

Gertrude Templeman is working for her Master's degree at the University of Richmond.

Millicent Ward is continuing her study in voice under Mr. Ernest Schofield at Salem College.

Louise Stevenson is continuing her studies in New York City.

FRIES. Winston-Salem, N. C., June 5, 1931, Col. Francis H. Fries, member Board of Trustees Salem College.

In Memoriam

The name of the late beloved Col. F. H. Fries will always be linked with the progress of Salem College and of Salem Academy between the years 1890 to 1931, which marked his long and influential membership of the Board of Trustees.

His interest was unfailing, his activities constant and his faith in both institutions a very tower of strength to those who were in the midst of the work.

No ordinary skill of words can repicture what Col. Fries' interest has meant to this institution.

His vision projected the new day into which Salem has entered, and his energy and his generosity were tangible expressions, helping to press these dreams into their realization. In the Endowment campaign he spared no efforts, first in the layout plans and then in the field work, so that none rejoiced more than he in the twice repeated success of Salem's Endowment Campaign.

Col. Fries always thought far ahead, and the enlarged campus, the arrangement of the newer College buildings, the devotion of the entire area east of Salem Square are a part of his vigorous foresight.

No one attended the Board meetings with more devotion, and no one listened with more sympathy to the recital of problems such as attend the daily life of a school.

If Col. Fries was abroad his letters were full of hope and interesting plans. Would that it were possible to know how many hours of thought he devoted to Salem Academy and College.

He loved to refer to this institution as "My mother's school, the school of my wife, my daughter and my granddaughter."

"Salem Day"

On The Campus

The second of Salem's outstanding "days" in the College year, February 3rd, looms on the horizon. Thanksgiving Day, Salem Day, May Day, Commencement Day! Which is your favorite day for a visit to your Alma Mater?

Our "Salem Day" celebration, commemorating this historic season in the history of the College and Academy, will be held on Friday, February 5th. Alumnae are cordially invited to be the guests of the College at this time. Come for the whole day if you wish and be a school girl again! Those from a distance are invited to spend Friday night as guests of the College.

Classes will continue throughout the day as usual. Early arrivals might be interested in reviewing their reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. Playtime comes at three o'clock when alumnae get-together in Main Hall. Bring paper and pencil if you wish to take notes on the following Salem Day activities: Tea by the Scorpions in the Louisa Wilson Bitting Memorial Building; Tour of the Home Economics Practice House; Visit to the Remodelled Science Laboratory, Park Hall; Familiar and Unfamiliar Campus Scenes; Step-Climbing to the Bigger and Better Salem Academy; Inspection of new Athletic Fields; Supper in the Same Old Dining Hall; The Winston-Salem Branch Alumnae Meeting in the Library; and for those who remain over night, Breakfast at the new Academy.

The time is February 5th; the place is Salem; the girl is You.

Off The Campus

Make February a "Salem Day" month off the Campus too. If you can't bring yourself to Salem, then bring Salem to you. A year or two ago an alumna wrote us that she always observed "Salem Day" even though she was the only alumna of Salem in her community, a small town in the far west.

Organized branch associations will meet under the direction of the president and other officers. If you do not hear when and where branch association meetings are to be held, then 'phone one of the officers and inquire about it. Possibly you are a new resident of the community and your name is not on the membership list. Officers may obtain lists of alumnae from the Alumnae Office.

WINSTON-SALEM BRANCH MEETING

In the absence of its President, Miss Robina Mickle, who is teaching in Greenville, South Carolina, the Winston-Salem Branch Association meeting will be held under the direction of the Vice-President, Mrs. Elizabeth Hastings McCorkle, the Secretary, Mrs. Margaret Brickenstein Leinbach, and chairmen of various committees.

Interesting plans are being made for the meeting. It will be held on Friday night, February 5th, eight o'clock, in the College Library. The membership committee is busy compiling membership lists, which total over six hundred persons, and the publicity committee plans to notify all members available. Mrs. Lucile Fogle is in charge of the program committee and a program is already fully arranged, but not published.

The Winston-Salem Branch extends a cordial invitation to any visiting alumnae to be present at its 1932 meeting.

ANOTHER HONOR FOR SALEM

The School of Music of Salem College announces its election to membership in the National Association of Schools of Music. This election, which places Salem College in the front rank of Schools of Music of the nation, is significant and signal for the Institution.

The National Association of Schools of Music was formed a number of years ago for the purpose of standardizing and stabilizing the degree, Bachelor of Music, and includes in its membership the foremost schools of music in the country, such as the Eastman School of Music, the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Northwestern University School of Music and others of that calibre.

The admission of Salem College to the Association followed a visit of examination and investigation by Mr. Burnet C. Tuthill, secretary of the Association who attended all the classes in Music, heard all of the Seniors play and was present at a Faculty Recital. He reported at the Annual Meeting of the Association, which occurred late in December, that Salem College was doing a conscientious and thorough job and recommended the admission of the College to the Association.

This action on the part of the Association marks a significant step forward for Salem College. It means that the degree, Bachelor of Music, as granted by the college is recognized nationally as being on a par with that offered by great universities and other nationally known colleges and schools of music.

A 7:30 P. M. LECTURE COURSE ON MODERN CONTINENTAL DRAMATISTS

Beginning with the second semester, January 26th, Dr. Pearl V. Willoughby of the Department of English will give an interesting course in Modern Continental Dramatists. This course is given to college students for credit, but the hour is so arranged that any residents of Winston-Salem and vicinity who are interested in this field can register for it and take the course without credit. Beginning January 26th, Dr. Willoughby will lecture on this subject every Tuesday night at 7:30 p. m. She will discuss representative dramas of various European countries, Scandinavia, Germany, Italy, France and Spain, making a study of modern continental dramatists, including Strindberg, Schnitzler, D'Annunzio, Pirandello, Brieux, and others.

Alumnae living in the vicinity of Winston-Salem who are interested in taking the course are invited to enroll.

Here and There Among The Alumnae

If you find within these pages a slip, printed in red, it is a "danger warning," indicating that your subscription to The Alumnae Record has expired.

Please save further cost of subscription solicitations by forwarding the fifty cents at this time. If you prefer to send a dollar, you will be given credit for two years. The expense of sending out "coin cards" for subscription collections is very heavy, and Salem asks your cooperation in avoiding such expense and labor.

Address your subscription to The Alumnae Office, Salem College. Don't delay sending it and we will know you wish to continue your contact with Salem through the pages of the Alumnae Record.

Ruth Reeves, 1923, continues as owner and editor of "The Skyland Post" at West Jefferson, North Carolina. This is the only newspaper printed in Ashe County and Ruth seems to be making a success of it judging from a recent copy received in the Alumnae Office.

An interesting summer visitor, who had not been back to her Alma Mater since the erection of the new Academy plant, was Janet Spaugh, Academy 1921. While visiting relatives in Winston-Salem, Janet made a thorough tour of all the new buildings and was charmed with everything, both new and old, on the Salem Campus. She is teaching piano and theory at the Pilliom Studios in Pittsburg, and is organist and choir director at the West End Presbyterian Church there. Her address is 5321 Fifth Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

Salem has lost a faithful friend in the recent passing of Miss Maggie Morton, of Oxford, N. C. She was a member of the class of 1895, attending Salem with her sister, Miss Annie Morton. Since her graduation she has kept in continued touch with her Alma Mater from her home in Oxford, where for twenty-eight years she served as teacher and matron in the Oxford Orphanage.

Among recent visitors was Elizabeth Ward, 1931, now teaching English, History and Civics in the high school at Lilesville, N. C. She writes, "Being at chapel, seeing my friends, and enjoying the atmosphere characteristic of Salem, were a real inspiration to me. I was impressed with the improvements this year, noticeably the spirit of co-operation in regard to Student Government. The future certainly looks bright for Salem. It will always have my best wishes."

Louise Watson, Academy 1929, is assistant laboratory technician at the Jackson Park Hospital, 7531 Stoney Island Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"Joyful Christmas with best wishes for a Happy New Year to all my good friends at Salem College from Anne Desmarest Capek, Klatovy, Czechoslovakia."

Miriam Bundy (Business Class 1928) is Assistant Historian, Sibley Memorial Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Charlotte Stair (Business Class, 1930) writes that she is Private Secretary to General Agent for Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company in her home town, Knoxville, Tenn., and that she is "very fond of my work."

Mrs. Ralph Tuttle (Elizabeth Leight), has an interesting position as Home Demonstration Agent in Forsyth County.

The next issue of The Alumnae Record, i.e., the February-March issue, will be devoted particularly to the interests of Salem Academy. Miss Mary Weaver, Principal of Salem Academy, and Miss Jess Byrd, instructor in English, are carrying on extensive correspondence with Academy alumnae and it is hoped that this February-March issue will contain lots of news about former girls. In addition alumnae will learn through its pages all about the present day Academy life.

IMPORTANT

If you are planning to revisit your Alma Mater on "Salem Day," to be celebrated Friday, February 5th, please notify the Alumnae Office when you will arrive and how long you will stay, so that the necessary arrangements for a royal welcome can be made by us in advance.

REUNION CLASSES COMMENCEMENT, JUNE

1869, 1870, 1871, 1872

Members of these four classes will be Salem's honor guests at Commencement. Catalogues of these far away years do not give names by classes and therefore our file is incomplete and incorrect. The Editor asks that all members of these classes, 1869, 1870, 1871, and 1872, who can be at Salem for Commencement, write us to that effect, and that those who cannot come, send a message of reminiscence for publication in The Alumnae Record.

The Alumnae Office will appreciate letters correcting errors in the following class lists:

In a subsequent issue of The Record there will be listed the "lost" members of 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929. Help to put their addresses back into the Alumnae file by sending information about them.

Helen Griffin (Mrs. Robert King) of Wilson, N. C., President of 1926, writes "1926 wants a 100% attendance—married ones, single ones, 'schoolmarms,' business girls, housekeepers and ladies of leisure!"

1927

Can you imagine why I am putting a notice in this issue of the "Record"? Why of course it's to remind you that you're coming to Salem in June for Our Reunion. Five years ago we said farewell to each other and our Alma Mater and in June all of us are coming back. Wouldn't it be great to have a one hundred percent reunion? I wonder if such a thing has ever happened? All right, Twenty-seven, we use to do rather unique, unusual things, so here's a chance to add one more achievement to our list. This isn't my last speech on the subject. I'm real excited about the idea, so are A. P. Shaffner, Dot Siewers (Bondurant) and the others who live in Winston-Salem. We are making elaborate plans for your entertainment and of course we want every one here. Let me hear from you real soon and if you have any suggestions let's have them too. In another issue of the "Record" you'll find an article about a little recent history of the Class of Twenty-seven. Be sure not to miss it. I hope that you'll become so interested and enthused that you won't dare think of missing all of the gossip that is going to take place in June. Please don't stay away because of the depression. Our finances never were anything to boast of, we're accustomed to running pretty low, so the depression shouldn't bother us at all. A great many changes have taken place at Salem. You just must see everything, we'll have a Sight Seeing Expedition. The lilies in the pool are still flourishing and the gold fish!!! Come see for yourself. I'm really serious about this and we want you here, at Salem on the fourth, fifth and sixth of June.—RUTH PFOHL.

Mary Audrey Stough, President of 1928 says: "1928 wants a 150% attendance at Commencement—i.e. all that 1926 expects back plus husbands, children, fiances and beaux! Please notify her at 210 Mt. Vernon Avenue or Katherine Riggan at Salem College how many of the above you will bring with you!"

1929

As for 1929, Cam Boren, President is already "packed" for a journey to Salem at Commencement, and Mary Johnson will probably get here ahead of time! Who ever heard of the 1929 girls missing anything—except the rising bell?

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

To All Former Salem Academy Pupils, Greetings:

It has been very delightful to read so many wonderful letters from former Academy pupils and to enjoy the snapshots in which "the baby" is always the center of the picture and the mother out of focus.

Think how offended you would have been a few years ago if anybody had dared to circulate a picture of you out of focus or with your back turned to the camera.

And now as to Commencement plans. Of course you know that the Academy Commencement and the College Commencement are two quite separate occasions. Salem Academy condenses its Commencement into Friday, May 27th. This is the home-coming occasion to which we invite "every Academy Girl" who would enjoy a night spent in the new and beautiful plant on the far side of the Campus. We will make you wonderfully comfortable and you will have a great pleasure in the exercises of Commencement Friday.

Salem College Commencement begins on Saturday, May 28th, and extends over the week-end with Graduating Exercises on Monday morning.

Bishop Penick preaches the Baccalaureate Sermon and President Graham of the University delivers the Commencement Address. This means that both these occasions will be extremely interesting and valuable.

Why not make a week-end of it?

Yours most cordially,

Howard E. Rondthaler,
President.

MAY DAY HOUSEPARTY

The Academy Seniors have been invited to the Salem College May Day houseparty which is to be held the week-end of April 30th. Salem College extends an invitation to other high school seniors. If you know of any girls going to college next year, we shall be glad to invite them at your request. The girls are expected to arrive Friday April 29th and be present at the May Day Celebration on Saturday, for which extensive preparations are now being made.

SPECIAL CLASS REUNIONS

In addition to a general Academy Alumnae get-together at Commencement, special plans are being made urging the return of members of 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931.

GREETINGS FROM OUR PRINCIPALS

MISS MARY WEAVER

From Miss Weaver, now principal of the Academy, we quote the following:

I wish I could tell you how much I have enjoyed each letter that has come to us in answer to our recent appeal for news of you. I sincerely hope you will have just as good a time with the second-hand news as we have had in getting it ready to relay on to you. Do you want another Academy issue next year? This one has been an experiment—its future success depends on you.

We believe in your loyalty to Salem, and should like to strengthen and build up this loyalty. We have relied in the past on your friendly assistance in maintaining the high standard of our student body and we depend on your continued help in selecting our students. We always welcome information about your friends and relatives who may be interested in Salem and we hope you will write us of any girl whom you can recommend as a future Salemite.

We are intensely proud of our beautiful and complete new buildings and nothing pleases us more than to have an opportunity to show them off. Please help satisfy our vanity by coming to see the new Salem Academy—and us.

Best wishes to all of you whether you answered our letter or not. We are looking for you—'28-'29-'30-'31, for reunion. Please don't disappoint us!

MISS ELEANOR CHASE

Miss Eleanor Chase, principal of the Academy from 1926-1931, resigned last year to go home to Ware, Massachusetts, where she is keeping house for her father and teaching in the public schools of Ware. Those of you who in past years had come to depend on Miss Chase will enjoy the following:

"Old girls—past and present. I think of you often when I look into the round placid faces of my Polish boys and girls. Not that you were round and placid—far from it! Salem Academy was a lively place and I love to recall the happy, interesting, lively times we had there. I know they are still going on for it's Salem's way to fill the hours to the sixtieth minute. My love and best wishes go to each one of you wherever you may be and especially to those of you who are making this year's New Salem Academy."

MR. EDWIN J. HEATH

Mr. Edwin J. Heath, principal of Salem Academy 1916-1926, is now president of the Moravian Seminary and College in Bethlehem, Pa. To you who knew and loved Mr. Heath this letter will have a warm interest.

"The girls of 1922-32 are doubtless giving a good account of themselves. Every once in awhile one of them walks into my office and all their names are duly inscribed in the visitors' book. It is always a great joy to see them and to notice the dignity which time, and in some instances, mother-hood has developed in those whom I knew as carefree girls.

"Please tell the alumnae where we live and that the latch-string is always out. I might describe our historic school and boastfully add that it is thirty years older than the Academy, though not nearly so gorgeous as the new Academy! However, our most striking possession is not an historic heirloom but little baby Marian, age two. I am sure that some of your readers will remember when Jane Rondthaler first saw the light. If Marian grows as intelligently as Jane has done, I shall be as proud of this school as we all are of the Academy."

Faculty News

Miss Elizabeth Zachary, resident principal since 1928, spent the summer of 1929 in Europe with Miss Elizabeth Chase and was assistant director of Camp Juliet Lowe at Cloudland, Georgia, in 1931. She continues to be willing and able to straighten out all the little difficulties in the life of the girls outside of classes. Her unlimited supply of clever ideas for athletic banquets is a source of wonder to us.

Miss Charlotta Jackson, resident principal since 1928, and a former teacher of physical Education in Salem College, studied at Columbia University last summer. She not only concerns herself with the "manners and morals" of the Academy girls, but she also takes a great interest in beautifying the ground. She has recently been instrumental in adding a number of dogwood trees and Japanese cherry trees to our side of the campus. She also organized this year the Cosmopolitan Club, which has been doing active social service work.

Miss Margaret Murray has been studying for her M.A. degree at Columbia in the summers. Her science classes still labor and groan over notebooks as in years past.

As most of you know, Miss Mary A. Weaver, teacher of mathematics from 1925-31 was appointed Principal of the Academy in 1931. She went abroad in 1928 and has been at home in Asheville for the past two summers. In spite of her arduous duties as principal, "Weaver" still spends much of her time making "math" easier for Academy girls. She sends special greetings to the classes of '26 and '31.

Miss Jess Byrd is still strong on golf and the blue Ford, which is getting feeble now. She spent the past summer in Europe with Miss Eleanor Chase. "Byrd" sends special greetings to the class of '27 and to all who survived her junior English classes.

Miss Dorothy Knox received her M.A. degree at Middlebury College in 1931. She spent the summer of 1929 in Europe and was at Harvard last summer. She is now teaching sight-singing as well as French and is busy directing the operetta for 1932, "The Mikado."

Miss Virginia Wilson still cooks waffles for junior classes struggling to make money for the Junior-Senior Banquet. She sends special greetings to the class of 1930.

Miss Georgia Watson, a graduate of National Cathedral School, Agnes Scott College, and the University of Chicago, is the new history teacher this year. She also assists with athletics.

Miss Laura Sumner, who has degrees from the North Carolina College for Women and Smith College, is now teacher of English. She is the new advisor for the "Quill Pen."

Miss Helen Vogler, a graduate of Salem College, is now Dietician.

Miss Estelle McCanless, Salem College graduate, is instructor in art, a department added in 1931.

Miss Hazel Wheeler, A.B., Boston University, "She of the gentle voice and manner," is still presiding at the switchboard and yet has time to listen to our troubles.

Miss Dot Etheridge, secretary, still manages to get down to Davidson or Carolina every other week-end at least.

THE NEW SALEM ACADEMY

For the benefit of the girls who have not visited Salem recently, we present this view of the new Academy as seen from the College and give the following history:

As signal evidence of the great love born for the institution and as recognition of its service, Salem Academy in 1930-31 occupied for the first time a group of new buildings, situated on the eastern slope of the beautiful and historic Salem campus. These buildings, memorials to three alumnae sisters, Carrie Fries Shaffner, Mary Fries Patterson, and Emma Fries Bahnson, are the gift of the children of these mothers whose names they bear.

The Academy buildings stand on the brow of the hill east of Salem College.

The Academy consists of three brick buildings which on first sight appear to be a unit but which in reality are three separate structures connected by fire-proof stair towers. Though of recent construction they preserve the quaint Moravian style of architecture in which the original school buildings of 1772 and 1785 were erected.

In the center of this group stands the Mary Patterson Building which contains offices, classrooms, laboratories, and formal reception room. This building on the southwest opens on a broad sun terrace commanding a view of Salem College which occupies the western extremity of the Salem Campus.

On either side of the Mary Patterson Building are the Emma Bahnson and Carrie Shaffner dormitories, each of four stories which include three floors of sleeping rooms for students and teachers. There are ten rooms on each floor, one of which is occupied by a teacher and the others arranged each to accommodate two students.

On the first floor in the Emma Bahnson Building are a modern kitchen and dining room with tables for eight persons. The Mary Patterson Building contains a large assembly hall with stage at one end and open-air loggia at the other. On both sides of this room are great open fireplaces which can be cut off from the auditorium into cozy nooks. In the Carrie Shaffner Building are a small private dining room with kitchenette, a book store, a laundry, and a rest and recreation room for day students.

Thus with thoroughly modern equipment, with the heritage of more than a century and a half of service, and with the support of the thousands of alumnae, Salem Academy continues the old traditions but has entered at the same time a new era in her history.

ACADEMY SENIORS

The following girls are members of the Senior Class in the Academy this year: Christine Adams, McColl, S. C.; Helen Allen, Newport, Tenn. Mary Nelson Anderson, Mocksville, N. C.; Francis Bowland, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Anna Boylin, Wadesboro, N. C.; Zaida Buckley, Summit, N. J.; Jean Burroughs, Conway S. C.; Dorothy Anne and Margaret Chandler, Alcoa, Tenn.; Marguerite Coffman, Harrisonburg, Va.; Mary Elizabeth Cunningham, Greensboro; Genevieve Givler, Greensboro; Helen Guerrant, Callaway, Va.; Jane Howard, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Nell Humphrey, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Frances Humphreys, Danbury, N. C.; Clara Huxford, Mobile, Alabama; Jean Jackson, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Martha Jones, Coral Gables, Florida and Red Star, W. Va.; Alice Lanier, Langdale, Alabama, Mary Flora Lawrence, Raleigh; Marie Leonard, New York City; Zoe Powell, Richmond, Va.; Jane Rondthaler, Winston-Salem; Fan Scales, Stoneville, N. C.; Lottie Schramm, Nazareth, Penn.; Gertrude Schwalbe, Bethel, Alaska; Ellen Simmerman, Winston-Salem; Carolyn Welch, Greensboro; Mary Mitchell Westall, Asheville; Sarah G. Wilson, Cleveland, Tenn.

NEWS OF FORMER ACADEMY TEACHERS

Miss Amelia Hollis, teacher of history 1930-31, is now Mrs. Tom K. Scott, Ridge Street, Lynchburg, Virginia. Miss Weaver and Miss Wilson, who spent a week-end with her this spring, report that she is enjoying domestic duties in her attractive little home.

Miss Elizabeth Chase, teacher of history 1927-30, is now docent in the Museum at Yale University where she lectures on Art. She visited us in 1931.

Miss Grace Taylor, teacher of history from 1923-27, is now Mrs. Rex Stuart, Gray Court Apartments, Winston-Salem. Since Christmas, she has been teaching in the R. J. Reynolds' High School.

Miss Margaret Davis, teacher of Latin 1920-27, is now Mrs. O. Mack Brown, 2 Glenn Apartments, Dacian Avenue, Durham, N. C. She has a daughter four years old.

Miss Miriam Efird, teacher of English from 1923-27, is at home in Winston-Salem. She took a trip around the world a year ago.

Miss Bessie Pfohl, teacher of English 1925-26, is Dean of Girls at Mary Baldwin College.

Mrs. John R. Herndon, House Mother from 1920-27, is in New York City with Margaret. Her address is 438 West 44th Street.

Miss Lucile Reid, teacher of Domestic Science in 1926-27, is now Mrs. Harry Fagge, Leaksville, N. C.

ACADEMY GLIMPSES

Mrs. Rondthaler is following the custom set in 1931 of having boys at the Academy Senior dinner to be held on April 22nd this year. Remember how Mishew fell in love at last year's senior dinner?

As usual the girls are having banquets at the close of each athletic season. One of the most beautiful events of the year was the Christmas party held in the social room the night before Christmas vacation started.

There have been a number of Saturday moonlight horseback rides this year and five early morning rides with a country breakfast served at Mr. Anderson's farm afterwards.

The Junior English Class gave this year at Thanksgiving a modern three-act play, "The Romantic Age," by A. A. Milne.

The Dramatic Club in 1931 gave very successfully two one-act plays and is now working on three one-act plays to be presented in March. The club presented the Salem Academy Library with ten volumes of plays last year.

The girls have been on several overnight hikes during the year, going twice to Danbury, and twice to the Shaffner farm.

For all sports the school has been divided into two teams, the Purples and the Golds, with Jean Burroughs and Alice Lanier as captains of these groups.

Marie Leonard of New York City is president of the Dramatic Club; Jane Rondthaler is editor of the Quill Pen, the Academy annual; Ellen Adams, Macon, Georgia, is president of the Edison Club; and Carolyn Welch, Greensboro, is president of the Cosmopolitan Club.

The usual Christmas pageant was presented in Memorial Hall on December 17th. Varina Mayo, Knoxville, Tenn., was the madonna.

The whole school went to the Shaffner farm for a Hallowe'en party.

Miss Elizabeth Trotman, Winston-Salem, is president of the Harlequin Club, the junior dramatic organization.

Marjorie Bailey, now Mrs. Clement Williams, 405 East 54th Street, New York City, is on the fashion staff of the Butterick Publishing Company and her husband, an Ohio State graduate, is an architect. She writes: "Peggy Talbot Fleming and I are considering coming down for the Easter service if we can dodge our responsibilities for a week."

Harriet Childress, (ex-'22), now Mrs. John C. Tune, Jr., the Donaldson, 3221 West End Avenue, Nashville, Tenn., attended Tate School, and later graduated at Peabody. For three years she worked in her father's office, and is now devoting her time to a seven months old son. She writes: "I was simply delighted to have some news of Salem. I never see any of the girls I knew there or any girls who ever went there. They just don't seem to wander over this way Be sure to count me in on the paper, I am crazy to see it. When will it be out?"

Evelyn Millner, Mrs. Louis C. Nolan, Morganton, N. C., writes: "The news of an Academy Alumnae Record to be published this spring came as a direct answer to a prayer I was making at the Salem Book Store desk at just about the time the news was being written! My husband and I were in Winston-Salem for a few days, at the time. One morning we walked over the back campus, into the old court yards and up and down the old familiar paths, and finally into the old Academy building, itself, where I had spent such very, very happy years. The new buildings we admired very much indeed, but our time was limited and I gave it to the old, endeared places At present, I am dividing my time between my parent's home in Morganton, and Durham, where my husband is working toward his Ph.D. degree. He expects to complete his thesis sometime during the following year, and after that we hope for a year or two in Peru in order to continue his research. I shall greet the Alumnae Record with the greatest interest and happiness, and I am sure that all the other 'old girls' are as grateful to you as I am for providing us with this means of keeping in touch."

Laura Tillett, Mrs. Osborne Bethea, is now living at The Alden Park Manor, Philadelphia, Pa., where her husband is in the insurance business.

Adelaide Wright attended Salem College and is now Mrs. Tom Boaz, 102 East Sprague Street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Flora Spurgeon, president of '22, 1705 Stevens Avenue, Louisville, Kentucky, writes: "Your letter impresses me with how little I have kept in contact with my Salem Academy classmates these ten years that have elapsed. I am eager for news of each of them. Annually I receive a Christmas note from Laura Tillett but have not seen her since she moved to Philadelphia. It was good to be associated with her the two years I was in Baltimore studying Occupational Therapy. She came to Baltimore as the bride of Osborne Bethea. Helen Mitchell visited in Baltimore at that time; so the three of us talked Salem Academy days and recalled many happy instances. After leaving Baltimore I took a post-graduate course in Occupational Therapy at The Walter Reed General Hospital, Army Medical center, Washington, D. C. From there I received an appointment to the Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco. For two years I have been director of Occupational Therapy, in The King's Daughters' Home for Incurables, Louisville, Kentucky. While home Christmas I saw Mamie Cawthorne who is married, has two children and lives in Greensboro. She tells me that my old room-mate, Evelyn Graham, is married and has gone to the West Coast with her husband. Also that Alice Copper, who has been married several years, lives in Greensboro and has one child. The last we heard from Mary Gladys Watts, now married, she was living in New York City."

Mary K. Brown, after two years at Salem College, has been at home in Cleveland, N. C., where she has taught school for the last six years.

Margaret Holbrook graduated from Salem College in 1927.

Mary Martha Lybrook, now Mrs. Charles H. Neal, is living on West-view Drive in Winston-Salem. She attended school at Salem and Agnes Scott College.

Marion Neely, now Mrs. Stephan A. Miller, 719 East Main Street, Van Wert, Ohio, writes: "Since I left Salem I have become quite an Ohioan! In 1927 I came out to Van Wert to teach at the Marsh Foundation School for the summer term, then after taking the Student Dietetics Course in Boston at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Dr. Reeder asked me back to the Marsh Foundation School to teach and do some dietetics work. After a year there, there was an opening at the Van Wert County Hospital into which I was lucky enough to step. Although the hospital work was interesting, it was not too all-absorbing and I did have time to get other interests. On Thanksgiving Day, 1930, I received a diamond ring from a young man who is a Y. M. C. A. secretary and on April the sixth, 1931, this same Y. M. C. A. secretary and I were married in Indianapolis, Indiana, and after a honeymoon South, we came back to Van Wert and started house-keeping."

Ruth Pfohl treasurer of '23, Winston-Salem, who was president of her class in Salem College in 1927, has since studied harp in Philadelphia. She is now teaching in the city schools here.

Anna Pauline Shaffner, president of '23, High Street, Winston-Salem, graduated from Salem College in 1927 and was chosen Miss Salem. Her engagement to Mr. Ronald Slye of Jacksonville, Florida was announced on February 21, 1932.

Dorothy Siewers, secretary of '23, now Mrs. Stuart Bondurant, 510 Church Street, Winston-Salem, graduated from Salem College in 1927. She has two children, Stuart, two and a half, and Dorothy Ann eight months.

Veda Mae Tesh, Belo Home, South Main Street, Winston-Salem, writes that she took a business course after leaving the Academy and is working for Perryman Brothers Lumber Company. Her address is Box 277, Salem Station.

Margaret Talbot, now Mrs. John J. Fleming, Crow's Nest, Mill Road, Flourtown, Pa., writes: "Well, I am married, have a fine little boy of five, and have been living at the above address for something less than a year. My husband is an engineer, and in consequence, we have moved about the country a great deal, and only at rare intervals have I seen any Salem girls. We seem to be semi-permanent here, however, and I am taking advantage of it. Quite recently Marjorie Bailey and her husband, Bill Williams, spent the week-end with us. It was grand getting news of Salem, and I am awfully anxious to see the place again, and marvel at the improvements you have made."

Isabel Wenhold, 510 South Main Street, Winston-Salem, graduated from Salem College in 1927 and is teaching in Mount Airy.

Nellie Garrou (ex-'22) is now Mrs. Joseph A. Hern, Valdese, N. C. She was married in 1924—has two children aged five and two and a half.

Miriam Anderson graduated from Agnes Scott College in 1928 and went to the Presbyterian Training School in Richmond, Va. She is now working in Crossnore School, Crossnore, N. C.

Althea Backenstoe, now Mrs. George Robinson, Liberty Apartments, Asheville, N. C., writes: "What a long time it has been since I've written you all! My thoughts have always been with you and many times I have wished I could be there again in those alcoves. They might have been old-fashioned but all the same I am glad I was there when we could be closer together and feel like one big family. I've done nothing but the usual thing which is marry and settle down to a quiet dignified life. I have one lovely little girl three years old and it is my greatest ambition to send her to the Academy. Time passes very quickly, and it won't be long. Here's to the success of the Alumnae Record—it's a great idea!" She says that she sees Mary Candler of Sylva and Mary Enloe of Dillsboro, who is teaching school there.

Sallie Hunter Ball, who graduated from Salem College in 1928 and who is now teaching in Wilson, gives us interesting bits of news about many Salem people in Wilson and in Eastern Carolina.

Helen Board, president of '24, now Mrs. Meredith A. Smith of 35 Blue Grass Ave., Fort Thomas, Ky., has a daughter five months old. Her sister, Elizabeth Board, graduated from the Academy in 1929.

Velma Cline, Box 165, Lakeview Park, Asheville, N. C., writes: "I deem it a great privilege to have recognition in the Alumnae Record, and I wish you great success in the undertaking. The four years following my graduation at Salem were spent studying piano under Dr. Frederic Shailer Evans at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. While there, I played on Dr. Evans' annual concert program which was considered one of the outstanding musical events of the year. After leaving the Conservatory, I visited New York and played for Emert Hutherson." Velma, who has given several concerts in Asheville, sends us a program of her most recent concert.

Dorothy Frazier, who graduated from Salem College in 1928 and was President of the Athletic Association, is now Mrs. Chalmers Glenn, Louisville, N. C. For several years she was an instructor in French at Salem College. Her little sister, Louise Frazier, is now a sophomore at the Academy and is following in Dot's footsteps by her devotion to athletics.

Anita Ghigo, Box 174, Valdese, N. C., writes that after graduating from the Academy she attended Mitchell College, Flora McDonald, and received an A. B. degree from Maryville College. She has taught French in Glade Valley High School and Lenoir High School. This year she is staying at home with her mother.

Emily Harper is now Mrs. Carl Ogburn, S. Cherry Street, Winston-Salem, and has two lovely children.

Mary Duncan McAnally, who graduated from Salem College in 1928, is now instructor in the Home Economics Department in the College.

Flora McPhail, now Mrs. Harry Logan, is living in West Asheville, N. C., and has a young son.

Margaret Miller, 2130 Terrence Avenue, Knoxville, Tenn., who is a graduate of the University of Tennessee writes: "I think your plan for the new issue a fine one, and the result should be most worthwhile. I personally shall be most interested in seeing it, for I realize the great changes which have taken place in both Academy and College since my day. I am delighted with the fine new buildings, but still more so with the fine new liberal spirit of the school. I'm trying very hard to become a good artist and a good writer and to fit myself for a temporary position as an art teacher."

Dorothy Schallert attended Salem College and Duke University.

Mary Ardrey Stough, Mt. Vernon Avenue, Charlotte, N. C., graduated from Salem College in 1928 and since has taught in Davidson, N. C. She is now teaching in Charlotte. She was president of her class in Salem College.

Montine VerNooy is still living in Athens, Georgia.

Marion White, Mebane, N. C., graduated at Converse and will receive her M. A. Degree at the University of Arizona in June.

Louise Anderson (ex-'25), now Mrs. Tom Bridgers is living in Wilson, N. C., and has a two year old daughter.

Elizabeth White, (ex-'24), graduated with highest honors at New York School of Fine Arts in Paris, February 1931. After three years of study in New York, Paris and Italy, she is now an Interior Decorator at the Allerton Club in Chicago and writing for trade papers and leading Women's Magazines.

Margaret Pate (ex-'24) is Mrs Edwin Woodward, Wilson, N. C. She has a young daughter, Peggy.

Mabel Angel, 1919 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I have been in Washington for the past four years, doing secretarial and general office work. The last three years have been with the American Association of University Women. It pleased me very much to know that 'Salem' made the accredited list in the Association at the last convention. There are over a thousand members in the Washington Branch and around fifty thousand in the National Organization. Aside from my office work I have been attending an Art School and the Columbia Music School here in Washington. I have travelled extensively in New England States and Canada during the past few years."

Cam Boren, who graduated from Salem College in 1929, and was president of her class, is to be married this spring to Hoyt Winfield Boone.

Martha Bowden, Kenansville, N. C., who has been very ill this winter and who has had sickness in her family, is keeping house for her mother and directing a junior choir. She writes: "I would give worlds to get back to Salem one more time. I'll always love it better than any place but home."

Anne Hairston, who graduated from Salem College in 1929 and was president of the Athletic Association is teaching in Wenonda, Virginia. She writes: "I am teaching history and Latin, coaching girls' basketball and physical education and supervising the school library. I don't believe that you have as good time in your new building as we did in the dear old Academy. I will never forget the days of alcoves and hanging out the front windows on Sundays to see who was checking Salem Square. Some day I hope to get back to Salem and revisit rather than visit the Academy in the new home. Please don't let Mrs. Brown (Miss Margaret Davis) know that I am teaching Latin for I am afraid that my reputation will dwindle. I failed Cicero under her."

Helen Johnson graduated at Salem College in 1929 and is married to Carl Walker McMurray, pastor of Morningside Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Ga.

Mary Johnson, 304 Edenton Street, Raleigh, N. C., May Queen of the class of '29 (Salem College), frequently visits Salem. She was a guest of the Academy at Salem Day February 5th. Her letter contained interesting bits of news of her Academy classmates. Zaidée (Dash) Dorrough (ex-'25) is now Mrs. Williams Wesley Avera and lives at 746 Poplar Boulevard, Jackson, Mississippi.

Ruth Marsden received an A. B. degree from Salem College in 1929 and a degree in music in 1930 and is now teaching music here. She plays for our chapel once a week and broadcasts a program on Sunday.

Josephine McCorkle, Mrs. W. B. Hicks, Scottsboro, Alabama, spent two years in the East Tennessee State Teachers College, then went to Brenau for a year and received her A.B. Degree from the University of Alabama in 1931. She writes: "I was married the 16th of January, 1932, to 'Billy' Hicks, captain of the 1929 Alabama football team. I wish I could tell you how happy we are."

Brownie Peacock graduated from Salem College in 1929.

Margaret Wooten, president of '25, is now Mrs. Dick McMillan, 2795 Peachtree Road, Atlanta, Ga.

Lula Wynne is Mrs. C. W. Norman, Hillsboro Road, Raleigh. She has a young baby now six months old.

Genevieve Jackson, 809 Cathedral Street, Baltimore, Maryland, is studying at Peabody Conservatory, Baltimore, and is majoring in voice. She writes: "Baltimore is a most interesting city and offers much recreation in the form of music and the theatre."

Helen Lee, (ex-'25), lives at the Fairfax Hotel, 116 East 56th Street, New York City, and spends most of her time designing baby clothes.

Barbara Heath in a most interesting letter gives us news of many Salem girls, of present and past days: "My chances of showing the 'good old Salem Spirit' have been seriously hampered during the last month or so by the production of an eighteenth century comedy (5 acts) in which I was the love-lorn heroine, 'The Contrast,' written by Royall Tyler in 1787 and presented by the Lafayette College dramatic club. After graduating from Moravian in 1929, I had a year's experience as assistant in the Bethlehem Public Library. In the fall of '30, I entered Columbia University School of Library Service. I paid a brief call on Isabel Birrell last spring. She looked as young, and talked as volubly as ever. Since she left Salem she has been teaching in Jersey City. But shades of still earlier days at Salem have appeared—Joan McGregor writes that she too, is working in the city and lives on West 121st Street. Ruth Parrish lived within walking distance of Johnson Hall, where I stayed last year. As far as I know she is still an instructor in Columbia Teachers' College. So much for New York. After Columbia presented me with a B.S. in Library Service, and turned me out, with 4,935 others, I was fortunate enough to secure a very good position as cataloguer in the Lafayette College Library at Easton, Pa. As it is only a twenty-minute drive from here, I live at home, and sally forth each day in my own little Ford Coupe. Even in a male sanctuary like Lafayette, one fails to escape from old Salem girls. Who do you think walked serenely into the library this fall, but Frances Murray? She is living in Phillipsburg, N. J., and working in the Electrical Engineering Department of the College."

Athena Campourakis graduated from Salem College in 1930, and is now living at home in Winston-Salem.

Elizabeth Christian is Mrs. Eugene Brockenborough, now living in the Cavalier Apartments, Lynchburg, Va. She has a young son, William Rich.

Frances Coleman is now Mrs. Zack Toms, 708 Massasoit Avenue, West Moreland Place, Richmond, Va.

Anne Cooke is now Mrs. Sam L. Boone, 2375 Elizabeth Avenue, Winston-Salem.

Selma Crews graduated from Salem College in 1930.

Mary Virginia Dunn, who graduated from Salem College in 1931, is Mrs.

Louis Harry Woodard of Wake Forest, N. C. We hear that Mary Virginia is keeping house and is very happy.

Jennie Heiss, 1898 East 82nd Street, Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "I am in family case work with the Cleveland Associated Charities. This is my second year after finishing Winthrop College in 1930. I am expecting to get my Masters' degree from the School of Applied Social Science connected with Western Reserve University, this June. I enjoy social work very much and intend to continue in Cleveland next year. Besides working, my time is spent in doing light housekeeping in an apartment I share with another social worker from Brown University, in seeing a few plays, and in seeking the usual recreation."

Nannie Howard Knight, Mrs. Edgar Russell Osborne, 312 Nash Street, Rocky Mount, N. C., writes: "I married on April 19th, 1928, and I have a little girl now two and one-half years of age. I devote most of my time to home-making and training my little girl whom we call Nancy Russell. I made a trip to Salem on last February a year ago during a visit to my Academy room-mate Maye Fentress, who is living in Greensboro. We went to Salem one afternoon. We were taken through the new Academy building and you can picture how proud we were of it. Indeed, it is lovely and I sometimes wish I could go over my year of study and be back again. I always look back to my Salem days with much pride and pleasure. They are indeed happy memories, and even though my little girl is yet hardly more than a baby, I shall look forward as she grows up, to the time when she too may be able to enter Salem."

Muriel Lombra, 550 Shuttle Meadow Road, New Britain, Conn., is keeping house for her aunt who is ill. She writes: "My trips have been northward lately. I managed to go to Lake Placid one year on a house-party which was glorious. The next year it was Greenfield for the winter sports and this year, if it ever snows, we've planned a trip to Greenfield again."

Elizabeth Marx who graduated from Salem College in 1930, is now teaching school in Nazareth, Penn.

Katherine Miller is now Mrs. Clifford Steward and is living in Columbia, Missouri, where her husband is an instructor in Biology at the University.

Willie Mims, president of '26, Newport, Tenn., writes: "Since I finished Randolph-Macon, I have been teaching here at home—handling about thirty boys and girls in the fifth and sixth grades. It's a great life and I find myself liking it lots—however, I have a feeling I don't want to be doing it many more years. This past summer I visited Mrs. Kenneth Eberts (Mary Stokely) who has moved to Greenwood, Indiana. She has a darling house and likes it a lot." Mary went to Agnes Scott after leaving Salem.

Virginia Pfohl, who graduated from Salem College in 1930, is now at home in Winston-Salem.

Nannie Russell is Mrs. Jesse O. Sanderson, Robbinsville, N. C.

Mildred Schneider, Cornwall, New York, writes: "One always feels that her activities are of so little interest to others, but Salem and its girls are one of my fondest memories, and I know how interested I am to hear of the other girls. After graduating from college in New York City I came to Cornwall to teach the Social Sciences in the Junior High School here. This is such a pleasant town nestled in the hills just above West Point on the Hudson. During my college years I spent, as you probably know, one year living in Seattle, Washington, with my brother. The other three years were at New York University. Last summer I spent abroad and hope to return this summer taking a party of young people over."

Virginia Shaffner, who graduated from Agnes Scott College in 1930, is at home in Winston-Salem.

Carrie Mae Stockton, graduate of Salem College in 1930, is an instructor in the language department at Salem College.

Lois Strickland attended Salem College and is now at home in Winston-Salem.

Eleanor Willingham, who graduated from Salem College in 1930, is at home in Winston-Salem. She is now visiting Miss Leo Wilder in Texas.

1927

Ray Anderson is working in Wilson, North Carolina.

Dion Armfield, Dolly Madison Apt., Greensboro, N. C., took a business course at Salem College and is now working in Greensboro.

Margaret Blue, 683 Haymount Street, Fayetteville, N. C., went to Converse for a while and is now at home.

Sara E. Brown, Alpha Phi House, Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida, writes: "Alpha Phi's gave a great big breakfast this morning and being a pledge I sho' got in for my share of the work. Scrambled fifteen frying pans of eggs! Now, how is that for being good? Wish I could come back to Salem for awhile. I know it's bound to have changed—but I know too that Salem has something other places don't have. Am living at the Alpha Phi House and really am working, besides having a good time. I expect I'll come back next year for a least one term and finish college." Sara went to Sweet Briar several years before going to Rollins.

Lella Burroughs is now Mrs. Francis Shaffner, 430 Main Street, Winston-Salem. She has a young daughter, Emily Caroline, born in December, 1931. Lella's sister, Jean, is a senior in the Academy this year.

Blair Lee Cox, Mrs. D. B. McCallum, 122 Berkeley Avenue, Norfolk, Virginia, was married in December, 1927. She has two sons, Don Blair, two years old and Claude Lee McCallum, born in February, 1932. She writes: "Want to say again how much I enjoyed my visit to the school last November and the new Academy Buildings are very fine. I've been doing lots of water sports lately, and won the motor (outboard) race last September given by the Tidewater Motor Boat Club of which I am a member and I am very proud of my trophy silver cup."

Elizabeth Deaver, 1816 Melrose Place, Knoxville, Tenn., writes us an interesting letter from which she asks us not to quote, but we are taking the liberty of quoting anyway and we here apologize. She writes: "I love to hear about anything which concerns Salem, but I have never been an enthusiastic 'letter-writer.' I know of nothing which would give me more pleasure than a short visit to dear old Salem. It is the greatest regret of my life that I didn't return there to College and complete those four short years, but as usual, all young girls have an idea that going to school longer than necessary is just too much trouble. What fun it would have been to have graduated with Edith, and entered some field of work right there among the people and places I am so fond of. I love my present work since I have been given a few more liberties by being made Assistant Manager, but I hope I won't have to stop here! Do you remember when Mrs. Herndon gave the party for our class one night? She gave each one of us a small notebook with our names written on them and during the course of dining, we passed these little books to each girl to write what she intended doing when she left school. I have my book with me, and was just thinking what fun it would be to compare these little messages with what each girl is really doing now."

Katherine Bell Helm is teaching school in Morristown, Tenn.

Edith Kirkland, 919 Lamond Avenue, Durham, N. C., who graduated from Salem College with the class of 1931 and was Editor of the Salemite, is now teaching in Winston-Salem.

Laura Mosely will graduate from the City Memorial Hospital in Winston-Salem this year.

Lavinia Lee, Sleepy Hollow, Swannanoah, N. C., writes: "Since leaving Salem I have attended Converse College, spent a half year in New York, and lastly taken a business course which I hope to use very soon. I am in the last stages of it now. I think that another month of intense work will see me working in Dad's office. That is if I can persuade him that I am good enough to warrant his giving me a trial. I may be down to see you sometime soon. The funniest thing to me was the news of Tobey's marriage. Really that struck me so funny, I can't quite feature Tobey ever falling in love. I can see her right now in math class, drawing a chart of 'Weaver's' eye-lashes!"

Frances Murray, 388 Lincoln Street, Phillipsburg, New Jersey, graduated from Agnes Scott College in 1931 and now has a secretarial position. During the summer of '28-'29 she visited her parents who were then living in Maracaibo, Venezuela.

Mary Emma Nichols, who went to Converse for a while, is now Mrs. Robert Shuford, Montford Hills, Asheville, N. C.

Peggy Parker, 1321 Brunswick Park, Norfolk, Virginia, attended William and Mary for a while.

Pauline Schenherr, president of '27, Norfolk, Conn., writes: "I think it will be grand for the Academy to have an Alumnae Record and I'll help in any way possible. I'm afraid my life history from 1927 up to the present date isn't very interesting but here goes—the fall of '27 I went to Mr. Heath's College, Moravian College for Women, Bethlehem, Penn., but left at Christmas and loafed through that spring and summer and in the fall I started an Interior Decorating Course which was very interesting and kept me busy all winter. Since then I'm ashamed to say I have just been playing around—I think I wrote you that Tobey and her husband spent the night with me on their way South last April. It was great to see my old room-mate again. I hadn't seen her since the day we graduated."

Emily Tobey, Mrs. J. M. Robertson, 1846 Spruce Street, Berkeley, California, who visited us at Salem in May, 1931, on her way to California with her husband writes: "California will probably be my home for a good many years to come and I must say I find it enchanting. I am planning to enter the University of California here in Berkeley this fall and work toward my degree—I still have three years to complete. My husband was reading your letter (really he doesn't censor my mail) and on finding himself called 'fascinating' he became absolutely incorrigible and has remained so ever since, reminding me at intervals of his 'fascinatingness.'"

Louise Watson is now at Jackson Park Hospital, 7531 Stony Island Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Rebecca Harden (ex-'27) is living in Graham, N. C. After leaving Salem "Beck" took a business course in Greensboro. She spent a month visiting Louise Watson when she was living in Florida and has travelled in the east and in Europe within the last few years. She is now taking Art at Elon College. "Beck" comes to see us occasionally; she was here for "Salem Day" in February.

Virginia Hart (ex-'27), Mrs. Earl Ellis, 115 Grace Street, Greenwood, S. C., was married on June 4, 1929, and has a daughter, Virginia Hart, nine months old whom she hopes to send to the Academy some day. She writes: "Since I left the Academy I came back to Charlotte and finished High School, then went to St. Mary's in Raleigh. I spent one year there, then changed to Brenau College. I liked Brenau very much, but not a bit more than I did Salem. I will never forget the year I spent in the Academy. I enjoyed it all so much. I wish I could come back and find all the girls I left there, would love to see them all very much. I know the new Academy buildings are beautiful." She also writes that Doris Thomson and "Liz" Lyon are married but she does not give their married names. Can't somebody help us out?

Verda Myers is now Mrs. Verda Harris, 2795 Oak Street, Jacksonville, Florida.

Marie Anderson (ex-'28) was married in February, 1932, to Rom Watson, Jr.

We hear that Margaret Bateman, Wilson, N. C., went to Marjorie Webster after graduating.

Eloise Crews, Doris Kimel, and Daisy Litz are in the graduating class at Salem College this year. Doris won second place in the Atwater Kent State Contest in voice. Daisy is still having dates and a good time, even though she is trying hard to be a dignified senior.

We hear that Gene Farr is married but we do not know to whom.

Margaret Herndon, 438 West 44th Street, New York City, writes: "Mother and I were talking yesterday about our days at Salem and wondering where all the girls were that we knew and what they were doing. And then to-day comes your letter. Then too, I was thinking about this year's senior class; you know, that is my class and I feel a pang of homesickness when I think of not graduating with them. However, I have had some wonderful years of work and fun. Don't misunderstand me though, the work and fun have been together because my work has been fun! The Westminster Choir School is a wonderful place and I enjoyed my two years there, especially the tour that we had last year through the South. This year I am working in a United Presbyterian Church here in New York City, directing the music and trying to interest the children of the street through singing. I have a children's group that comes twice a week and sings and plays: Catholics, Jews, pagans, and Presbyterians, all together. I had a note on a card from Elizabeth Faver. She is in St. Augustine and I saw her last winter as we were on our tour."

Hortense Higginbotham (ex-'28) is at home in Tazewell, Va. She visited us several years ago.

Elizabeth Jones (Babe) was married this fall but we do not know her married name and address.

Ruth Kennedy, 903 Vance Street, Raleigh, N. C., writes: "As you know I am graduating this year from Meredith, but graduation isn't the most exciting event that is to take place. Three years ago at Christmas time a handsome midshipman, Jack Myers, of Los Angeles, sailed into my life and anchored! He graduates from the Naval Academy in June—now you can guess the rest! We are to be married immediately after graduation. Needless to say that is the center of my every thought and attention these days. This fall mother and I came to Raleigh to live and have been so happy to be together. You have no idea how many many times during these last three years my thoughts and heart have turned toward Salem and all of you dear people. The 'Salem Spirit' will ever live and thrive within me. I received a letter from Catty Gaut several days ago, and also a snap of her darling daughter, Catherine Lane Burton, who is a perfect little beauty, not unlike her mother."

Bertie Shore is studying nursing at the City Memorial Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Catherine Gaut, president of '28, Mrs. R. King Burton, 118 N. Tucker Street, Apt. 4, Memphis Tenn., writes: "Hope I'm not too late to have my baby's picture in the Alumnae Record as a future Salemite. These are the most recent pictures made—the day she was seven months old. Sad of me, but I'm out of the picture altogether now since she has come. We named her Catherine Lane—for my mother as well as myself. There are so many Catherines in my family we are calling my baby Lane—it would never do for me to get started on how sweet she is, and what an unusual child her mother and father think she is. Would give anything I know of to get a chance to bring her to Salem for you all to see—I often tell King, the first pleasure trip we take, we're headed for there. Just wish you knew how often I think of Salem—and you and everybody. Can hardly wait to see the new buildings. I suppose you know that Marjorie Williamson Baker has a baby girl, born on Christmas day, named Alice Taft."

Elizabeth Board, 179 East Maxwell Street, Lexington, Ky., is a junior at the University of Kentucky. She writes: "I've wanted to come back to see you, but I'm afraid it'll be a long time before I can make it. I'd give anything to see the new Academy. Jean Ritz spent the week-end with me once this winter and told me how fine it is. Salem's hard to beat, isn't it?"

Elizabeth Bowie, West Jefferson, N. C., writes: "Have thought of you so many times since my short visit during the holidays and wished it was possible for me to surprise you more frequently because you know how happy I always am just to be at Salem—and now especially since you are living in such style! It is just impossible, really, for me to tell you how magnificent I think the new Academy is. I only wish that every old girl could visit you and see you as you are today. I am mighty proud of the fact that I had the privilege of being at Salem during the days of alcoves tho'. As you already know I am a junior at Brenau this year and expect to graduate next year—if nothing happens. Give my very best love to all the faculty—and how funny it seems not to say 'and all the girls I know!'"

Horfense Carson, 1107 Elgin Street, Houston, Texas, has been studying art and taking a business course. She writes: "I didn't know that it was possible to miss Salem as much as I do. Why it was just home to me! Love it—I adored it—and to think that at the time I didn't realize it. I miss the teachers, the girls, the life, everything. I can truthfully say that my days spent there were the happiest of my life. I had a letter from Doris Clayton. She's going to Southern California to school. 'Red'—remember him—went all the way from Mount Airy to Los Angeles to see her. I'd give a million to be back there on the soccer field with Connie, Bus, Jinks, and the bunch playing a final game with Zack and Weaver there too, and maybe Mr. Long coaching."

Elizabeth Faver went to school at Florida State one year and is now at home keeping house for her brother in St. Augustine. She must be too busy to answer our letter!

La Rue Gibson, 13 Elm Street, Canton, N. Y., attended the Southern Conservatory of Music in Durham in 1929 but was unable to finish school on account of illness. She is now at the New York State School of Agriculture and Dietetics where she expects to complete her course in 1933. She seems to be working hard and having a good time on the side. She is living at her sorority house, Alpha Chi Omega.

Jinks Harris, Box 910, Augusta, Ga., who was a student at Salem College for several years, for the present is living in Augusta. She writes: "I'm having a lovely time here at the Nursery now helping in the office. It's a gratis job, but at least I'm learning a few things. You see they have quite a bit of filing, bills of lading to check, and various odd jobs of getting out circulars and catalogues which require very little brain mechanism so that a person of my caliber or mental capacity is perfectly capable of performing them. Have you ever noticed the similarity of the names of flowers and diseases. For instance I might say 'Do come and see my garden. It is at its best now, the double pneumonias are really wonderful. I suppose the mild phlebitis too, and the laryngitis and deep purple quinses that I put in last year are a joy to behold. The bed of asthmas and malaries which you used to admire so is finer than ever this summer, and the dear little dropsies are ill in bloom down by the lake and make such a pretty showing with the blue of the anthrox border behind them.' Enough of that, but it really is surprising to note the similarity."

Dorothy Heidenreich, Margaret Johnson, Elizabeth Pfaff, and Mary Stockton are all juniors at Salem College and are doing well.

Sallie Hubbard, Fayetteville, W. Va., while visiting "Dody" in Martinsville spent the day in Winston and had lunch with us here. She has been at home since graduating from the Academy.

Kathryn McCollum is a junior at Brenau and is making quite a record in oratory.

We understand that Lucy Lanier is in Washington but we have not heard from her since she left Salem.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

This Academy issue of The Alumnae Record has been compiled at a heavy expense of time and money. If Academy Alumnae are interested in having such a Record each year, it will necessarily have to be paid for by subscriptions. The price is fifty cents for one year, or one dollar for two years. Unless enough subscriptions are received from Academy Alumnae, this annual Academy "Special" cannot be duplicated next year, but we are always glad to print news of Academy girls in each issue. So send in your subscription fee now and then keep us in touch with you, and you in touch with Salem, through the pages of The Alumnae Record.—Alice Keeney Rondthaler.

Clellie Lucas, Salisbury, N. C., writes: "I think Dr. Rondthaler's idea is splendid; however, I have done nothing that is of great interest since I left Salem. As you already know, I have remained at home ever since. I think I told you too I took a special course in N. C. history and English the year after I left Salem. Outside of that I have been right at home." Clellie's brother, Homer, is at Carolina rooming with Charlotte Duffy's brother, "Charlie Boy."

Frances Maloney, Midway, Tenn., is in school at East Tennessee Teacher's College at Johnson City.

Blanche Phillips, president of '29, Mrs. Roy Whitt, Ebenezer Road, Bearden, Tenn., writes: "I have just finished reading your very interesting letter about the Salem Record, and I don't know just whether it is the old 'Salem Spirit' that is prompting so quick an answer, or that I have just wanted to write to you and Salem for quite a long time. I am now a country girl—raising a family—a baby and many dogs and chickens. It's really a lovely life. Since Miss Weaver and Miss Byrd were here this fall, I have moved just outside of Knoxville. Charlotte Duffy is now visiting in town and I see her quite often. Penelope Allen comes to Knoxville regularly every few months. I do wish you and all my Salem friends could see my young daughter. She is nine months old now and has been walking for two weeks. Of course we think she is awfully cute—but I believe you would too if you could see her. I always plan and hope to come back to Salem as soon as I possibly can. I believe I spent my happiest school days right there, and I shall never forget them—nor regret them.”

Marguerette Pierce, Ayden, N. C., after leaving Salem went to St. Mary's one year but returned last year to Salem College.

Anne Snyder, Winston-Salem, took a business course and is now working in Winston-Salem.

Kathareen Tally, Winston-Salem, has not been in school since graduating.

Betsy Armfield, Asheboro, N. C., writes: “I'm still here and love Converse, but I certainly haven't forgotten my happy year at Salem. I saw Eleanor Johnson on the train as I was coming back to school after Christmas holidays. I wish our class could have a reunion this spring. I'd love to see everybody more than anything.”

Annie Sue Askew, 2145 Country Club Road, Raleigh, N. C., writes: “There is not much to write, for it seems I have accomplished very little since my Salem days. I entered E. C. T. C. the following fall but stayed only one term. I surely did not distinguish myself there. I was on the Junior Cabinet, but it was quite by accident I know. During initiation week my size must have attracted the attention of the upper classmen, for I was certainly put through the ‘third degree’. However, I made many friends while I was making their beds and running their errands. I'm sorry I couldn't go back, but during the holidays I reverted to my childhood and contracted scarlet fever, which kept me in bed for six weeks and put an end to my education. Eleanor and I correspond often. If I could have completed my primary course at Greenville, I would have gone to Atlanta to see her but I hope to see her soon anyway. Hazel Greene and I exchanged visits last summer. She seems to be getting along nicely at Peabody, from which she expects to graduate next year. Do you remember Glennes Dodge? I saw her during the holidays. She is a junior at Carolina now. She's the same happy, talkative Glennes! I'd love to hear all about the Salem of today. The card you sent me is tacked right over my desk, where I can see it often. Is it really that pretty?”

Laura Collard, 808 Morewood Avenue, Pittsburgh, Penn., is at Sarah Lawrence College in New York.

Claire Davis, Mt. Olive, N. C., writes: “I'm very much interested in the new Salem Academy but I feel sure that the girls that occupy it are not one bit happier nor do they have one bit more fun than we who occupied the old building did. This is my sophomore year at Mary Baldwin College. Last year one of the Academy girls, Peggy Betts, was here. The dean of our college is a Salem girl, Miss Bessie Pfohl, and our student body is very fond of her.”

Charlotte Duffy is at home in New Bern.

Eleanor Johnson, McAlpine, W. Va., writes: “I am very much interested in your plans for an Alumnae Record for I, like a good many others, live too far away to keep in close touch with Salem and its various projects. This is my second year at Agnes Scott College. I like it a lot and I am getting along very well. However, I have not given up my hope to take up some special work along the line of nursing. Lucy Thomas and I plan to get together soon. In fact she has invited me to Loudon for spring holidays. I do hope the plans are carried out so that the old girls can have a reunion this spring for that seems the only way I will ever get to see Salem again.”

Katherine Lasater, president of '30, Erwin, N. C., has been very successful in her work at Salem College. She was president of the freshman class last year.

Dot Ryman is living at 6940 Continental Avenue, Forest Hills, Long Island, New York. She writes: "I hear that the new Academy is quite attractive. You will never know how I'd like to be back. I didn't realize just how nice it was 'til I'd been away two years. I'm one of that great mass of unemployed at present, although I hope to get a job soon. That seems to me to be the hardest thing there is to do. Forest Hills isn't half bad in the summer and I enjoy the tennis games thoroughly."

Gertrude Stockton, Winston-Salem, is doing well at Salem College.

Lucy Thomas, Loudon, Tenn., writes: "I wish I had something about myself to tell you which would be of interest but with the depression on in full force and my living on a farm one mile from a small country town, exciting news is very rare. I visited new Salem in September, 1930, which is inexpressibly lovely; however, I have a tender spot in my heart for the alcoves and South Hall where I spent three happy years."

Nancy Thompson, Winston-Salem, has been in school at Converse.

We hear that Frances Williams is at home this year in Williamston.

Anne Zeitler, Mooresville, Alabama, was at Randolph-Macon the first part of last year. She writes: "As for me, I am not in school this year. My reservation was made at Randolph-Macon but when cotton went down to five cents it was impossible for me to go. The prospects are that I will come to Salem sometime this spring. I am going to Randolph-Macon for May Day and if my money holds out I am coming to Winston-Salem. I would give anything to see the new Salem Academy. You wouldn't know me—I weigh one hundred and thirty-two pounds. Isn't that terrible. I wish I could play a little basket ball or soccer with you all and take it off. I miss sports more than anything. Sometimes I think that I will try to go to a physical education school after next year at R. M. I think I would like teaching physical education. By the way, I met a girl that goes to school in Washington with Lucy Lanier. She says that Lucy is the sweetest girl she ever knew. Penny Allen came to see me this summer. She has lost about forty or fifty pounds—you wouldn't know her. She has also bobbed her hair."

Janie Taylor, Harrellsville, N. C., is a sophomore at Greensboro College for Women. We are very glad to have her visit us at the Academy occasionally. She writes "I'm still working hard—especially on my major, Dramatic Art. I haven't made a leading part yet—but here's hoping I do, before 1932 is gone! . . . It seemed rather peculiar when I first came over here not having Miss Jackson or Miss Zac do little things for me, but over here if you don't do things for yourself—they don't get done."

"Panky" Allen, 2100 Roswell Avenue, Charlotte, N. C., and Mildred Young came over to spend the week-end with us once this fall and we expect to have them back some time during the spring. Panky writes: "I haven't really been doing anything definite but having a good time. I'm going to Queens two hours a day and taking some English courses. The college is just a block or so from my house and it really is fun going."

We were glad to have Mishew Crudup, president of '31, Henderson, N. C., come up in September and help us open school. She is spending a year in Washington at Arlington Hall and says she is enjoying seeing Washington, but she is keeping up her usual enthusiasm for sports and has just made the varsity basket ball team. She writes: "I think the idea of an Alumnae Record is grand and I feel so ashamed that I haven't more to send. Maybe if I had followed in Colette's foot-steps, I'd have some never can tell what will happen next. . . . I'll be planning to head towards Salem around the last of May I would love to put a word of my love and devotion in the Alumnae Record, to each member of the graduating class of '31, but you remember my "waterloo" was writing and as you can certainly see—still is. (You might ask the ex-roommate to compose a piece for me — she'll understand) I passed all my work this semester—my grades were nothing to remember to tell my grandchildren.

Ellen deButts (ex-'31), Greensboro, N. C., visited the Academy this fall with Sara Boyd Pickett, who is at N. C. C. W. along with Dorothy Levin and Sadie Root. Ellen is at Greensboro College this year. She writes that she is very happy there.

Nat-Alle Dunn, 1105 Camper Avenue, Raleigh, N. C., is at home this year. We were very glad to have her visit us at the Academy in February.

Jane Dwire, Montclair, N. J., is at Smith College and we understand that she is very happy there.

Dorothy Gnann, 207 East 54th Street, Savannah, Ga., is at Shorter College, Rome, Ga. She writes that she is crazy about Shorter but not so crazy about it that she has forgotten her Salem friends.

Lucy Gulick-Rogers, Margaret Maxwell, Margaret McLean, Betty Tuttle, and Lila Womble are at Salem College. Lucy and Margaret McLean are members of the Pierrette Players. Margaret made an average of "A" and was the only freshman to make the "A" honor roll—we are proud that all of them have passed their work creditably. They "con-descend" to visit us occasionally. The steps are so tiring! Now that Lila Womble is a boarder, she is taking a great interest in sports, particularly horse-back riding. Betty Tuttle is rooming with Margaret and is her same sweet self.

Mary Elizabeth Hahn, Bath, Penn., is at Goucher College, Baltimore, Md., and seems to be quite happy there.

Mary Frances Hayworth, High Point, N. C., is taking a music course at Meredith. She was home in February and visited us. Now that we are practicing for our operatta, we miss Mary Frances more than ever.

At Christmas time we had a note from Collette Howell, Mrs. Harry Louis McNeal, saying, "will send you all the details as soon as possible." As yet no details have been forthcoming!

Harriet Polhemus is at Hunter College but seems to have forgotten us all, for no one has heard from her this year.

Jean Ritz, Edgewood Road, Bluefield, W. Va., (ex-'32), is at Hamilton College in Lexington, Ky. She is having her usual good time we hear.

Heistand Scott is having a gay time as a co-ed at Davidson College. She dropped in to see us about five minutes one night.

Frances Simpson (ex-'31), was married in October, 1931, to Robert Parnell, of Winston-Salem.

Helen Ward, 156 Hampton Avenue, Spartanburg, S. C., writes: "This winter I am spending at home—with my violin and favorite books. Accompanied by my sister, Ruth, I've given several programs out of town and have broadcasted almost weekly. Perhaps the girls who knew Dorothy Baden would be interested to know that she is at William and Mary this year making excellent marks, and she is a Chi Omega pledge. Salem could never change except to grow bigger and better and it doesn't take a very wise person to foresee that it will."

Margaret Weil, 610 Park Avenue, Goldsboro, N. C., writes that she is taking a business course in Goldsboro and at various times this year she has seen Claire Davis, Chick Dunn and Sadie Root.

Commencement--1932

Salem College

Saturday, May 28th; Sunday, May 29th; Monday, May 30th.

Each Commencement occasion has a quality of its own and is distinctive from every other and this year's Commencement will certainly be no exception.

The whole thought of the occasion will center around the George Washington Celebration. At 3:00 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, May 28th, George Washington will ride into old Salem with coach and four to be received at the old Salem Tavern in the exact fashion of his visit in 1791, and thence will proceed to the Salem Square and to the College portico, where he will speak from the very manuscript he used 140 years ago, and in the midst of the historic surroundings of old Salem.

ALUMNAE DAY

The Commencement exercises for the Alumnae begin with the Alumnae Luncheon at noon on Saturday, May 27th; this luncheon taking the nature of a Washington celebration with many of the Alumnae in colonial and old Salem costume. It will be a gala sight to see the college dining room seated with its host of guests and Alumnae and others dressed as they would have appeared nearly a century and a half ago.

A few minutes before 3:00, the company will adjourn to the porticoes and surroundings of old Salem Tavern. There it will await the thrilling moment when the Washington coach and four appears at the foot of old Salem's main street and the church band, as in 1791, peals out its welcome not only in the same music as was then used, but from the original sheets, preserved all these years in typical Salem protective care.

Forth from the Tavern will issue the tavern-keeper, his wife and servants, and with the songs of children and the showering of flowers the old coach will come to a halt while Washington alights, assisted by his travelling companion, Major Jackson, and they will enter the Tavern and repair to the very room he occupied in 1791. While the songs and music continue, Washington will emerge to receive the hospitalities of the community in the person of the Brethren's Committee, who will escort him to Salem Square, giving him the opportunity, as in years long gone, to view the ancient buildings and in the presence of the multitude to receive the official welcome, again from the original manuscript of years ago. At this time the present North Carolina

Governor, O. Max Gardner, will be introduced to George Washington (impersonated by Agnew H. Bahnson of the Board of Trustees), Governor Gardner representing Governor Martin, who came to Salem in 1791 to meet George Washington.

Thus will history run true to form and a scene be enacted here not to be equalled anywhere else in the United States, for nowhere else have the records of Washington's visit been so accurately and minutely kept.

At this time, Washington will also meet the teachers and pupils of the original Academy for girls; the teachers' parts being impersonated by Mrs. Elizabeth O. Meinung, a direct descendant and a member of the Home Economics faculty, and Miss Adelaide Fries, also a direct descendant and President of the Alumnae Association.

In the group welcoming Washington will be scores of citizens, men and women, in the costume of the early days so that the past will live again amongst the quaint buildings and along the old-fashioned streets of ancient Salem.

Upon the conclusion of the brief ceremonies of welcome, Washington will be invited to the campus, just as in 1791, and will there view a Class Day patriotic masque presented by the Seniors of 1932.

COMMENCEMENT CONCERT

Saturday night Dean Vardell will direct, as the music feature of Commencement, John Alden Carpenter's Hymn of Faith, a patriotic cantata composed for the Washington Bi-centennial. This will be given in full chorus, with orchestral accompaniment, measuring up to the high standard of Commencement concerts by the Salem College School of Music.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON AND VESPERS

Sunday morning in the old Home Church Bishop Penick, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon. It is hoped that on Sunday afternoon a reproduction will be given in the Church of the Washington Memorial Service held here in 1799 when the news of his death had been received. This service is true in every detail of music, hymns, scripture passages, to the recorded service of 133 years ago. This includes three original compositions sung from the original manuscript, one of which is dedicated to the consolation of the widow of Washington. Sunday evening the Vesper Service will be held upon the college campus, known and loved as one of the great Commencement traditions.

COMMENCEMENT CLASS OF 1932

Monday will be Commencement Day itself with all the unfading thrill of the daisy chain at 10:00 o'clock, the old college bell ringing its benediction upon the graduates as it has rung through four years for them its summons to class. The Commencement address will be delivered by President Frank Graham of the University of North Carolina, and the degrees will be bestowed upon the largest class for many years.

Salem Academy

Alumnae, whose affections and experience go back to Salem Academy, will enjoy the beautiful graduation exercises of the Academy as distinguished from the College, which will be held on Friday afternoon in the Pleasure Grounds, and Friday night, May 27th, in the Memorial Chapel of the Academy. These Academy exercises have achieved a beauty and a dignity which make them second only to the thrill and charm of the College.

Many Alumnae now plan their return so as to cover the Friday exercises as well and to Salem Academy former students the hospitality of the new Patterson-Bahnsen-Shaffner Academy plant is extended. Already an unusually large number of Academy Alumnae have indicated their expectation of revisiting in its new and beautiful plant their beloved institution.

This announcement carries with it an urgent invitation to return to old Salem both for the joy of Commencement and very peculiarly and particularly to enjoy with Commencement the Washington Celebration. One hundred years is a long time to wait for the next return of George Washington, and wise Alumnae, old or young, will seize the opportunity to be in Salem this Commencement instead of postponing it one-hundred years hence.

Dix Plan Reunions

Special Class Reunions this year under the Dix Plan include the following: 1929, 1928, 1927, 1926; 1910, 1909, 1908, 1907; 1891, 1890, 1889, 1888; and 1872, 1871, 1870, 1869. In addition to these classes, there will be the first reunion of 1931, and the large general reunion of alumnae who plan to revisit Salem during this Commencement season.

Alumnae who wish room reservations in the College dormitory must notify Miss Grace Lawrence, Dean, at the earliest possible moment. Many of the College students will remain over for the George Washington pageant and hence it will be convenient for Miss Lawrence to know in advance how much space to reserve for alumnae. Please address her in care of Salem College, giving her your maiden name and class so that she can group reunion classes.

Members of the classes of 1872, 1871, 1870, and 1869 are "Honor Guests." If you belong to this distinguished group, and plan to be with us for Commencement, please write Miss Lawrence at once so that she may make arrangements. We hope a large delegation from these classes will be with us this year.

Special tables will be reserved at the luncheon for reunion classes, and these classes will have an opportunity to get together in appointed classrooms prior to the luncheon. Alumnae are asked to register at the Main Hall entrance before noon on Saturday.

Alumnae who have colonial costumes are urged to bring them and to wear them at the Washington celebration on Saturday, both at the luncheon, and during the pageant. Salem is eager to make this a gala occasion and urges all who are interested in doing so, to add to the historic picture by coming in costume.

An outstanding celebration, such as this Commencement promises to be, merits a large attendance and Salem looks forward to the return of many of her loyal daughters.

Branch Association Alumnae Meetings

BETHANIA, N. C.: The Bethania Branch met with its President, Miss Kate Jones, February 27th, with ten members present. The program was of a social nature, including phases of the George Washington Bi-centennial celebration. Members were asked to answer the following ten questions: When did George Washington visit Salem? Did Salem then have a girls' school? When was this school started? With how many pupils? Which is older "Salem" or the "University"? When did Salem become a boarding school? Who was the first Principal? What has been Salem's influence on Southern Womanhood? Did Salem broaden your vision and give you a nobler outlook on life? In what way does Salem now most need your help?

We wonder how many Salem Alumnae reading this account can answer all of the questions correctly?

MOUNT AIRY, N. C.: The Mount Airy Branch met on February 13th, at the home of Mrs. James A. Hadley (Swannoa Brower, 1889-90). The oldest Salem Girl present was Mrs. Alice Gilmer Joyce, 1872-73, of Westfield, N. C. It is interesting to note that for five generations there was a member of her family at Salem. A visiting alumna was "Sam" Thomas Porter of Florida, at Salem 1897 to 1899. Officers for the coming year were elected, Rachel Luckenbach Holcomb, President; Belle Graves Hoskins, Secretary.

LEAKSVILLE, N. C.: The Leaksville-Spray Branch met January 27th at the Carolina Home with Mrs. Harry Fagge as hostess, and Mrs. A. D. Ivie presiding. Members present were particularly interested in the good news about the acceptance of the Salem School of Music in the National Association of Schools of Music. Plans were discussed for the organization of a Rockingham County Alumnae Association. Election of officers resulted in the following: Anne Hairston, President; Bessie Clark Ray, Secretary.

MOCKSVILLE, N. C.: Salem Day was celebrated by Mocksville alumnae at the home of Miss Mary Heitman. One of the late Bishop Rondthaler's favorite hymns and the Alma Mater were sung, and a prayer offered for world peace by Mrs. William Woodruff. Interesting letters were read from Mary Nelson Anderson, a senior at Salem Academy, and Eleanor Cain, a sophomore at Salem College. Mrs. Lester Martin read an account of George Washington's visit to Salem in 1791. The cause of the Shirley Scholarship Fund was presented.

ATLANTA, GA.: The Atlanta alumnae of Salem met with the President, Mrs. J. P. Cheves (Elizabeth Chumbley), at her home on Shadow-lawn, March 2nd. Mrs. B. K. Boyd (Bettie Keenan, 1857-61), was elected honorary president during her lifetime. Mrs. W. R. Prescott (Sarah Frances Honnicutt), was elected president and Mrs. Henry C. Davidson (Elizabeth Thompson), secretary and treasurer. There was a large attendance and a very interesting meeting.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.: The Charlotte Chapter met at the home of Margaret Smith, 1924. The President, Mrs. Clayton Bullock (Ina Phillips), presided. Everyone enjoyed the informal talk by Mrs. Howard Rondthaler and the musical program by Miss Sarah Bell, Miss Christine Henkel, and Miss Esta Miller. The Charlotte Branch has adopted the practice of holding four meetings each year.

WASHINGTON, N. C.: The Washington Branch met February 3rd at the home of Mary and Annie Fowle. This was a reorganization meeting and officers elected were Charlotte Grimes, 1930, president; Florence Blowers, 1931, secretary and treasurer.

Of special interest was a discussion of the "H. A. Shirley Scholarship Fund." It was decided that the amount on hand in the treasury would be donated to this Fund and that the Chapter would work to increase this amount.

Salem Past, Present and Future was talked of and a pledge of loyalty made that Washington Alumnae could be counted on for aid or service of any kind toward Salem. Eighteen members were present.

RALEIGH, N. C.: The Raleigh alumnae met at the home of Miss Mary Johnson on West Edenton Street with Mrs. Howard Rondthaler as guest of honor. Alumnae were delighted to get together and talk "Salem" and were particularly interested in all that Mrs. Rondthaler said in her informal talk about their Alma Mater. Raleigh boasts an alumnae membership of forty, with a splendid attendance at the meeting.

A memorial service for the late Mrs. (J. C.) Agnes Belo Buxton, for many years president of the Dallas Alumnae of Salem College, took the place of the annual social meeting of the club Wednesday, the gathering being held at the home of the president, Miss Lora Cowart, 1711 Corsicana. Resolutions of affection and esteem for Mrs. Buxton and of appreciation for her long interest in Salem College and the Dallas club, were adopted at the meeting, these being prepared by Miss Cowart, Mrs. William F. Tyree, the secretary, and Mrs. Una Fitzpatrick Callahan.

Copies of the resolutions were sent to Mrs. H. L. Edwards and Mrs. Curt Beck, daughters of Mrs. Buxton, and to the Alumnae Record, Salem College, also to The Dallas News.

Mrs. Tyree read the memorabilia prepared by Bishop J. Kenneth Pfohl of Winston-Salem, this paper telling of the life of Mrs. Buxton from school days through her last illness which occurred in Salem. Mrs. Buxton was born in Winston-Salem November 7, 1852, and was married there in 1877. She lived much of the time in Dallas for the last fifteen years, and during that time was connected with the Salem Alumnae Association.

Mrs. Buxton was a sister of the late Col. A. H. Belo, pioneer Texas newspaper publisher.

WINSTON-SALEM: The Winston-Salem Branch Alumnae Association held its meeting in connection with the celebration of "Salem Day," in the college library, with an attendance of approximately one hundred and fifty.

Mrs. B. S. Womble was elected president, Mrs. Will Hill and Mrs. Nat S. Curl were elected first and second vice-presidents, respectively, and Miss Frances Fletcher was elected secretary for the new year.

Mrs. Charles Fogle, who presided in the absence of the president, recognized Mrs. Sadie Robbins Harris, of Raleigh, who brought a greeting from the out-of-town alumnae. Afterwards Mrs. T. Holt Haywood paid a tribute to the late Bishop Edward Rondthaler, this being the first meeting the branch has held since the death of the beloved faculty member, trustee head and spiritual leader of the community.

After Mrs. Charles Norfleet had sung "Crossing the Bar" (Nevin), accompanied by Mrs. Sebring, messages were brought to the group from the outstanding organizations at the college. Miss Anna Jackson Preston, of Charlotte, great-grand-daughter of Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, discussed the views of Student Self-Government at the college. Miss Eleanor Idol, of High Point, represented the Y. W. C. A.; Miss Sarah Graves, of Mount Airy, spoke officially for the Salemite, and Miss Beulah Mae Zachary, of Brevard, gave expression for the college annual, "Sights and Insights."

Among other young ladies who were recognized and spoke briefly was Miss Mary Mitchell Norman, Mooresville, president of the senior class. The I. R. S. (I Represent Salem), home economics, mathematics, French, science and debating clubs and the Pierrette Players also were recognized.

Miss Frances Caldwell discussed the work of the Order of the Scorpion.

Ernest L. Schofield announced the recent honor which has come to the school of music when it was admitted to membership in the National Association of Schools of Music in America. Following this announcement Miss Hazel Horton Read played a violin solo, "Ronda Capriccio" (Saint-Saens).

Miss Grace Lawrence, dean of women, gave a cross-section of the student life, calling attention to the fact that the heart of the college girl of today is the same as that which motivated the life of the splendid young womanhood of the "seventies," the only difference in the individuals being that the modern girl is doing things in a greatly modernized fashion.

Miss Mary Weaver, principal of Salem Academy, gave a message regarding the academy life.

Dr. Howard Rondthaler, president of the college and academy, gave an "intra-mural" address to the large group of alumnae, telling them how their institution was progressing in the midst of the difficulties which have all but overwhelmed many of the best schools. His message was, in the main, encouraging.

Following the meeting the alumnae remained to inspect the splendid George Washington Bi-centennial exhibit which was located in the library. Of outstanding interest in the exhibit was the Owen Moon collection of Washington prints and numerous manuscripts and original editions of Washington's biographies.

Here and There Among The Alumnae

I am sending my check of $1 to renew my subscription to the Alumnae Record. I have been a subscriber many years. I left the Academy in June, 1870. If any member of my Class is living, I do not know it. I occasionally see the name of some one whom I remember, Aggie Belo, Lora Cowart, and others. Bertha Belo was a much loved friend and I remember Lela and Lora Cowart as brilliant girls.

My last year at Salem was spent in the old "3rd Room" with Miss Brietz and Miss Mary Everhart. I recall a few names of the Room Company, Fannie Powel, Mattie Banks, Mamie Pitts and Julia Lowry. I recall Fannie Ballard of Texas, Mittie Brown of Georgia, and Lizzie Watson of North Carolina.

The Salem training I received has guided me through life and the passages of Scripture marked in my Bible by Miss Maria Vogler have been a lamp unto my feet. —Mrs. J. B. Emery (Kate Hayley).

From the newspaper we read an account of our oldest living alumnae: Mrs. Aliee M. Council, Hickory's beloved old lady, is 99 years old today, and although within one year of the century mile post, she is remarkably active and alert. She keeps up with every-day topics and only recently returned from Blowing Rock where she spent the summer.

She was born in Sumter, S. C., and was educated at the old Salem College. Her husband was the late Dr. W. B. Council of Boone. She has four children, Mrs. E. A. Taylor and Judge W. B. Council, of Hickory; I. L. Council, Waynesville, and Dr. J. B. Council, of Salisbury.

On account of her advanced age Mrs. Council's birthdays are quiet affairs and only her immediate family and closest friends are received.

Enclosed I am sending check of $1 for The Record. I am one of the old Salem girls. I entered Salem the last of July, 1864. I remember the stage coach from High Point full of disabled Confederate soldiers going home to recuperate. I was just thirteen years of age and stayed at Salem for several years. Most of my fellow students have passed on. Life has not been one long summer day with me, but a regular training school and I have had many hard lessons to learn, yet when "school is out" I hope to hear the Master say "Well done."

Hoping for continued progress to Salem College, I am, Mrs. Alice Yount Mull, 1106 Main Street, Newton, North Carolina.

Enclosed find fifty cents as renewal of my subscription to The Record. My husband, Dr. B. T. Cox, passed away in November and I have been kept busy looking after the business affairs of the estate. I am still keeping house here in my home, a cousin living with me. Venetia Cox, 1911, is still in China but not in the fighting area as yet. The flood swept through the grounds of St. Hilda's School, Wuchang, where she teaches and the water was twelve feet deep in the compound within the walls of the grounds. All things on the first floors were carried to the second floors and they took a little boat from a window and went to Boone University on higher grounds until the water subsided a month later. She seems to be happy in her work.

I see that there will be a reunion of 1888 this year, and regret so much that I cannot be there. Love to everyone of the members.—Mrs. B. T. Cox (Mary V. Smith, 1888).

A letter from Mrs. George H. Stevens (Ruth Raub, 1920), of 210 Crooked Billet Road, Hatboro, Pennsylvania, tells of her interesting activities in church and community work since her husband's death two years ago. She lives with her son, George, now nine years old. She writes of other Salem alumnae as follows: "Just before Christmas I discovered that Sylvia Walker from Tennessee is living here. She is Mrs. George E. Chambliss and has three little girls. She was a special in the Academy in 1919-1920. Her husband is an aviator at the Pitcairn Flying field a couple of miles from here. Anne Sharpe Garret Brown (1922) visited me with her two oldest children last summer. Her husband passed away very suddenly last spring, leaving her with four small children. Nannie Finch Wallace (1922), was also here a short time after her marriage last June. I am expecting a visit from Mabel Peterson shortly so you see I do manage to keep in touch with quite a few of my Salem friends. Sarah Lingle Garth (1922), here from New York in the fall, asked me to come to the New York Branch meeting, but it would be easier for me to attend the Philadelphia Branch and I would like to be put on their roll.

I could talk for hours about "Salem." I shall always be glad for the years I spent there and the "spirit of Salem" lives on in one's memory and is truly an inspiration to strive and to live a more useful life.

Elizabeth Whitner, 1927-1929, sends in her fee for the Alumnae Record, stating that not only she enjoys it but her friends, Betty McCulloch and Rose Ramsey, 1929-1930. She writes, "I do hope I can get back to Salem soon. I am teaching second grade here in Sanford, Florida, and enjoying it very much."

Lelia Graham Marsh, 1916-1919, is secretary to the Dean of Sweet Briar College, Sweet Briar, Virginia. She writes that she is enjoying the lovely Virginia mountains, and her work among college students.

Friends of Katharine Kincaid Patterson (ex-1928) will sympathize in the death of her infant son on January 8, 1932. Katherine and her husband, Major R. B. Patterson, are now living in Washington, D. C., at the Westchester Apartment No. 634-B, 4000 Cathedral Avenue. Major Patterson is on duty in the Historical Section of The Army War College.

A letter from Mrs. Anna Barber Harris of Stony Point, North Carolina, president of the Class of 1896, sends special love and good wishes to members of her Class. She writes, "I have been teaching the past eight years. Four years were spent in missionary work in New York City, but I lost my health there, working in the sections of the city which are now known as the gangster district, among foreigners, especially Italians. I also worked among the middle and better class of people. My last church work in New York was a Church Missionary in what was known formerly as Tom Dixon's Church, moved from a downtown church to a very aristocratic portion of upper New York City. My health has improved since I have been teaching.

"Salem College will always have my love and best wishes. My three sisters graduated there, Emma, Mattie, and Sallie Barber. Emma and Mattie (Mrs. George Bahnson) died long ago. Mattie's son, Hal Barber Bahnson, has given his life as a soldier, volunteering in 1917 when the call first came and winning distinction as the best sharpshooter of his company. He is now in California in very broken health."

Enclosed find check of $1 for The Record. I enjoy every copy and read every word. The last issue is especially interesting as I recall so many faces when I read the names of the Classes of 1889, 1890, and 1891. They were the years when I was at Salem.—Mrs. D. R. Allen (Eva Franklin 1889-1891).

I am sorry that I was so forgetful that you had to put a red and white slip in my Record. Pardon one who is now nearing the 83rd mile post, but who loves Salem and all the happy days that come in memory over and over again, the days of 1862 to 1865. How I loved "Miss Maggie" (Mrs. Pfohl).—Mrs. John W. Gordon (Annie Pender), 6510 Three Chopt Road, Richmond, Virginia.

Mrs. Gordon wonders if there are other living alumnae who belonged to "the war" period of Salem's history. She would be glad to hear of them through the pages of The Record and Salem would appreciate their letters telling of memories of those interesting Salem Days.

A letter from Mrs. R. T. Pickens (Blanche Armfield), of High Point, tells us of the death in December, 1931, of Mrs. Charles Lee Smith (Sallie Lindsay Jones, 1886). Mrs. Smith was a loyal and active alumna of Salem. For several years after her marriage she lived in High Point, where her sister, Mrs. W. C. Beavans (Julia Jones), now resides; later she lived at Liberty, Missouri, her husband being President of William Jewell College. For the past twenty-five years Mr. and Mrs. Smith had made their home in Raleigh, North Carolina, where Mrs. Smith was prominent in civic and social life. It was while in California, after more than a year of ill health that Mrs. Smith passed away.

A letter from Mrs. W. J. Graham, of Burlington, N. C., tells us the address of her daughter Evelyn Graham, 1926, now Mrs. E. L. Willett, 1205 Washington Street, Denver, Colorado. Mrs. Graham says that fifteen members of her family have graduated from Salem, Johnstons, Motleys, Rawlings, Grahams and others.

Sarah Herndon writes from Tallahassee, Florida, that she hopes to come to Commencement this year. In addition to teaching at the University of Florida, where she has been for several years now, Sarah is studying 'cello and playing in the orchestra. Her address is 509 Palm Court.

We are glad to hear all the latest news about Marion and Elizabeth White, the former Salem College, ex-1928, the latter Salem Academy, 1923-24.

Marion is studying for her M. A. degree at the University of Arizona. Elizabeth has made remarkable progress in interior decoration and art, and has been recognized by leading decorators and various outstanding art magazines for her constructive work. She is now in Chicago and will be married in July to Dr. Hampton Lawson of the University of Chicago.

Helen Lee, Academy, 1923-24, is working in New York as a designer. She has been in New York five years. She is living this year with Evelyn Pearson, ex-1925. Their address is Hotel Fairfax, 116 East 56th Street, New York City.

On The Campus

"Pack up all your cares and woes,
Here we go, singing low,—back to Salem!"

And so it was when Salem opened its portals on Wednesday, September 15th, for the beginning of its one hundred and sixty-first year. Old students and new students came singing back, together with a representation of the alumnae. And if you were not fortunate enough to be among those alumnae on the opening day, then make your plans now and buy a round-trip ticket to Salem sometime during this year. Thanksgiving, Christmas, Salem Day, Washington's Birthday, May Day, Commencement Day,—Some Day during the year should be your day to pack up and go "back to Salem."

First Chapel is held Thursday Morning; College Leaders Meet at Camp Hanes; Rondthaler Speaks at Y. W. C. A. Vespers; Organizations Extend Welcome to New Girls; Relentless Sophs arrest Pesky Frosh; Senior Class elects Marshalls; President's Forum met on Thursday; Young Democratic Club Forms Organization Here (Miss Ferguson Draws Interest in Politics); Faculty Recital opens College Music Season; Seniors Hold Hat-Burning Ceremony; The Pierrettes Bid for Players after Try-outs; Fashion Show in Memorial Hall; General Secretary of International Y. W. C. A. Speaks; Dean Vardell traces History of the Piano; Salem Day at the Ideal is Big Success; Self-Government Rules Impressed on Students; History Club has Tea at Guilford; etc., etc., etc.

Now, doesn't that make your mouth water for a taste of Salem? With all due apologies to "The Salemite," doesn't that remind you of the good, old days? Prosperity comes and prosperity goes, but Salem goes on forever.

Did each and every one of you read what Dr. Elizabeth Barber Young, Professor and Research Student, Columbia University, and author of "A Study of the Curricula of the Seven Selected Women's Colleges of the Southern States," published in book form by Columbia University, 1932, said about Salem? Of course you knew it all of the time, but it is inspiring to have a pedagogical expert say it after a thorough study of the situation. For the benefit of those who didn't read it in the New York Times and most all of the big newspapers, let me tell you that Dr. Young rated Salem the "best Woman's College in North Carolina and one of the seven best in the South." Three cheers for Dr. Young and then fifteen rahs for Salem. This praise, coming as it did at the very opening of the college year, brought with it much enthusiasm on the Campus among students and faculty.

And, speaking of the faculty, I know you will want to know which of your favorite teachers is somebody else's favorite this year. There are a few changes in the faculty. Another man has been added to the group, to keep Professors Campbell and Curlee company among the eligible singles. His name is Noble R. McEwen, B.A. Birmingham Southern, M.A. Duke University. He is associate professor in the Department of Education. Eloise Vaughn is back in the Modern Language Department with an M.A. from the University of North Carolina attached to her B. A. from Salem; Miss Elizabeth Lilly boasts the same achievement for the English Department; Mrs. Meinung has returned from a year of study at Teachers College with her M.A. for the Home Economics Department; and Miss Minnie J. Smith, Department of Classical Languages, adds more letters to her signature in the acquirement of a Ph. D. from the University of North Carolina.

Frances Jarrett, 1929, after a year of study in New York is back teaching in the School of Music. And members of the class of 1922 will be delighted to find Elizabeth Gillespie, their president, secretary in Salem Academy. Elizabeth has added to her musical career a secretarial course and is enjoying a new association with her Alma Mater. Another Salem alumnae seen here and there on the Campus, but mostly between the purchasing office and the kitchen or dining room, is Blanch Stockton, 1924, now dietitian in the College. (This doesn't mean that members of 1924 will get anything extra when they come back for dinner!)

The student body is well organized under the following leaders: President of Student Self-Government, Mary Katherine Thorp, Fries, Virginia; President of the Y. W. C. A., Mary B. Williams of Wilmington; President Athletic Association, Nine Way Credle of Washington, N. C.; Editor of the "Salemite," Josephine Courtney, Lenoir, N. C.; Editor of "Sights and Insights," Louise Brinkley, Plymouth, N. C.; President of the Senior Class, Emily Mickey, Winston-Salem; of the Junior Class, Georgia Huntington of Wilmington; of the Sophomore Class, Margaret McLean of Lumberton; and of the Freshman Class, Frances Lambeth of Asheville.

Another new figure on the Campus, and a very busy one, is Mr. Allan Oerter, business manager for the institution. Alumnae returning on business will find him in the Office Building, in what was at one time Mr. Heath's office, later Miss Chase's office, or if not there then somewhere on the Campus busy with the business of a business manager. Alumnae returning on pleasure will please not disturb the business manager, but go to Miss Anna or Mr. Burge or Dr. Rondthaler for any desired information or conversation about "when I was a student at Salem."

And now I must close this lengthy letter to give you time before "lights out" to read the long list of marriages further on in The Record. Please, when you get married, if you have not already done so, send the Alumnae Secretary or the Editor of The Record your new name and address, (but don't expect a wedding present), so that our files can be kept correct and up-to-date. Remember to look for your Record in November, January, March, and May, and don't forget to send in your subscription fee!

Alice Keeney Rondthaler, Editor.

P. S.—This is not an afterthought, in fact it was my first thought, but we always save the best till last at Salem and therefore since everything is at one time or another last, everything is best. The very latest news concerns your new Alumnae Secretary, Anna Jackson Preston of Charlotte, N. C. Anna Jackson Preston, member of the Class of 1932, is a real "Salem Girl." She has held all the offices that any one student is permitted to hold during her four college years at Salem, culminating in that of President of the Student Self-Government Association. No doubt some of her ability as a leader has come down the years from her great-grandfather, Stonewall Jackson, but much of it has been developed by Anna herself.

As Alumnae Secretary she continues to serve her Alma Mater in a very important capacity. Much of the time she will be "in the field" visiting parents of students, alumnae, and prospective students. She will be the official representative of the College at Branch Association Alumnae Meetings this year and will bring with her an interesting message of the student and alumnae viewpoint of her Alma Mater. She will co-operate with the Editor of The Record in the publication of this important document. News and subscriptions for The Record should be addressed to Alice Keeney Rondthaler, Alumnae Office, Salem College, but all inquiries about alumnae, class lists, reunions, suggestions for alumnae meetings, etc., should be addressed to Anna Jackson Preston, Alumnae Office, Salem College. They will receive her interested and prompt attention. One way in which alumnae can co-operate in the work of their new Secretary is to send her the names of any high school students who are contemplating college entrance so that she can get in touch with them on her visits to various towns and cities. She starts her work in Richmond, Virginia, this week, reorganizing the Branch Alumnae Association there. Plans are on foot for the organization of a County Branch, combining Leakesville-Spray, Madison, Reidsville, and Mayodan, under the leadership of Miss Anne Hairston, and Anna Jackson Preston will help in this organization. Don't hesitate to write her long letters, filled with ideas and suggestions because Dr. Rondthaler wants to keep her busy day and night in her new work for the Alumnae.

Friends and students of Salem were delighted last June to have the President of Salem College and Salem Academy, Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler, honored by the University of North Carolina, with the degree LL.D. In 1928 Bishop Rondthaler received the LL.D. from the University, and it is interesting that this same honor has come to his son.

Dr. Frank Graham, President of the University, in conferring the degree of Doctor of Laws, spoke as follows: "Howard Edward Rondthaler, minister, teacher, and able executive, blending a certain reserve of strength, spiritual insight, and kindly charm of mind and manner; once President of the North Carolina Historical and Literary Society and of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service; for twenty-three years President of Salem Academy, one of the oldest schools for girls in America, and of historic Salem College in which he has, with high standards and distinguished ability, carried the traditions of religion, scholarship, and music to a new excellence; present symbol and eloquent voice of that Moravian culture and idealism which reach across the seas and centuries through old Salem into many homes of our people plastic to the aesthetic and spiritual influence of a great tradition."

MISS ADELAIDE FRIES HONORED WITH LITT.D.

Miss Adelaide Fries, President of the Salem College General Alumnae Association, 1888, was honored in June by receiving the degree Litt.D. from the Moravian College at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. Miss Fries has done distinctive work in the field of history, especially history of the Moravians in North Carolina. Her publications, "Records of the Moravians in North Carolina," Vols. 1, 2, 3, 4, have been published by the North Carolina Historical Society. In addition to these she has written a "History of Forsyth County," "A Brief History of the Moravian Church," "The Moravians in Georgia, 1735-1740," "The Moravian Church Yesterday and Today (Part 1.), and several pamphlets, "Historical Sketch of Salem Female Academy," "Funeral Chorals of the Unitas Fratrum or Moravian Church," "The Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence as Mentioned in Records of Wachovia."

Miss Fries received her A.B. degree from Salem College in 1891, this being the first year in which degrees were granted. She received her M.A. degree from Salem College in 1916. As President of the Salem College Alumnae Association she holds a distinctive position among alumnae of Salem and her interest and loyalty to her Alma Mater is always evident.

Here and There Among the Alumnae

ASHEVILLE GROUP HOLDS MEETING

"You will be delighted to hear that we have at last had a 'Salem Day,' having Miss Dicie Howell here as an inspiration for a 'get-together' of old (?) Salem Girls. We were sorry that so many of our girls were out of town, but we had a most delightful afternoon and of course talked Salem." —Caroline R. Sevier, Secretary.

From the newspaper, we read the following account of the occasion: "The lawn of Mrs. Mark Brown's home on Merrimon Avenue was the scene of a garden party this afternoon from five until six o'clock when members of the Western North Carolina Branch of Salem College Alumnae entertained in honor of Miss Dicie Howell of New York, head of the Dicie Howell School of Music, with summer headquarters in Asheville. Assisting Mrs. Brown (Leonora Johnston, 1901), and Miss Howell (1911), in receiving were Opal Brown, ex-1907, president of the Asheville Alumnae Association, Mrs. J. T. Sevier (Caroline Rollins, 1894), secretary, Mrs. Thomas Allan Curry (Lily Jackson, 1909), past president. Refreshments were served by Miss Sadie Rollins, 1903, Mrs. John Shaw McGirt (Golda Cline, ex-1926), and Miss Velma Cline, ex-1927. About thirty alumnae were present, including the following: Mrs. Louis H. Mann (Bess Nicholson, 1904), Mrs. A. L. Bannister (Hazel Smith, Academy 1917-18), Mrs. Alyce White, (Alyce Sumner, ex-1924), Mrs. Floyd Byram, (Stella Wallace), Katherine Ayres, Academy 1920-21, Mrs. E. J. Randolph (Anne Carrier, 1893), Mrs. Bynum H. Sumner (Annie May Reynolds, ex-1889), Mrs. W. F. Maxwell, (Bessie Fagg, ex-1882), Mrs. T. F. Malloy, (Minnie Fagg, 1890), Mrs. Hoyle Sink, (Kathleen Heilig, 1916), Mrs. John H. Clements, (Lizzie Booe, 1912), Mrs. B. Frank Gudger, (Berth Arbogast, ex-1911), and Miss Mary Weaver, Principal of Salem Academy.

KERNERSVILLE GROUP MEETS

KERNERSVILLE, N. C.: The Kernersville Branch Alumnae Association met on May 10 at the home of Mrs. W. C. Stafford. A very beautiful memorial service was held for two members who passed on during the year, Mrs. India Kemer Porter, (ex-1897), and Mrs. Hazel Culler Murray (ex-1923). Announcement was made of the acceptance of the Salem College School of Music in the National Association of Schools of Music. This was greeted with interest as was also the cause of the Shirley Scholarship Fund. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. J. P. Adkins; Vice-President, Maud Kerner King; Secretary, Mrs. Mozelle Culler Grogan.

NEWS FROM 1932

Many of the members of last year's graduating class have not yet written to tell us what they are doing this year. We have heard that Sara Graves is teaching in Mount Airy, that Mary Mitchell Norman is teaching in Troutman, that Mary Alice Beaman is teaching in Winterville, that Mary Virginia Pendergraph is teaching in Low Gap, Virginia, that Edith Claire Leak is teaching in Pilot Mountain, that Edith Fulp is teaching in Walkertown and that Nell Cook is teaching at Welcome. This keeps all of these in their own State of North Carolina. Agnes Pollock has a secretarial position in Raleigh. Anna and Pat Holderness have just returned from a tour abroad, including six weeks in Paris. Elizabeth Willis has been admitted to the Eastman Conservatory of Music at Rochester, New York. Katherine Brown and Elizabeth Miller have married. Anna Jackson Preston, president of Student Self-Government during her senior year is Former students will be interested to learn that Miss Lula May Stipe has been elected dean of women at Louisburg College, Louisburg, North Carolina. Miss Stipe was graduated from Salem College with the B.A. degree. She became teacher of English and was assistant to the late Bishop Edward Rondthaler as teacher of Biblical Literature. When she became dean of women at Salem she continued her work as teacher of Biblical literature. She resigned her position at the college about a year and a half ago because of ill health. Friends will be glad to hear that she has regained her health and has again entered fields of school administration.

Among summer visitors was Mrs. Harry B. Hill (Jeanette Hill, Academy 1916), with her husband and two children. Mr. Hill is a Presbyterian minister. They live at 30 Wesley Street, Newton, Mass.

Miss Ruth Pfohl, president of the Class of 1927, has accepted a position as Head of the Harp Department in the School of Music at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan. She is also librarian for the music library with twelve assistants. The offer of this significant position came to Ruth as a complete surprise at the end of the summer school at the University which she and several other Salem girls attended, among them Margaret Siewers, Katherine Pfohl, and Bessie Pfohl. We are proud of Ruth's record since her graduation from Salem. After a year's study at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia under Lucile Lawrence and Carlos Salzedo, she taught harp at the Moravian Seminary in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania and was in charge of choral work in the junior school there. For the past two years she has been a member of the faculty of the North Elementary School in Winston-Salem.

Her sister, Bessie Pfohl, 1923, is Dean of Women at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Virginia, this being her fourth year in that position.

Eleanor Johnson, 1931, writes that she is enjoying her college work at Agnes Scott. She sends a check of $1.00 for her subscription to the Alumnae Record for two years as she wishes to keep in touch with Salem Academy.

On October 13th Salem enjoyed a visit from Mrs. Gertrude Forman Sheep of Elizabeth City, N. C. Friends will be sorry to hear of the death of her husband last August.

Florence Mitchell, Business Student 1930, writes that she has a good position in New York City with an advertising corporation. Her address is 256 West 73rd Street.

Salem learns with interest that Mrs. Eric Norden (Laura Howell, 1924) of Wilmington, North Carolina, has received the degree Master of Music from the Chicago Musical College. Laura, herself, writes that the wonderful part of her year of study was the inspiration of her violin lessons with Sametini and the interesting theoretical study necessitated by the requirements. Immediately after finishing her work in Chicago, she and her husband sailed for Sweden to visit his people there and had a very happy time. While there she played her violin often and was much pleased at the kind reception of her music.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pfohl (Elizabeth Rondthaler, ex-1930), formerly of Indianapolis, Indiana, are now located in Brooklyn, New York, where Mr. Pfohl is Minister of Music in the Plymouth Congregational Church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pfohl are interested in music and both have been members of the Westminster Choir, now of Princeton, New Jersey. Elizabeth continues her study of voice and has charge of the Children's Choir in the Church. Both find much inspiration in their connection with a Church of such distinguished history, it having had as former pastors names of renown, Henry Ward Beecher, Lyman Abbott, and Newell Dwight Hillis, and as present pastor, the Rev. Stanley Durkee.

I have been missing the Alumnae Record, so am sending $1.00 to renew my subscription. Somehow it must have expired without my knowledge and this must not happen for "The Record is quite a joy and I look forward to each copy!"

Nineteen thirty-two is fulfilling one of my dreams—having a daughter at Salem! Her letters are brimming over with enthusiasm and I believe she has found Salem to be all that her mother has pictured it! I hope she will mean as much to you as Salem already means to her! To me there is a very peculiarly sweet influence at Salem, inspirational, and if a girl catches that when she first enters the dear old College it seems to always mould a most beautiful character and I have so often heard the remark, "One can usually tell a Salem Girl."—Mrs. J. B. James, (Lucy Brown James, 1908).

Letitia Currie and Sarah Turlington, both of 1928, are studying for their Master's Degree at the University of North Carolina, Sarah having been given a year's leave of absence from her teaching position at Lees-McCrae Institute, Banner Elk, N. C.

Rachel Darden Davis, 1926, of Seven Springs, was graduated with the M.D. degree from the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania on June 8, 1932. Salem is justly proud of Rachel's achievements since graduating from Salem. Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Heath of Bethlehem were present for her graduation exercises in Philadelphia and thus Salem was represented on this interesting occasion.

The next issue of The Record will contain Academy News, as well as college. Subscriptions for The Record by Academy Alumnae should be sent to the Alumnae Office, Salem College.

"Salem Day"

"Salem Day" and Salem Days will be renewed during February in meetings of Salem Alumnae everywhere.

Several Branch Association meetings have already been scheduled for February. Anna Jackson Preston, Alumnae Secretary, will be in eastern North Carolina from now until March 1st, getting in touch with alumnae and prospective students, speaking to senior classes in the high schools, and bringing a message from Salem to Branch Association Alumnae meetings.

Officers and loyal alumnae of the following towns are in communication with Salem and making plans to hold meetings during the spring: Durham, Raleigh, Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro, Wilmington, New Bern, Kinston, Greenville, Washington, Elizabeth City, Norfolk, Henderson, Oxford, Fayetteville, Rockingham, Salisbury, Greensboro, High Point, Leaksville-Spray, Martinsville, Va., Danville, Va. Lists of alumnae have been sent out from the College and it is hoped for a large attendance at the meetings this year.

The Charlotte Branch will meet on the night of February 2nd, Mrs. John T. Kimbrough (Mary Ardrey Stough) of Davidson, president, in charge of the meeting.

The Winston-Salem Branch will hold its meeting at eight o'clock on the evening of February third in the College library, Mrs. B. S. Womble, president, presiding.

The Burlington meeting will be held at four o'clock on Monday, February 6th. Miss Helen Coble, president, presiding, with Anna Jackson Preston representing Salem.

The Rocky Mount Branch will meet on February 15th, with Dr. Howard Rondthaler representing Salem.

The Richmond Branch will meet on March 8th with Mrs. R. F. Broadus.

Have you sent in your fifty cents for the Record this year? Save us the heavy cost of sending out coin cards and notices by mailing in the subscription fee right now.

News From Salem Academy

During the first few days of school we had heaps of fun at dinners, dances, and banquets. The night after the opening of school, Thursday, September 15, the third annual Academy birthday party was given. Friday night was the Athletic banquet and Saturday night the student representatives gave the whole school a dance out on the terrace. After a week of study, Saturday the twenty-fourth brought a tackey party given by the Seniors for the academy and the old academy girls at the college, Mary Nelson Anderson, Frances Bowland, Jean Burroughs, Frances Scales, Jane Rondthaler, Gertrude Schwalbe, and Lucy Gulick Rodgers were our guests.

We had some visitors during all this entertainment too. Ethel Litz, better known as "Snooks," paid us a visit before going to Arlington Hall, Washington, and later on Carolyn Welch spent a week-end with us. Both Mary Elizabeth Cunningham and Frances Humphreys have "dropped-by" to say "hello" to everybody.

I know all the alumnae will be interested in our new privileges. This year if a student is on the dormitory honor-roll at the end of the first six weeks she is allowed to go up town twice a week, and we don't have to report back from town on week days until six o'clock. You remember that it used to be five-thirty and you had to miss half of the picture show and rush madly over the cobblestones back to school. On Fridays "lights-out" is not until ten-fifteen, in order to give us a little more time after study hall.

Academy Alumnae will be interested in hearing what last year's graduates are doing. Christine Adams is at Meredith College; Helen Allen is at Carson Newman; Marguerite Coffman is at Mary Baldwin; Mary Elizabeth Cunningham, Genevieve Givler, Frances Humphreys, and Carolyn Welch are at N. C. C. W.; Helen Guerrant is at Flora McDonald; Alice Lanier is at Shorter; Zoe Powell is at Hollins; Sarah Gordon Wilson and Mary Mitchell Westall are at Randolph-Macon; Anna Boylin is at the University of Alabama; Ellen Zimmerman is at Farmville, and Jane Howard at the University of West Virginia; Mary Nelson Anderson, Frances Bowland, Jean Burroughs, Mary Flora Lawrence, Jane Rondthaler, Fan Scales, and Gertrude Schwalbe are at Salem. We have not heard from Grace Marie Leonard and Clara Edith Huxford. Zaida Buckley is taking a kindergarten course in the Child Education Foundation in New York. Margaret Chandler is studying art in Alcoa, Tennessee. Nell Humphrey is in Brooklyn, New York and Jean Jackson in Glen Ridge, N. J.; Martha L. Jones is at Red Star, West Virginia, and Lottie Schramm's address is "Rothercome," Lutherville, Maryland.

Academy Commencement and Class Day exercises will take place on Friday, June 2nd. Reunions of the following classes are being planned for: 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931. Several alumnae of these classes will come back for both Academy and College reunions, spending Friday at the Academy and then going across to their College Alma Mater for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, June 3rd to 5th.

Here and There Among the Alumnae

Salem is always glad to hear from its older alumnae. According to our records Mrs. Dr. Council of Hickory, who celebrated her one hundredth birthday on December 1st, 1932, is the oldest living alumna. Mrs. Council was Margaret Alice Bostwick of Sumter District, South Carolina, and attended Salem from March 31, 1848, to October 17, 1850. She is now living with her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Taylor of 1200 13th Street, Hickory, N. C. Her birthday was appropriately recognized with many messages from students and faculty at Salem. Through Anna Jackson Preston, Alumnae Secretary, Mrs. Council sends us the following message: "I wish I was able to get to Salem myself for I'd love to go. I am devoted to Salem, although I wouldn't know any of the girls. I would know Dr. Rondthaler and Dr. Pfohl and some of the townspeople." Anna Jackson tells us that Mrs. Council is a delightful person to talk with; that she has soft white hair, twinkling eyes, and a manner about her that proves she isn't old enough even yet to be grown-up. She is the sort of person who makes living to be 100 years old seem fascinatingly easy.

Other older alumnae who keep in touch with their Alma Mater are Mrs. John Gordon (Annie Pender) of Richmond, Virginia, now eighty-three years old; Mrs. C. C. Reid (Maria Reid Walpole), of Charleston, S. C., now seventy-nine years old. Last year we published a delightful message from Mrs. M. A. Mitchell (Martha A. Winston), of Livingston, Alabama, who attended Salem from 1854 to 1859. We would be glad to hear from others and thus keep in touch with them, and keep them in interesting contact with Salem.

A letter from Mrs. Lyman C. Jones, (Maggie May Robbins, 1922) of Rocky Mount, tells us of the death of Nannie Daughtridge, class of 1922, on September 23, 1932.

Helen Coble, ex-1925, writes us the Burlington news as follows: Christine Brooks, now Mrs. W. J. Carter, has moved to Sunset Drive, Greensboro, N. C. Christine has a daughter, Dorothy Brooks Carter, born in August. Nellie Mae Holt is teaching in Laurinburg, N. C. Elizabeth Rauhut is teaching at Parkton again. Gertrude Coble, 1922, now Mrs. Robert T. Johnson, has moved from Brooklyn, N. Y., back to Burlington. Mrs. Dave DeMoss (Flossie Loy) has moved to Asheboro. Rebecca Harden (Academy 1927) is studying in Boston, Massachusetts, this year at Miss Farmer's School of Cooking. Rebecca and another girl were asked to pose for a cooking advertisement and their pictures have appeared in McCall's and several other household magazines. Mrs. W. J. Graham, mother of Evelyn Graham, died on January 12th. Evelyn, who is now living in Tennessee, could not come home on account of sickness in her own family.

Mrs. E. S. Armistead (Sallie Bryan Sadler, Business Class 1926) has moved from Rocky Mount, N. C., to Atlanta, Ga., where her husband has charge of the Lincoln-Ford Agency. We are glad to add Sallie's name to our Atlanta alumnae list. She writes of meeting Margaret Crowder, ex-1928, formerly of Raleigh, now Mrs. Frank Williams, of Atlanta. She also tells us that Nannie Russell, Academy 1925-26, now Mrs. J. O. Sanderson, is living in Durham, N. C., and that Nannie Howard Knight, now Mrs. Edgar Osborne, is living in Sanford, N. C. Sallie has two boys, ages four, and twenty months, whom she would like to send to Salem, but her husband prefers his own Alma Mater, Georgia Tech.

Business students and others will be interested to learn that Miss Barrow had a delightful visit last summer with Mildred Collacott, business student 1925, in Cleveland, Ohio. Mildred has a good position with one of the Great Lake shipping companies in an office tower of Cleveland's wonderful Terminal Building. She is in touch with owners of large freight boats on the Lakes. These carry passenger sections for members of the company and their guests. Miss Barrow was invited to be one of a party of guests and gives us this interesting sketch of her trip:

"We embarked at Toledo and steamed leisurely along on Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake St. Clair, Lake Michigan, to Milwaukee, where we stayed for several days, unloading and reloading. The huge grain elevators there were interesting, as well as the method of loading the wheat on the boat. We shopped, went sightseeing, and, of course, attended the movies. The time spent on the water was most pleasant. The boat made only about ten miles an hour—and we had no appointments to keep—we could sleep, read, eat, enjoy looking at the blue, blue waters of the Lake, watch the attendant gulls, and, when shores were visible, get views of Canada or of our own country. We went through Mackinaw Strait and passed so close to historic Mackinac Island that we could see, with glasses, the walls of the Old Fort, and also the large new resort hotel, which at a distance appeared to resemble the Capitol at Washington. We had ten days on the water and it was most restful. Such a trip can be recommended as a delightful rest-cure, where everything is done for your pleasure and comfort, where the summer climate is wonderful, with lovely breezes and with nights so cool that heavy blankets were in demand. We disembarked at Buffalo and had the pleasure of seeing Niagara before returning, overland, to Cleveland."

A nice letter from Mrs. B. F. Harrison (Virginia Wadley), of Bolingbroke, Georgia, gives us the names of several high school students who might be interested in receiving a Salem College catalogue. She has a daughter whom she hopes to send to Salem.

Nancy Hankins, 1920, formerly instructor in piano at the New Jersey State College for Women, and recently a student at the Westminster Choir School at Ithaca, New York, has been elected head of the Piano Department of the Westminster Choir School, which is now located at Princeton, N. J.

If any alumnae meets a burglar wearing a Salem Ring, please arrest him, and return ring to Kitty Moore, 1931, of Gastonia, N. C. Kitty and her beau were held up on the Moore porch this summer and Kitty's Salem Ring was among the things taken from them.

Class Reunions 1933

Interesting plans are being made for Commencement. Correspondence indicates that a large group of alumnae will be at Salem in early June. Salem College Commencement dates are Saturday, June 3rd to Monday, June 5th; Salem Academy Commencement, Friday, June 2nd. It is always customary for a class just one year out of college to come back, so we shall meet 1932 here again, and the Dix Plan of Reunions will bring back members of 1931 also. Then we skip back a few years to the classes of 1925, 1924, 1923 and 1922; then back a few more years to the classes of 1906, 1905, 1904 and 1903; and then a rather long jump brings us to 1887, 1886, 1885, 1884, and further back we come to 1868 and 1867.

We are printing herewith part of the class lists and hope to print the rest in the March issue of THE RECORD, together with news about alumnae everywhere. Members of Reunion Classes who have not subscribed to THE RECORD this year should do so now in order to make sure that all Reunion news reaches them. Officers or members of the various classes will be glad to hear from all interested alumnae, both those planning to come back and those who cannot come.

What Are You Hoarding That Salem Needs?

LIBRARY

Salem Alumnae do you know that valuable Salemiana is being collected and preserved in the College Library? Our files of this material are incomplete, but we hope that you will help us complete them by contributing anything which you may have that would fall into one of the following groups:

1. Published works by Salem Alumnae and Faculty—books or musical compositions.
2. Text-books used at Salem, especially those used prior to 1900.
In this group should be included the cantatas of pre-civil war days which were written for the Public Examinations—a part for each pupil, one for the boarders, one for the town girls; also blank books in which each teacher wrote enough questions on her subject to fill one of these books (these questions were then copied and memorized by each pupil for the great Public Examination); also blank books in which the younger pupils learned trithmetic before being promoted to a text book.
3. Student publications:
The Hesperian 1897 or 98 - 1902.
The Ivy, first published 1904, vols. 1,6-14 wanted.
Handbook for students, Student Self-Government Association 1930.
4. Salem Catalogs:
There is a complete file in the Registrar's Office but a duplicate file is needed in the Library. The following issues are needed: 1859-60, 1863-64, 1864-65, 1871-72, 1872-73, 1899-1900.
5. Everything that has been published about the Academy and College.
6. Photographs of Faculty and Principals prior to 1900.

Please send your contributions to GRACE L. SIEWERS, Librarian.

LABORATORY

We need your assistance at this time. Courses in Nature Study and Principles of Geography have had to be introduced into the curriculum of Salem College to meet the requirements of the State Department of Education, and there is little demonstration and laboratory equipment now available for these courses.

We are appealing to the Alumnae, students and friends of the College to help us to secure the necessary material to give these courses in a way that will be a credit to the College.

We have need of the following material:

Mounted (stuffed) birds

Bird egg collections

Bird nest collections

Charts on birds

Books on birds

Mounted (stuffed) animals

Books on animals

Skeletons

Herbarium specimens

Colored pictures and cards on birds, all sizes

Preserved specimens of snakes and other small animals

Collection of butterflies, moths and insects

Books and any other printed material or illustrated material on butterflies, moths, insects and worms.

Books and illustrated material on flowers and trees

Charts on flowering plants, ferns, mosses, etc.

Globes, any age (old globes to be used as blackboard erasable globes).

If you have any of the above material which you do not need, or if you know of anyone who is willing to give such material for our use, please notify us, or better yet, send it to us.

THE NEED OF THIS MATERIAL IS VERY URGENT AND YOUR CO-OPERATION WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED. PLEASE DON'T DELAY!

All shipments and correspondence should be addressed to Charles H. Higgins, Head of Department of Science, Salem College.

1883 - 1933

The Class of 1883, under the leadership of Mrs. Andrew Howell (Gertrude Jenkins), of Wilmington, N. C., is planning to celebrate its 50th Reunion at Salem this June. It is hoped for a good attendance. In 1923 attempts were made for a Reunion, but not enough members of the Class could come back at that time, although many wrote letters to Mrs. Howell. The membership of the Class is as follows: Martha E. Beck, Winston-Salem; Mrs. W. J. Kirk (Loraine Johnson Gibbs), Yazoo City, Mississippi; Mrs. O. K. Uzzelle (Lily Anna Grogan), 800 E. 4th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.; Irene McGhee, Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Andrew J. Howell (Gertrude Elizabeth Jenkins), Winter Park, Wilmington, N. C.; Mrs. D. H. King (Mattie Alma Johnson), Winston-Salem; Percy Joyce, 58 Clarendon Place, Buffalo, N. Y.; Minerva Kyle Pace, 1201 Franklin Ave., Waco, Texas; Mrs. J. H. Tucker (Mary Elizabeth Powell), 27 Charlotte St., Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Robert Harris (Nettie Reid), Reidsville, N. C.; Susan India Shields, Scotland Neck, N. C.; Mrs. John A. Seaber (Ella L. Shore), 1825 Barnwell St., Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Frank Earnest (Josephine L. Waugh), Cotulla, Texas.

Mrs. Howell is visiting her son, Dr. Clewell Howell in Baltimore and can be reached at 315 E. Joppa Road, Towson, Maryland. She would appreciate hearing from members of the class, with news about themselves and other classmates.

Here and There Among the Alumnae

BURLINGTON

Helen Coble sends the following report of the Burlington Alumnae meeting: "We thoroughly enjoyed having Anna Preston—in fact, we most talked her to death! It was grand to hear so much about Salem and the many nice things that are happening there. Several girls were present, but of course about as many were not. The new officers are as follows: Ella Rhea Carroll, president; Ghilan Hall, vice-president; Wilma Holt, secretary; Violet Holt, chairman of the program committee.

DURHAM

The Durham Branch met this year at the home of its president, Mrs. Cecil Cooke (Elizabeth Hobgood, 1927), 907 Shepherd Street. The Durham Branch has fifty members on its roll. Anna Jackson Preston addressed them on matters pertaining to the College. A member offered daffodils to the members to sell, the proceeds to be used for Salem. In correcting the alumnae list sent out by the College office, the following changes were noted: Mrs. Jennings Berry (Ruth Mills, 1920), Parker Street; Bessie Cheatham, 1931-32, 707 Cleveland Street; Mrs. G. R. Crisp (Margaret Farthing, 1925-26), 410 Watts Street; Mrs. LeRoy E. Graham (Elsie Scoggins, 1920), 2026 Club Blvd.; Mrs. J. D. Hart (Mary Johnson, 1929), Rollins Apt.; Mrs. Edgar Heflin (Pattie G. Turner, 1921), Roxboro Road; Edith Kirkland, 1931, 208 Jones Street; Mrs. H. M. Dramer (Ethel Bryant, 1903-04), Forest Hills; Mrs. Albert Long (Ruth Parlier, 1917-18), 909 Monmouth Street; Annie Durham Rogers, 1929-30, 206 Liberty Street; Mrs. R. J. Thomas (Beulah Shore, 1917), 909 Green Street. Officers for 1933 are Miss Bess Whitaker, president, Miss Mary Norris, secretary.

GOLDSEORO

The Goldsboro Alumnae met on February 11th at the home of the president, Mrs. Floyd Uzzell (Van Castex). Anna Jackson Preston told of recent developments at Salem and brought her a sample of the new Salem Wedgewood Plate, and recent annuals and scrapbooks. Martha H. Davis was elected president, Claudia Bradford, secretary. There followed a social hour during which Mrs. Uzzell served sugar bread, reminiscent of Salem, together with sandwiches and tea. Those present were: Mrs. A. W. Falkener (Mary Miller); Mrs. George Heyward (LeMay Dewey); Mrs. Douglas Turner (Maggie Powell); Miss Daisy Jenkins. Miss Hattie Dewey. Mrs. W. R. Allen, II (Elizabeth Roper); Claudia Bradford. In addition to those mentioned herewith, there are the following additional members: Alma Bizzell; Rowena Borden; Mrs. N. E. Bradford (Clyde Peacock); Mrs. Paul Garrison (Willie Jennette); Mrs. Paul Edmundson (Lelia Montague).

HIGH POINT

The High Point alumnae met at the home of the President, Mrs. W. L. Jackson, with Mrs. Frank Hunsucker, associate hostess. The program opened with a piano solo "Whims" by Schumann, played by Wanna Mary Huggins of Salem. Zina Vologodsky of Salem told of some of the Lenten customs of Russia, after which she appeared in costume and performed a Russian dance. It was very delightful. Mary B. Williams, another Salem student, sang "Joy," accompanied by Miss Dorothy Thompson. Miss Anna Jackson Preston told something about her work as Alumnae Field Secretary for Salem and gave a vivid account of Salem itself. Officers for the next year are, Eleanor Idol, president; Alice Caldwell, Vice-president; Lucille Dunn, secretary.

HENDERSON-OXFORD-WARRENTON-FRANKLINTON

The Henderson meeting was held at the home of its president, Mrs. R. T. Upchurch, with Anna Jackson Preston speaking to the group. Old and new Salem were represented at the meeting, with Mrs. Graham Hunt (Lorena Bobbitt), who graduated in 1880, and Mrs. M. Y. Cooper who graduated from the Academy in 1931. Officers for the ensuing year are Mrs. James Ballou (Gaither Pearson), of Oxford, president; Miss Nannie Bessent, secretary.

KERNERSVILLE

The Kernersville Branch met on Founders' Day, February 3rd, at the home of Mrs. E. E. Shore. A very interesting program was enjoyed, including a talk by Miss Anna Jackson Preston and a piano solo by Miss Mary Louise Mickey, member of the senior class at Salem. Officers for the coming year are as follows: Mrs. Walser Allen (Nancy Ramseur), president; Mrs. Clay Ring (Maud Kerner), vice-president; Mrs. King Grogan (Mozelle Culler), secretary. There were nineteen members present.

ROCKY MOUNT

The Rocky Mount Branch Association met on St. Valentine's day, February 14th, entertaining Dr. Howard Rondthaler at a supper meeting. The meeting was informal in nature. Thirty-five alumnae were present. After the invocation by Mrs. M. I. Fleming (Jerusha Sherrod), Miss Mary Alta Robbins extended a gracious welcome to Dr. Rondthaler. Four alumnae, Mrs. R. I. Arrington (Dorothy Lee Harris), Mrs. W. M. Daughtridge (Mary Lee Joyner), Mrs. Edwin C. Duke, (Elizabeth Gerald), and Miss Maud Philips, 1929, related interesting events of their Salem Days. Mrs. H. E. Brewer (Mary Darden), introducing the guest of the evening, said: "Today is St. Valentine's Day, the day on which, as we remember, the good bishop who, as the story goes, during his long life time remembered his friends, young and old, with tokens of love and friendship. Ever since then his birthday has been celebrated by friends sending love messages and we, the old girls of Salem, think the gods have been especially good to send us on this Valentine's Day a gift we love so well, Dr. Rondthaler." Following the serving of a delicious turkey supper, Mrs. Bart Ritner (Ruth Joyner), introduced the officers of the local chapter for the coming year, these being, Mrs. J. Fred Pirkey (Elizabeth Alcocke), president; Mrs. Edwin C. Duke, vice-president; Miss Maud Philips, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Pauline Coghill, press agent.

WINSTON-SALEM

The Winston-Salem Branch of Salem Alumnae held its annual meeting in the College library on the night of February 3rd. Mrs. B. S. Womble, president presided. The program was very interesting. The librarian, Miss Grace Siewers, had on display a collection of literary and musical selections written by Salem Alumnae, students, or faculty members, these covering a period of the last one hundred years, and including the seven alma maters used during Salem's history. Mrs. Henry Fries (Rosa Mickey), sang, "When the Tide Comes In," this song having been sung by her in the same hall exactly fifty-four years ago. Miss Emily Mickey brought a message from the senior class; President Rondthaler spoke stating that "Salem has not lost its enthusiasm, purpose, or service either among students or faculty and that there has been manifest a most wonderful co-operation during these distressing months." Miss Anna Jackson Preston, the new Alumnae Field Secretary was presented. Mrs. A. H. Bahnson (Elizabeth Hill), announced the plan to purchase a small motion picture machine to be used in taking pictures of college scenes which might be shown at all Alumnae Meetings. Donations were accepted and a sufficient fund obtained for the purchase of the machine.

Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Miss Ida W. Wilkinson, president; Mrs. Harry Froeber (Sallie Jones), vice-president; Mrs. Thomas W. Blackwell, second vice-president; and Mrs. Henry Brown McCorkle (Elizabeth Hastings), secretary.

RALEIGH

The Raleigh Alumnae Branch met in February with Anna Jackson Preston as representative from Salem. Alumnae were particularly interested in the fact that Salem offered courses which made it possible for mid-year high school graduates to enter. The new "Salem Plates" also attracted attention. Mrs. H. Royster Chamblee (Georgia Riddle, 1923), appointed a committee to create interest among high school girls in attending Salem. The secretary, Nancy Cox, 1929-30, was asked to prepare a list of prospective Salem students in Raleigh. The Raleigh Branch expressed itself as wishing to do everything it possibly could to further Salem's progress.

LEHIGH VALLEY

The Lehigh Valley Branch of Salem Alumnae was organized in its first meeting on February 20th at the home of Mrs. W. N. Schwarze, in Bethlehem, Pa. Dr. Rondthaler was the guest of honor. He called upon each one present to give an account of her experiences since leaving Salem, and in the course of the evening many interesting and amusing incidents of school days were recalled.

Sixteen members were present, and all enthusiastically agreed that a Branch Association should be formed to include all Salem alumnae in Bethlehem and vicinity. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Estelle McCanless Hauptert; Vice-President, Katherine Ross; Secretary, Margaret Schwarze. It was decided that the Branch should meet at least once a year, preferably on or near Founder's Day, or whenever a distinguished visitor from Salem could be secured as speaker.

The membership of the Lehigh Valley Branch includes: Elizabeth Bahnson, Academy, Anastasia Bahnson, 1902, Julia Crawford, 1914, Elizabeth Marx, 1931, Katherine Schlegel, 1931, all of Nazareth, Pennsylvania; Blanche Speer of Easton, Pennsylvania; Pearl Martin of Macungie, Pennsylvania, 1928; Mrs. Philip Thomas (Rose Frazier, 1929), of Allentown, Pennsylvania; Mrs. David Petty (Mary Belle Thomas, 1908), Mrs. Ira Ross (Katherine Ross, 1918), Mrs. Raymond Hauptert (Estelle McCanless, 1923), Mrs. W. N. Schwarze (Ethel Greider), Isabel Rice, Louise Rice, Emma Heath (formerly nurse at Salem College), Josephine Cummings, Lucille Vest, 1930, and Margaret Schwarze, 1928.

NEW YORK

The annual meeting of the New York Branch was held at the home of Miss Mildred Steimle on February 20th. The guests of honor was Mrs. Howard Rondthaler who was in New York visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry Pfohl (Elizabeth Rondthaler). There were eleven members present.

After the excitement of greeting Mrs. Rondthaler, some of the girls had not seen her since they left College—the meeting came to order and each member present gave a short history of herself since she had left Salem.

While tea was being served, Mrs. Rondthaler told about Salem and the changes. Election of officers resulted as follows: Mildred Steimle, president; Mrs. Robert Garth (Sarah Lingle), secretary. The alumnae felt that in spite of hard times they wished to show their interest in their Alma Mater by making a contribution from the New York Branch, and a silver offering of nine dollars and fifty cents was taken up.

A list of the members present and a brief resume of their occupations is given herewith: Mrs. William Schuler (Anne Swann), 2264 Davidson Avenue, New York City, is writing a book of poems which she hopes will be published shortly. She is also historian of the Washington Heights D. A. R. and is doing some genealogical research work. Dicie Howell, 160 West 73rd Street, is teaching at her studio in the Sherman Square Studios during the winter months. She has a summer school at Asheville, N. C. She is soloist at the First Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn, under Dr. Woodman. Mrs.

Robert Garth (Sarah Lingle, 1922), 540 West 122nd Street, is very busy taking care of her small baby and in her spare time is studying Art. Nettie Allen Thomas, 119 East 29th Street, is editor of the Allied News in connection with the Allied Forces under Dr. Poling. Sometimes this takes her around the country on speaking tours. Mrs. Frank C. Johnson (Bright McKemie, 1923), 530 East 22nd Street, Brooklyn, has moved seventeen times in seven and a half years and now thinks she has earned the right to rest. She is studying costume designing. Mrs. Lynn H. Enslow (Mary Glendy), 3410 84th Street, Jackson Heights, continued her musical studies at Peabody and since then has done quite a bit of singing and playing. Also, her small daughter, Nancy Adair, a future Salemite keeps her busy. Mrs. Frederick Brandauer (Grace Martin), 424 West 55th Street, had expected to sail with her husband for China as missionaries but their sailing had to be postponed indefinitely on account of conditions over there. They are still hoping to go as soon as possible. Mr. Brandauer is minister at the First Evangelical Church. Mrs. J. M. Coghlan (Bessie Speas), 3 Vassar Place, Scarsdale, is the dietitian at the Western Union Telegraph main office. She has eighty-five people under her and they feed about five thousand daily. She also lectures at Columbia to groups of dietitians. She has a son, fourteen years of age. Ruth Parrish, 1230 Amsterdam Avenue, is still at Columbia teaching Domestic Science. She has given talks on cooking over the radio. Mrs. Henry Pfohl (Elizabeth Rondthaler), 71 Orange Street, Brooklyn, is assisting her husband with the music at Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, she herself having charge of the Junior Choir. Mildred Steimle, 174 West 93rd Street, is taking a music course at the David Mannes School and majoring in voice.

Salem College Commencement

Salem College Commencement will begin with Alumnae Day, Saturday, June 3rd, and end with the graduation exercises of the Class of 1933, Monday morning, June 5th. The traditional "Transfer of Cap and Gown" will take place at Chapel, 8:30 A. M., Thursday, June 1st.

Saturday, June 3rd

Alumnae will gather in Main Hall about 12:30 on Saturday for the Alumnae Luncheon at 1 o'clock. Classes holding special reunions under the Dix Plan can meet between twelve and one in the Class Rooms of Main Hall and go to the Alumnae Luncheon in groups, special tables being reserved for them. Classes holding reunions this year under the Dix Plan are 1931, 1925, 1924, 1923, 1922, 1906, 1905, 1904, 1903, 1887, 1886, 1885, 1884, 1868, and 1867. Officers of these classes have been in correspondence with members, and it is hoped that each Class will be well represented. In addition to the reunions under the Dix Plan, there will be a reunion of last year's graduating class, 1933, and of the class which graduated fifty years ago, 1883, this being a special reunion under the enthusiastic direction of Mrs. Gertrude Jenkins Howell of Wilmington, N. C., a member of the Class.

Alumnae are invited to be guests of the College and will be entertained in the College Dormitories. Those who desire to get meals at the College dining hall can arrange to do so for fifty cents per meal, this being the only expense on the Campus for visiting alumnae. Alumnae who wish room space reserved in the dormitory should notify Miss Grace Lawrence, Dean of Women, so that she will know how many to expect.

Miss Adelaide Fries, President of the Salem College Alumnae Association, will preside at the annual Alumnae Luncheon. Following the luncheon, alumnae will be invited to the presentation of the Senior Memorial on the Campus at three-thirty o'clock, this being a big surprise, and to the Senior Class Day Exercises at four o'clock. Miss Grace Siewers, librarian, has made an extensive and interesting collection of pictures of former Salem teachers. This exhibit will be on display all day Saturday in the College Library and visiting alumnae will certainly wish to see it.

Saturday night will come the annual Commencement Concert under the direction of Dean Charles Vardell, Jr., Head of the School of Music. A festival chorus and orchestra will present Coleridge Taylor's "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," members of the School of Music taking the solo parts. This promises to be an outstanding event of the Commencement season. Following the Concert, at ten o'clock, President and Mrs. Rondthaler will receive in Main Hall,

Sunday, June 4th

The Baccalaureate Service will take place at the Home Moravian Church at eleven o'clock, with Dr. Henry Louis Smith, President Emeritus of Washington and Lee University, preaching the sermon, and with special music and the customary processional. Vespers will be held Sunday evening on the Campus.

Monday, June 5th

Monday morning the Graduation Exercises will be preceded by the traditional Daisy Chain. The speaker on this important occasion will be Dr. Walter Lingle, President of Davidson College. Members of the Senior Class who hope to receive degrees at this time are:

Florence L. Aitchison, B.A., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Louise Brinkley, B.A., Plymouth, N. C.; Mildred G. Coleman, B.A., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Elizabeth S. Correll, B.S., Winston-Salem, N. Salem Academy Commencement

Salem Academy Commencement begins on Thursday, June 1st, with a riding meet at the Polo Grounds at five o'clock, and ends Friday night with the Graduation Exercises of the Seniors at eight-thirty. The Academy Baccalaureate Service will come the Sunday night preceding this, May 28th, 7:30 p. m., in the Mary Fries Patterson Auditorium, with Dr. Rondthaler speaking.

Friday, June 2nd

At twelve o'clock on Friday comes the "Award Program" in the Mary Fries Patterson Auditorium. At this time reports are made of all student organizations, the honor roll is read, and the senior memorial is presented. At one-fifteen o'clock the Academy Alumnae Luncheon will be held in the Emma Fries Bahnson Dining Hall, to which visiting academy alumnae and members of Academy reunion classes are invited. Classes holding reunions this year in the Academy are 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932.

Academy alumnae of the classes of 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921, who are returning also for their College Class reunions, will make their headquarters at the College but will include the Academy festivities in their program.

At five o'clock the Academy Senior Class Day exercises will be held in the Lower Campus. At six o'clock President and Mrs. Rondthaler will entertain Academy Seniors, their parents and visiting Academy alumnae at a buffet supper at the President's Home.

Graduating Exercises will be held in the Mary Fries Patterson Auditorium at eight-thirty, Friday night, at which time sixteen Academy seniors hope to receive high school diplomas. They are Ellen Adams, Macon, Ga.; Ida May Andrews, Roanoke, Va.; Martha Birdsey, Macon, Ga.; Jean Buckley, Summit, N. J.; Janie Hall, Knoxville, Tenn.; Helen Litz, Washington, D. C.; Laura Ellen Lunsford, Durham, N. C.; Varina Mayo, Knoxville, Tenn.; Mary McCanless, Danbury, N. C.; Martha Moore, Wilmington, N. C.; Martha Pryor, Tanner, Alabama; Virginia Smith, Salem, Va.; Sue Tinsley, Airpoint, Va.; Adelaide Tucker, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Margaret Wiggins, Hartsville, S. C.

The two girls who will appear on the program at Graduation Exercises are Ellen Adams, daughter of Gladys O'Neal Adams, member of the Class of 1912, Salem College, of Macon, Ga., and Varina Mayo, of Knoxville, Tenn. These girls receive this honor because of their excellent scholarship over a period of two years. Mary Louise Haywood, daughter of Louise Bahnson Haywood, member of the class of 1906, Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C., receives honorable mention for her excellent work during her three years in Salem Academy.

The Richmond alumnae met in March at the home of Mrs. R. F. Broadbush (Mary Addie Lancaster). About fifteen members were present and two guests, Sarah Frances Martin of Winston-Salem and Mrs. E. L. Whitely of Atlanta, Georgia. Mrs. Leroy C. Timberlake (Martha Bick) gave an interesting account of her visit to Salem on Founders' Day and several papers were read. "Pat" Holderness (1931) told about present day life at Salem. The next meeting will be held in May at the home of Mrs. W. B. Massie (Charlotte Davis).

KINSTON

A Salem Alumnae Branch was organized at Kinston, N. C., this spring, about twelve alumnae meeting at the home of Mrs. Willis Hines (Elizabeth Miller). Miss Anna Preston, Alumnae Secretary, met with the group and brought news from Salem and laid plans for an active organization. Officers were elected as follows: president, Elizabeth Rountree; secretary, Carrye Braxton (1932). Several committees were elected and plans made for future meetings. Mrs. Lillian Perry (Lillian Sutton) had the distinction of being the oldest "Salem daughter," having graduated in 1883.

CONCORD

The Concord Branch of Salem Alumnae met this year at the home of its president, Rosa Caldwell (1926), with Mrs. Lois C. Robinson (Lois Crowell, 1926), Mrs. Mary Hartsell Means, and Miss Lucy Hartsell as assistant hostesses. Fifteen members were present. A paper was read by Mrs. Laura Leslie Ross, 1893, giving in detail a condensed history of "Salem." Election of officers resulted as follows: president, Adele Pemberton (1913); vice-president, Mrs. Laura R. Gibson (Laura Ridenhour, 1914); secretary, Sara Crowell (1927-30); treasurer, Lucy Hartsell. Hostesses for the next meeting are Adelaide Foil (1930-31), Sara Crowell, Mrs. Frances Ridenhour White, and Mrs. Kate Lentz Raiford.

BREVARD

On March 30th. the Salem Alumnae in Brevard met at the home of Mrs. Pat Kimzey and at the suggestion of Anna Preston, the Alumnae Secretary, organized an Alumnae Association. There were only seven members able to be present at the first meeting, though there are twelve Alumnae in Brevard. The officers are: President, Mrs. Patton Kimzey (Juanita Sprinkle, 1923); Secretary, Beulah May Zachary (1932).

The members of the Association are: Mrs. Beulah Zachary (Beulah Mc. Minn, 1896); Mrs. T. G. Moody (Marion Younge, ex-1926); Mrs. Ed Cantrell (Irene McMinn, Academy 1921, College ex-1925); Elizabeth Zachary (1923); Gladys English (1928); Elizabeth Rameuseur (1928); LaVerne Waters (1928); Ethel McMinn (ex-1933); Mrs. Wood Paxton (Mary Osborne Wilkins, ex-1933).

Gladys English and Elizabeth Ramseur are teaching in Angiers, N. C. LaVerne Waters is doing Social Service work in Baltimore after finishing her course at the Social Service School of William and Mary. Mary Osborne Wilkins was married on April 18, 1933, to Wood Paxton; they will make their home in Brevard.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

Another active Branch of Salem Alumnae has been organized at Greenville, N. C., a meeting having been held on March 16th. Mrs. George F. Hadley (Emily Moye), presided over the meeting which was opened with the Salem Alma Mater, Miss Elizabeth Andrews at the piano. Miss Anna Preston, representing Salem, told of all College activities, mentioning particularly the new athletic field and stating that the beautiful Wedgewood dinner plates, with five different views of the College are now available. She told, too, of the moving picture machine which the Winston-Salem Alumnae Branch presented to the College, this to be used to take pictures of College life. These will be shown at successive alumnae meetings everywhere. The following enrolled as members: Mrs. Bronfield Ridley Whitthorne to Ft. Humphreys, Virginia; Elizabeth Andrews (1929), Mrs. Key Brown (Emma Purvis, 1912), Mrs. Earl Carter (Ruth Cobb, 1915), Mrs. Sidney Caswell of Detroit, Michigan, Mrs. Pat Daughtridge, Mrs. Jack Edwards (Mary Sheppard Parker, 1922), Mrs. E. PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA

The Philadelphia Branch met at "Ye Welcome Inn" on March 25th, with Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Clewell as honor guests. Dr. Clewell is a professor at the University of Pennsylvania. He gave an interesting, informal talk about his "days at Salem," as the son of a former president of the College and Academy; then he spoke of the student life at the University and the trend toward greater spiritual development among them.

The room and table was attractively decorated with Salem Colors—a centerpiece of jonquils and a miniature corsage of yellow daisies and white sweet peas at each place. View of Salem, in the shape of diplomas, were given to each member present. On account of the organization of the "Lehigh Valley Branch of Salem Alumnae," the Philadelphia organization loses several members. Officers elected were: Mrs. Clarence Parker (Ione Fuller), president; Mrs. Gilbert Fry (Mary McKelvie, 1925), vice-president; Mrs. Leonard Jones (Flora Binder, 1925), secretary. Mrs. Raymond Hauptert (Estelle McCanness, 1923), and Gretchen Schwarze (1928), attended from Bethlehem, and Mrs. Rosa Norfleet and Mrs. T. S. Fuller (Kate Holland) from Winston-Salem. Two new members were added: Ruth Clewell (1930-32) and Mrs. Albert Jennings (Helen Bagby, 1928).

DALLAS, TEXAS

The Dallas Branch met informally for tea and its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. H. L. Edwards (Caro Buxton). Mrs. Curt Beck (Anna Buxton) was elected president for the ensuing year and Mrs. W. H. Kindred (Lucy Wharton) secretary. Fifteen of the twenty-two members were present.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

The Wilmington Branch met at the Y. W. C. A. with Mrs. Harper (Ella Strupe), president, presiding. Letters of greeting were read from members who could not be present. Miss Anna Jackson Preston represented Salem. For the ensuing year Frances Caldwell (1932), was elected president and Ann Meister (1932), secretary.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

The Charlotte Branch met February 2nd, 1933 with Mrs. John Haliburton, 1547 Queens Road. Mrs. John S. Kimbrough, the president, presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. The roll was called and corrections made in member's addresses, etc. Mrs. Verner Stanley, who is chairman of the committee appointed to investigate means of forming a Salem Fund in the association, reported that her committee had found that most Alumnae Branches, had dues and suggested the possibility of starting a Salem Fund in this way.

Miss Anna Preston, travelling secretary for Salem, suggested a tea in April or May for prospective Salem students. Mrs. Charles Ross offered to get a list of prospective students from the high school.

Mrs. Howard Rondthaler made a most inspiring informal talk about the present Salem College and Academy. Misses Huggins, Silversteen, Williams and Thompson from the college presented a varied and interesting musical program. They were in Charlotte for the purpose of giving a musical program over Radio Station WBT the same night.

Here and There Among the Alumnae

Katherine A. Pfohl, ex-1932, is teaching in the music department of Limestone College, Gaffney, S. C., this being her second year as head of the voice department there. In addition to her work with the Westminster Choir School, now of Princeton, N. J., Katherine did work this summer at the University of Michigan. The Limestone College choir had the honor of giving a program before the National Grange which met in Winston-Salem in November.

We were glad to get a letter from Mrs. H. B. Allen, Jr. (Mary Myers Faulkner, 1929-1930), of Wadesboro, N. C., who says she wouldn't take "a chest of gold" for my three years within Salem walls." Mary Myers has a daughter, Mary Rebecca, born July 13, 1932.

Pauline Schenherr, 1927, writes that Frances Murray, 1927, has married a brilliant young geologist and is now living in Maracaibo, Venezuela. Her married name is Mrs. Hollis Hedberg. Zadia Buckley, 1932, has begun kindergarten training in a school in New York City. Colette Howell, 1931, now Mrs. Harry Louis McNeil of Selma, Alabama, has a little girl, Betty, born October 1.

The following Academy alumnae have written that they hope to be back for the Academy General Alumnae meeting at Commencement: Misheva Crudup, 1931, now Mrs. Marshall Cooper, Henderson, N. C.; Nat-Alle Dunn, 1931, now a student at Brenau College; Martha Jones, 1932, now in Florida. In addition to these there are fifteen former academy students in Salem College who insist upon coming back for the alumnae luncheon at the Academy, June 2nd.

Elizabeth Faver, 1929, of St. Augustine, Florida, writes that she wants to come sometime during the year to see the new Academy and her classmates who will this year graduate from Salem College. Frances Allen, 1931, of Charlotte, is taking a secretarial course in New York City this winter. Mary Elizabeth Hahn, 1931, of Bath, Pennsylvania, now a student at Goucher College, writes that she often sees Lottie Schramm, 1932 whose address is Lutherville, Maryland.

Editor: ALICE KEENEY RONDTHALER

Dear Alumnae,

Salem has opened another year of service in the education of young women. Prospects for 1933-34 for both Salem Academy and Salem College are bright. The enrollment of both institutions is greater than last year, representing students from north, south, east and west. In addition to the boarding enrollment, there is a large day student enrollment in both Academy and College this year and these students have an interesting and important part in the daily life, sharing with the boarders social, athletic, and academic privileges.

The faculty of both institutions is the same as that of last year, with the exception of the appointment of Mr. John Downs to the Department of Modern Languages, and the appointment of Miss Margaret Siewers to the Department of Music. Mr. and Mrs. Downs, and small son, are making their home at Salem. Mr. Downs is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, and a former teacher there. Miss Siewers is a Salem graduate of the class of 1932. She received her Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan last year.

College and Academy student organizations remain unchanged except that new ideas are always making their activities more interesting. The recitals of the Department of Music have been particularly outstanding this year and have drawn much attention and interest.

Alumnae are urged to come back to Salem and keep in touch with the College and the Academy. Don't wait for a special day, just come for an unexpected visit and make yourself at home amid familiar scenes. Your Alma Mater counts on your continuing interest and loyalty.

Cordially,

Howard E. Rondthaler
President

"Here and There" Among the Alumnae

COMMENCEMENT 1933

Commencement 1933 seems far in the background to those here at Salem, but so many inquiries have come in as to "who was back at Salem" for Commencement, that we are printing the names of those members of the Reunion classes who came back. Of course there were many others and Commencement was indeed a very happy occasion in both Salem College and Salem Academy, but we are just taking from the register book the names of those back for special reunion in order that classmates who could not be here can enjoy in reminiscence the good time which those here had. From 1931 came Lucy Martin Currie, Millicent Ward McKeithan, Frances Fletcher, Louise Coleman, Dallas Sink, Gertrude Templeman, Edith Kirkland, Louise T. Stevenson, Sallie Heggie and Ruth Ellen Fogleman.

From 1925 came Elizabeth Leight Tuttle, Elgie Nance Myers, Katie Holshouser Dye, Kate Sheets Hagar, Jr., Elizabeth Roop Hart.

From 1924 came Mary Pfohl Lassiter, Lois Neal Anderson, Jennings Ross.

From 1923 came Juanita Sprinkle, Flavella Stockton, Estelle McCanless Hauptert, Julia Hairston, Josephine Shaffner, Agnes Pfohl Eller, Florence Crews Miller, Dorothy Luckenbach Hemingway, Birdie Drye Smith, Ruby Sapp Barnes.

From 1922 came Georgia Riddle Royster, Mary Shephard Parker, Alice Watson Hicks, Elizabeth Gillespie, Olivenc Porterfield Merritt, Louise Cooke, Miriam Efird, Miriam Vaughn DuBose.

From 1906 came Nellie Fries Willingham, Louise Bahnson Haywood, Cleve Stafford Wharton, Josephine Parris Reece, Annie Mickey Singletary.

From 1905 came Louise Grunert, Cammie Lindley Leak, Jerusha Sherrod Fleming.

From 1904 came Florence Stockton Masten, Louise Crist Jones, Corinne Baskin Norfleet.

From 1903 came Lucy Reavis Meinung, Carrie Ogburn, Elizabeth Stype Hester, Emma Stafford Patterson.

From 1887 came Rebecca Marks Brown; from 1886, Lizzie Johnston Graves; from 1884 Claudia A. Winkler.

A special reunion of the Class of 1883 was planned by the president, Mrs. Gertrude Jenkins Howell, of Wilmington, N. C., but although Mrs. Howell got in touch with all of the members of the class who are still living, she and Mrs. Mattie Alma Johnson King of Winston-Salem were the only members present at the reunion. Mrs. Howell reported that she had heard from Kyle Pace, Waco, Texas; Mrs. Lily Anna Grogan Uzzelle, Los Angeles, California; Percy Joyce, and Mrs. Josephine Waugh Earnest, Cotulla, Texas and gave a vivid and interesting account of the class history.

COMMENCEMENT 1934

Now our thoughts turn toward Commencement 1934 with the announcement that under the Dix Plan the following classes will hold reunions:

1932

1921	1920	1919	1918
1902	1901	1900	1899
1883	1882	1881	1880

1933

Corrected lists of members of these classes are being compiled for ensuing issues of The Record. Already one of the "Naughty-Naughts" (1900), Stella Phelps Nance of Winston-Salem has furnished us with much interesting information about her classmates. The Editor will appreciate letters from other alumnae interested in Commencement plans and especially Class lists.

ASHEVILLE SALEM ALUMNAE HOLD MEETING

The Asheville Salem Alumnae met in the spring at the Y. W. C. A. to elect officers. Mrs. A. L. Barister (Hazel Smith, 1919), was elected president, Mrs. George Robinson (Althea Backenstoe, 1927), secretary and treasurer. On July 14th the new president was hostess at a lovely tea in her new home in Lake View Park. Among those present were: Margaret Jarrett, 1925, Mrs. T. A. Curry (Lilly Jackson, 1896), Mrs. F. A. Reinhard (Katherine McCrae, 1918), Lillie Everett, 1911, Mrs. J. T. Sevier (Carrie Rollins, 1894), Dicie Howell, 1911, Velma Cline, 1924, Mrs. D. Hiden Ramsey (Mary Sumner, 1918), Mrs. Alice White (Alice Sumner, 1921), Sadie Rollins, 1903, Mrs. Homer Nowles (Isabel Harris, 1918), Edith Harris, 1926, Mrs. Floyd Byram (Stella Wallace, 1904), Mrs. A. L. Barister (Hazel Smith, 1919), Mrs. George Robinson (Althea Backenstoe, 1927). The purpose of the meeting was to stimulate interest in Salem. Various methods were discussed by which it would be possible for the Asheville Alumnae to raise funds for the benefit of Salem. Everyone is interested in the movie, "A Day in Salem" and we are eagerly awaiting the occasion when Miss Anna Preston, Field Alumna Secretary, will come to Asheville as our guest and present this picture.

NEWS FROM 1933 GRADUATES

From the members of last year's class we hear the following news: Florence Aitchison, Eugenia Johnson, Louise Mock, Charlotte O'Brien, Mabel Reid, Louise Sides, Mary Lillian White are teaching in Winston-Salem; Tom-mye Frye is teaching at Booneville, N. C.; Mary Katherine Thorpe is teaching in Fries, Virginia; Josephine Courtney is teaching in Collettsville, N. C.

Ghilan Hall is taking a Business course at home in Burlington, N. C., Elinor Phillips is working for her teacher's certificate at the Teachers' College, Clarion, Pennsylvania. Edith Jones of Martinsville, Virginia, business class 1933, has a good position in her home town. Elizabeth Correll is assisting Violet Hampton, 1933, in the Cafeteria at Woolworth's, Winston-Salem. Nancy Ann Harris is teaching piano in Winston-Salem. Mary Louise Mickey and Margaret Johnson, both with the B. A. degree, are continuing their work at Salem toward a Bachelor of Music degree in 1934. Emily Mickey is specializing as a nurse and companion, working particularly with diets.

Adelaide Silversteen is studying voice in New York under Mr. Edgar Schofield, brother to Mr. Ernest Leslie Schofield, head of the voice department at Salem. Mary Catherine Siewers is employed at Sosnik's Department Store. Mary Stockton is assisting her sister, Blanche Stockton, 1924, Dietitian at Salem College. Josephine Walker is working in the Salem Book Store. Rosalie Smith is teaching music privately at her home in New Bern, N. C.; Mary B. Williams is director of the Wilmington, N. C. High School Glee Club, and hopes to open a private studio. Naomi Stone has a stenographic position in Charlotte, N. C. Marjorie Petree of the Business Class of 1933 is employed in the Bond Department of Wachovia Bank & Trust Company, Winston-Salem. Dorothy Heidenreich is keeping house for her father in Durbin, North Dakota.

Pauline Setzer and Wanna Mary Huggins are married. Carol Glenn of the Business Class has a position with the Prudential Insurance Company in Winston-Salem. "Billy" Philpott is at home in Rocky Mount. Henrietta Redfern of the Business Class is employed in her home town, Monroe, N. C. Other members have not been definitely heard from, and The Alumnae Record would be glad to receive news of them for the next issue.

ACTIVITIES OF THE ALUMNAE FIELD SECRETARY

Anna Jackson Preston, Field Alumnae Secretary, has just returned from a trip through Georgia and Florida, visiting parents of resident Salem students, prospective students, and as many alumnae as possible. She reports an interesting alumnae meeting at Fort Pierce at the home of Mrs. J. M. Sample, mother of Mary Sample, now a senior at Salem. Among those present were Lardner McCarty Newell, 1927, and her little daughter, Mrs. Fannie Moore McCarty, 1899, Margaret Sample Helstrom, Evelyn McCarty and Eloise Sample, Salem students of the near future. Among other alumnae whom Anna Jackson saw were Anna Pauline Shaffner Slye, 1927, Jacksonville, Florida; Doris Shirley Allen, 1929; Minnie Hicks Williams, ex-1932; Mrs. Herbert L. Salsburg (Mary B. Sherrod, 1905); Elizabeth Dowling, 1928, teaching now at the Tubman High School, Augusta, Georgia. Mrs. Salsburg is now living in Savannah and would like to get in touch with all salem alumnae in that vicinity and form a Savannah Branch of the Alumna Association.

During the rest of November and early December, Anna Jackson will be in the vicinity of Washington, D. C., where her home now is. With the co-operation of officers and members of the various Branch Associations in the north, she will hold meetings in New York, Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Baltimore, and Washington. Alumnae in this section, whose names are not already on the Branch Association lists should get in touch with the various presidents, as follows: New York, Mildred Steimle, 174 West 93rd Street; Philadelphia, Mrs. Clarence Parker, 5002 Pine Street; Bethlehem, Mrs. Raymond Hauptert (Estelle McCanless, 1923), 1310 Main Street; Washington alumnae will please get in touch with Anna Preston at her home, 2844 Wisconsin Avenue.

In January and February, Anna Jackson will be at the service of North Carolina alumnae and Branch Associations here. Officers of the various Branches are urged to plan ahead for meetings, letting her know when they would like to have her visit them so that she can make her itinerary.

The new movie picture machine, a gift of the Winston-Salem alumnae, is purchased and equipped, and Anna Jackson will be glad to show "A Day at Salem" to any alumnae Branches wishing it. Pictures can be shown in the day time as well as at night.

OF INTEREST TO SALEM ACADEMY ALUMNAE

Reports from the 1933 graduating Class of Salem Academy bring us the following news. Ellen Adams and Laura Ellen Lunsford are attending Duke University; Ida Mae Andrews is at Hollins College; Jean Buckley is attending the Kent Place School in her home town of Summit, N. J.; Janie Hall and Varina Mayo are at the University of Tennessee; Mary Louise Haywood, Martha Moore and Sue Tinsley are at Salem College; Mary McCanless is at home in Danbury, N. C.; Martha Pryor is at Ward Belmont College, Nashville, Tenn.; Adelaide Tucker is at Guilford College, and Margaret Wiggins is at Winthrop College.

"Tobey," Mrs. Johnnie Robertson, class of 1927, and Ruth Kennedy, Mrs. J. C. Myers, class of 1928, are planning to see each other on the west coast this winter. Tobey's address is 225 Bush Street, San Francisco, California; Ruth's address is c-o Ensign J. C. Meyers, U. S. S. Arizona, Postmaster, San Pedro, California.

Sarah Wiggins of Pittsburgh, Pa., 1928-30, was a visitor at the Academy in October.

Laura Collord, 1930, is taking a pre-medical course at Barnard College.

Sarah Brown, 1927, graduated from Rollins College in January 1933.

Helen Thomas (ex-1934) was married Monday, Sept. 25, 1933 to Miller D. Ware. They are living at Rutherfordton, N. C.

For the Good of "The Record"

please remember

1. that we need your fifty-cent subscription fee for 1933-34;
2. that we need news items about yourself, your classmates, and your schoolmates;
3. that "changes of address", "births", "marriages", and "deaths", should be promptly reported in writing;
4. that these notices are vitally important, not only to alumnae as news, but to the Alumnae Office as an aid in keeping files correct and up-to-date;
5. that Winston-Salem alumnae should report news items, changes of address, birth, marriage, and death notices in writing;
6. that we have only a part-time Editor, one not readily available at the Alumnae Office except thru correspondence;
7. that there are but four issues of "The Record" during the college year,—November, January, March, May;
8. that officers of Branch Associations should hurry to "book" Field Secretary Anna Preston and her movie "A Day at Salem"; (to avoid the January Rush!)
9. that officers and members of Reunion Classes should begin now to "boost" June 1934 reunion;
10. that the Alumnae Office is always glad to furnish information, provided requests for such are in writing;

— these ten points being prompted by the fact —

1. that the printer and the postman must be paid;
2. that the more news—the more Alumnae Record;
3. that we seem to remember that we heard that Miss So-and-So had married, but we have no written proof;
4. that the Editor cannot be both a sending and a receiving station;
5. that it is often the home folks who are most easily overlooked, that the Editor does not always see the local paper, that the Editor does not know all local alumnae and fails often to print local news items thru failure to receive them in writing;
6. & 7. that it would be neither practical nor economical to have a full time Editor; that the Editor is usually at the office on Tuesday afternoons from 2 to 4 p. m., but might be somewhere else! (nobody knows, not even the Editor);
8. that lists of alumnae of a given city or section will be furnished to Branch Association Presidents upon request in writing;

— and finally —

9. that lists of members of Reunion Classes will be furnished Class
vided requests for such are in writing.
10. that our slogan for 1933-34 be: "Do Your Part in Writing".

On The Salem College Campus

“WHO’S WHO?”

Recent graduates will be interested in knowing “Who’s Who” on the College Campus this year.

Georgia Huntington of Wilmington, N. C. is president of Student Self Government; Katherine Lasater of Erwin, N. C. and Mary Ollie Biles of Winston-Salem, N. C., are vice-presidents; Margaret McLean of Lumberton, N. C., is Secretary; and Elizabeth Gray of Winston-Salem, N. C., is treasurer.

Alice Stough of Charlotte is president of the senior class; Cortland Preston of Washington, D. C., of the junior class; Nancy McNeely of Cooleme, N. C., of the sophomore class, and Beverly Little of Ansonville, N. C., of the freshman class.

The Y. W. C. A., always an active and influential organization on the Campus, has been doing good work under the leadership of its president, Zina Vologodsky of Harbin, China; its vice-president, Sarah Horton of Monroe, N. C., its secretary, Susan Rawlings of Goldsboro, N. C., and its treasurer, Elois Padrick of Fort Pierce, Florida.

Marion Hadley of Charlotte is president of the Athletic Association. Other officers are Grace Pollock of Kinston, Betty Tuttle of Leaksville, and Fan Scales of Stoneville.

“I. R. S.,” “I Represent Salem” has Katherine Lasater of Erwin, N. C. as its president; Josephine Grimes of Winston-Salem, vice-president; and Jane Williams of Wilmington, N. C., secretary and treasurer.

Jean Patterson of Russellville, Tennessee, is president of the French Club, Rachel Carroll of Wilmington, N. C., of the “History Club,” Betty Stough of Charlotte of the “Home Economics Club,” Virginia Allen of Winston-Salem of the “Latin Club,” Ann McKinnon of Maxton, N. C. of the “Mathematics Club,” Elizabeth Jerome of Winston-Salem of the “Psychology Club;” these representing the various academic fields of the student body.

“The Salemite” has Susan Calder of Charlotte as Editor-in-Chief, and Isabel Pollock of Bluefield, W. Virginia as Business Manager. “Sights and Insights,” the College Annual, has Elizabeth Leak of Greensboro as Editor-in-Chief, Sarah Horton of Monroe, as Business Manager.

Beth Norman of Mooresville, N. C. is president of the “Young Democratic Club.”

Elois Padrick of Fort Pierce, Fla., is president of the “Pierrettes.”

All of these organizations find a place in the work and play of a busy and happy life on the College Campus.

On the Campus of Salem Academy

"WHO'S WHO?"

In conference with Salem Academy faculty and students it was recently decided that instead of publishing annually one issue of The Record devoted entirely to Salem Academy news, there should be in each issue of The Record a page of "Salem Academy Activities," and that since some dividing line must be reached, this "News Sheet" would be devoted to Academy Activities of the new Salem Academy, i. e. covering those years since 1930, when Academy students have occupied their three beautiful buildings, the Mary Fries Patterson Building the Carrie Fries Shaffner Building, and the Emma Fries Bahnson Building. This page is therefore for the most part devoted to Academy alumnae of those years.

Visiting the Academy, we find everything progressing happily and busily. Fannie Stokely of Newport, Tennessee, is president of the Senior Class; Josephine Gribbin, of Winston-Salem, vice-president; Peggy Brawley of Pasadena, California, treasurer; Blevins Vogler of Winston-Salem, secretary. Ruth Greene of Asheville, N. C., is president of the Junior Class, Dorothy Everett of Brevard, N. C., of the Sophomore Class, and Bob-Ed Lasater, of Winston-Salem, of the Freshman Class. Betty Bahnson of Winston-Salem is president of the "Edison Club" (Science); Anne Perkins of Winston-Salem, of "Pi Delta Phi" (Senior Dramatic Club), with Kathleen Madden of Knoxville, Tennessee, secretary of the same. Dorothy Everett, sophomore president, is also president of the "Harlequin Club" (Junior Dramatic Club). Helen Litz of Washington, D. C. is president of the "Scribbler's Club."

"HERE AND THERE" WITH SALEM ACADEMY ALUMNAE

From Newport, Tennessee, we hear of the marriage on December 26, 1933, of Helen May Allen (Academy, 1932), to Arthur Wallace Cates. Mr. and Mrs. Cates will be at home at 12 Maple Street, Penn's Grove, New Jersey.

From LaHabra, California, we hear of the birth of a daughter, on November 26, 1933, to Mr. and Mrs. Myrl M. Carver (Doris Clayton, Academy, 1929).

Cammie Henry (1930-32), of Melrose, Alabama is attending the Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, La.

Mary Elizabeth Cunningham (1932), is attending Katherine Gibbs School, New York City.

Dorothy Gnann (1931), is a student at Rider College, Trenton, N. J.

The following changed addresses have been reported: Mrs. John Robertson (Emily Toby, 1927), 1846 Spruce St., Berkeley, California; Dora Stipe (1928), 904 West D Street, Moscow, Idaho; Elizabeth Board (1929), Williamson, West Virginia.

With the announcement that one page of the Alumnae Record will be devoted to Salem Academy news, we are rapidly receiving subscription fees from Academy alumnae. If your name is not on the list, let us put it there: Mrs. C. S. McCollum (Blair Lee Cox, 1927), 111 West Berkley Ave., Norfolk, Virginia; Pauline Schenherr, Norfolk, Connecticut; Mrs. Ferd Satterwhaite, Greenville, N. C.; Mrs. Kenneth H. Mayfield (Virginia Perkinson, 1928), 2705 Hanover Ave., Richmond, Virginia; Louise Watson (Academy, 1924-27), 7531 Stoney Island Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Officers North Carolina Salem Alumnae Associations

Meetings are being planned throughout North Carolina during February and March, when Anna Jackson Preston, Field Secretary will show moving pictures of Salem.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC RECOGNIZED

An outstanding event, of interest to Alumnae and College students on the Campus, occurred in late December when Dean Charles G. Vardell, Jr., attending the annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music in Lincoln, Nebraska, telegraphed President Rondthaler that the Salem College School of Music, a tentative member of the Association since last spring, had been recognized as a regular member of the Association with full privileges and highest rating. This full recognition came after a year of investigation by a committee of the National Association of Schools of Music of the work of the Salem College School of Music, and is a great honor to Salem, ranking it, as it does with all other members of this great music organization.

Salem College was further honored in the election of Dean Charles G. Vardell, Jr. as a vice-president of the Association, representing the south-eastern district.

"Here and There" Among the Alumnae

Among recent visitors was Betsy Bailey, returning to visit her Alma Mater for the first time since she graduated in 1917. She is now Mrs. Richard Eames, Park Lane, Glenview, Illinois.

Another recent visitor was Dr. Rachel Davis, 1926, who is now in private practice at Kinston, N. C. With Rachel came Mrs. Harry Fagge (Lucille Reid, 1926), of Leaksville. These two, coming back together, looked as natural to Salem as did Salem to them.

Just prior to the Christmas holidays, and at the annual "Christmas Party" with its delightful "Dean Vardell Santa Claus," Salem enjoyed a visit from Mrs. V. G. Newell (Lardner McCarty, 1927) of Fort Pierce, Florida.

Dorothy Heidenrieck, 1933, writes from Durbin, North Dakota, "I didn't get a job, but I was offered a position here at home being chief cook and bottle-washer, and I accepted. It's like being a "ready-made minister's wife for it includes everything from finding pieces for the little children to speak at Christmas, to sewing on shirts for orphans in Germany and piecing quilts at Ladies' Aid, not to mention editing a church leaflet every week."

Dorothy wishes that North Dakota were as close to Winston-Salem as Kernersville, N. C., but if what she says about the 30-below zero weather out there is true, we don't care to have it moved any nearer. But, Dorothy, you come back to the sunny South for a visit sometime!

Cora A. Harris, 1904, daughter of Col. Wade Harris, editor of the Charlotte Observer, has been appointed to a position in the public relations division of the federal relief agency in Washington, D. C.

Eleanor Idol, 1932, of High Point, N. C., has a position as secretary to Dr. Will Lambeth, Pastor of the Methodist Church, High Point.

Louise Salsbury, 1928-30, is teaching piano in High Point, and reports a class of seventeen pupils.

MEMBER OF 1906 ACHIEVES DISTINCT RECOGNITION

Salem is always proud of the achievement of its graduates, and reads with delight of the international recognition which Mrs. Homer Benton (Joy Kime, class of 1906), has recently received for her art and handicraft work.

Since the exhibition of "A Carolina Hill" at the Century of Progress last summer, Mrs. Benton's tapestries have won recognition everywhere. Another alumnae as far away as Little Rock, Arkansas, Mrs. Vivian Owens Noell, 1906, who saw the display in Chicago writes, "The colors in these hand-made tapestries, their combination, fairly take your breath. They are indescribably lovely, and you know at first glance that you are seeing something rare, individualistic, unique." These tapestries have been exhibited at the National Canadian Exhibition, and in the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington, where "Dawn, Smoky Mountain Cabin" received the highest praise. During the next twelve months the tapestries will be exhibited by the Russell Sage Foundation at important museums in America.

Friends and classmates at Salem hope that sometime Joy will bring some of her tapestries back to her Alma Mater for exhibition purposes. In addition to her handicraft achievements, she has been recognized in the field of poetry and short story writing, having twice won the Separk poetry cup, and having three times won the O'Henry short story prize, and twice the Joseph P. Caldwell cup. She has recently been notified of her election to the Southern Highland Handicraft Guild of America, a rare honor for an individual.

SALEM'S OLDEST ALUMNAE CELEBRATES 101ST BIRTHDAY

Salem's oldest graduate, Mrs. Alice M. Council (Alice Bostwick, 1848-1850) observed her 101st birthday on December 1st. Although she has grown weaker and frailer the past year, Mrs. Council remains active and personally received all of her callers on her birthday. She makes her home in Hickory, N. C. with her daughter, Mrs. E. A. Taylor. Among treasured messages received was that of Dr. and Mrs. Rondthaler, "Your little sisters at Salem College are thinking of you today and send love and best wishes for many happy birthdays."

DEATHS

Word has come through Mary Dancy Pritchett of the death in August, 1930, of Mrs. Florence McCanless Pritchett (Florence McCanless, 1883-1886).

VOGLER. Winston-Salem, N. C., January 5, 1934, Sarah A. Vogler, Salem Academy 1854, teacher 1866 to 1884.

PFOHL. Winston-Salem, N. C., January 15, 1934, Mrs. Charles B. Pfohl (Mary Josephine Eberhard, 1867, teacher 1867-1870).

This issue of The Record records the passing of two dear friends, both former teachers at Salem. Salem Alumnae everywhere, who had the privilege of their teaching companionship, will read with sorrow of their passing, and will at the same time think back with interest and joy to the happy inspiration of days under their tutorage.

Sarah Amelia Vogler came to Salem from her missionary home with the Cherokee Indians in Indian Territory (Oklahoma), after the death of her father, settling with her mother and two sisters, Mary and Anna, in Salem. From her own diary we read: "I first went to the Infant School taught by Miss Sophy Pfohl where we learned, besides our tasks, the lessons how to live. After finishing at the Infant School I commenced under Miss Schnall and finished under Miss Denke, a blessed memory.

I early loved the work of teacher and after some experience in the country, entered the Academy in 1866." "Miss Sally," as she was known by all, continued her teaching at Salem, with only a few interruptions until 1884. Later she was assistant in the registrar's office, until failing health compelled her to relinquish her duties. She lived in the "Sisters' House," and was visited there by many returning alumnae, until 1931 when she went to live at the Salem Home. Eight weeks ago she was taken suddenly ill and on Friday evening, January 5th, she entered into her eternal rest.

Mary Josephine Eberhard completed her educational studies at Salem Female Academy in 1867, and then became a teacher for three years under the principalship of Rev. M. E. Grunert. In 1870 she married Charles Benjamin Pfohl, who in 1905 became secretary of Salem College and served in that capacity until his death in 1914. Through her association with the College, Mrs. Pfohl kept in close touch with students and had a lasting interest in the welfare of the institution. Her later days were spent in the homes of her sons, where her companionship was always cheering and helpful. She was ill but a few days, passing on peacefully on the morning of January 15th. Her age was eighty-eight years.

Dear Alumna,

Salem College Library is making a most urgent effort in combination with the Living Endowment to meet certain emergency needs in Reference Book enlargements and desires to interest every reader of the Alumnae Record if possible to the point of an actual gift this spring in library help.

This is the problem. We have before us a list of approximately 350 titles which are greatly needed by the various departments in connection with present academic assignments.

These books mean increased efficiency in student work here and the titles have been conscientiously selected by the heads of various departments representing their most immediate current needs

The Departments at present making most urgent request are the English Department, Social Science, Physical Education, History, Education, Classical Languages, Home Economics, Music and Science.

The average cost of the books desired is approximately $3.00 per volume. It will, therefore, require a thousand dollars to meet this immediate and urgent need, and Salem College must lean strongly upon the Alumnae readers of the Record to assist at this time.

Your money gift to the Library will do double duty if we can receive it by Commencement time, because it will be counted first as your gift to the Living Endowment, which is in great present need and then its expenditure will, unless you direct otherwise, be immediately applied to the above Library need.

It is not often that one's money can effectively do double duty as just explained, and to bring this brief article to a close this is, dear Alumna, a direct and personal appeal to each one of you to make at this time a sacrificial gift to this joint Living Endowment-Library cause. Your checks should be written to the "Living Endowment," and it will be understood, unless otherwise specified that you wish your gift this Spring to go into our most urgent present need, the Library Re-enforcement.

Signed,

HOWARD E. RONDTHALER, President.

Activities at Salem Academy

"WHO'S WHO?"

"The Quill Pen"—Salem Academy's Annual, has an interesting staff this year and promises to be a good publication. Peggy Brawley, senior class president, is Editor-in-Chief, Betty Bahnson and Kathleen Madden are Assistant Editors, Anne Perkins, and Josephine Litz of Charleston, W. Virginia, are Art Editors, and on the Managing Staff are Florence Jeffress of Danville, Virginia, Shirley Tompkins of East Williston, New York, Blevins Vogler, and Jean Gray Scott of Graham, N. C. Barbara Fulton of Knoxville, Tennessee, is Photo Editor, and Margaret Richs of Hanes, N. C. is Athletic Editor.

In Athletics in Salem Academy, we find Louise Frazier of Winston-Salem Head of Purple, and Julia Lawson of Roanoke, Virginia, Head of Gold. Tennis, Soccer, Riding, Swimming, Speedball, Golf and Basket Ball all find a place in the athletic curriculum with Barbara Futon, and Louise Kirk of Winston-Salem, to the cheer the Golds, and Kathleen Madden to cheer the Purples.

Salem Academy is gradually building up its own Library, apart from the College Library. Good books contributed by Alumnae are always appreciated. Miss Jackson, Dean of Residence, says that right now they could use copies of Adam Bede, Mill on the Floss, David Copperfield, Bleak House, Oliver Twist, Old Curiosity Shop, The Scarlet Letter, The House of Seven Gables, Vanity Fair, Pride and Prejudice, Jane Eyre, Kenilworth, Nicholas Nickleby, Emma.

SALEM ACADEMY COMMENCEMENT, FRIDAY, JUNE 1ST

All Academy Commencement events, with the exception of a dinner planned for the Academy Reunion Classes on Thursday evening, May 31st, will take place on Friday, June 1st, as follows: Award Program, 12. noon; Luncheon, 1 p. m.; Class Day Exercises, 5 p. m.; Supper for Seniors and their visiting guests at the President's home, 6 p. m.; Graduation Exercises, 8:30 p. m.

The 1934 Academy seniors, graduating this year, were the first class to enjoy the new buildings, and they are making an effort to get all Academy girls who have lived in the new buildings back for this, their Commencement. Members of the reunion classes and other Academy Alumnae who plan to be here should write at once to Miss Elizabeth Zachary, Salem Academy.

Special Reunions Salem College Commencement

SATURDAY, JUNE 2ND; SUNDAY, JUNE 3RD; MONDAY, JUNE 4TH

Many alumnae are writing about Commencement dates and plans and if it is true that "coming events cast their shadows before them," we will have the largest attendance in several years. Alumnae are asked to remember that there is always the "general alumnae meeting," in other words the invitation to come back for Commencement is extended to each and every Salem alumna.

Saturday, June 2nd, is "Alumnae Day"; Sunday, June 3rd, is "Baccalaureate Sunday"; Monday, June 4th, is "Graduation Day for the Class of 1934." Come early on Saturday morning and plan to stay through Monday noon.

In addition to the "general reunion" of alumnae, the following classes will hold reunions under the "Dix Plan": 1880, 1881, and 1882; 1889, 1900, 1901, and 1902; 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921 and 1932.

Members of the classes of 1880, 1881 and 1882 who plan to come back should get in touch with the Editor of the Alumnae Record. We hope to have some word from each member of these classes for publication in the May issue of The Record.

Members of the classes of 1899, 1901 and 1902 should get in touch with the Editor of The Record, sending word that they plan to be at Salem for Commencement, or sending news about themselves for the May issue of The Record. Members of these three classes, resident in Winston-Salem, are eager to learn how many expect to come back so that special plans for their reunion can be made.

Members of the class of 1900 who are interested in coming back for their reunion at Commencement should get in touch now with Mrs. William Biles, 1031 S. Main St. or Mrs. D. A. Nance (Stella Phelps Nance), 630 Holly Avenue, Winston-Salem, who are making plans for it. Mrs. Nance recalls that members of 1900 were termed "Naughty-Naughts"; that their class colors were "yellow and white," their flower, "the water-lily." She sends in the following names and addresses of members: Edith M. Allen, now Mrs. Jas. A. Walker, Jr., Kenesaw Ave., Knoxville, Tenn.; Mary Payne Clinard now Mrs. Brantley Finch, Lexington, N. C.; Daisy Collum, now Mrs. Sidney Story, Corsicana, Texas; Mabel Gray Craig now Mrs. F. A. Williams, Box 37, Dallas, N. C.; Bessie Elliott, now Mrs. J. B. White, Sunset Park, Wilmington, N. C.; Susie Floyd now Mrs. Jno. Hodges, 167 N. Liberty St., Spartanburg, S. C.; Margaret E. Haasbrook now Mrs. Norvell Bryant, 120 32nd St., New Port, News, Va.; Margaret Keith now Mrs. Robert Mickey, 2200 E. 7th St., Charlotte, N. C.; Lola Hawkins now Mrs. Herbert G. Walker, 111 W. 6th St., Fort Worth, Texas; Grace Lanham now Mrs. Edward C. Conner, 3906 Shenandoah St., Dallas, Texas; Frances Leventhal, Georgetown, S. C.; Clara May Lewis now Mrs. Glenn Dobson, Druid Hills, Atlanta, Ga.; Janie L. Lewis now Mrs. Roland Brooks (address unknown); Annie Lucille McPherson now Mrs. Oscar Alvarado, Chesterfield Apts., Richmond, Va.; Ida Pritchard now Mrs. T. S. Rollins, Chestnut St., Asheville, N. C.; Ethel Boyd Read now Mrs. R. A. Whalley, DeKalb, Texas; Iola Read now Mrs. W. E. Beck, DeKalb, Texas; Annie B. Simmons, Cincinnati, Ohio; Annie B. Vaughn now Mrs. Fred W. Scrivener, Valley Lee, Maryland; Helena Stuart Wade, 1121 Park St., Jacksonville, Fla.; Frances D. Watkins, Henderson, N. C.; Flora Whittington, Route 1, Pfafftown, N. C.; and from Winston-Salem, Haveline Dooley now Mrs. George S. Norfleet, 330 Stratford Road; Maud Flynt, now Mrs. Irvin Shore, R. F. D.; Annie Louise Lichtenthaeler now Mrs. Walter Dalton, 1940 Brantley Street; Fannie Martin now Mrs. Frank Benbow, 828 West End Blvd.; Mary Medearis now Mrs. W. S. Snipes, 614 N. Spruce St.; Mary Montague now Mrs. John Coan, 115 N. Church St.; Stella E. Nance now Mrs. Douglas A. Nance, 630 Holly Ave.; Roberta Hall Tise now Mrs. Jno. Brown, 237 S. Main St.; Ollie T. Allen now Mrs. Wm. Biles, 1031 S. Main St.; Erma Bailey 811 W. 5th St.; Ruby Blum now Mrs. Jas. L. Critz, 1724 Virginia Road.

Members of 1918, 1919, 1920, and 1921 are asked to communicate with the officers of these respective classes, about reunion plans:

1919: President, Mary McPhail Davis now Mrs. Garland McGregor, 800 W. Palmetto Street, Florence, S. C.; Vice-President, Emily Vaughn now Mrs. H. H. Kapp, 644 Holly Ave., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Secretary, Mary Hunter Deans now Mrs. John Hackney, Wilson.

1920: President, Nancy G. Hankins, Westminster Choir School, Princeton, N. J.; Vice-President Ruth Mills now Mrs. Jennings B. Berry, 905 Shepherd St., Durham, N. C.; Secretary, Bertha Moore, Fayetteville, N. C.

1921: President, Evelyn Thom now Mrs. William Spach, 607 Summit St., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Vice-President, Lois Cash, 1903 Sunnyside Ave., Winston-Salem N. C.; Secretary, Hallie Ross now Mrs. Seddon Goode, Jr., Clinton, N. C.

Members of 1932 will communicate with the officers of the class: President, Mary Mitchell Norman, Mooresville, Vice-President, Maud Hutcherson, 432 Springdale Ave., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Secretary, Corrine Jones, Nashville, N. C.

Salem always expects most of the "one year old alumnae" back. They just can't stay away. If you are a member of the class of 1933, write your president, Emily Mickey, Beleys St., Winston-Salem, N. C., or your Vice-President, Mary Catherine Siewers, Arbor Road, Winston-Salem, N. C., that you will arrive at Saalem College, Saturday morning, June 2nd.

Can you keep a secret? I just heard recently that one of the classes is planning a secret reunion. Can't tell you which one because it is a secret! But, somebody told me, that somebody else told them, that somebody else told them that one of the classes is celebrating its graduation from Salem College. So welcome back "twenty-five years after" after twenty-five years!

Rena Brown Barnes (1909) says she will be back for Commencement with Helen Haynes Rhea. Helen Haynes Rhea hasn't heard about it yet, says Rena, but she will. Rena wants to know how the plans are progressing? Rena is assistant treasurer and book-keeper for the American Calendar Company in Greenville, Tennessee. She will close her books and leave for Salem with Helen.

Maude Carmichael (1909), met someone recently and said she would be back to Salem for Commencement, and for someone to see Della Johnson Walker (1909) if she wanted to know any more about it.

Claudia Shore (1909) writes asking that all members of "1909" get in touch with Mrs. Harry Barry (Bessie White), 229 Passaic Avenue, Passaic, New Jersey, about "arrangements."

“Here and There” With the Alumnae

I went to Salem Academy in 1862, left there in 1866. During my stay there was a smallpox epidemic and the school closed, hiring nurses for the sick girls. I was in the 4th Room. Mr. Grunert was President at that time. Mr. Robert de Schweinitz was President when I first went there. I had Miss Schnall and Miss Warner in the 10th room as teachers.

I am interested in the Alumnae Record, but seldom see the names of old schoolmates.—Mrs. M. M. Davis (Mary Maria Howard, 1862-66), Fayetteville, N. C.

Mrs. Alice Mull (Alice Yount, 1864-66), writes: “I will be 83 years old April 21st. Most all of my old schoolmates have passed on. I remember so well my dearest teacher, Miss Maria Vogler, and my schoolmates, Lou Smith-erman, Mollie McClelland and Josie Weatherly, all of whom have passed on. I am very much interested in Salem, and although I have no daughters of my own, I have interested a number of girls to go there.

Mrs. J. N. Wharton (Annie Lang, 1870-72), writes, recalling her trip from Marlin, Texas to Salem Academy. With her came Sue Green, Lizora Fortune, Blanche Aycock, Maggie LeNoir, Aggie Pattillo, Mary and Annie Lang. Mrs. Wharton is in her seventy-eighth year, she being the youngest of the Texas girls to enter Salem at that time. Her address now is 113 No. Beckley St., Dallas, Texas.

Another alumna of the years 1862-65 is Mrs. John W. Gordon (Annie L. Pender), 6510 Three Chopt Road, Richmond, Va. Mrs. Pender writes that she is working and carrying on in her home, interested in the happiness of children, grandchildren, and now a great-grandchild, Anna Pender, 4th.

Mrs. S. E. Crosland (Sallie Weatherly, 1863-65), writes that she is eighty-seven, but does all she can to help in the home of her son. She enjoys making bedspreads and quilts and says she would be miserable without work. She is the mother of nine children and has twenty-nine grandchildren.

Anna S. Crist Earnhardt (1858-65), a teacher in Salem from 1868 to 1880, recalls her days in the Infant School under Miss Sophie Pfohl. She writes that she is keeping up her music and has several pupils.

Mollie McAllister (1869-70), of Abbeville, Alabama, writes that after leaving Salem she taught school for many years, retiring in 1914.

Mrs. A. E. Dudley (Amelia Townsend, 1855-57), writes that she is not able to write much on account of failing health, but she remembers happily her Salem days. She and her sister, Harriet, were in school together.

The coming of the “Alumnae Record” reminds me of away back in the '70's when it was “The Academy”. I think I still have the first issue, sent me by my sweet room teacher, Miss Mary McOrn.

Now after more than a half century one of my greatest pleasures and privileges has been to talk my only grand-daughter, Betty Brooke Sanders, to the old family school that was attended by my grandmother, Mary Christian Kennerly, about 1812, my mother, Martha Penn, about 1834, and her sisters.

It makes me feel old to see so few familiar names in The Record. I wonder where Ella Kerner is, also Lelia Wilson, who married Roba Gray. She was one of my dearest friends. Lida Lark and my dear day keeper, Addie Leary, and so many others I would love to hear about!—Mrs. Fosie Zentmeyer Sanders, 605 Allison Ave., S. W., Roanoke, Va.

I was a student at Salem from 1857 to 1861 and my oldest sister, Angie Keenan, was a pupil at the same time. She passed away in 1890. I was a little tot of eight years when I entered Salem and Miss Sophie Burrus, a pupil there much older than myself, manifested great interest in me. I had lost touch with her and would appreciate it if someone could give me information about her.—Bettye Keenan Boyd, 167 Clifford St., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

President Rondthaler was interested recently in receiving a letter from Mrs. James Smitherman of Shreveport, Louisiana, asking for the recipe for Moravian Honey Cakes. In sending the recipe, and corresponding further, it developed that Mrs. Smitherman's mother, Mrs. R. E. Thompson (Minnie Scott), had attended Salem for a year in 1870. Now eighty years of age, she recalls these Salem days vividly, speaking particularly of her history teacher, Miss Maria Vogler, and retelling stories of her Salem days and the Christmas Honey Cakes which were "turned out by the bushel each Christmas for the girls."

Eva Banche Farnkin Allen (1889-91), writes that she had three daughters in Salem College at one time, Blanche, Hallie and Evelyn, and that another, Virginia, attended Salem Academy for a time. Blanche is in the Revenue Dept. and lives in Jacksonville, Fla; Hallie is married and living in Washington, D. C., and Evelyn lives with her and works for P. W. A.

Minnie Lunceford (1891-92), writes that she is secretary at the Johnston County Hospital, having held the position since the hospital was established. Her sister, Nell Lunceford, in school at Salem with her, teaches in the Four Oakes School near Smithfield, this being the largest consolidated school in the United States.

Gertrude Hall Rousseau (1921), says there are a large group of Salem Alumnae in North Wilkesboro and they hope soon to organize a Salem group and hold a Salem meeting.

Mary Lee Greene Rozzelle (1913), says she would like to hear from some of her classmates. Mary Lee is married to a Methodist minister, now living in Lenoir, N. C. She has a little girl, age five, who is looking forward to entering Salem in 1947.

Mrs. Wm. F. Tyree (Clara Lilian Gosling, 1892-97), a teacher at Salem for three years, writes of the death last summer of her oldest daughter. Mrs. Tyree is an active member of the Dallas, Texas Branch, serving as secretary for the past two years. She says that Mrs. Curt Beck (Annie Buxton, 1901), will call the annual meeting of Dallas alumnae in the near future.

Emily Zorn Richards writes of a recent cruise through the Winward Islands, visiting Moravian Missions on St. Thomas and St. Croix and finding names of her ancestors, Zorn and Siewers, in the old yellow records dating back to 1738 and 1771.

Elizabeth Murphy (1900-01), promises to send us a plantation story which she has recently published. The College library will appreciate receiving this, as Miss Grace Siewers, Librarian, is making an interesting collection of the works of Salem graduates.

Miss Edith Holt, instructor in Physical Education, 1914-15, is the owner and director of a camp for girls. She writes that she thoroughly enjoys "The Record", it being her only contact with Salem. Her address is R. F. D., Baldwin, Michigan.

Another former teacher recently heard from is Miss A. Elizabeth Chase (1927-30), now director of the Yale Gallery of Fine Arts, New Haven, Connecticut. Miss Chase writes, "I wish that old Salem girls, especially Academy ones, would drop in to see me at the Gallery when they go through New Haven."

Betty Morrison, business department, 1932, has a position as secretary to the president of a bank in her home town, Clendenin, West Virginia. Betty writes that she went in to help out with the work and was later given the place permanently.

Mary Neal Wilkins, 1930, of Gastonia, N. C. writes that alumnae there are hoping to organize an Alumnae Branch Association. Salem is always glad to organize new groups, under the leadership of Miss Anna Jackson Preston, Field Secretary. Three new Associations were organized last year, i. e. the Richmond, Virginia Branch; the Greenville, North Carolina Branch and the Kinston, North Carolina Branch, and several new ones are in process of organization or reorganization this year.

Mrs. Gene Hamilton (Polly Hawkins, 1925), has moved from Chicago back to North Carolina, address R. F. D. No. 4, Asheville, N. C. and is teaching Science and Geography in the grammar school at Morganton, N. C.

Miss Florence LeGrand, of 903 Princess St., Wilmington, N. C., writes that she does not find The Record interesting because there is never any news in it of the girls she used to know in her Salem Days, 1872-1874.

Mrs. Dan Carter (Margaret Williford, 1925), writes from Richmond, Virginia: "We moved here in September. Margaret, age six, has started to school; Blake, age three, spends part of her time with me and part with my mother. It was hard to leave Rocky Mounty. I have been to a Salem meeting here and surely enjoyed being with all the Salem Girls.

Mrs. Leonard Jones (Flora Binder, 1925) has a position as a "Lecturer in Education" at the University of Pennsylvania.

Bennie Martin (Business Student, 1933), has a position in her home town, Martinsville, Virginia.

NEWS ABOUT SALEM ACADEMY ALUMNAE

Among Academy Alumnae heard from recently, with subscriptions to the Alumnae Record are the following:

Martha Cook (1922), now Mrs. J. William Coleman, 1630 Spring Garden Street, Greensboro. Martha writes that she has a young son, John William, Jr. born Dec. 1, 1933. Martha's husband has just been appointed Postmaster of Greensboro.

Lucy Thomas (1927-20), of Loudon, Tennessee, writes of seeing Frances Maloney (1929) near Greenville, Tenn. Frances is teaching school.

Pauline Schenherr (Academy, 1927), writes that she is assistant librarian in the Public Library at Norfolk, Connecticut.

Nell H. Humphrey (1930-32), is attending the Younge Business School. Her address is 95 W. 86th St., Brooklyn, New York.

Bernice J. White (1919), address 19 Villa Ave., Pitman, New Jersey, is teaching Home Economics at the Glassboro High School, Glassboro, N. J.

Flora Spurgeon (Academy, 1922), 1705 Stevens Ave., Louisville, Kentucky, is a Director of Occupational Therapy there.

Montine Ver Nooy (1924), 997 Milledge Ave., Athens, Ga., writes that since receiving her M. A. degree from the University of Georgia, she has a position with the College of Education, at the University. She is the "Visiting Teacher" for the Laboratory Schools of the College.

Mrs. T. W. Anderson, Jr. (Alice Carmichael, 1923-24), Franklin, N. C., in subscribing to The Record, tells us of her little boy, age four and a half years.

Zaida Buckley (1931-32), of 15 Badeau Ave., Summit, New Jersey, is attending a kindergarten training school in New York City.

We are glad to hear more interesting news of Janet Spaugh's (Academy, 1920-21) musical success in Pittsburgh, Pa. She and another Southerner, Bertha Sadler, has recently built an extraordinary program entitled "The Negro Speaks for Himself." Spirituals, poetry, sermons, folklore,—all make a constructive adventure. Bertha Sadler, contralto, reads and sings and Janet interprets at the piano. They were invited to give the program at the Century of Progress, and later in the season are to appear for the Southern Club.

PHILADELPHIA SALEM ALUMNAE MEET

A letter from Mrs. Leonard Jones (Flora Binder, 1925), tells us of the Alumnae meeting in Philadelphia: "We met on Saturday, December 9th, at the home of Mrs. Elwyn Ziebler Cole (Blanche Thornton, 1895), 244 South 36th Street. There were only ten alumnae present and Anna Preston failed to appear due to the fact that she had the wrong address for Mrs. Parker, our president, and had Mary Fry's name as "Mary McKelvie Fry" so that she couldn't locate her in the telephone directory. It was a delightful meeting, nevertheless. Mrs. Parker had made Moravian Christmas cakes and had borrowed the love-feast mugs from the Moravian Church, so that it really did seem like Salem.

Those attending were: Mrs. Ivy Baisley (Ivy Nicewonger), Mrs. Gilbert Fry (Mary McKelvie, 1925); Lina Hallyburton (Business Student, 1926), Marjorie Hallyburton (Business Student, 1927), Mrs. Clarence Parker (Ione Fuller, 1912), Miss Frances Jackson (Teacher 1919-1925), Mrs. Charlotte Hallyburton (Charlotte Thornton, 1896), Miss Edith Perryman (1926-27).

BALTIMORE SALEM ALUMNAE MEET

The following letter from the Mayor's office in Baltimore, Maryland, takes the Editor back, long ago to those days before these days of two growing-up children and nine grey hairs:

"Well, old dear, we just had our tri-annual Alumnae meeting and the girls certainly seemed to enjoy themselves. Conjectures as to "Modern Salem" were flying high and furiously until Anna Preston entertained us with pictures, words, and graphics. We could hardly believe that it really was Salem! (Readers, please bear in mind that the Baltimore alumnae are not frequent visitors—I doubt if any of them had seen the new buildings of the past five years).

The girls present were: Mrs. A. Paul Brown, Jr. (Helen Streett, 1921), Long Green, Maryland; Mrs. Edward McGinley (teacher 1904), 211 Cedarcroft Road; Mrs. Charles Cahn (Fannie Rosenbacher, 1909-11), Mount Washington; Margaret Holbrook (1928), Johns Hopkins Hospital; Dorothy Rhett Stuart (formerly of Salem Academy faculty), 413 Bretton Place, Guilford, Md.; LaVerne Waters of Brevard, N. C. (1928), 2101 Bolton Street; and Madeline S. Braun, 2406 Eutaw Place.

We were very sorry that Mrs. N. R. Walker (Christina Crawford, 1896), 3115 St. Paul Street; Mrs. Eugene A. Edgett (Priscilla Streett, 1921), 4301 Keswick Road; Mrs. Ernest H. Hinrichs (Elizabeth Sadler, academy, 1916-17), 2404 Rogers Ave.; Ethel Frances Boyle (Academy, 1921-23), 4304 Springdale Ave.; Mrs. Harold Newman (Beatrice Katz, Academy, 1920), and Mrs. Louis V. Akehurst, Elm Ave., and Lottie Schramm (Academy, 1931), Lutherville, Maryland, were not able to be present.

We had a luncheon at the May Company and Anna Preston, as I said before, met with us, and showed us moving pictures of Salem. Where did you ever pick such an attractive Alumnae representative? She has so much personality! Send her back again.

Now for the news: Fannie Rosenbacher Cahn is "keeping house and two big boys"; Mrs. McKinley is having a wonderful time seeing her sons through college and still being very active in teaching; Margaret Holbrook is teaching at Johns Hopkins Hospital, and LeVerne Waters and Helen Streett Brown are both with our Baltimore Emergency Relief Commission, doing social service and family welfare work; Dorothy Stuart has given up her first love, teaching, and is gloriously happy in an executive sales position with the May Company, one of our largest and most modern department stores. As for myself, I am still fooling around the City Hall, as per the letterhead, and being an extra-ordinarily stupid office person (Editor,—Madeline, you must be, to have kept the position for so many years— isn't it?).

All this makes up for the three years you have heard nothing of Baltimore alumnae, doesn't it? — Madeline S. Braun, Academy, 1922, Secretary.

LEHIGH VALLEY SALEM ALUMNAE MEET

The Lehigh Valley Branch of Salem Alumnae held its second meeting Friday, December 15th, at the home of Katherine Schlegel, in Nazareth, Pennsylvania. The president, Mrs. Raymond Hauptert (Estelle McCanless, 1923), presided over the business meeting, during which officers of the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Elizabeth Marx (1931), of Nazareth, Pennsylvania; Vice-President, Mrs. Ira Ross (Katherine Ross, 1918), 1924 Kenmore Ave., Bethlehem, Pa.; Secretary, Margaret Schwarze (1928), 1206 N. Main Street, Bethlehem, Pa.

Miss Anna Preston was guest of honor and spoke very entertainingly of Salem, showing too the new moving pictures, which everyone enjoyed. A delightful social hour followed. Those present, in addition to the above mentioned, were: Carrie Grunert (1870-77), Elizabeth Bahnson (1901), Anastasia Bahnson (1902), Elizabeth Marx, from Nazareth; Mrs. David Petty (Mary Belle Thomas, 1908), Mrs. W. N. Schwarze (Ethel Greider), Mrs. Walter Shields, Miss Emma Heath, Former nurse at Salem, Louise Rice (1903), Isabel Rice (1903, teacher 1903-1917), Josephine Cummings (1930), Lucille Vest (1930), from Bethlehem, Pa.

"Here and There" Among the Alumnae

Mrs. S. C. Choate (Mary Crowell, 1904-07), Huntersville, N. C., is Executive Secretary of the Family Service Association, Charlotte, N. C. She has one boy at Davidson College and one in the first year of high school.

Mrs. J. R. Gregory (Mildred E. Stevens, 1915-16), Martinsville, Va., writes that she is kept busy keeping house, looking after a little three year old daughter, and acting as organist at the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Carleton H. Newby (Elmer A. Fife, 1899-01), Thomasville, N. C., writes that she has three children, the older daughter to finish high school this year and expecting to enter Salem College in the fall.

Mrs. Charles B. Ross (Margaret Miller, 1901), 2338 Roswell Avenue, Charlotte, sends in her Alumnae Record fee with the notation that she is "keeping house and enjoying life." She asks that The Record be sent to Mrs. Floyd D. Ross (Zeta Miller, 1901), 609 A. Avenue, Lawton, Oklahoma.

A delightful letter from Mrs. R. E. E. Booker (Caroline Robinson, 1915), tells us that she and her husband are connected with a school in Bermuda. She writes, "Although in the same latitude and many miles nearer Salem than I have been for ten years, recently I have felt out of touch. It is my great hope to bring my husband with me and revisit the College one day and see the many and wonderful changes. If you publish my new address in The Record, I may have the pleasure of being looked up by old friends on a holiday to Bermuda. I ran into Margaret Fletcher Pollock here last year and we renewed a very old friendship. Address—Woodlands, Saltus School, Bermuda.

Ann Meister, secretary of the Wilmington Alumnae Branch, sends us the following news items: Mary B. Williams (1933), is conducting a class in vocal music; Claudia Foy (1934), is taking a business course; Winifred Fisher, Francis Caldwell, and myself are teaching school. Our Alumnae Association has a new member, Mrs. James Morrell (Helen Nowell, 1934), formerly of Winston-Salem.

We are always glad to hear from former teachers. Miss Ellen Yerrington, teacher of piano at Salem, 1916-1922, writes from 64 Garfield St., Cambridge, Massachusetts, saying she is always interested in the Alumnae Record and wishes to take advantage of the five-year offer. She spends her winters in Cambridge and her summers at Maranacook, Maine.

Mrs. Ivy N. Baisly (former teacher), sends in her fee for The Record and writes that she continues her teaching of music at the Sternberg School of Music in Philadelphia. Her address is 4822 Baltimore Avenue.

Enclosed please find check for $1.00 for my subscription fee. Many years have passed since I was a pupil at Salem Academy and I seldom see the names of my friends and classmates mentioned, but I am still deeply interested in everything connected with Salem. Mrs. Howard Rondthaler's account of "Old South Hall," published sometime ago in The Record, was of special interest to me, for I have some very pleasant memories of that building, especially Miss Sallie Vest's piano room. I wish there was something worthwhile to tell you about myself, but there is not. I am just simply taking care of our home. With very best wishes for your success in collecting subscriptions, I am, Tilla E. Harmon (1882), (teacher, 1869-1897), Kernersville, N. C.

CONCORD ALUMNAE MEETING

The Concord branch of the Salem Alumnae held a most interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. H. G. Gibson with Mrs. Kate L. Raiford, Mrs. Frances R. White, Misses Adelaide Foil and Sarah Crowell as joint hostesses. The meeting was presided over by the president, Miss Adele Pemberton. The roll call revealed that 21 members were present. After the reading and adoption of the minutes, the meeting proper was opened by singing of the beloved "Alma Mater." The most delightful feature was having present Miss Anna Jackson Preston, field secretary of Salem College. She brought an appealing message from the beloved Salem and showed the lovely pictures, "A Day at Salem," that awakened fond memories of days past and gone. Miss Preston told most interestingly of Salem's library needs and the Concord branch will take necessary steps to aid in this cause. Following Miss Prestons' talk Miss Margaret Hartsell played "Blue Danube." Then came the election of officers for 1935. They are: Mrs. Kate Lentz Raiford, president; Mrs. Lois Crowell Robinson, vice-president; Miss Sarah Crowell, secretary; Miss Lucy Hartsell, treasurer. On March 27th the Concord Branch sent in a contribution of $8.40 to the "Living Endowment Library Fund."

RALEIGH ALUMNAE MEETING

The Raleigh group met at the home of Mrs. Charles U. Harris (Saidee Robbins, 1908) with Anna Preston as honor guest. The Salem moving picture was shown and a brief talk given about Salem. Special music was furnished by Miss Nell Hanna and Mrs. Wesley Wallace. The old and new "Alma Mater" were sung; also "Better Days," the song written by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fries (Rosa Mickey), honoring President Roosevelt's birthday. Officers were elected as follows: president, Mrs. H. Royster Chamblee (Georgia Riddle, 1922); vice-president, Mrs. Victor Bell (Janie Kester, 1921-22); secretary, Miss Nancy Cox (1929-30).

KERNERSVILLE ALUMNAE MEETING

The Kernersville Chapter of the Salem Alumnae Association held its meeting in the social rooms of the Moravian Church on February 7, 1934. Mrs. Waiser Allen, president, graciously presided and sixteen members heartily sang the Salem Alma Mater.

Our guests on this occasion were seven members from the senior class of our local high school, Misses Kathleen Adkins and Martha Schlegel, and Salem's most versatile field secretary—Miss Anna Jackson Preston.

Miss Tilla Harmon, Chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following officers to serve in 1935: President, Miss Kathleen Korner; Vice-President, Mrs. King Grogan; Secretary, Miss Ilah Albert, who were elected by acclamation.

During the meeting the roll was revised and a number of addresses were changed. I am enclosing a list of the changes which were made.—Ilah Lee Albert, Secretary.

The Editor appreciates the following corrections on the Kernersville list: Mrs. Mock Hiatt (Huron Stuart), now living at 106½ Minerva Ave., Durham, N. C.; Mrs. Myrtle Feltz Nelson, living at 220 N. Spring St., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Nell Culler now Mrs. William Fulp; Mrs. Colonel Smith (Mabel Clodfelter), living on Waughtown St., Winston-Salem, N. C.; Mrs. Walter Leinbach (Norma McCuiston), living at Meadow Brook Drive, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Verda Parks (1932), 704 Longview St., Greensboro; and the addition to the Kernersville list of the name of Fannie Lyon Hepler.

GREENSBORO ALUMNAE MEETING

The Greensboro Salem Alumnae met at the home of their president, Mrs. William Grimsley (Corrinne Justice), on the night of February 9th, one of the coldest nights in the year. Minutes of the last meeting were read, the roll was called, and corrections in addresses made on the Greensboro list as sent from the Alumnae Office.

Miss Anna Preston was our guest and what a treat it was to have one so charming with us. She showed the picture, "A Day at Salem," which we all enjoyed. After her talk, we sat before the cheerful, open fire, sipping tea, crunching cookies, and enjoying a most informal time.

Mrs. C. Elmer Leak (Cammie Lindley), was elected president for the ensuing year, and Jane Harris, secretary. The following were present: Mrs. William Grimsley, Mrs. Hoyt W. Boone (Cam Boren), Mrs. Nancy Thompson, Mrs. Hugh P. Beal (Helen Wood), Mrs. Frances J. Blackwell, Jr. (Marie Crist), Mrs. R. P. Gorrell, Jr. (Mary Turner), Jane Harris, Elizabeth Transou, Mrs. J. P. Turner (Eva Lindley), and Mrs. J. Wm. Coleman (Martha Cook).—Martha Cook Coleman, ex-secretary.

MOCKSVILLE ALUMNAE MEETING

I enjoyed being at the Founder's Day meeting so much, and came home full of enthusiasm, and called the "Salemities" together at my home on the afternoon of February 8. There are a number of Salem alumnae all over Davie County, and I either phoned or wrote to all I could think of, and also invited the mothers of present Salem students. A number could not come, but we had a very enjoyable and informal meeting. Extracts from "The Salemite" were read, and I spoke of the meeting February 3, and then we all had many reminiscences of our school days at Salem. Tea, sandwiches and oatmeal cookies were served. Those present were Mrs. E. L. Gaither (Florence Clement), Mrs. W. H. LeGrand (Willie Ann Brown), Mrs. Alice Woodruff (Alice Booe), Mrs. Z. N. Anderson (Jennie Anderson), Mrs. R. B. Sanford (Adelaide Gaither), Mrs. J. D. Murray (Jane Hayden Gaither), Miss Sallie A. Hanes, Mrs. J. B. Cain, mother of Eleanor and Faye Cain, Mrs. E. W. Crow, mother of Jane Crow, my mother, Mrs. Julia C. Heitman, who went to Peace Institute, and myself.—Mary J. Heitman.

HENDERSON-OXFORD-WARRENTON MEETING

The annual meeting of the Henderson-Oxford Branch of the Salem Alumnae Association was held in the social rooms of the Oxford Orphanage with Nannie P. Bessent and Annie V. Morton as hostesses, on Friday afternoon, February 16th, Miss Anna Jackson Preston, Field Secretary of Salem Alumnae Association, with her moving picture gave a most interesting illustrated talk on "A DAY AT SALEM". Those present were Mrs. Robert T. Upchurch, (Maria Parris) and Mrs. J. P. Zollicoffer (Julia Bryan Jones), from Henderson; Mrs. Leonard Henderson and her daughter, Josephine, from Franklinton; Mrs. Tom Crawford (Annie Cheatham), Mrs. Elbert E. Fuller (Mildred Harris), Mrs. John Gregory Morton (Lucy Thorpe), the hostess; and the following High School Seniors: Misses Margaret Jamieson, Helen Knight, Katherine Moore, Lillian Poe, and Ruth Webb, from Oxford. For the Library Fund, Oxford Chapter handed to Miss Preston $5.25, which is a small beginning for us. We wish it could have been a great deal more. It was a happy meeting, and following refreshments of sandwiches, Moravian sugar cake and coffee, and the little Christmas cakes, we adjourned to meet next year with Mrs. Leonard Henderson, at her home in Franklinton.

Mrs. James W. Ballou (Gaither Pearson), was re-elected President. — Nannie P. Bessent, Secretary.

WINSTON-SALEM ALUMNAE MEETING

The Winston-Salem Alumnae Association met in the college library at 8 o'clock with Miss Ida Wilkinson, president, in charge. Following a short business session, Miss Stough extended the greetings of the senior class to all members and their guests in attendance. The senior class song, written as an alma Mater by Miss Adelaide Fries and Mrs. T. Holt Haywood, was sung by members of the class. A trio selection followed, by students of Ernest Schofield's.

Miss Anna Jackson Preston, field secretary, of the Alumnae Association, gave a showing of the film she made herself, in which Salem, the various alumnae groups, and the life and activities of the students, were graphically depicted. A social hour followed during which the alumnae were asked to inspect the historical collection of student publications, exhibited under the direction of Miss Grace Siewers, librarian.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Harry Grimsley (Lucy Dix Estes, 1920); Vice-President, Mrs. Thomas Barber (Louise Horton, 1911); Secretary, Mrs. Robert McCuiston (Margaret Blair, 1914).

GASTON COUNTY ALUMNAE MEETING

On March 12th, an alumnae group was organized in Gaston County. Mrs. J. M. Summerell (Margaret Vaughn, 1929), of Crammerton, N. C., was elected president and Mary Neal Wilkins (1930), of Dallas, N. C., secretary. The Charter members are: Mrs. O. L. Sappenfield (Pearl Barrier, 1908), 504 W. 5th St., Gastonia, N. C.; Mrs. Walter Davis (Mary Benton, 1900-01), Broad St., Gastonia, N. C.; Mrs. S. A. Wilkins, (Mabel Craig, 1900), Dallas, N. C.; Mary Miller (1932), 207 S. York St., Gastonia, N. C.; Mrs. Jack Brawly (Academy, 1927), Sara Frances Brockman, 514 South St., Gastonia, N. C.; Ruth Durant Summey (1924-26), Dallas, N. C.; Kathleen Adair Moore (1926-30), Fairmount Park, Gastonia, N. C.; Agnes Thomas (Academy, 1913-15), Gastonia, N. C.; Mrs. John Huss (Frances Mason, 1923-24), Gastonia, N. C.; Mrs. Miles Carpenter, Jr. (Frances Campbell, 1924-25), Gastonia, N. C.

MOUNT AIRY ALUMNAE MEETING

The Salem Alumnae of Mount Airy met on Friday, March 9th, at the home of Mrs. William Merritt (Olivene Porterfield). Miss Anna Preston, Field Secretary, entertained us with pictures of Salem.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Mrs. Frank Leroy Smith (Lelia Wright, 1926-30) president, and Mrs. Walter Leonard (Alice Harris, 1930), secretary.

CHARLOTTE ALUMNAE MEETING

The Charlotte group met March 13th, eight p. m. at the Myers Park Moravian Church, with Mrs. W. S. Gary (Lola Doub, 1916), president, presiding. About forty alumnae were present and a number of high school seniors. Rev. Herbert Spaugh, pastor of the Moravian Church made a very interesting talk on "The History of Moravian Hymns," illustrating his talk with organ music. Miss Wilhelmina Wohlford (1932) sang several hymns. We all enjoyed the movie "A Day at Salem" and Miss Anna Jackson Preston's talk. New members welcomed into the group were Misses Elizabeth and Mary Price, Mrs. George Roscoe (Olive Belle Williams, 1924), Mrs. Henry Harper (Marion Propst, 1924), Mrs. Will Diggle (Ellie Erwin, 1907), and Mrs. John H. Grubb (Marie Edgerton, 1921). Mrs. V. E. Stanley (Jennie Wolfe, 1927) reported that the Charlotte Chapter has established a definite "Salem Fund" with some money already in hand. Mrs. Gary appointed a committee to continue plans for raising money for this fund.

THE ALUMNAE RECORD

SALEM COLLEGE, WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

THE ALUMNAE RECORD

VOL. 58

Winston-Salem, N. C., November, 1934

No. 438

Published quarterly during the College Year, at 50 cents per year. Official organ of the Alumnae Association of Salem College. All subscriptions and communications should be addressed to The Alumnae Record, Salem College, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Entered as second-class matter in the Postoffice at Winston-Salem, N. C. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized October 31, 1918.

The Alumnae Record is maintained by and in the interest of Salem Academy and College.

On the College Campus

With our limited space we are not able to give you a full insight into College Campus life, yet a little in each issue of The Alumnae Record will keep you in touch with Salem and, we hope, make you want to come back to see everything for yourself. Salem College is made up of its traditions (which Dr. Rondthaler can best describe to you); its history (why not ask Miss Adelaide Fries to tell you that?); its alumnae (a subscription to the Alumnae Record will keep you in touch with them); its students (see the next issue of the Record); and its faculty (it is of them that I am going to tell you a little in this present issue). Subtract any one of these from Salem, and the perfect picture is indeed marred, isn't it?

SALEM'S FACULTY

About our present faculty. The officers of administration are President Rondthaler, whose office is in the same place it has been for the last 25 years, in case you want to look him up when you come to Salem; Marian Blair, Registrar, who can tell you all about your scholastic record, your credits, and those of anyone who has ever been to Salem (she also has in her office, a very complete and up-to date file of alumnae names and addresses—stop in to see it sometime). Grace Lawrence, Dean, who says Salem girls are getting better every day, in every way; Katharine Riggan, Assistant Dean, and Dean, too, of Non-resident Students, with her own office in Old South Hall; Marjorie Knox, Secretary to the President since the days of Keeney and Bidwell; Albert W. Oerter, Business Manager (yes, married, girls, but stop in to see him just the same—his office is tucked away in the rear of the office building—he is never in); Grace L. Siewers, Librarian, (read her little article in this issue about the new books she has added to the shelves); Mary Duncan McAnally, Assistant Librarian; Dr. S. F. Pfohl, Medical Adviser (talkative—no more so than in your day); Aurelia A. Likes, Nurse; Alice Keeney Rondthaler, Editor, The Alumnae Record (getting educated at Salem at this late date by studying Campbell's Biology, McEwen's Psychology, and Ferguson's History); Anna Perryman, treasurer (office hours same as they used to be); and Anna J. Preston, Field Secretary.

In the School of Arts and Sciences we find Dr. Rondthaler teaching Bible; Bessie Chambers Leftwich and Elizabeth Meinung teaching in the department of Home Economics; Charles H. Higgins (just as hard as ever in freshman Chemistry); and Roy J. Campbell (no, he isn't married yet); Emily Mickey (new this year); and Lena Adelaide Petree (also new), all holding forth in the department of Science; Pearl Vivian Willoughby, Katharine B. Smith, Marian Blair, Anne Elizabeth Lilly, still teaching English 1-2, 3-4, 5-6, 7-8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15-16, 17-18, and 19; Francis C. Anscombe (very proud of his class in Philosophy), and Isabel Ferguson teaching in the department of History; Minnie J. Smith, associated with the department of History and continuing her teaching of Latin and Greek; Arley Theodore Curlee, sole sovereign in the field of Mathematics; Lucy L. Wenhold, Evelyn Wilson Simpson, Elois Vaughn, Carrie May Stockton, and John A. Downs teaching hundreds of courses in French, Spanish, Italian and German; (yes, Mr. Downs is married and lives in what used to be Society Hall, now attractively remodelled into two apartments. His wife is very attractive, and their little boy, the idol of the Campus); Noble McEwen, acting head of the department of Education and Psychology, (no, not a new girl, a new car); and Sallie B. Marks, graduate of Southeastern Teachers College, Columbia, Chicago University, and the University of North Carolina, and for the past seven years on the staff of the latter, a new addition to this department; Evabelle S. Covington and Katharine Riggan, teaching in the department of Sociology and Economics; Minnie Atkinson, continuing her work in physical education.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

In the School of Music we find Dean Charles G. Vardell (he continues his composing and publishing, teaching organ and piano, and is now organist at the Home Moravian Church, he and his family occupying one of the Society Hall apartments); Laurie Jones and Viola Tucker teaching piano; Mary V. Jones, teaching organ; Mary Frances Cash teaching piano, theory, harmony, counterpoint; Hazel Horton Read, teaching violin, viola, violoncello, (yes, and conducting the orchestra, with practice every Tuesday night); Ernest Leslie Schofield (recently honored by membership in the American Academy of Teachers of Singing)—he and Mrs. Schofield live in Lehman Hall, recently attractively remodelled; Eleanor Shaffner Guthrie, teaching harp; Mayme Porter, graduate of Kansas Wesleyan University and Northwestern University, (new to Salem this year), teaching the work in Public School Music. Yes, Sarah L. Vest and Ella Weinland still keep an eye on practice hours in the Music Department. In the Business Course we find Otelia Barrow continuing her work in business subjects (her department has been moved to the second floor of Old South Hall, and is greatly enlarged); and Marjorie Knox teaching bookkeeping.

The faculty picture is certainly not complete without mentioning Mrs. Howard Rondthaler (no introduction is necessary), whose hospitality always welcomes waiting alumnae to the President's Home on the Campus

But, why should I tell you all this—why don't you come back to see everyone, or if that is impossible, send for a catalogue and get all this information for yourself. All the necessary letters of the alphabet, A. B., A. M., B. S., B. M., Ph. D., etc., etc., are attached to the names of our faculty, together with long lists of all courses, 1-2, 3-4, 18-19, etc., which they teach, including Methods courses, and Extension courses, etc., etc., but there just isn't room for them all here—pictures will be sent on request at a nominal fee—don't you feel after reading this that you are educated all over again? Now, turn the pages and read the Alumnae news!—Editor.

GOOD NEWS FROM OUR COLLEGE LIBRARIAN

In the past three months the college library has added approximately 1500 new books to its shelves and plans to add as many more during the year. This almost unbelievable good fortune was brought about through the "Quarter of a Century Library Fund"—a gift of $10,000 raised to honor the twenty-five years of service Dr. and Mrs. Rondthaler have given the college. Though planned and sponsored by The Men's Bible Class of the Home Church, the entire amount was made possible only through contributions from many sources—out-of town alumnae and friends contributing as well as local people.

Plans for adding the new books were made even before the announcement was made public at Commencement. During the summer several sections of new shelves and a general rearrangement of the library were necessary to accomodate the gift books. Every department in the college has been considered in the selection of the books; consequently opportunities for research and additional reading in almost every course have greatly increased. Books of general interest and appeal have not been forgotten; and many of them are attractively displayed as soon as they can be catalogued. The library welcomes visitors, and it is especially anxious that alumnae and friends in town will make use of its resources and enjoy the new books made possible through the "Quarter of a Century Library Fund". Certainly no more fitting way to express appreciation of lasting service could be found than through a gift to the library.—Grace Siewers.

On the Academy Campus

Academy alumnae will be interested to learn of the happenings on the Academy Campus. There are three new faculty members this year: Miss Carrington Shields of Sedalia, Missouri, succeeds Miss Margaret Murray, now Mrs. Robert Arrowood of Concord, as teacher of science and is assistant in athletics. She is a graduate of Randolph-Macon, with three years teaching experience at St. Anne's preparatory school in Charlottesville, Va. Miss Mary Brown of Nashville, Tennessee, is teaching Latin, and has added a beginner's course in Greek to the curriculum. She, too, is a graduate of Randolph-Macon. Miss Anne Irving Faulkner of Lynchburg, Va., is teacher of history. She received her B. A. from Wellesley and her M. A. from Cornell and has completed her residence work at Cornell toward her Ph. D.

Among the familiar faces at the Academy are Mary Weaver, Academic Principal and teacher of Mathematics; Charlotta B. Jackson and Elizabeth Zachary, principals in residence; Dorothy Knox, teaching French and coaching dramatics; Virginia Wilson, teaching home economics and sponsor of the "Puppet Society", also Senior Class teacher; Laura Sumner, teaching English and sponsor of the "Quill Penn", (Academy Annual); Hazel Wheeler, teaching art; and Helen Vogler, dietitian, continuing to bring happiness with good things to eat. Frances Jarrett is teaching piano in both the Academy and College.

There are twenty-five seniors this year, with Mary Louise McLendon of Greensboro, as their president; Betty Bahnson, of Winston-Salem, vice president; Elizabeth Trotman of Winston-Salem, secretary; and Jean Gray Scott of Graham, treasurer.

Jane Norvell of Salisbury is president of the Junior class; Mary Elizabeth Walston of Winston-Salem, vice president; Dorothy Everett of Brevard, secretary and treasurer.

Willingham of Macon, Ga., vice-president; Harriet Valk of Winston-Salem, secretary and treasurer.

Nancy Teague of Winston-Salem is president of the freshman class; Sylvia Shaw of Knoxville, Tenn., vice-president; Margaret Vardell of Winston-Salem, secretary and treasurer.

Patsy Hill of Waynesville is head of Purple Athletic Team, Betty Bahnsen, head of Gold; Helen Gilmer Dickson, of Larchmont, N. Y., head of archery; Edith Madden of Knoxville, Tenn., head of swimming; Edith Stokely of Newport, Tenn., head of tennis; Ethel Litz of Tazewell, Va., head of soccer; and Mary Elizabeth Walston of Winston-Salem, head of minor sports.

ACADEMY ALUMNAE NEWS

News from members of last year's graduating class give us the following information: Gertrude Bagwell is at Mitchell College, Statesville; Martha Birdsey, at King-Smith Studios, Washington, D. C.; Barbara Fulton, at Mt. Vernon Seminary, Washington, D. C.; Josephine Gribben and Margaret Ricks at St. Mary's, Raleigh; Florence Jeffress, at Stratford College, Danville, Va.; Kathryn Kilgore, at Columbia Bible College, Columbia, S. C.; Julia Lawson, at Roanoke College, Salem, Va.; Helen Litz, at Smith College, Northampton, Mass.; Kathleen Madden, at Holton Arms, Washington, D. C.; Frances Reid, at Mary Baldwin, Staunton, Va.; Fannie Stokely, at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va.; Blevins Vogler, Anne Perkins, Mary Margaret Johnson, Louise Frazier, and Peggy Brawley, at Salem College. Betty Sanders is working in Washington, D. C.; Florence Pearsall, Catherine Johnson, and Lucy Smither, are doing post-graduate work at Salem Academy.

Flora Spurgeon (Academy 1922), endeavoring to get in touch with all members of the class for their reunion last June, received the following interesting information: Zoe Folsom Styron (1879 Victory Blvd., Borough of Richmond, New York), writes that she is in the real estate business, which prevented her from coming back to Salem in June, since "spring and summer are our busy seasons". She writes, "I happen to have turned out a bachelor girl with a house, dogs, kittens, gold fish, flower and vegetable gardens—and a business woman, instead of a musician

Helen Mitchell, also of 1922, formerly of Kinston, but now of 4306 Jack Street, Houston, Texas, is Mrs. Allan Penny Bloxson. She married Dr. Bloxson and moved to Texas in 1929. She has a little boy, age 18 months.

Elizabeth Fletcher (Academy 1922), is Mrs. Jim Flynt, 65 Broadway, New York City.

Willie J. Crumpler (1922), is Mrs. C. W. Cromwell, Carolina Apts., Asheville, N. C.

Tempe Ellen (1922), is in Washington, D. C., Apt. 204 South Clifton Terrace.

Frances Millikan (Academy, graduated 1926), of Greensboro, was married on September 8th to Herman Hine Aderhold of College Park, Ga. Mr. Aderhold is connected with the Southeastern Underwriters Association in Greensboro, and they are making their home at 412 S. Mendenhall Street

Lavinia Lee (1927), of Asheville, was married on September 1st to Sloan Young Cassells.

Arabella Putnam (1930-1931), was married on June 16th to James Albert Yates. They are living at Vineyard Haven, Mass.

Mrs. W. W. Stanfield, Jr. (Hortence Carson, 1929), lives at 1039 Key Ave., Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Jack Myers (Ruth Kennedy, 1928), is living in Aqua Caliente, Mexico. Her husband is an ensign in the U. S. Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Y. Cooper (Mishew Crudup, 1931), have a daughter, Mishew McNeil Cooper, born October 19, 1934.

Mrs. Hollis Hedberg (Frances Murray, 1927), is living in Palo Alto, California, for the winter. Her husband is getting his Ph. D. at Leland Stanford.

Mrs. J. M. Robertson (Emily Tobey, 1927), has changed her address to 1785 Spruce St., Apt. 5, Berkeley, California.

Mrs. Lyle Bruner (Ethel Gaines, 1920), Westmoreland Heights, Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. C. H. Dean (Helen Ford, Academy 1923, College ex-1927), Shawnee Woods, Knoxville, have recently written briefly and subscribed to The Record.

Alumnae Record Subscriptions

We are delighted over the interest which Salem Academy alumnae are showing in the Alumnae Record, both in the matter of news and in the matter of subscriptions. The Editor plans to devote at least a full page of each issue to Academy Campus news and items about Academy alumnae. When we speak of Academy alumnae now, we do not mean those who graduated in the old days of "Salem Female Academy"—news concerning the older Academy alumnae is incorporated in the items under "Here and There among the Alumnae"; but we mean news about those girls who have been privileged since 1930 to be educated in the new Academy, i. e. the Mary Fries Patterson, the Carrie Fries Shaffner, and the Emma Fries Bahnson buildings, situated on the hillside opposite the College. Miss Weaver and Miss Zachary have a complete Academy alumnae file and enjoy getting additional new items for it.

The price of the Record is fifty cents. It is due each year, under our new system of collection, January 1st. At that time alumnae are privileged to subscribe for one year only at fifty cents; for two years at one dollar; and for five years at the "cut rate" of two dollars, this latter provided subscription fees are received during the month of January.

Academy alumnae are of course welcome and expected at Branch Association meetings. These are held during the spring, many of them in February. Officers of local branches do not always know all alumnae in a community, therefore alumnae should not hesitate to "advertise" themselves. The January issue of the Record will contain information about 1935 alumnae meetings. Don't miss it!

Miss Zachary is already planning for Academy reunions at Commencement; these too will be announced in the next issue of The Record and we hope by that time to have news from the members of the Reunion Class.

Academy alumnae should send news items and fees to Miss Elizabeth Zachary, Salem Academy, so that information may be added to the card index there before coming to the Editor.

"Here and There" Among the Alumnae

"To use a well-thumbed phrase, the "gone but not forgotten" class of 1934 sends a greeting and a bit of news as to its activities and accomplishments. Mary Absher is at home on the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland. Kathleen Adkins is teaching history and English at Pine Hall, N. C. Speaking of teachers, Salem has well supplied the state with them. Virginia Allen teaches in Winston-Salem in South Junior High, and Margaret Ashburn, Eleanor Cain, Thelma Crews, Beth Norman, Martha Owen, Emma Kapp all teach in the schools of this city. South Hall misses the face of Mary Ollie Biles, last year's Vice-President of Student Government; she holds forth in the grammar grades at Wallburg. Susan Calder, who, if you remember, and in case you don't was Editor of the Salemite last year, is teaching at Gastonia. Mary Canada instructs the pupils of Griffith School as does Dorabelle Graves in Chadburn, N. C. The fair May Queen of last year, Mildred Hanes, dazzles the third grade students in Pine Hall. Sarah Horton is teaching in Monroe, and Sara Lindsay in Lilesville. In the fourth grade at St Paul's, N. C., Ruth McLeod may be found—teaching, of course. To find Lula Mae Motsinger look in Oakhill. Grace Pollock is teaching public school music at Kinston and playing the role of assistant orchestra director. Mary Sample is teaching the third grade in Fort Pierce, Florida, and Ann Shuford grows into a bespectacled school-marm at Conover. Betty Stough instructs young hopefuls in the rudiments of Home Economics at High Point; let us hope she teaches them to eat lots of spinach and darn beautifully. To round out the list of teachers, Frances Suttlemeyer obligingly teaches piano in three graded schools at one time in Norwood. Marion Stovall, not to be omitted, teaches in Mecklenburg County. It looks like someone is going to learn something.

Not to forget our fair co-eds, Broadus Staley, who holds the singular distinction of being one of the first boys to receive a B. Mus. from Salem, is at the Union Theological Seminary, continuing his music work. His co-ed, George Dickieson is doing orchestral work in the county schools, besides teaching violin lessons.

Some of the class, not having enough of studying, continue their efforts, Marian Hadley, President of the Athletic Association last year, now works off her surplus energy by taking a business course in Charlotte, which course she expects to finish soon. Look out! you steno's, here comes a keen competitor! Margaret Johnson is in Raleigh taking organ lessons and keeping house for her mother. Isabel Pollock is taking a business course in Bluefield, W. Va., and Miriam Stevenson does likewise in Salisbury. Ruth Wolfe is with Salem yet, taking her B. Mus. degree.

Mary Louise Mickey, brave soul has tackled the big city, New York, and has entrenched herself already in a publishing house. Katherine Lasater works in a doctor's office in Bluefield, W. V. She was President of I R. S. last year. Lena Petree stays with Salem aiding with general assistance, the science department.

Many of the class, content with keeping strict hours, light cuts and regulations in the past are at home. Sarah Davis, Josephine Grimes, Mary Lou Kerr are at home in Winston-Salem, Frances Hill calls Roanoke, Va., home, and Georgia Huntington, former president of Student Government, is at home in Wilmington, N. C., Elizabeth Leak, Editor of Sights and Insights, is in Greensboro, and Ann McKinnon is in Maxton, N. C. In Laurinburg, Gertrude McNair preserves the home ties intact, and Jean Patterson does the same at Russellville, Tenn. Alice Stough calls Charlotte home and Maggie Holleman is also at her hearthside. And last, Zina Vologodsky, former president of Y. W. C. A., is at home in Harbin, China."—The Salemite.

Miss Otelia Barrow has heard from several of the business department girls and would like to hear from others. Mary Brown is employed in Martinsville, Va.; Faye Cain is with a large furniture establishment in Winston-Salem; Lucille Chambers is in the office of the Clerk of Court, Forsyth County; Dorothy Spencer is with the Security Bond & Mortgage Co., Winston-Salem; Beverly Moore is working in Bennettsville, S.C.; Billie Scott, in Greensboro; Calva Sharpe is secretary to the Supt. of Schools in Burlington; Mavis Bulluck has returned to Salem for an A. B. degree.

Miss Eva Logan (A. B. 1919), is Head of the Department of Foreign Languages in Weir High School, Hollidays Cove, Weirton, W. Va. This is thirty-seven miles from Pittsburgh, Pa. Since leaving Salem she has received her M. A. degree in Philosophy from Columbia University. Her address is Box 992, Hollidays Cove, Weirton, West Virginia.

Mrs. Albert W. Rigsbee (Mary Elizabeth Butner, A. B. 1917), teacher of Home Economics at Salem for four years after graduation, writes that she is certainly planning to return for the reunion of her class in June. She lives at "The Maples", Arlington, Indiana. She has four children, Alfred Swain, age 12, John Howland, age 9, Clara Emily, age 6, and Mary Elizabeth, age 3. Elizabeth has made good use of her Salem training in her work on State Health and Red Cross projects, and has done work for the Child Welfare Association. She was instrumental in starting the Purdue Extension classes in that section of Indiana's best farming country.

Another member of 1917, Mrs. Wilfred H. Robbins (Izma Jennette, A. B. 1917), hopes to hear from her classmates through subsequent issues of The Record. Izma is living at Burgaw, N. C. She has two boys, Thomas, age 11, and Dudley, age 13.

Mrs. Virgil Laurens Jones (Isabel Elias, 1897), writes from 728 West Maple St., Fayetteville, Arkansas, that after graduating from Salem, she continued her college work, getting her B. A. from Trinity College (now Duke) in 1899, and her M. A. from Columbia in 1902. Her husband is Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, University of Arkansas. She has three daughters, one married to a Harvard professor, another at the University of Chicago, and the third at the University of Arkansas.

Mary Brewer (A. B. 1930), of Rocky Mount, is teaching this year at East Falls Church, Virginia. She writes, "I am very happy in my work here and enjoy being so near Washington. I teach English and Reading in the sixth and seventh grades.

Flossie Martin (A. B. 1910), has been appointed Head of the Science Department of Richard J. Reynolds High School, Winston-Salem.

Ruth Carter (A. B. 1931), and Josephine Walker (B. S. 1934), are teaching at Clemmons, N. C.

The editor recently received a prescription blank from Dr. Rachel Davis (Rachel Davis, B. S. 1926), 109½ East Gordon Street, Kinston, N. C., "phones: office 342, home 1152", as follows: "use this $3.00 for anything you wish". Hence Rachel's subscription to the Record is being renewed, and the "Dr." and the 'phone numbers must suffice for news of her busy life at present.

Clemmons Brown (B. M. 1926), writes from Baltimore that she has continued her music in post-graduate work at Peabody Conservatory, and has a private piano studio. Her address is 18 West Hamilton Street.

A letter from Mrs. E. D. Watt (Edna Lindsey 1887-1891), of Reidsville brings her subscription to The Record and gives us information about herself.

She and five other Reidsville girls, Bert Lindsey (deceased), Maud Harris (deceased), Connie Sampson (deceased), Annie Staples, and Annie Sloan, all entered Salem at the same time. Her daughter, Sarah Watt, was a student here from 1917 to 1921. She is now Mrs. William Stokes, with a three year old daughter, Gene Watt Stokes, a future Salem Girl.

Adelaide Silversteen (B. M. 1933), known in New York by her professional name of Adelaide Van Wey, is continuing her study of voice, with opera as an ultimate goal. She has done some radio singing over WOR, WMAC, and WABC. Her address is 101 West 57th Street

A letter from Mrs. Henry Lester Gerry (Louise Fain, A. B. 1906), 18 Cleveland Road, Needham, Mass., tells us of her little boy, age six. After Graduating from Salem, Louise taught kindergarten for several years in Atlanta and Newnan, Ga., and first grade in Charlotte, N. C. She had planned to return for her class reunion in 1916, but was prevented at the last moment. Her husband is a teacher in Teacher's College, Boston.

Mrs. W. J. Carter (Christine Brooks, B. M. 1926), formerly of Burlington, lives at 105 Sunset Drive, Greensboro. She has two children, Nancy Christine, age 7, and Dorothy Brooks, age 2.

Mrs. George W. Hunutley (Louise Ross, A. B., 1915), of Wadesboro, writes that after leaving Salem she taught several years and then married her next door neighbor. She has two children, Robert Ross, age 8, and Mary Louise, age 5.

Mrs. Harry A. Councilor (Mildred Fleming, A. B., 1930), writes from Alexandria, Virginia, that she and her husband have purchased an old home, dating back to 1780, have restored and beautified it, preserving as much as possible of the old Georgian Lines, and are now delighted with its completion. She writes that Fritz Firey (A. B. 1930), is married to a lieutenant in the Navy.

Miss Ida H. Moore, of Charlotte, writes that when the Class of 1885 held their reunion in 1933, they agreed to meet again at Salem in 1935. She is trying to get in touch with all classmates and would like letters from them at this time, about the Fiftieth Year Reunion. Her address is 410½ West 8th Street.

A recent newspaper clipping brought us the news of the death of Mrs. Sara Rose Horton (Sara Lynch, 1853-1854), of Yadkin Valley. Mrs. Horton was ninety-nine years of age. Her history is an interesting one. She was born in 1835 in Yadkin County. "During her lifetime she has witnessed an epoch of material progress; she has seen her country at war with foreign powers three times, has seen it torn by civil strife, has witnessed the development of the telegraph, telephone, and wireless; has witnessed the evolution of illumination from candles to coal oil lamps and to the electric light.

"She saw the first thin lines of steel reach up from the lowlands into the mountains with the opening of the highways and witnessed the evolution of highway transportation as horses and mules gave way to automobiles. In the later years she has watched the shadows of man-made ships of the air flash across the fertile fields beside the Yadkin.

"For approximately 75 years Mrs. Horton had lived in the original Dula home in the valley—a structure well over a century old. Its doors were always open, and its hospitality probably unexcelled.

"Mrs. Horton is the oldest Caldwell resident who was a graduate of Salem Academy, and perhaps was second only to Mrs. Alice Council of Hickory, for the distinction of being the oldest living graduate. Mrs. Council will be 102 years of age soon.

"Mrs. Horton's sister, Mrs. J. W. Pass (Hallie Lynch, Feb. 1865-May. 1865), now living in Yadkinville, also attended Salem."

Another one of our oldest alumnae who passed away this fall was Mrs. W. M. Earnhardt (Anna Crist, 1857-1866), of Lenoir. She was born in Salem in 1849, educated at Salem Academy, and taught piano at the Academy for twelve years. Her daughter, Mrs. Rose Earnhardt Powell (1905-1906), of Lenoir is also an alumna.

On the College Campus

"SALEM DAY"

"Salem Day," February 3rd, is one of the historic days in the annals of your Alma Mater and ranks equally with "May Day" and "Commencement" in its appeal to any "Salem Girl." College students, Academy students, faculty members and alumnae have always shared in its activities. For many years it was customary for all Branch Associations of Salem Alumnae to meet on this day. In recent years, however, so many alumnae have wanted to be here at Salem on February 3rd, that now most Branch Associations find it more practical to meet sometime following the Salem Day activities at Salem.

"Salem Day" this year should be particularly interesting to Alumnae who live near enough to visit their Alma Mater, since the dates February 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, are to be "Home Coming" days. Please consider this a personal invitation from your Alma Mater to come back during those days. Many interesting plans are on foot for your entertainment. We want every Community represented; we want every Branch Association represented; we want every Class represented.

"Home Coming" will give you an opportunity to see Salem College and Salem Academy exactly as they are under normal daily conditions, not dressed up for May Day or Commencement, but hard at work doing the things for which a modern College and modern Preparatory School stand. We want you to go to classes as a listener; to see the Campus in all its physical details, to visit the laboratories and realize why and how we can give accepted pre-medical work; to visit the library, greatly enlarged by the recent $10,000 memorial fund for the purchase of books under faculty direction; to see the dormitories and their daily life; to attend Chapel; to head the Music Department at work and to realize what it means for us to be one of the few accepted members of the National Association of Schools of Music.

"Home Coming" will enable you to meet with student organizations committees and heads of student clubs such as the French Club, Science Club, etc., etc.; to learn first hand what Student Government is like at Salem and what the Presidents' Forum does; to meet members of the faculty personally; to get acquainted with present day Salem students.

These features of Salem Day Home Coming are the "Alumnae School" since they will acquaint you with all phases of the life and work of Salem today. You will be the guests of Salem College while you are here. Space will be reserved for you in the beautiful Louisa Bitting dormitory just as soon as we hear that you are coming. Please write direct to Dr. Rondthaler. Come as early as possible Friday afternoon, February 1st, planning to stay long enough to enjoy the Sunday morning service at the Home Moravian Church and Sunday dinner with the girls in the college dining hall.—The Editor.

In the November 1934 issue of "The Record" we told you about Salem's faculty. In this issue we are giving you a picture of student activities under student leadership.

Alumnae Meetings

The Alumnae office is endeavoring to plan with officers of our Branch Alumnae Associations, dates and places of meetings, these to be held sometime after our "Salem Day Home Coming," Feb. 1st, 2nd, and 3rd.

WINSTON-SALEM ALUMNAE MEETING

The Winston-Salem Branch, Mrs. Harry Grimsley (Lucy Dix Estes) president, will meet on Friday night, February 2nd, in the Library of Salem College. Out-of-town alumnae who are at Salem for the "Home Coming" and "Alumnae School" are cordially invited to this meeting.

MISS MARY LOUISE MICKEY

Miss Mary Louise Mickey has been appointed Alumnae Field Secretary to succeed Miss Anna Jackson Preston, who will be married in February to Emil Shaffner of Winston-Salem. Miss Mickey is well-known to recent Salem graduates. She received her B. A. degree from Salem in 1933, her B. Mus. in 1934. Since then she has been working in New York City, but came back at Christmas time when her Alma Mater called her for this important place in its administrative ranks.

Miss Mickey will meet with all Branch Alumnae Associations this spring. The following schedule has been planned for her.

BRANCH ASSOCIATION ALUMNAE MEETINGS

Please note that in some cases, designated as "tentative," final arrangements have not been made. Alumnae can get in touch with the officers of their respective groups to ascertain details of time and place.

Of Interest to Alumnae

A memorial service was held on Friday, during Morning Chapel, recognizing Salem's oldest alumna, Mrs. Alice Bostwick Council, who passed away on Thursday, January 10th.

Mrs. Council, who died Thursday, January 10th, in Hickory at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Taylor, was the oldest alumna of Salem College, having passed her 102d birthday last December. She came to Salem from her home in Sumter, S. C., when she was 14 years of age.

Dr. Howard E. Rondthaler, in speaking of Mrs. Council, told of meeting her several years ago and the interesting conversation they had regarding Salem. He told of the keen memory which she retained to the end, particularly with reference to the past. He said she admitted that "my memory is treacherous about the present yet I can recall those early days as if only a few had passed."

Continuing, President Rondthaler said: "She recalled many delightful incidents connected with the school and with friendships which she had made in the community of Salem.

"Her unusual interest in voice culture made her at the time one of the favorite singers in school life and on public occasions, and she was sometimes affectionately called the 'Jenny Lind' of Salem Academy."

The speaker stated that "South Hall in which she lived and worked, had been but little changed and it is readily possible to re-enact the coming and going of school-girl life in her early days. Dr. Robert de Schweinitz was president at the time of her residence here and she loved to refer to his warm-heartedness and at the same time his rare dignity and she was conscious, even as a girl, of his responsibility and his gentlemanly and dignified bearing.

"The gardens, the paths and walkways to the brook in the pasture grounds of Salem Academy were always fresh in her memory. She loved to recall the music of the church and the services of Easter and Christmas and her memories of these was as bright after nearly 90 years as though she had been a school girl of yesterday."

The funeral was held on Saturday, January 12th, at Boone, N. C. President and Mrs. Rondthaler attended, representing Salem.

Miss Elizabeth Heisler, well-known to all Salem alumnae, has just returned from a happy visit with Mrs. J. H. Steedman of Clayton, Alabama. Mrs. Steedman was Jeanie Smith of Mexia, Texas, a Salem student about 1888. She returned to her Alma Mater last Commencement and came back shortly before Thanksgiving in her car, in which she and "Miss Lizzie" drove to Clayton. They spent the first night in Shelby, N. C., at the home of Mrs. Earle Hamrick (Adele Gelier, 1915-17). After two days of shopping and sight-seeing in Atlanta, they drove on to Clayton, Ala. During Miss Heisler's three weeks stay, they motored to Marianna, Florida for Thanksgiving dinner. Miss Lizzie says that she found the weather warm and fine, with flowers blooming, and the people cordial and hospitable. Returning after Christmas, she left the "sunny south" and arrived at Salem in the sleet and cold.

Laura Howell Norden (Laura Howell, 1924), prominent violinist of Wilmington, N. C., has given several concerts recently, one in the Page Auditorium at Duke University, another at Meredith College, Raleigh, and another at Flora MacDonald College, Red Springs.

Alice Rulfs, (B. A., 1923), now Mrs. Graham D. Farmer, has moved from Wilmington to Lumberton, N. C. She writes of her two girls, Alice, age 9, Ann, age 5; and the baby boy, Chauncey, born July 1, 1934; and hopes that sometime the girls can come to Salem.

We regret to learn through a letter from Miss Mitty Rivers Marsh, 522 S. Broadway, Tyler, Texas, of the passing of her mother, Lucy Portis Marsh (1860-61). Miss Marsh writes that her mother always loved and remembered Salem. She was totally blind for more than a year before her death, but always cheerful, bright, and grateful for the devotion of her children and grandchildren. She was loved by all who knew her.

The Business Class of 1934 now has four more members employed in Winston-Salem—Martha Fulton, with the Security Bond & Mortgage Co.; Edith Hauser, stenographer with the City Relief Commission; Myrtle Fulk, in the office of the Indera Mills; and Margaret Maxwell, with the Wachovia Bank & Trust Company.

Dr. Pearl V. Willoughby, head of the English Department, was called home at Thanksgiving time on account of the serious illness of her mother. While staying in the hospital in Charlottesville, Va., with her mother, she fell and broke her hip and was confined for several weeks in the hospital. Her former students will be glad to learn that she is now back at Salem, and although it is still necessary for her to use a wheelchair, she is meeting all of her classes in the room adjoining hers in South Hall.

Alumnae who know Miss Katherine Riggan (B. A., 1928), Assistant Dean, will be sorry to hear of her recent bereavements in the deaths of her grandfather and of her mother, at Southern Pines.

Alumnae will be interested to learn that the house which was occupied for so many years by Bishop Rondthaler, and until her death last July, by his wife, Mrs. Edward Rondthaler, has become the parsonage of the Home Moravian Church. It is occupied by Rev. Gordon Spaugh, pastor of the Home Church.

On the Campus

"SALEM DAY"

The idea of a "Home Coming" to celebrate "Salem Day", February 3rd, proved a big success and will probably become one of Salem's traditions. Many of the Branch Alumnae Associations sent representatives for the occasion. Many classes were represented, as well as many communities where Salem alumnae reside.

During the three days, February 1st through February 3rd, alumnae who revisited their Alma Mater were given an excellent insight into all phases of College and Academy activity. On Friday night there was the big dinner, sponsored by the "I. R. S.", at which visiting alumnae were introduced; following this came the Winston-Salem Alumnae meeting in the College Library, with a cordial invitation to all visiting alumnae. On Saturday morning alumnae were entertained at breakfast in the dining room of the Emma Fries Bahnson building of Salem Academy; from 9 a. m. to 1 a. m. and from 12 to 1 p. m., alumnae visited classrooms and had the opportunity of contacting faculty members and students at work. At 11 a. m. they attended Chapel in Memorial Hall and heard an excellent talk by Dr. Myers of Greensboro; at 1 p. m. they were entertained at a buffet luncheon at the Lizora Fortune Hanes practice house, and following this, they were invited to the "Style Show" of the Home Economics department. Saturday afternoon they were invited to a housewarming and tea in "South Hall", which has recently been redecorated by the "Off Campus" students and is now their headquarters outside of class hours for purposes of study and recreation. Saturday night the Seniors entertained them, together with the Trustees of the College, at a dinner, and after that they were invited to Memorial Hall, where Mary Louise Mickey showed them moving pictures of Campus life. On Sunday many of the alumnae attended again the morning service at the Home Moravian Church, enjoyed again a Sunday dinner in the College dining hall, and then had after-dinner coffee with Dr. and Mrs. Rondthaler at the President's home.

Those returning for the "Home Coming" and the "Alumnae School", as Dr. Rondthaler termed it, were: Mary Katherine Thorp (A. B., 1933), Fries Va.; Georgia Huntington (B. S., 1934), Wilmington; Rosa Caldwell (B. S., 1926), Concord; Ernestine Thies (B. A., 1931), Charlotte; Kate Eborn Cutting (A. B., 1914), Hanes; Susan Calder (A. B., 1934), Charlotte; Rachel Phillips Phelps (B. A., 1927), Lexington; Nina Way Credle (A. B., 1933), Washington; Alice (A. B., 1934), and Betty Stough (B. S., 1934), Charlotte; Elizabeth Price (B. S., 1933), Charlotte; Julia Brown Jennings (A. B., 1931), and Eva Hackney Hargrave (A. B., 1931), both of Lexington; Elva Templeton (B. S., 1921), Reidsville; Ann McKinnon (A. B., 1934), Maxton; Mary Young (1907), High Point; Kathleen Kerner (A. B., 1909), Kernersville; Francis Hill (B. S., 1934), Roanoke; Margaret McLaughlin Schiff (ex. 1925), and Christine Henkel (ex. 1916), both of Statesville; Althea Backenstoe Robinson (ex. '28), Asheville; Laura Howell Norden (Mus., 1924), Wilmington; Margaret Johnson (A. B., '33, B. M., 1934), Raleigh; Rosalie Smith (B. M., 1933), New Bern; Mrs. Z. N. Anderson (Jeannie Anderson, 1894), Mocksville; Mrs. Annie Sloan Hartness (1890), Statesville; Miss Katherine Hanes (1894), Winston-Salem; Mrs. Lucy Patterson (1882), Russellville, Tenn. and Winston-Salem; Sunny Kirby (ex. 1936), Gastonia; Hattie Carrow (ex. 1930), Kingston; Isabel Pollock (A. B., 1934), Bluefield; Harriet (A. B., '31), and Anna Holderness (A. B., '32), Tarboro; Mary Sumner Ramsey (B. A., 1918), Asheville; Wilhelmina Wohlford (Bus. Class, 1931), Charlotte; Adelaide Foil ('30-'31), Concord; and Hope Coolidge (1914), Greensboro.

MAY DAY

"May Day", another red-letter date on Salem's calendar, will be Saturday, May 4th. The May Queen, Cortlandt Preston of Washington, D. C., will be crowned at four o'clock of that day in the midst of the beauty of the Salem Campus. Elois Padrick of Fort Pierce, Fla., is to be "maid of honor".

In connection with "May Day", it has been customary for several years to invite to Salem College and to Salem Academy for the week-end, any girls who have shown an interest in selecting Salem as their College. If alumnae know of any high school seniors who have not yet written for a Salem catalogue, but are thinking seriously of entering Salem next fall, we will appreciate receiving their names so that an invitation can be sent to them. The same is true of girls who have Salem Academy in mind for completing their high school preparation. Those who enjoyed this week-end "houseparty" last year and are now Salem students have expressed their enthusiasm for the privilege of this opportunity to see Salem ahead of time, and the same welcome will await those who are invited this year.

COMMENCEMENT

SALEM COLLEGE

College Commencement dates are Saturday, June 1st through Monday, June 3rd. Saturday is "Alumnae Day" with the annual General Alumnae Meeting and Luncheon; followed by the Senior Class Day Exercises; and at night the "Commencement Concert". Sunday is "Baccalaureate" and "Senior Vespers"; Monday is "Commencement" and the conferring of degrees to graduates of 1935.

J.; Sarah Gordon Wilson, Randolph Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va.; Katherine Lasater, Charleston, W. Va.; and Blanche Phillips, Knoxville, Tenn.

Class Reunions, Commencement, 1935

SALEM COLLEGE

JUNE 1st, 2nd, 3rd

Much interest is being shown in the Class Reunions. Class officers have been notified and are trying to get in touch with their classmates. Local alumnae have been asked by the Editor of "The Record" to act as historians so that "Class Histories" can be brought up to date and this, and the next issue of "The Record" will tell the story of "1934," "1933," "1917," "1916," "1915," "1914," "1898," "1897," "1896," "1895," and "1885."

Class officers will be glad to hear from all members. Alice Stough, Davidson, N. C. is president of "1934," Dorabelle Graves, Mount Airy, secretary; Emily Mickey, 104 Belevs St., Winston-Salem, is president of "1933," Dorothy Heidenreich, Durbin, No. Dakota, secretary; Elizabeth Bailey—Mrs. Richard Eames, 2504 Park Lane, Glenview, Illinois, president of "1917"; Melissa Hankins, Mansfield Depot, Connecticut, secretary; Esther Bain—Mrs. J. S. White, Box 356, Mebane, N. C., is president of "1916," Lola Doub—Mrs. W. S. Gary, 502 E. Kingston Ave., Charlotte, N. C., secretary; Louise Bushong—Mrs. Cecil M. McClister, Morristown, Tenn., is president of "1915"; Pauline Pinkston, Wadesboro, N. C., secretary; Nellie Messick—Mrs. R. A. Moore, Warwick Road, Winston-Salem, is acting president of "1914"; Mary Grogan, 229 Cherry St., Winston-Salem, secretary.

The Editor appreciates the help of the following Winston-Salem alumnae in assembling information, through questionnaires, about individual alumnae: Mary Catherine Siewers (1933), Mrs. I. W. Hine (Gladys Teague, 1917), Mrs. W. P. Rainey (Frances Doub, 1916), and Agnes Dodson (1916), Mrs. Rufus Dalton (Louise Vogler, 1915), Lola Butner (1915), Mrs. R. A. Branch Association Meetings

FAYETTEVILLE

The Fayetteville Alumnae met Tuesday evening, March 5th, at the home of Mrs. George Jenkins (Mamie Churchill Smith, Bus. Course, 1930). Officers for the following year were elected: Mrs. N. B. Stevens (Sadie Chasson, ex. 1912), president; Mrs. Duncan S. Owen (Mary Gwyn Hickerson, A. B., 1931), vice-president; and Dorothy Pinkston (ex. 1932), secretary and treasurer.

Miss Mary Louise Mickey from Salem, showed pictures of Campus life at Salem College and Salem Academy and gave a vivid description of the Home Coming week-end at the college February 1st to 3rd.

Mrs. Seavy Highsmith, mother of Ethel Highsmith, who is now at Salem, was a guest at the meeting.

After the program, Mrs. Jenkins served delicious ice-cream and cakes, carrying out the Salem colors of yellow and white.

WINSTON-SALEM

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Winston-Salem branch of the Salem College Alumnae Association was held February 1st in the college library, with the president, Mrs. Harry Grimsley (Lucy Dix Estes, A. B., 1920), presiding.

The class of 1933, who were guests of the evening, sang the "Alma Mater," the words of which were written by Miss Marian Blair, and Miss Anna Pauline Shaffner, and the music by Dean Charles G. Vardell.

Mrs. Grimsley introduced Miss Mary Louise Mickey, the new alumnae field secretary, after which Mrs. Robert McCuiston (Margaret Blair, B. A., 1914), read a telegram of greeting and good wishes from Mrs. Lucy Brown James, of the class of 1908, and the minutes of the last meeting.

The report of the nomination committee was read by Miss Eleanor Willingham (A. B., 1930), and the following officers were unanimously elected: President, Mrs. Harry Grimsley; vice-president, Mrs. R. E. Guthrie (Eleanor Shaffner, B. A., 1924); secretary and treasurer, Miss Margaret Vick (B. A., 1930).

Miss Hazel Read, head of the violin department of Salem College, played two beautiful violin solos, "Love Song," by Joseph Schuck, and "Guitar," by Moskowsky. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Viola Tucker, member of the faculty of the school of music.

The speaker of the evening, Harry Comer, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of the University of North Carolina, was introduced by Mrs. Grimsley, and he gave an intensely interesting talk on "What Alumnae Can Do for the College."

Among other things Mr. Comer said that the exemplary life is the greatest service that any alumna can render to her college, because girls judge colleges by the alumnae. He also said that the alumnae who knows most about her college is the one who is most frequently there and upon whom the college calls for leadership.

Dr. Rondthaler presented from the collection of Miss Emma Lehman, senior teacher at Salem for more than fifty years, a framed photograph of President and Mrs. James K. Polk, and read a short history of their lives. Mrs. Polk visited Salem on June 1, 1817.

Miss Christine Henkel (ex. 1916), of Statesville, delighted her hearers with two lovely solos, one a French song and the other an Italian dance song, "Parentelle," accompanied at the piano by Miss Tucker.

Mrs. Rondthaler extended a cordial invitation to the alumnae to remain for a social hour and see the new books in the college library.

HIGH POINT

The High Point alumnae met on February 6th, at the home of Mrs. C. T. Ingram (Mary D. Dalton, ex. 1934), on Woodland Drive, with Miss Lucie Hayes (Bus., 1928), Mrs. David Yow (Winifred Vail, ex. 1921), and Mrs. Sam Strickland (Mary Ragsdale, Bus., 1927), as associate hostesses.

Miss Mary Young (B. A., 1907), of High Point College, gave an account of the Salem Day celebration and the "Home Coming". Miss Mary Louise Mickey brought news of Salem and showed moving pictures of the Campus. Mrs. Charles McAnnally (Wanna Mary Huggins, B. M., 1933), delighted the group with a piano solo.

Following the business session, the hostesses served refreshments.

RALEIGH

Miss Margaret Johnson was hostess to the members of the Raleigh Chapter of Salem College alumnae Thursday evening, Feb. 14th, at her home on West Edenton Street.

Miss Mary Louise Mickey, Field Secretary, was honor guest and gave a delightfully informal talk, bringing greetings from Salem, telling of the progress made in the last year, and showing two reels of movies taken at the school; one of activities at the Academy, the other of activities of the College. These films included scenes of the outdoor art classes, skating ring tennis, baseball, shuffle board, horseback riding, swimming, hockey, and other sports on the new athletic field; scenes of the home economics practice house, dormitories, classes, and traditional spots on the Campus; and scenes of "Class Day", "May Day", and Commencement with many familiar faces.

During the business meeting each member present was asked to fill in a questionnaire for the Alumnae Record and alumnae files. Officers were elected for the coming year, as follows: president Margaret Johnson (B. A. 33, B. Mus. 34); vice-president, Helen Bailey (Academy, 1925); secretary, Mrs. C. H. Noah (Lucille Strickland, Bus. Class 1929); treasurer, Mrs. George Iseley (Flossie Bingham, 1913); hostess chairmen, Mr. C. W. Norman (Lula Wynne, 1929), and Nat-alle Dunn (Academy, 1931); scrapbook chairman, Mary Alice Harding (ex. 1929); publicity chairman, Nancy Cox (ex. 1933). At the suggestion of Mrs. Charles U. Harris (Sadie Robbins 1908), the association stood in silent reverence for a moment in remembrance of Mrs. Talcott Brewer (A. Elizabeth Watkins, ex. 1902), a former member, who passed away since the last meeting. The members requested the secretary to write a note of sympathy to Mrs. Theodore Partrick, widow of the late Rev. Partrick. Mrs. Partrick (Watson Kasey), taught for a number of years at Salem College.

The old and new "Alma Maters" were sung by the members, accompanied at the piano by Miss Johnson. At the conclusion of the program, the hostess, assisted by Helen Bailey, Mrs. Victor Bell, and Mary Alice Harding served delicious molded ices, decorated cakes, heart mints, and pecans, carrying out the Valentine motif in red and white.

Members of the local association present were: Mrs. Charles U. Harris, Mrs. George Iseley, Mrs. J. S. Griffin, Jr. (Agnes Pollock, 1931), Nancy Rand (ex. 1933), Helen Leigh Bailey, Mrs. W. W. Hampton (Ermine Baldwin, ex. 1925), Mrs. Louis Woodward (Mary Virginia Dunn, A. B. 1931), Marion Turner (ex. 1931), Mary Alice Harding (ex. 1929), Mrs. R. L. Savage, Jr. (Mary Copeland Blythe, ex. 1924), Mrs. J. L. Belote (Martha Dortch, B. S., 1928), Mrs. H. Royster Chamblee (Georgia Riddle (B. Mus., 1922), Mrs. Jack Blackwell (Ellen Wilkinson, A. B., 1925), Mrs. C. W. Norman, Mrs. Victor E. Bell (Jane Kestler, Bus., 1925), Mrs. Harvey Eason (Frances Tucker, ex. 1925), Mrs. David Murray (Jane Gaither, 1915), and Nancy Cox (ex. 1933).

"Here and There" among the Alumnae

Billy Philpott, Mrs. James B. Rountree, Jr., writes that she is on the Burley Tobacco Market in Hopkinsville, Kentucky, and that she will soon be back in Winsten-Salem.

Mrs. Alice Yount Mull (Alice Yount, ex 1868), of Newton, N. C., sends in her subscription to the Alumnae Record with a letter to Salem in which she says, "My health is good, but I am not at all strong. I have always been glad my parents sent me to Salem to school, for I have never forgotten the spiritual training which I got there, my lessons, and the splendid teachers.

Ann Hairston (A. B., 1929), is at Miami, Florida (address, 575 N. E. 70th St.). She writes that she and Doris Shirley, now Mrs. Clyde A. Allen, A. B., 1929, enjoy getting together and talking about Salem.

Kathleen Arrowood (A. B., 1930), is working in Washington, D. C., and would be glad to get in touch with other Salem alumnae there. Her address is 1226 Euclid St., N. W.

Salem regrets to learn from a letter of Mrs. H. L. Edwards (Caro Buxton) of the passing of Miss Lora Cowart (1865-1869), early in February. Miss Cowart was a loyal alumna of Salem, keeping in constant touch with her Alma Mater and serving as an officer of the Dallas Alumnae Association for many years.

Blanche Cox, now Mrs. James O. Walker of Asheboro, writes that it will be great to have another class reunion. She has two children, a son, age 12, a daughter, age 4.

Dorothy Hadley is reported by Frances Brown Conti as being a near neighbor at Bryn Mawr. She has done work in science at the University of Pennsylvania and is an excellent laboratory technician at Bryn Mawr.

Margaret Blair, Mrs. Robert A. McCuiston, 224 S. Cherry St., Winston-Salem, received her B. A. from Wellesley in 1917. She has three children, one boy age 12, two girls, ages 10 and 6 years.

Izma Jennette, Mrs. W. H. Robbins, Burgaw, N. C., has two boys, ages 12 and 14 years.

Betsy Bailey, Mrs. Richard D. Eames, Park Lane, Glenview, Illinois, writes that for a year and a half she conducted the "Twenty-Five Years Ago" column of the Houston Post. She says, "Being a housewife is my present occupation."

Mary Denny, 1418 Elizabeth Ave., Charlotte, N. C., received her M. A. from Duke University. She is teaching in Charlotte High School.

Elizabeth Ormsby, Mrs. Lindsay Meinung, Salem College, Winston-Salem, has done further study at Salem and Columbia since 1917 and has B. S. and M. A. degrees. She was assistant professor of Home Economics at Guilford College and Supervisor of Cafeteria of Columbia University while in New York. She is now assistant professor of Home Economics at Salem College. She has two daughters, both of whom attended Salem and represented the sixth generation on their mother's side of the family, and the fifth generation on their father's side of the family.

Katherine Graham, Mrs. Charles P. Howard, 122 Summer Ave., Reading, Massachusetts, did further college work and received her B. A. from Smith College. She has been active in civic work as president of the Reading Woman's Club and League of Women Voters, and was instrumental in organizing a kindergarten in Reading. She has two children, a girl age 11, a boy, age 4 years.

Clyde Shore, Mrs. W. E. Griffin, Forest Hills, Durham, N. C., taught for five years after leaving Salem. She has two children, a daughter 8, a son 5 years of age.

Elizabeth Felton, Mrs. Charles L. Andrews, 657 West Drive, Memphis, Tennessee received her B. A. degree from Wellesley College and did work at Columbia, Chicago, and the University of California. She has three children, one boy, age 6, two girls, ages 5 and 3 years. She writes: "I saw Rosebud Hearne Nicolson in Memphis this fall and Louise Wilkinson in New York and Emilie Dickey Harris in Macon at Christmas so I have had a big Salem year."

Eunice Thompson, Mrs. R. R. Ingram, Albemarle is teaching 5th grade in the East Albemarle School. She has one daughter, age 7.

study in New York after leaving Salem and is now teaching in the Salem College School of Music.

Ina Phillips, Mrs. Clayton D. Bullock, 1415 East Boulevard, Charlotte, has worked on credits towards a master's degree at the University of North Carolina. She has taught, done office work, and welfare work, "a little of everything", she writes. She has two girls ages 11 and 9, and one boy, age 13.

Lillian Cornish, Mrs. Coite H. Jones, Vinton, Virginia (box 176), studied organ at Salem after her graduation. From 1918 to 1923 she was secretary at the Aluminum Company of America in Badin, N. C. Now she is keeping house.

Nannie Jones, Walnut Cove, N. C., writes that "there isn't much to write." Nevertheless, she has lead a busy life. For fifteen years she drove for her father, a physician, and since his death, last January, she has been at home with her mother. She has a small class in drawing and painting. She writes that her mother was a Salem girl of the "Select Class" of 1874. She was then Nannie Dalton.

We appreciate the following information from Nannie Jones about Thelma Neal. "For several years Thelma had a good position in Chicago. She came home for awhile last spring and summer and in December sailed for Japan, where she was to be married December 22nd to a Dr. Butler, an instructor in dentistry at the University of Tokyo. A recent edition of a Tokyo paper contains her picture and an account of her marriage to Dr. Leigh E. Butler on December 27, 1934. The paper speaks of Dr. Butler's twenty years of work in Japan as a dental surgeon. He is considered one of the finest surgeons in the Far East. Dr. Butler met Miss Neal in Chicago in 1933, at which time she was working as the secretary of the Alliance Francaise. Dr. and Mrs. Butler went to Shanghai for their wedding trip. They are now living at 35 Imazato-cho, Shirokane, Shiba, one of the houses in the Fujiyama Compound."

Marian H. Blair, 210 S. Cherry St., Winston-Salem, continued her college work and received her B. A. from Wellesley College, and her M. A. from Columbia. She also studied at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Cambridge, England. In 1922 she taught at Fassifern. Since 1924 she has been Registrar at Salem College.

Mrs. Rosebud Hearne Nicolson finds her teaching at the N. C. Orthopedic Hospital in Gastonia very interesting. She has taught these little cripple children for the past three years.

Mrs. Grady C. Harris (Emilee Dickey), studied at Columbia after leaving Salem. Her address is 1794 S. W. G. Street, Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Henry J. Peavey (Laura Thorpe), Fort Lauderdale, Fla., has a son, age 12

Pauline Thom, Mrs. W. B. Lasley, of Burlington, writes that her husband died in 1917, and since then she was book-keeper in the First National Bank until it closed two years ago. She has two boys and one grandson sixteen months old, William Kerr Lasley. She writes that she sees Annie McArthur occasionally in Fayetteville.

Other members of 1898 have not been heard from directly, except those mentioned last month, but a member of the class writes that several of them are right here in town, all taking an active part in Church and Community life. They are May Barber, Mrs. Marian Follin, Carrie Crutchfield, Mrs. C. D. Cromer, Addie Brown, Mrs. W. O. McCorkle, Clara Vance, Mrs. Charles Siewers, Cora Ziglar, Mrs. O. W. Hanner, Annie Swann Payne, Mrs. Annie Mitchell, and Bess Lehman, Mrs. J. W. Daniel, of Bethania.

There is nothing I would rather do than go to our reunion at Commencement, but I cannot see any likelihood of doing so now.

I taught eight years before I married and when my husband's health failed, I took up teaching again in 1922, and have been doing it ever since. One of my heartaches, and I have had quite a few, was that my son Thomas had to give up his school work in the ninth grade to take charge of the farm. The greatest heartache came last April with the passing of our eldest son, a life-long invalid, but nearer and dearer on that account. Then came an accident causing my son Robert to lose the sight of one eye, and consequently a year out of school. He is now in the eleventh grade but finds himself unable to carry a full schedule of work.

However, all is not dark. I have been given strength to carry on. My husband's health is slightly improved and he is able to do odd jobs about the place. My daughter keeps house for us, and does a great deal of church work, and visits the sick as I did before I began teaching again. Our boy, John Weaver, is in college and hopes soon to lift the burden from my shoulders.

I am always interested in everything from Salem.—Mrs. Ethel Weaver Sloan, 1895, Route 3, Franklin, N. C.

Branch Association Meetings

GOLDSBORO

The Goldsboro Salem Alumnae met at the home of Mrs. Ambrose Humphrey (Mary Miller Faulkner, 1929), February 30th. Those present were Mrs. Humphrey, Mrs. Andrew Faulkner (Mary Miller, 1891), Claudia Bradford (ex- '30), Martha H. Davis (A. B. 1932), Mrs. W. R. Allen, Jr. (Elizabeth Roper, B. Mus. 1929), Catherine B. Edgerton (B. S., 1928).

Claudia Bradford was elected president for the ensuing year and Catherine Edgerton, secretary-treasurer. The meeting was then turned over to Miss Mary Louise Mickey, Alumnae Field Secretary.

The hostess served delicious refreshments at the close of the meeting.

KINSTON

The fourth annual meeting of the local Salem College Alumnae Association was held on Thursday p. m., February 28, 1935, at the home of Mrs. Z. A. Collins (Rollins Castex), Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Bennie Stanley (Mary Fleming, ex. 1923), acting as joint hostesses. There were seventeen members present.

Mrs. E. E. Outland (Mabel Pollock, A. B., 1923), President of the Association presided over the meeting and introduced Miss Mary Louise Mickey, Field Secretary, who interestingly told us the latest news about Salem and further entertained us with moving pictures of scenes at our Alma Mater.

Mrs. Julian Ross (Mary Oettinger, Bus. Class, 1927), then extended an invitation to the Alumnae to hold its 1936 meeting at her home, which invitation was gladly accepted. Miss Anne Hyman Harvey (ex. 1913), was elected president and Miss Lillian Moseley (ex. 1925), secretary.

Following the business discussion a delightful social hour was enjoyed after which the meeting was adjourned.

HENDERSON-OXFORD

Salem College alumnae of Henderson, Oxford, Warrenton, Louisburg, and Kranklinton were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs Leonard Henderson (Josephine Henley, ex. 1912), in Henderson, on February 13th. Lovely jonquils and narcissus carried out the Salem colors of yellow and white. Members were glad to meet with Mrs. Henderson as she has been in close touch with Salem during the past year, through the attendance there of her daughter, Mary Coleman Henderson, who is president of the freshman class.

Miss Mary Louise Mickey brought greetings from the College, showed moving pictures, which were a special delight to those who have not had the opportunity to revisit their Alma Mater in recent years, and told of the activities of "Salem Day", the "Home Coming", and the "Alumnae School".

Sickness prevented our president, Mrs. James Ballou (Gaither Pearson, Bus. 1921), of Oxford, from attending. For the ensuing year, Mrs. S. E. Jeanette (Anne Tyson, 1915), was elected president, and Mrs. Robert Upchurch (Maria Parris, A. B. 1910), secretary. During the social hour, Mrs. Henderson displayed her Salem plates, of which she has the complete set of eight scenes in four soft colors. She also presented a booklet, "Easter at Salem" to Miss Betsy Moss (ex. 1934), of Oxford, who drew the "lucky number".

KERNERSVILLE

Salem Alumnae of Kernersville met on the afternoon of February 7th. Miss Kathleen Korner, president, conducted the meeting, which was opened with the singing of the "Alma Mater". Mrs. W. C. Stafford (Florence Rights, 1875), led devotionals.

During the business session, Ilah Albert (B. A. 1928), secretary, recorded the names and histories of those present and figures indicated a range of from 1871 to 1934 for "years when at Salem". Mrs. O. L. Joyner (Lucile Stafford was elected president for the ensuing year; Mrs. Ralph Fagg (India McCuiston), vice-president; Mrs. Gilmer Smith (Alta Pinnix), secretary. The name of Mrs. Kenneth Greenfield was added to the roll, and that of her young daughter, Sallie Lindsay, as a prospective member. Committees for 1935-36 were appointed.

Members of the program committee, Mesdames Clay Ring (Maud Korner), William Fulp (Lois Culler, A. B. 1925), and Miss Tilla Harmon had prepared an interesting and varied occasion. Two local girls, now students at Salem, Misses Florence Joyner and Margaret Stafford, gave delightful interpretations of their work and activities at Salem. As Miss Joyner finished her talk, attention was called to the fact that she, her mother, Mrs. O. L. Joyner, and her grandmother, Mrs. W. C. Stafford, represented three generations of Salem College ancestry.

Respect was paid in a moment of silence to the memory of Mrs Edward Rondthaler, the wonderful helpmate during her lifetime, of her husband, Bishop Rondthaler.

Special guests of the afternoon were the members of the senior class of Kernersville High School and Miss Mary Louise Mickey, Alumnae Field Secretary of Salem College. The latter spoke informally of Salem and showed moving pictures of scenes on the College Campus.

During a delightful social hour, the hostesses, Mesdames O. L. Joyner, Walser Allen (Nannette Ramsour, ex. 1919), Vesper King (Nellie Davis), and Miss Lucia Linville served delicious sandwiches, wafers and Russian tea.

LEHIGH VALLEY

On Thursday evening February 28, the Lehigh Valley Branch held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Raymond Hauptert (Estelle McCanless, 1923), Bethlehem, Pa. The meeting was opened by the singing of the hymn, "Tis A Most Blest and Needful Part," after which, Elizabeth Marx, the president, read one of Bishop Roudthaler's Lenten Addresses, entitled, "Mary of Bethany."

After the minutes were read the following new officers were elected: President, Mrs. Ira Ross (Katherine Ross); Vice-president, Katherine Schlegel; Secretary, Pearl Martin.

Elizabeth Marx entertained the group by reading a nice long letter from three Lehigh Valley girls, who are now attending Salem College. The letter was intensely interesting, telling of the different changes that have taken place at Salem within the last few years.

Katherine Schlegel told of the week-end celebration of Salem Day.

Different members of the alumnae had brought old Salem annuals, post cards and old pictures of Salem and its characters to the meeting. These were enjoyed while delicious refreshments were served.

Those present were: Mrs. Wm. Schwarze; Misses Louise and Isabel Rice; Miss Elizabeth Marx; Miss Julia Crawford; Mrs. Ira Ross; Miss Elizabeth Bahnson; Mrs. Raymond Hauptert; Miss Margaret Schwarze; Miss Katherine Schlegel; Miss Pearl Martin.

CONCORD

The Concord Alumnae met at the home of Mrs. Earnest Robinson (Lois Crowell, 1925), on March 14th, with Mrs. W. J. Miller (Anna Atwood Bus. 26), Mrs. C. L. Smith (Katie Gibson 1896), Mrs. Robert Biggers, and Miss Margaret Hartsell (B. M. 1927), as joint hostesses. The meeting opened with the singing of the Alma Mater, after which Rosa Caldwell (B. S. 1926), gave an interesting report of her visit to Salem on "Salem Day." Miss Mary Louise Mickey showed moving pictures of Salem and added to Rosa Caldwell's account of its activities.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected: president, Margaret Hartsell; vice-president, Sara Crowell (ex. 1931); secretary, Rosa Caldwell; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Biggers.

WILMINGTON

The Wilmington Alumnae met this year at the home of Mrs. Robert Scott (Mary Hall, 1895), with Mary Louise Mickey as guest and speaker. There were about twenty members present and everyone enjoyed the occasion. Officers elected for the ensuing year were: president, Mary B. Williams; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Broughton (Maude Bissenger, B. S. 1924).

GASTON COUNTY

The Gaston County Branch of Salem Alumnae met on March 15th at the home of Mrs. Jacob N. Summerall (Margaret Vaughn, 1929), in Cramerton, N. C. Miss Mary Louise Mickey was guest and talked of Salem, showing pictures of campus life. Mrs. Summerall, president, had charge of the business session. For the ensuing year Kitty Moore was elected president, Sunny Kirby, secretary. It was voted that the officers would appoint all necessary committees. After a happy social hour, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

LEXINGTON

The Lexington Branch of Salem Alumnae reorganized on Saturday, March 2nd, meeting at the home of Mrs. Cecil Hayes (Rachel Phillips, 1927). Those present were Mary Raper (1919), Mrs. Reynolds Shoaf (Mildred Conrad, 1926), Mrs. Casper Timberlake (Ella Raper, 1927), Mrs. Charles Hackney (Blanche Thompson, 1922), Mrs. W. F. Brinkley (Elizabeth Hudson, 1922), Miss Camille Hunt (1890), Mrs. W. W. Christian (Ruth Holcomb, 1925), Mrs. J. D. Bain (Elouise Whitley, 1925), and Mrs. C. H. Hargrave (Eva Hackney, 1931).

Mrs. Howard Rondthaler was honor guest and aided greatly in the organization. Rachel Phillips Hayes was elected president, Elizabeth Hudson Brinkley, vice-president, and Eva Hackney Hargrave, secretary.

Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Hargrave gave a delightful account of Salem Day. The hostesses served delicious refreshments.

STATESVILLE

An enthusiastic group of local Salem College Alumnae gathered at the home of Miss Christine Henkel for the purpose of organizing a Branch Association.

Four of the members present gave interesting accounts of their recent week-end at Salem in connection with "Salem Day" celebration. Mrs. J. A. Hartness (Annie L. Sloan, 1890), read an interesting letter from Dr. Howard Rondthaler.

During the business session Miss Henkel was elected president, and Mrs. A. D. Milstead (Sara Kinkaid, 1928), secretary.

Salem colors, yellow and white, were attractively carried out in the ice course, which the hostess served.
